MISMANAGED L.A. HARBOR FOUNDERING

By EVERETT W. HOSKING
I.-P-T Sunday Editor

(First of a Series)

Los Angeles Harbor—the largest man-made port in the nation and the self-styled "cargo capital" of the Western Hemisphere—is foundering.

Since the Mayor Sam Yorty-appointed Board of Harbor Commissioners took over control of the harbor a little more than two and a half years ago, the harbor has drifted from reef to reef.

. . . Never before in its history has the harbor lost its terminal lessees with such rapidity.

. . . Never before in its history have the harbor commissioners bent the conflict-of-interest laws with such brashness.

. . . Never before has the Board of Harbor Commissioners fought so violently—with its tenant staff, the Port of Long Beach and its own city officials.

. . . Never before have the harbor commissioners so flagrantly violated the ruling against "star-chamber sessions."

. . . Never before have the harbor's top civil service employes been so harassed—thus far two key executives have quit.

. . . And never before has the harbor's economic health shown such a steady decline.

Even the commissioners, in one of their rare moments of self-appraisal, admitted the gravity of the situation:

"We did not enter office to preside over the dissolution of Los Angeles Harbor."

This worried warning was voiced by a member of the Yorty-appointed board at that body's meeting on Nov. 6, 1963.

How has the organization with one of the ablest staffs in the country and an annual gross revenue of near $9,000,000 approached the brink of disaster implied in this statement?

Mismanagement of the harbor and indecision in a period when the Southern California business community is booming have caused the port's trade growth to grind to a halt, then gradually slip backward.

In the year preceding the Yorty appointees' takeover of the harbor's economy, the port's general cargo tonnage—the generally accepted barometer of a port's progress—totaled 3,691,468. At the end of the 1963 fiscal year—after just 24 months of the new regime's policies—the general cargo declined to 3,470,201 tons.

In the same period, Long Beach Harbor brought its general cargo tonnage up from 2,237,731 to 2,502,733.

The total commerce graphs for the two ports reflect a similar trend.

At the time of Yorty's coup d'etat, Los Angeles boasted 25,012,412 tons, as compared to last year's 24,-351,976 tons. Almost a 1,000,000-ton drop.

Long Beach, meanwhile, rose from a 1961 figure of 10,719,534 tons to 11,365,729 tons last year, an increase of 646,195 tons.

Although commissioners proudly point out that Los

Church Voids Old Marriage of Jackie Kin

NEW YORK (AP)—The Sunday News said in a copyrighted story from Vatican City Saturday night, that Princess Lee Radziwill, sister of Mrs. John F. Kennedy, had been granted an annulment by the Catholic Church of an earlier marriage.

The 30-year-old wife of Prince Stanislas Radziwill and mother of two children was visiting in New York, but declined comment.

The News said the Vatican's Sacred Rota, high tribunal on matters of marriage annulments, took the action more than a month ago, annulling her 1953 marriage to Michael Canfield, former U.S. diplomatic aide and now a publisher.

PRINCESS RADZIWILL
Annulment Granted

The News, in a story by Eleanor Packard, quoted Prof. Ferdinando Della Rocca of Rome, a lay advocate in the rota, as saying:

"Yes, the plea for annulment ended favorably for Princess Radziwill, and she is now free to wed Prince Radziwill in a Catholic ceremony.

"She has been informed of the annulment, which was granted more than a month ago, but it was kept quiet.

"I cannot say more than that the annulment was granted by the Sacred Roman Rota."

The report said the church action was taken on the grounds of claims that "Canfield, a non-Catholic, had no intention of having children when he married Lee in a Catholic ceremony in Washington in 1953."

"Since having children is regarded a primary aim of marriage in the Catholic Church, Canfield's reservation was construed by the rota . . . as constituting grounds for annulment," the News said.

The newspaper said the case was heard by two panels of judges, consisting of three judges each.

Radziwill disclosed more than 18 months ago that his wife had been seeking the annulment since 1958.

* * * *

"HE SAID then that he and Lee planned to have a second wedding ceremony, this time in church, as soon as the annulment was granted," the News said.

The prince, a Polish nobleman, had been married twice before his wedding to the former Caroline Lee Bouvier.

His first marriage, to a Czech girl, was annulled by the church and she since has remarried.

His second marriage was to a shipping heiress who now is the countess of Dudley. That marriage ended in divorce, but was never recognized by the church because it was a civil marriage.

WITHDRAWS MONDAY

Original Counsel for Ruby to Quit

DALLAS (AP)—Tom Howard said Saturday night he will make a motion Monday to withdraw as a defense attorney in the murder trial of Jack Ruby.

Howard was the first lawyer employed by Ruby's family after the nightclub operator was charged with slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy, on Nov. 24, and had directed much of the early preparations for Ruby's defense.

Ruby's trial opens Monday.

Melvin Belli of San Francisco became Ruby's chief defense attorney in mid-December and added Joe Tonahill of Jasper, Tex., and Sam Brody of Los Angeles to the defense legal staff.

Tonahill told reporters Saturday night, "Howard is quitting. I hear he has an ill daughter."

Tonahill said Howard "is a good lawyer," and that he and Belli were "sorry to see Howard leave the case."

Belli couldn't be reached for comment.

* * * *

HOWARD said he did not have an ill daughter and added:

"I cannot talk about the situation now . . . not until I have a chance to talk to the (Ruby) family."

He said he planned to meet with the Ruby family today and continued:

"Then I think I will have something to say."

The action apparently ends the strike on the nation's sixth largest airline less than 24 hours after it began.

Five-State Water Plan Submitted

$1.7 Billion Now Sought to Start $3.1-Billion Job

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A $3.1-billion plan to develop the shrinking water supplies of the thirsty Pacific Southwest was spelled out in detail Saturday by the Interior Department.

A revised report on the plan first revealed last August called on Congress for immediate authorization of projects in five states at a total cost of $1.7 billion.

The revised blueprint, put together after months of dickering between state and federal officials, calls for federal construction of the $511-million Bridge Canyon and $239-million Marble Canyon hydroelectric projects in Arizona.

* * * *

IT ALSO recommends construction of the long-pending Central Arizona Project at a cost of $527 million and enlargement of the California state aqueduct for $240 million.

The report, signed by Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall, also was sent to President Johnson for submission to Congress. It was rushed to completion to meet deadline set by the EPC. The commission is considering an application from the Arizona Power Authority to build the Marble Canyon dam and applications from the APA and the city of Los Angeles to build the Bridge Canyon project.

* * * *

INTERIOR Department spokesmen said the two dams would be a key feature of the multibillion-dollar regional water plan because power revenues would be used to build other projects.

Officials said the plan would guarantee California, Arizona and Nevada a minimum of 7.5 million acre-feet of water each year from the Colorado River without taking water away from upper basin states.

The Central Arizona Project, for which Arizona Gov. Paul Fannin demanded first priority, would carry 1.2 million acre-feet of Colorado River water to the Phoenix and Tucson areas of the fast-growing state.

As proposed in the regional plan, the Central Arizona Project also would include construction of the $28-million Hooker Dam

Bid Made in Fear of Invasion

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Cyprus tried and failed to get an emergency meeting of the U. N. Security Council Saturday night, on grounds she faced an imminent threat of Turkish invasion.

A U. N. spokesman said a council meeting about Cyprus was "tentatively set for Monday afternoon but it can be convened earlier if developments warrant."

* * * *

THE CYPRIOT bid for an "emergency meeting" came after Britain requested an "early meeting" of the 11-nation council to resolve a "dangerous situation" in Cyprus, scene of fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots. The United States endorsed the British move.

The U. S. statement made clear that the United States and Britain were still trying to get agreement on an expanded international peacekeeping force for Cyprus from the Greek Cypriot president of the country, Archbishop Makarios.

Later U. N. Secretary-General U Thant appealed to Cyprus, Greece and Turkey and the Greek and Turkish Cypriot communities to "refrain from any action which might lead to a worsening of the situation and further bloodshed."

* * * *

HE MADE the appeal in cables to President Makarios and to Foreign Ministers Christos Xanthopoulos Palamas of Greece and Feridun Cemal Erkin of Turkey.

Cypriot Foreign Minister Spyros Kyprianou was en route to New York for the council meeting and was expected to be here in a special delegation before the council convened.

Stunned by Death of Hubbs

Combined Wire Services

COLTON, Calif. — The glimmering hopes of the anxious parents of Chicago Cubs second baseman Ken Hubbs said he might have landed safely vanished Saturday when the bodies of the ballplayer and his companion were spotted in the wreckage of their light plane in Utah.

News of the death rocked this small city in San Bernardino County which worshiped the 22-year-old player as one of its hometown heroes. He was National League "Rookie of the Year" in 1962.

* * * *

THE PARENTS were notified of Hubbs' death by an official of the Western Air Rescue Center at San Rafael, Calif., about 11 a.m. Skindivers failed to recover the bodies from 15 feet of icy, murky water by nightfall Saturday.

"The family was very grief-stricken," a family spokesman said. The father, Eulis Hubbs, an insurance broker, thanked rescuers for their intensive air search.

The spokesman said Mrs.

SOME SAY FUMIGATE

Beatle Bug Bites L.B. Elders, Too

By MARY ELLIS CARLTON

Quick, Henry, the Flit . . .

The Beatle invasion has hit Long Beach.

Had you asked anyone here a couple months ago about Beatles, chances are he (or she) would have told you a beetle is a bug and you should fumigate.

Ask the same person today and he will, like as not, still tell you to fumigate. If it's a teen-age girl, however, she may just plain faint.

Incredible as it seems, those four likable mopheads from England have, in one week's time, out-Elvised Presley, sunk Frank Sinatra and set our teenagers on a new screaming jag.

But this time around, even oldsters have been bitten by the bug. As one balding middle-aged male, wearing a Beatle wig, quipped: "After all, every Beatle has to have a dad."

Fact is, you don't know when, or where, these days you'll run into an otherwise sensible gent sporting—or sprouting — long hair and bangs.

Long Beach's famed Kiwanis quartet (Norm Maserson, Harry Christensen, Brewster Gray and Jack Hammond) wowed onlookers the other day by draping their pates with Beatle mops while vocalizing at a luncheon.

Iacoboni Falls Dead at Tennis

Lakewood Councilman and former Mayor Angelo M. (Jack) Iacoboni, 48, died Saturday apparently of a heart attack while playing tennis in Anaheim with a longtime friend.

Iacoboni, the city's first mayor following its incorporation in 1954, collapsed at 2:30 p.m. and was pronounced dead on arrival at Garden Park Hospital, Anaheim, at 2:52. He would have completed ten years as a city leader in April.

PHILLIP A. Younes, Anaheim insurance executive of 1315 Falcon Ave., said he and Iacoboni were playing doubles opposite each other with two other men at Loara High School when the attack took place.

"I saw Jack go down," Younes said, "just as he was set to return a serve. I rushed to his side of the net and immediately began mouth-to-mouth resuscitation when it appeared that he wasn't breathing."

L.A.C. Says:
A Heart Beat Away

In the minds of many voters—of both parties—the most important issue is who will be the second man on the ticket with President Johnson. They are more concerned over this than they are as to who will be the presidential nominee on the Republican ticket. This concern is largely due to the possibility that the running mate with President Johnson may be Robert Kennedy, Hubert Humphrey or Pat Brown.

Any one of these three would be President if elected vice president and anything should happen to the President. There is concern over the serious heart attack suffered by Mr. Johnson and the heavy work load he carries and the tensions surrounding his office. He is reported to be one of the hardest working Presidents who ever held that office. All these factors raise the question of the possibility of another heart attack.

It is argued that Robert Kennedy would be a logical candidate for vice president—he would carry with him the ardent supporters of his brother and the sympathy of those who were shocked by his tragic assassination. But it is also remembered that the attorney general was the closest adviser to the late President. He has been an advocate of the more drastic civil rights legislation. He advised his brother on the Bay of Pigs debacle, and used the FBI to intimidate the steel companies on the price raise issue.

The thought of having him in the presidency is frightening to a large portion of the voters. They fear his arrogant methods of operation would quickly take on the attitude of a dictator. He has encouraged ever greater governmental interference in business and the general economy. But he has considerable ability as a campaign manager and the prestige of the name carries considerable weight.

The thought of the ultraliberal Sen. Humphrey of Minnesota as President is little more palatable. He has been the darling of the left-wing ADA, the California CDC and other organizations with far left-wing leanings. He is an effective speaker and campaigner. But as a presidential prospect, he would be acceptable primarily to the far left groups of the Democratic party. This may be considered enough of an asset in the coming election to place him on the ticket with the President.

Another candidate given considerable publicity is Gov. Pat Brown. It is figured he might carry California for the party. The fact that he has raised the state budget more than 50 per cent in four years is not of interest to people in other states. His bungling of the Chessman case, his CDC association and his playing up to labor unions and support of the Rumford Act are calculated to hold the votes of these affected groups. But even many of them shudder at the possibility of his being President.

It may seem morbid to write of the possibility of the death of a President. But it would be unrealistic to overlook the fact that a man who has suffered a serious heart attack may suffer another. It was true of President Eisenhower who was re-elected after his attack. But Mr. Eisenhower was not the long-hour worker Mr. Johnson is. Both of these men—after a serious attack—have to take unusual care of themselves to avoid another.

These are valid reasons why the vice presidential candidate to run with Mr. Johnson is of greater importance than it has been considered in the past. He —if the party wins the election—will be but a heart beat away from the presidency. It is the reason why there is a greater interest in this second place on the Democratic ticket. The sending of Robert Kennedy to deal with Indonesia's Sukarno is thought to be a build-up for him and thereby indicates he may be Mr. Johnson's choice for a running mate in this year's election.

B26 STILL USED IN VIET NAM

Air Show Crash Revives Obsolete Plane Dispute

By LEE CRAIG
Aerospace Editor

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla.—The crash here of a 20-year-old B26 fighter-bomber, in which two men were killed, has revived a controversy over use by America's counter-insurgency forces of the aged aircraft.

The tragic accident, occurring as it did before an audience of several hundred high-ranking and foreign military officers and a contingent of West Coast press Tuesday night, unleashed a flood of bitter comment which incorporated a few facts with many rumors about performance of the world War II planes now on duty in Viet Nam.

* * * *

CRITICISM especially has been levied at the Douglas-built B26, with unnamed Air Force personnel quoted in newspaper accounts as revealing that six of these bombers have crashed in the Asian country when their wings fell off.

"We have lost several over there, as we have other types of aircraft," admitted Brig. Gen. Gilbert L. Pritchard, commander of the Air Force's Special Air Warfare Center here.

"We did recover one . . . and the wing had come off. And, as in all cases where structural failure may have occurred, we made a thorough investigation . . . all sorts of tests, including metallurgical.

"We found no evidence of metal fatigue, crystaligation or anything of that sort."

However, General Pritchard did order B26s grounded, pending results of the investigation into Tuesday's crash.

* * * *

WHY ARE these old, propeller-driven aircraft being used?

The Air Force has a simple, logical answer.

The Geneva treaty prohibits introduction of new offensive weapons into that part of the world. In addition, countries such as Viet Nam do not have runways to accommodate high-performance jets nor the equipment or know-how with which to maintain these tremendously complex machines.

Also, targets in counter-insurgency warfare are not steel-reinforced concrete bunkers, or great railroad yards. They are small groups of men, or a gathering of thatched huts.

Unleashing the fantastic firepower of an F105 Republic Thunderchief fighter on such objectives would be like using an elephant gun to kill a rabbit, Gen. Pritchard points out.

Many of these small nations already have been using such craft as the North American T28, Douglas C47 and others. Their pilots have been trained to fly them and their mechanics are capable of maintaining them.

* * * *

AND, SO far in Viet Nam, the Americans and South Vietnamese have had the skies to themselves. Main danger is from ground fire.

Not that the Air Force, Gen. Pritchard says, is not on the lookout for better planes.

Under evaluation now at Edwards Air Force Base is a Cessna T37 jet trainer, modified with higher thrust engines and equipped for a possible strike-support role. A new turboprop T28 will be delivered at Edwards for testing by the end of the month. Light spotter aircraft, almost capable of landing in your backyard, are also under consideration.

But meanwhile, the Air Force's air commandos are getting the job done with the weapons they have.

DARYL SUPERNAW, 11, student body president at Buffum Elementary, speeds over course during Police Reaction Safety Demonstration.

SAFETY PRIMER:

See Him Run; Can He Stop?

Concerned over the increase of traffic accidents involving school children, Long Beach police are embarked on one of their most ambitious safety programs.

They are telling the young walkers and bike riders: You can't stop on a dime.

During the 1963-64 school year, 33,000 local kids are getting a visible demonstration of that warning in what the Police Department calls its "Traffic Safety Reaction Program."

* * * *

IN A demonstration, selected kids are asked to walk, run and ride a bike along a predetermined line in front of their school chums.

When Officers Robert T. Aughton and William J. Meyer blow a whistle, the kids must come to an abrupt halt.

When walking at a normal pace, it has been found that it still takes the child four feet to stop after hearing the whistle. It's 21 feet for the runner, more than 32 feet for the bicyclist.

Aughton and Meyer stick the needle into their lesson by driving over the same course in a police car.

No high speed for them, just a leisurely 20 to 25 miles an hour.

It takes the police car 60 feet to skid to a halt on a sudden signal.

* * * *

AS AUGHTON points out, that "dime grows and grows since it takes 17 of the 10-cent pieces to equal a foot."

ELEVEN-YEAR-OLD Les Elder hot-foots during safety demonstration. On whistle signal, he stopped to test his reaction time in case auto was coming at him.

"YOU CAN'T STOP ON A DIME," Officer Robert Augton tells school kids at Buffum Elementary as bicyclist comes to a halt.

The graphic presentation program was launched by Police Chief William Mooney in 1961 after dissatisfaction with a school lecture program in which the school children sat and squirmed in their seats in the auditorium while a police officer droned on about safety.

The number of schools signing up for the program have increased from 24 during the first two years it was in operation to the present 33.

During that time, police estimate 107,000 kids from public and private schools have viewed the safety demonstration.

* * * *

POLICE report an alarming increase in accidents involving children.

Last year, 64 preschool-age children were struck by cars in Long Beach—48 of them were held responsible for the accidents. One of the tots was killed.

In the school-age (6 to 17) category, 80 children were hit by cars last year. Police blamed 54 of the 80 for the accidents. One was killed.

Chief Mooney noted that there were 93 bicycle injury accidents in Long Beach during 1963—compared to 69 in the previous year.

CHILDREN RUN INTO DANGER

Long Beach police statistics show these as the average auto-pedestrian accidents involving children:

Preschool-age (1 to 5)—A child, between 4 and 5, running in front of an auto near his home, generally about noon on a Monday.

School-age (6 to 17)—A 6-year-old child running in front of an auto, generally about 4 p.m. on a Wednesday.

Bandit Suspect Says He's Ex-FBI Agent

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A man who was collared by an assistant bank manager in what police said was a hold-up attempt has identified himself as a former Federal Bureau of Investigation agent.

The man, identified as Robert Hagenston, 35, Culver City, Calif., was arrested at the metropolitan branch of the U.S. National Bank.

He said he had worked in the early 1950s as an FBI agent in Detroit, Baltimore, and Kansas City, Mo.

John Williams, special agent in charge of the Portland FBI office, said a Robert Hagenston had been an FBI agent in the early 1950s.

Final verification of Hagenston's identity will be made through fingerprints, Williams said.

OTHERS JUST PLAIN BUGGED

Beatle Bug Bites Elders, Too

the city's head lifeguard, Dutch Miller—showed up at an Elks dance wearing Beatle "toupees."

Also going over with bangs at Wallich's Music Store are record department clerks, who donned wigs to get in tune with their current best-selling platter, "Meet the Beatles."

* * * *

ONE LOCAL water Beatle—U.S. Navy man Myron Milgrom, 18, stationed aboard the USS Frontier — reports less success with his Liverpool puddin' pie wig:

"I bought it to cheer up my wife who has been in the hospital," said he. "She got a kick out of it, all right . . .

"She kicked me out of the house and told me to get a haircut."

Meanwhile, local department stores, those lucky enough to have received shipments, report a swinging business in Beatle-inspired products. The Broadway's first supply of wigs, received Friday, were sold out in one day.

"But we expect another shipment within the hour," said store manager William Favro. Also due to arrive: Beatle sweatshirts, Beatle T-shirts, Beatle autographs, and Beatle jewelry, babushkas, gob hats and dolls.

* * * *

ECONOMICALLY, the Beatle craze threatens to make a big dent in U.S. wallets.

Wall Street Journal reports that U.S. teen-agers in the next 12 months will spend $50 million on Beatle novelties. Authority for this frightening prediction is Nicky Byrne, a British businessman who is president of a concern known as Seltaeb — that's Beatles pelled backwards.

He declines forecast on exactly how much of this $50 million will find its way into pockets of the four young British singers. "It would be cheeky to predict our income," says he.

* * * *

MEANWHILE, doctors, lawyers, merchants and teen-agers are speculating on how far the Beatlemania craze will go. Truth is, no one knows yet.

One disc jockey does make this observation: "The Beatles are British and this gives them a touch of class." He goes on to argue: "The Sinatra and Presley booms were nothing compared to this."

Local advertising man John Sarver is all for them but suggests the four Liverpool youths have more flair for publicity than for music.

And what about haircuts? Despite the fact that the lads have crowned England with bowl-shaped hairdos, local hair snippers don't believe the fad will go here.

"We've been doing mostly short cuts—very short cuts," says Harry Workman of American Barber College. "By the time men here grow enough hair, the Beatles will be has-beens."

This from Phil Andolfo, Bixby Knolls barber shop owner: "I wouldn't give such a haircut without a written letter of consent from the parents. I'm afraid they'd come with a shotgun."

And these words from Howard James, owner of Long Beach's most stylish hair salon for men: "Girls may go for the Beatles, but if their boyfriends showed up with such haircuts, they WOULD faint."

* * * *

AND SO GO the comments, pro and con . . .

Says local real estate man Bob Westmyer: "I'm jealous. For that much hair, I'd sing too."

This from political-minded attorney George P. Taubman Jr.: "I keep thinking what we could send England in retaliation. Frank Sinatra, maybe?"

Teen-ager Jim Craighead, a sophomore and member of the orchestra at Poly High: "I like their music all right on records . . . but not when I have to look at them."

Wilson High student Sue Weiss refuses to faint. "I think they're over-rated," says she.

Helen Kennedy, head of the record department at the Long Beach Public Library, where from 4,500 to 6,000 records are checked out monthly, says several requests have come in for Beatle records. "We won't have any money to buy records before July," says she. "By then the craze will have died."

Local insurance man Jack Hammond won't insure their success, either. "I'll leave that to Lloyds of London," says he.

And from Long Beach mortician Harry Christensen: "I think they'll just be hair today and gone tomorrow."

Vito Romans, executive director of Downtown Long Beach Associates, thinks the world needs such fun fads once in awhile. "It helps the kids let off steam, gives the grownups a few laughs and something to talk about."

TRAIN NOW FOR AUTOMATION PROFITABLE CAREERS

Charles E. Wolff, Educational Director for AUTOMATION INSTITUTE, observes: "Today, in our great nation, many far-sighted businessmen are calling the field of AUTOMATION the greatest development in business since the Industrial Revolution. Dr. C. D. Ilard, Director of Control Systems for IBM, predicts a need for 170,000 Business Automation Specialists by 1966. The need will probably be doubled by 1970.

"As a College Professor and School Administrator, I'm impressed with the experience and thoroughness with which courses in Business Automation are designed and taught at AUTOMATION INSTITUTE. All Automation Institute students study with well-qualified, experienced teachers. Personalized student instruction is emphasized with simulated actual working conditions created in the classrooms—and on the newest IBM Machines which the student will be using when he or she begins his or her career in Business Automation.

"It's no wonder that over 6800 graduates have been placed in many of California's leading companies. In fact, more companies hire AUTOMATION INSTITUTE Data Processing graduates than those from any other private school.

CHARLES WOLFF, M.B.A. Educational Director Automation Institute

"High school and college graduates, as well as men and women in "dead-end jobs" can have good paying careers in Business Automation if they grasp this opportunity now . . . to learn and earn more in Business Automation at AUTOMATION INSTITUTE.

"Consider this timely suggestion! Inquire about the way to get started and become qualified for such careers as an IBM Key Punch Operator & Verifier . . . Wiring Operator . . . or Computer Programmer. Professional individual counseling is given each student BEFORE, DURING and AFTER he or she has completed his or her course of IBM class instruction.

"All prospective students are given an Aptitude Analysis without obligation. It's purpose: To see if each prospective student has the potential learning capacity to grasp the required scope of classroom instruction for a career in Business Automation. So—prepare now for these good-paying jobs. Short courses available—day or evening. Nationwide placement assistance given each graduate."

SEE COLORED FILM: "CAREERS IN BUSINESS AUTOMATION"

Charles E. Wolff, Education Director of AUTOMATION INSTITUTE, will arrange to speak before groups, assemblies, school classes and service organizations on "Careers in Business Automation." An interesting colored film is also available upon request. There is no obligation for having Mr. Wolff speak before groups, or the showing of the colored motion picture film.

U.N. Rejects Cyprus Request for Fast Action on Turk Threat

mitri S. Bitsios told a reporter Greece did not expect Turkey to do anything rash because of a realization of the implications that would have.

* * * *

COUNCIL members planned to stay close over the weekend so they could be called together on short notice.

Delegates involved said that in private talks the council decided 6-5 against meeting Saturday night. They said the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, Bolivia, the Ivory Coast and Morocco were for it while the United States, Britain, France, Nationalist China, Norway and Brazil were against it.

Carlos Alfredo Bernardes of Brazil, president of the Security Council this month, began consulting members on a time for a Cypriot meeting after a brief session on the Indian-Pakistani dispute over Kashmir.

* * * *

CYPRIOT Chief Delegate Zenon Rossides saw Bernardes before the Kashmir session and then told a reporter that, "for very urgent reasons," he had asked him to call a Saturday night meeting on the Cyprus question.

A dispatch from Nicosia said a government spokesman was just announcing that Makarios had asked for a meeting Monday when the news came that Rossides had asked for one for Saturday night.

Turk Troops Said Returned Home

ISTANBUL (UPI)—An undisclosed number of Turkish troops who set sail from Iskenderum Friday, apparently headed for Cyprus, returned to the port city Saturday, according to unconfirmed reports received here.

The reports said the soldiers, escorted by submarines and destroyers, sailed at 4 p.m. EST Friday and returned to Iskenderum at 2 p.m. Saturday.

* * * *

SOLDIERS disembarking from ships in the sealed-off port area were quoted as saying they came within a mile and a half of the Cyprus coast.

Informed sources in Ankara said U. S. Under Secretary of State George Ball won a pledge from the Turkish government Friday not to send troops into Cyprus for at least 48 hours.

The unconfirmed reports from Iskenderum said the soldiers were given three days off from duty when they disembarked. The three days coincided with a Mos'em religious holiday.

No Wedding Today for Sailor and L.B. Girl

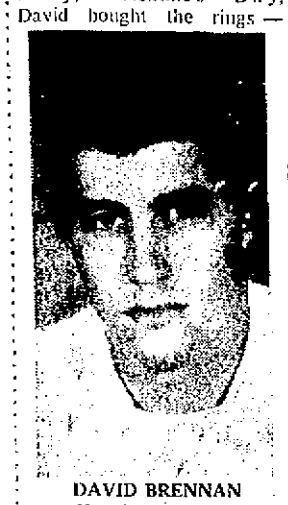

By ANDY PARK

Today is the wedding day for a sailor aboard the USS Valley Forge and a young Long Beach girl who struck out on her own from Concordia, Kan., little more than a year ago.

But the wedding will not be held.

David Brennan, 23, of Erie, Pa., and Jeanette Kountz, 26, of 60 Lime Ave., made all their plans in advance, so that no last-minute hitch would develop.

Tuesday, David and Jeanette took their blood test Friday, Valentine's Day, David bought the rings — two simple gold bands to signify their troth.

DAVID BRENNAN
Happiness Blasted

David rented an apartment and helped Jeanette move her belongings in, and she began adding the little touches — curtains and bric-a-brac and ashtrays.

At 12:01 today, a minute after midnight Saturday, David was to be officially discharged from the Navy but, with a little advance planning, he was able to get two week leave so that the last days before his wedding could be spent in preparation.

David went to stay with an aunt and uncle of Jeanette's — Mr. and Mrs. Lee Spooner of El Cajon, near San Diego. And he began looking for a job to support his new wife-to-be. Jeanette gave notice at the NuWay Laundry where she was employed "because Dave didn't want me to work after we were married."

Some of the guys on David's ship laid in the "supplies" for a Saturday night bachelor stag party. "We were really going to give him a blast," one of them said.

The "Plan" called for David and Jeanette to start married life today at First Baptist Church, 10th and Pine Ave., where they were to exchange those simple gold wedding bands.

But it's been called off. And the date won't be reset.

Saturday morning, David went with Spooner to a granite pit southeast of El Cajon where the older man is employed. He had heard that there might be work there and maybe he could pick up a few extra dollars on his last day as a single man. After all, the almost $300 he had in the bank in Long Beach wouldn't go very far in this day and age and every cent counts....

"A truck driver came and told me when they found him," Lee said. "He fell off a 50-foot cliff into the pit. They said he was dead when we got him to the hospital. Mother and I just had to come up here to tell Jeanette."

"They won't even let me see him, you know," Jeanette cried. "You see, he was still in the Navy and they took over and, after all, I'm not even his next-of-kin. I just loved him."

Chiropractor Nabbed in Abortion Case

A Redondo Avenue chiropractor was arrested by homicide detectives Saturday morning after he accepted $250 in marked money from a police sergeant and agreed to perform an abortion on a policewoman posing as a pregnant girl.

Det. Sgt. Al LaRue accompanied the policewoman, whose name was withheld, to Dr. Bernard Gruber's office, 627 Redondo Ave., about 10 a.m., identifying himself as her boyfriend, according to Det. Sgt. Frank Welch.

LaRue paid Gruber the $250 in marked bills and then arrested the chiropractor after Gruber led him from a treatment room to an adjoining room, leaving the policewoman in the treatment room with instructions to undress and put on a hospital gown, Welch reported.

Welch and Det. Sgt. R. A. Castillo then burst into the office.

Welch reported the marked $250 was recovered from a desk in the treatment room and identified by LaRue.

Girl, 5, Struck by Car, Dies

A 5-year-old San Pedro girl died Saturday of injuries she received when she was hit by a car last Thursday.

Dead at Kaiser Foundation Hospital was Cynthia Serrano, of 740 Sepulveda St. Police said she had darted between parked cars and was struck by an auto driven by William Van Ness, 62, of 2642 Pelaluma Ave., Long Beach. Van Ness was not held.

Finn, 52, Claims 11 Days Awake, Still Restless

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — Dockworker Toivo Silvo, 52, set a record Saturday in the art of staying awake.

At 11 a.m., Silvo broke the mark of 11 days and 6 hours, set by an Italian whitewasher earlier this year. Silvo said he will go on for another few days.

His method: stay outside in the bitter cold as long as possible. Whenever he feels sleepy he pulls off his shirt and rolls in the snow.

AT 88, HE WAITS WITH BOAT

Sourdough Hopes to Sail Lake Elsinore Again Soon

By MARK CLUTTER

"I don't heve any philosophy. I just take life as it comes. And I have been happy."

Charlie Lynn, 88, of Fairbanks, Alaska, and Elsinore, looked happy as he puffed his pipe—if he isn't smoking, he's asleep—and ran his powerful hands over the roughened hull of the sailboat he built in 1952. That was the only year he used it—it's tough sailing when there is no water. Now the water is pouring into nearby Lake Elsinore and he intends to have the old hull shipshape by April.

* * * *

CHARLIE — somehow it seems right to call him by his first name in spite of his white hair—has seen enough hardship in his life to wear out several men.

He has served before the mast on old-time windships, mushed through the Arctic night in the Klondike gold rush, worked as miner and later as a railroad man in Alaska.

And in 1946 he had a massive stroke. "That should have left me permantly crippled, only I decided to fight it," he said.

He fought it by trying to squeeze a piece of copper ore in his paralized hand. Gradually the strength came back.

* * * *

CHARLIE was born in Goteborg, Sweden, the son of a shoemaker. Like many another Scandinavian, he went to sea at 14—and never went home again. He rounded Cape Horn on a clipper ship, struggling with freezing sails far above the deck.

At 18 he jumped ship in Portland, Ore., and went to work with his two brothers who had a vineyard and winery in Northern California. But that was too tame. When the gold fever started in the Klondike in 1897, they went.

* * * *

"I FOUND gold, all right," he said, "but not enough to make me wealthy." He also nearly died of typhoid, and narrowly missed being buried in a snowslide.

RISING WATER of Lake Elsinore (in background) inspires Charlie Lynn to begin repair of the sailboat he built in 1952 before the lake went dry. The lake is being filled at a rate which should make sailing practical by early April.

"It was a rough life," he recalled, "but I didn't have any fights—at least, not serious ones — and I didn't have any adventures to speak of."

He did, however, tell of one fight that could have been serious. Lynn and his partner were splitting up. The man lost his temper and drew his gun. "I punched him in the belly, knocked him down and took his gun," he said, matter-of-factly.

Charlie married in 1913. He has one daughter, Mrs. Charlotte Thomas of Fairbanks, and two grandsons.

* * * *

"I STARTED coming to Elsinore in 1950," he said. "I come every winter. This is a healty place and I am glad to get away from Fairbanks in the winter. I'm always glad to get back, though. It is a wonderful place in the summer."

He is a charter member of the Pioneers of Alaska and a life member of the Elks Lodge.

"I know a lot of people in Fairbanks," he said. "I don't know as many as I used to. There are a lot of new people coming to town. They're building big buildings and even a freeway. The town has about 15,000 people now." There is only one other original "sourdough" in Fairbanks.

* * * *

HE ALWAYS goes home in April, just in time to enjoy the last of winter. This year he is hoping that Lake Elsinore will have plenty of water by April. He intends to spend a few days sailing in his repaired boat before starting for the North.

He worked as a miner until 1929, then shifted to railroad work in the Fairbanks yards. He claims to have no hobbies but he admits to having done much hunting and fishing to have a love of boats.

His speech still has the echo of a Swedish accent, and there is the look of the Viking in his strong face. And his handshake is as firm as that of a young athlete.

Lakewood's First Mayor Dies

at 4148 Country Club Drive with his wife, Gloria, and their four children, Michael, 15, Athony, 12, Stephen, 11, and Nina 6.

Lakewood Mayor Robert Baker said that that the death of Iacoboni was not only a great personal loss to him but a great loss to the city of Lakewood. "He was a great humanitarian," Mayor Baker said, "and certainly his ten years of service to the people of our city is proof enough of how he felt about this community."

Iacoboni was born and reared in Fitchburg, Mass. He was a graduate of Holy Cross University and attended Harvard Law School until the outbreak of the war when he entered the Navy. After the war he obtained his degree, coming to Lakewood in 1948. He served as mayor from incorporation in 1954 until 1960.

A. M. IACOBONI
Lakewood Leader

Iacoboni was president of the Los Angeles County division of the League of California Cities. He was a member of the Long Beach Bar Association, the Knights of Columbus and the Elks.

Also surviving are three brothers, Donald, of Costa Mesa, Charles, of Leominster, Mass., Mario, Long Island City, N.Y., and a sister, Mrs. Kay Fascitelli, of Riverside, R.I.

Rosary will be Tuesday at 8:30 p.m., and Requiem Mass Wednesday at 9 a.m., both in St. Pancratius Church. Lakewood Mortuary is in charge.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Snow and Sleet Plague Midwest

By United Press International

A driving snowstorm dumped deep, wet snow and sleet over much of the Midwest Saturday night, creating hazardous driving conditions as far east as the upper Ohio Valley.

Mild temperatures turned the snow into slush in some areas and police warned of wet and dangerous roads.

Heavy snow and hazardous driving warnings were up in much of the Midwest and extended eastward to the northern Appalachian Mountains. Provisional heavy-snow warnings were issued for New England for today.

Loup City, Neb. was belted with nine inches of new snow and eight inches fell at North Loup. Five inches fell at North Platte, Nebr. and Hill City, Kan., and four inches at Goodland, Kan., Kansas City, Mo., and Grand Island, Neb.

As the storm pushed east, eight inches of snow fell over central Missouri and three inches of fresh snow hit Springfield, Ill., in three hours. Five inches fell at Roanoke, Va., during the afternoon.

LYNDA

Lynda Bird, 19-year-old daughter of President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, was maid of honor.

The bride is the daughter of J. C. Kellem, manager of the Johnson family television station and a Johnson family friend.

The wedding reception was canceled because of the death last week of Mrs. Kellam. The Johnsons made a special Texas trip to attend the funeral service.

Judge Dismisses One Hoffa Count

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI)—Teamsters' President James R. Hoffa won acquittal Saturday on one of four charges of attempting to rig a federal jury.

U.S. District Judge Frank Wilson ordered the acquittal verdict, but refused to clear Hoffa and his five codefendants on the other charges.

In ordering acquittal on the one count, Wilson said there was "insufficient" evidence of a "connection of the defendant James R. Hoffa with the matters charged in the second count."

The three remaining counts charged Hoffa with illegal attempts to influence votes of jurors Gratin Fields and Mrs. James Paschal, and with conspiracy to "corruptly influence" a jury.

Josephus Daniels Jr. Dies at 69

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Josephus Daniels Jr., longtime newspaper executive and son of the late secretary of the Navy and ambassador to Mexico, died today in a Raleigh hospital.

DANIELS

The 69-year-old Daniels, who had been ill for a week, was chairman of the board of the News and Observer Publishing Co., publisher of the News and Observer and the Raleigh Times.

Daniels had been board chairman since retiring as business manager of the company in December, 1959. He also had served as advertising manager and president.

Unionists Vote Ban on Wheat Loading

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The AFL-CIO Maritime Trades Department voted Saturday to stop loading ships with Russian-bound wheat. A union official said the rank and file would be given the order Monday.

Officials said the informal resolution was approved because the wheat deal was benefiting the Russian economy and because not enough of the wheat is being shipped on American craft.

Ohio Massacre Suspect Kills Self

ATHENS, Ohio (UPI)—The prime suspect in the Valentine's Day massacre of four members of a farm family, shot and killed himself Saturday as a huge posse closed in on him.

Rudy Zamora, 20, a farmhand and former mental patient who came here last Nov. 1 from San Antonio, Tex., fired a 20-gauge shotgun blast into his throat after he was trapped about a mile northwest of the farmhouse where the victims were slain.

Zamora was believed to be the killer of William Wildman, 57; his wife, Mildred, 60; their son Eugene, 15 and their daughter, Mrs. Geneva Pierce, 29. They were shot to death Friday evening.

Fired Cubans Blame Fidel, Bulkeley Says

GUANTANAMO NAVAL BASE, Cuba (UPI) — Cuban workers who were fired in retaliation for the cutoff of fresh water to this U. S. Naval Base blamed Cuban Premier Fidel Castro rather than the United States, the base commander said Saturday.

The water shortage has been virtually solved. The first major shipment of water from the United States — about 4.3 million gallons — arrived early Saturday aboard the tanker Tallulah from Port Everglades, Fla. But Rear Adm. John D. Bulkeley, the base commander was more concerned about the firing of Cuban civilian workers than about getting water.

"I guess it was just that Castro took a punch at us, and we thought we had to retaliate," he told newsmen who arrived by air about the same time as the tanker. They were the first newsmen permitted to go to Guantanamo since the water crisis began Feb. 6.

Bulkeley, the man who rescued Gen Douglas McArthur from Corregidor early in World War II, said there still are about 1,800 Cubans working on the base and living in Castro Cuban territory.

About 500 have been fired under orders from the White House, he said.

"Amazingly, though," he said, "there were only five among the 500 who were resentful or who blamed the United States. All the rest blamed Castro and the cold war."

WRECKAGE OF BASEBALL STARS' PLANE

Deputy Sheriff Mack Holley inspects wreckage of plane crash that killed Chicago Cubs' infielder Ken Hubbs and his friend, Dennis Doyle, on the ice of Utah Lake. They crashed Thursday; wreck was found Saturday.

Hometown Shocked by Death

Hubbs "didn't exactly want Ken to make the trip because of the bad weather."

* * * *

HUBBS AND Dennis Doyle, 23, left Provo, in north-central Utah, in Hubbs' single-engine Cessna 172 Thursday morning.

The weather was poor, visibility low.

They got only five miles.

The wreckage of the plane was sighted on the ice of Utah Lake by Harlon Bement, state aeronautics director.

Bement described the crash as "a typical graveyard spiral."

"It's typical when an inexperienced pilot, flying in bad weather, loses his horizons and can't discern the ground," he said.

* * * *

THE PLANE tore a 10-foot hole in the ice of the lake, about 50 miles south of Salt Lake City.

Hubbs and Doyle, an orphan who grew up in the Hubbs' home, were flying back to Colton after visiting at the home of Mrs. Doyle's parents in Provo.

"We had hoped he decided to set down his plane somewhere until the weather cleared," the father said. "He's always been concerned with weather conditions whenever he planned a flight."

Hubbs received his pilot license Jan. 1 and has logged more than 100 hours.

When Hubbs completed his student training, the flight instructor rated him as an "excellent student, none better," the father said. Hubbs bought his Cessna 172 last November. His longest previous flight was to Arizona and back.

* * * *

HUBBS BECAME interested in flying after he joined the Cubs. He often sat in the cockpit with the pilot of the ball club's chartered airliner on flights between games, the father said.

Ken set a National League fielding record in 1962 by playing in 78 consecutive games without an error.

He garnered all-American, all-state and all-conference honors in the major sports as a student at Colton High School. He also was elected student body president.

He has an older brother, Keith, 26, who played football at Brigham Young University, and three other brothers, one 14 and twins 10.

Goldwater Scores First, Wins 10 Delegates to Convention

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona won his first delegates to the Republican National Convention Saturday, and gave his fund-raisers an optimistic report on the progress of his campaign for President.

The 10 convention votes for Goldwater came as Oklahoma and North Carolina selected Republican delegates.

They were the second and third states in the nation to pick convention delegates. Pennsylvania earlier selected 10 unpledged at-large delegates, but they are expected to support Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton.

* * * *

MEANWHILE, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine wound up a six-day campaign for votes in the New Hampshire presidential primary and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York served notice he will make a strong bid for delegates in the South.

Thus three of the rivals for the Republican presidential nomination kept busy preparing for their first test in the March 10 New Hampshire primary, only a little more than three weeks from now.

Goldwater met with his leaders in a resort hotel near his Phoenix, Ariz., home and estimated his bid for the Republican presidential nomination will cost about $3 million.

He said his reception was encouraging during recent campaign in New Hampshire, Oregon, Arizona, California and Nevada, adding:

"We're not operating on a big budget, about $3 million . . . We're not hurting, but I wish it would come in a little faster."

Mrs. Smith finished her 1,000-mile New Hampshire campaign in Winchester, in the southwest corner of the state.

Before returning to Washington, she said she might do a lot more campaigning in the state before March 10.

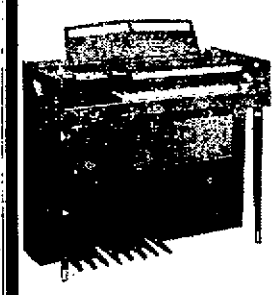

* * * *

ROCKEFELLER, in New York, named a Southern states regional director, H. Clyde Pearson of Roanoke, Va., for his presidential campaign.

And the New York governor said he will visit many Southern areas in his drive for delegates to the Republican National Convention next July.

Generally considered weak in the South, Rockefeller, in effect, served notice he would not let the area go to Goldwater by default.

'Bombed-Out' Fighters Recoup Here

Homeless Squadron Recovered

Long Beach became one of the West Coast's most important fighter air bases for a few hours Saturday.

A squadron of Sabrejets, theoretically bombed out of their home base at Ontario International Airport, touched down at Municipal Airport to demonstrate that the local airfield can refuel and service the silver birds for another crack at the enemy.

The 16 jets—taking part in one of the largest dispersal-recovery exercises in the short history of the Air Force Reserve's recovery program—began swooping down on the local field in pairs at 10:20 a.m.

Local reservists, who had changed from civilian clothes into Air Force blues for the exercise, took over from there.

Security guards rushed out with side arms and rifles to patrol the landing strip. Ground crews swarmed over the jets to check for damage and radio activity and to begin the refueling.

The pilots were shown equal attention. They munched on box lunches while they were debriefed by intelligence section officers. Nearby, stood Air Force medical personnel.

The rapid ground work completed, the fighters scrambled.

Taking part in the exercise were the Los Angeles Air Defense Sector, the 196th Fighter-Interceptor Squadron of the California Air National Guard, the local 8646th Air Force Reserve Recovery Group and its 9624th Squadron, headquartered at Long Beach.

In the exercise, it was presupposed that Ontario International Airport, home of the Air National Guard squadron, had been destroyed by enemy action. The Sabrejets were diverted to Long Beach for service and immediate scramble.

While the fighters were being serviced here, the 8646th Recovery Group dispatched communications units to Ontario to survey the damage and report to Long Beach on the status of the important strip. Ontario rushed spare parts and manpower to Long Beach.

Counting the 16 aircraft Saturday, the 8646th Recovery Group—named this year as the outstanding unit of its type in the Six Air Force Reserve Region — has "recovered" 78 aircraft at Long Beach.

Distance Record for F105s

HONOLULU (AP) — An unofficial nonstop distance record for the F105 supersonic U.S. fighter - bomber was set Saturday by six Air Force pilots who flew their Republic Thunderchiefs from Guam to New Zealand.

A spokesman for the Pacific Air Force headquarters at Hickam Air Force Base in Hawaii said the formation of F105s completed the 4,442-mile flight in 7 hours, 45 minutes.

Col. George B. Simler, commander of the 18th Tactical Fighter Wing, led the flight, which the Air Force called "a real milestone in aviation history."

The 18th Wing's home base is Kadena, Okinawa.

Col. Simler, of Johnstown, Pa., said his six fighter-bombers completed two in-flight refueling hookups with Air Force tankers. The Thunderchiefs took on fuel near Port Moresby, New Guinea, and near Brisbane, Australia.

10,000-MILE TRANSPORT

Air Force Eyes Small-Scale Wars in 1970 Plane Designs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force is proposing development of advanced aircraft, including huge, 10,000-mile-range transports and radically different bombers, to deal with any war potential the nation may face in the early 1970s.

Also envisioned, it was learned Saturday, are new types of short-range missiles and atomic warheads of very low yield for use in precision air strikes against carefully chosen military targets.

The Air Force does not believe such selective use would lead to all-out thermonuclear war.

* * * *

THE BLUEPRINT is based on broad-gauge Air Force studies that have taken a year and are aimed at the period 10 years ahead.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara was reported deeply impressed.

Representatives of the State Department, the other military services, research organizations, universities and industry participated.

It can be stated that strategic thinking is adjusted to the idea that all-out nuclear war between the two superpowers — the United States and Russia—is not a rational prospect. The most likely threats will be Communist-inspired subversive operations and limited-scale wars.

* * * *

ADVANCES in technology now make possible an array of wholly new aircraft, weapons and supporting systems for deterring these wars or stamping them out with the precise force needed.

These are some of the aircraft proposed for the 1970s:

—A gigantic transport for moving army troops and equipment, having such vast range and certain other characteristics that America could be independent of foreign bases. Called only "CXX" at present, the plane would have a range of 10,000 to 12,000 miles and could carry 50 tons.

—A manned strategic aircraft, currently called "AMPS" for an advanced manned precision strike system. This "bomber" would be, in effect, an intercontinental version of the TFX fighter. It would fly up to 1,650 miles an hour and would skim so low over the earth that line-of-sight enemy radar would detect it too late to do any good.

— Vertical takeoff and landing (VTOL) fighting and reconnaissance planes. In the early 1970s, it will be possible to build such planes with lightweight materials and powerful engines so they can carry large payloads. They can be concealed, needing no air bases.

—A possible version of the CXX for airborne warning and control, which could stay aloft 48 to 60 hours without refueling.

—New types of reconnaissance planes for quick intelligence gathering and assessment of battle damage.

Planes Smuggle Dope, Sen. Dodd Charges

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI)—U.S. Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., said Sunday small airstrips along the Mexican-U.S. border are being used to smuggle dope into the United States.

The senator said the border was "peppered" with strips and that investigators had photographs to document his theory. He spoke at a government conference here.

Bulgarian to Moscow

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP)—Todor Zhivkov, premier and Communist Party chief of Bulgaria, left for Moscow by train Saturday for an official visit, the Bulgarian news agency BTA reported. The agency said it was "merely a friendly visit."

Refugees Fly High as Family Reunited

By BOB GEIVET

Peppy twin brothers, left in their native Hungary as infants when their parents fled Communist domination seven years ago, were reunited with them Saturday—and promptly took up young America's custom of kite flying.

And it was a beautifully windy day for the sport.

Erwin Lazar Jr. and his twin, Gabor, also called Gabriel, are the seven-year-old sons of Erwin Lazar, 30, and his pretty wife, Mary, 28.

The parents set out 7 years ago through January snows from their home in Pecs, Hungary, for freedom. Twenty-five miles later they found sanctuary in Yugoslavia, and later made it to America.

* * * *

THEIR TWINS were six months old then. They were left at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lazar. Grandmother brought them here by jet for a tearful climax to years of frustration, doubt and delay.

The Lazars had sought for years to reclaim their sons. Finally, the Hungarian Red Cross and the American Red Cross — and its Southern Orange chapter in Santa Ana —engineered exit visas for the lads.

As the boys stepped from the plane at Los Angeles International Airport, they looked about — and spotted the mother and did they knew only by pictures they had studied for so many years.

The boys took a step forward—and ran into the arms of their parents. There were tears of happiness.

Finally, the lads remembered to give their mother their slightly-squashed bouquets of red carnations. To her, they were the most beautiful flowers ever grown.

* * * *

TO CELEBRATE the reunion, the Lazars have moved into a two-bedroom apartment at 2500 S. Salta St., Santa Ana. He is a computer programmer with Collins Radio Co. She works for Jay-Mar Co., a swimsuit manufacturer.

The first gift to their boys? Why, American-style cowboy jeans, of course!

And then the kite flying in the blustery winds.

From this day on, and for a week, it will be get-acquainted time. Then the boys will enter John Quincy Adams School near their Santa Ana home.

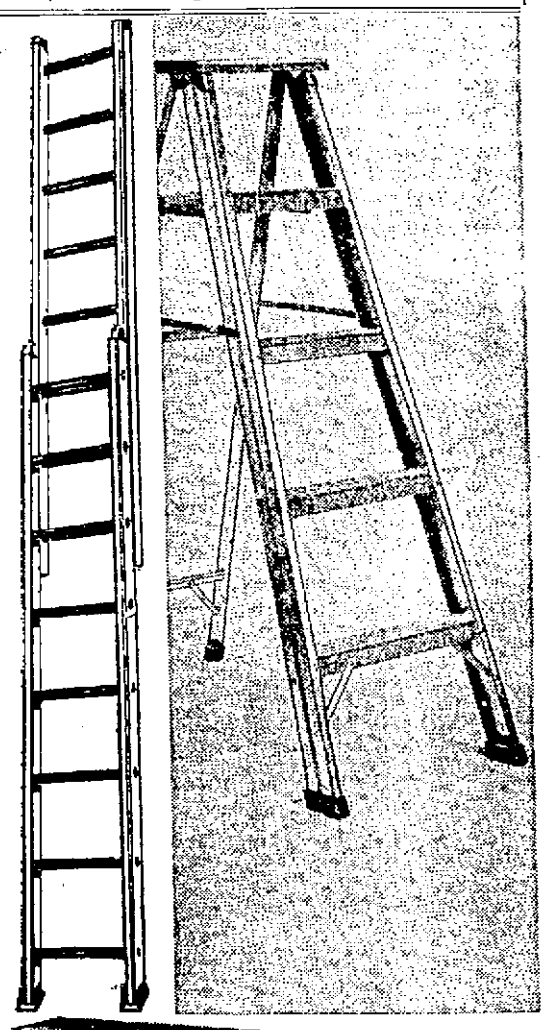

—Staff Photo

American-style kite flying on blustery Saturday was order of day for Santa Ana couple, just reunited with 7-year-old twin sons they left in native Hungary to flee to freedom. Mrs. Mary Lazar, Erwin Jr., the senior Erwin, and Gabor Lazar comprise busy quartet.

ABLE STAFFERS QUIT

L.A. Politicians Bog Port Down

Angeles harbor revenues have gone up 4 percent during their two-year tenure, an analysis of their annual report shows that this advance was due entirely to an increase in rentals obtained by the real estate division. The division's chief, Leonard J. Doyle, under whose management the policy was initiated seven years ago has resigned his $19,500-a-year job.

Decline in the port's economy can be attributed to a great extent to the loss of shipping lines—firms leaving the harbor because of better facilities and treatment elsewhere.

The board, however, treats this lightly:

Typical of its attitude was a statement at a recent board meeting of Commissioner Joseph D. Carrabino who threatened to cancel the leases of terminal operators and stevedores at the port unless they were more "cooperative" in helping make L.A.'s charges competitive with those of Long Beach.

The Sea-Land Service, Inc., a 350,000-ton-a-year container-cargo operation, fled the storm last year for the calmer waters of Long Beach.

Another 50,000 tons a year slipped away from Los Angeles when Standard Fruit and Steamship Company also made the move eastward.

A third and staggering blow was the departure of the Transmarine Navigation Company's lines, including the Japanese giant, NYK, which diverted 150,000 tons a year to Long Beach.

Officials in Japan responsible for the merger of NYK and a second important line in Long Beach, had the choice of combining operations at either of the two ports.

After viewing the dismal situation at Los Angeles, they gave NYK its sailing orders.

Another way the board eliminated sure-fire profits was in the case of the ready-to-go Cabrillo Beach small-boat marina.

The preceding Board of Harbor Commissioners, after exhaustive research and public hearings, decided that a small-boat Marina should be installed at Cabrillo Beach. The board was preparing to have a land-use study made, so that bids from private developers could be solicited on a knowledgeable basis, when Mayor Yorty replaced its members.

The Yorty commissioners agreed there should be a small-boat marina, but saw no necessity for a land-use study. After more than a year's discussion, they solicited proposals and suggesttions from interested developers. They reasoned that the developers could do their own land-use studies.

The developers replied that they would not be willing to expend a large sum of money for such a purpose when the lease or leases might be awarded to someone else or not at all.

Recently, the board decided that what it needs is a land-use study, and is ordering one. If it had been able to bring itself to accept the results of the preceding board's deliberations, two and one-half years would have been gained—just about enough time to have the marina ready for operation.

Anyone with any knowledge of the earnings of an 1800-slip marina over a 30-month period quickly can estimate that this delay cost the port at least $157,000 for slip rentals alone. This sum would have been boosted significantly by income from related concessions.

Meanwhile, back at City Hall, the Los Angeles Board of Harbor Commissioners is shooting at everything that moves.

Other projects recommended for immedate construction include:

—The $72-million Southern Nevada water-supply project to carry water from Lake Mead to Las Vegas, Henderson and Nellis Air Force Base.

—The $12-million Moapa Valley pumping project in Nevada.

—The $45-million Dixie Project to provide irrigation and municipal water in southwest Utah.

—Indian Irrigation Projects costing $10 million.

—Water Salvage and Recovery Programs, including lining of the All-American Canal system in California, costing a total of $42 million.

The report also called for studies to determine whether it would be feasible to step up deliveries of water from Northern California to the south by building projects on the Trinity, South Fork Trinity, Eel, Mad and Van Duzen rivers.

No Export of State's Resource

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The new Pacific Southwest water plan announced in Washington Saturday shows that the federal government has temporarily dropped, but not abandoned, the idea of sending California water to Arizona.

Instead, the government is following a course suggested by California that could enlarge the original five-state development into a massive water program spanning most of the West.

As originally proposed by Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall last August, the plan aimed at meeting water shortages in the arid Southwest with new developments in that area plus an additional water supply brought from Northern California.

* * * *

THE NORTH state supply would have come from new dams on the lower Eel and Trinity rivers, together yielding 2.4 million acre-feet annually. Half the supply was planned for Southern California, which faced losses in its Colorado River supply because of a Supreme Court decision last June. The other half was planned for Arizona.

OVERBOARD 7 MILES FROM ISLAND

Sport-Fishermen Rescue Sailor, 63

By VINT MADER

The 63-year-old father of a Long Beach man came within moments of drowning when he fell overboard from a small yacht Saturday afternoon in choppy waters seven miles from Long Point, Santa Catalina Island.

Lew J. Lewman, 63, of Culver City was plucked from the chilly, windswept San Pedro Channel by the crew of the passing sport fisherman, Sea Sport.

THE FISHING vessel raced to his aid after Lewman's companion, retired Navy Chief Petty Officer Bob Smith, 45, of Venice, failed to reach the elderly man in his first attempt to swing back with their 22-foot sailboat.

"I nearly panicked," said Lewman, a semiretired organist and music teacher.

"I was only in the water about three minutes, but I couldn't get anywhere in the big waves," he said, still chilled and shaken when the Sea Sport landed him at Pacific Landing about 5 p.m.

* * * *

"BUT I kept my head enough to know that the best thing was to try to float—so I did float. But I was almost finished when those fellows pulled me out. A few more seconds and I'd have been gone."

The Sea Sport's crew helped Lewman to their cabin and

LEW J. LEWMAN
It Was Rough Out There

while he huddled in a blanket during the 90-minute trip to Long Beach. Lewman then was taken to the home of his son, Jack DeCamp, 1758 Gladys Ave.

Capt. Robert (Whitey) Ashley of the Sea Sport, veteran of 31 years in the Long Beach fishing trade, said he saw Lewman pitched out of the sailboat when it rolled on a big wave about a quarter-mile ahead.

* * * *

LEWMAN was wearing a bright orange vest which Ashley first though was a life jacket. But he decided to "have a look anyway" when he saw that Smith, a former boatswain's mate, could not get close enough with the yawl and could not leave the tiller to throw a lifebuoy or jacket.

Lewman was able to grab a line thrown from the Sea Sport by Ashley's son, Don, but he was so exhausted that young Ashley and crew member Gene Estes had to haul him aboard by his arms.

* * * *

THE ELDER Ashley summed up the rescue: "This is about the 20th one I've saved out there. I wish it could have been a hundred."

Lewman's view of his close call was: "If anybody goes out in any boat, I advise them to keep a lifejacket on their shoulders all the time. I'm going to do it from now on."

The yawl, Tiki, which originally was bound from Marina del Rey for an overnight voyage to Avalon, later was sailed to Long Beach by Smith.

Fish Eat Mosquitoes, Then Africans Eat Fish

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) — Fish have ousted insecticides in Durban's campaign to fight its summer mosquito menace.

Ponds, lagoons and other likely breeding places, such as farms used for sewage disposal, have been stocked with fast-multiplying tilapia fish. They eat mosquito larvae.

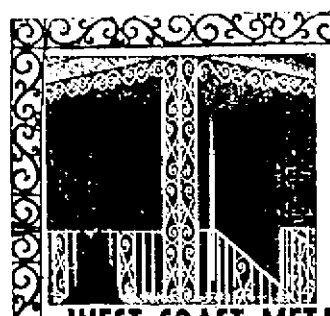

The municipality has saved money on its insecticide bill, and the fish have supplemented the diet of needy Africans in neighboring townships.

The tilapias are such prolific breeders that the city health department found it necessary to decrease the number in a seven-acre pond at a sewage-disposal farm. Two hauls of nets yielded 900 pounds of fish.

Dr. C. R. Mackenzie, health officer, said fish taken from the pond were subjected to an exhaustive series of bacteriological tests which proved that the tilapia were safe for human consumption when properly cooked.

Palo Verde Ave. Hearing Slated

The Long Beach Planning Commission has scheduled a hearing for 9 a.m. Thursday on an amendment to the city's master highway plan that would delete the proposed extension of Palo Verde Avenue south of Anaheim Road into the marina area.

Nathan and Davis Shapell and S & S Construction Co., planners of a $30 million residential subdivision in the Fred H. Bixby Ranch property north of Seventh Street and east of Long Beach State College, asked for the deletion.

They told the City Council in December that the projected Palo Verde arterial through the 101.8-acre tract would "vitally affect" the development. A competent engineering firm which made a study of the area could find no valid reason for the extension, they said.

* * * *

AT TWO hearings on proposed rezoning of parcels in the tract, neighboring property owners objected briefly to the erasure of the street project. Planning commissioners asked them to reserve their arguments until the Feb. 20 hearing.

The master plan shows Palo Verde Avenue extended south of Anaheim Road in the east section of the subdivision. The line crosses Bouton Creek, veers to the southeast and follows the west bank of Los Cerritos Channel to a junction with the proposed Loynes Drive a short distance south of Vista Street.

Supervisor Chace to Be Honored at Lunch

County Supervisor Burton W. Chace will be honored by Long Beach friends and business associates at a city-wide testimonial luncheon co-sponsored by the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce and City of Long Beach in the Elks Club, 4104 E. Willow St., March 3, Chamber President Orville W. Cole announced.

For the past decade Chace has served as supervisor of the 4th District, in which Long Beach is the largest city.

Prior to his present term as supervisor, he served for several years as a Long Beach city councilman, including two terms as mayor of Long Beach.

The luncheon will be open to the public. Luncheon tickets may be obtained at the Chamber of Commerce, 121 Linden Ave.

ANOTHER chapter in our running series about the strange appetites of animals comes from the fire dept. at Westminster, where they're having trouble with a hungry mouse.

Dispatcher Joseph Bergeron reported the color went out on the station's tv set the other day. They called in a repairman who looked things over and told them that evidently they have mice in the station and that one of the rascals had eaten a color component in the tv set.

"Now we're wondering if there's a mouse running around in Westminster in technicolor," said Bergeron.

AND while we're on the topic of wildlife, perhaps it's a good time to report on the skunk problem in Long Beach.

The environmental sanitation division of the City Health Dept. has been working for a couple of years to eradicate the little animals, mainly because they are a rabies threat.

There are more skunks in this urban area than you might guess. The dept. has had at least 50 calls in the last year from residents who had spotted (or smelled) skunks on their property.

Skunks have been found not only in shrubbery, but in meter boxes and inside houses. One woman refused to spend the night in her home because she was sure there was a skunk aboard.

The rabies scare over skunks developed at Pasadena a couple of years ago. State law now prohibits bringing a skunk into the state or keeping one as a pet.

Most of the local skunks have been reported in the northwestern part of town near the flood control.

OPTOMETRISTS are betting on rain the coming week, at least in San Diego.

LaVerne Spencer says that the local delegation to the California Optometric Association and Auxiliary convention in the southern city, Feb. 19-23, will take along raincoats.

It has not failed to rain on delegates to this convention in the last seven years, no matter where the convention was held or what the weather prophets had to say.

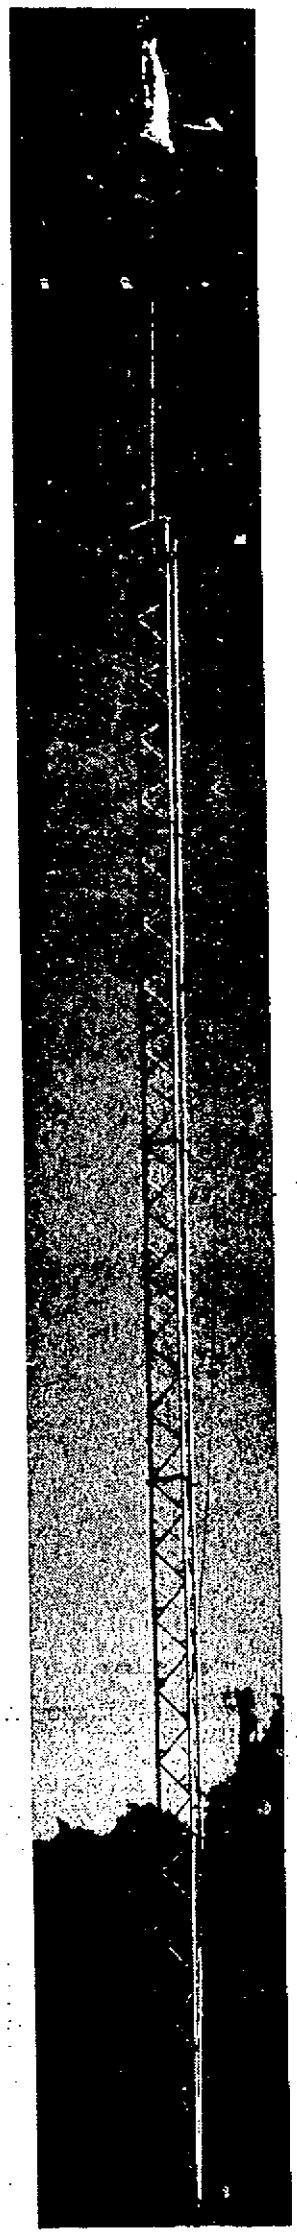

San Diego, no doubt, needs the rain. At least we do and here's a suggestion that the optometrists, if they get the expected result down there, simply extend their convention and move up here for a few days.

THE L. B. City Council, we note with encouragement, is pondering changing the name of the short stretch of Appian Way on the west side, where its connection with the new San Diego Freeway has led to confusion.

Appian Way there is really an extension of Pacific Ave., and a car leaving the turnoff from the freeway soon hits Pacific, the principal route. The Council is considering the short stretch something like Pacific Way, which would relate it to Pacific Ave. but wouldn't conflict with the long-established stretch of Pacific Ave., which continues a short distance to the east.

THAT'S one possible solution. Or at least the turnoff sign on the freeway should carry the name of Pacific Avenue in a subordinate position if Appian Way is to be retained.

My previous notes on this subject brought a reproving letter from Irma Prichard, who pointed out that Appian Way on the west side was correctly named because it follows the line of the old P. E. right-of-way, just as does Appian Way on the east side along Marine Stadium. I was aware of that all along, but since the two stretches of Appian Way are far separated, no harm would come from renaming the west side street. If Appian Way were extended the length of the P. E. right-of-way, of course the situation would be different.

This Family Starts Out at the Top

By DICK EMERY

Until last week, the Winn family in Lomita was considered just average neighbors.

That theory was shattered when the Winns raised two 90-foot poles in a field near their home, strung a wire between them and went about hoisting a motorcycle to the top of one to the poles.

Then the cycle began roaring along the wire from pole to pole.

By now, the curious neighbors had learned the Winns are high-wire performers.

The story actually begins in Germany many years ago where grandfather Winn owned a circus. His son, Johann, bandmaster of the circus, fell in love with a French ballerina who did toe-dances on a galloping horse.

* * * *

JOHANN AND the dancer, Pauline, were married and as the years passed, their children Hans, John, Marianne and Karl all learned to be high-wire performers.

John, one of the three brothers, had a look at the United States and then, two years ago, welcomed all the others—the parents Johann and Pauline, and the sons and daughter, and one of the son's wife and their two boys. The Winns set up housekeeping at 25508 Pennsylvania Avenue.

But about those 90-foot towers and the motorcycle on the wire:

The Winns hung a steel ladder from the motorcycle and trundled airily back and forth, swinging on the ladder.

"It's not a ladder, it's a trapeze," Hans told the Lomita watchers. He's 33 now and, as eldest, gives commands.

* * * *

JOHN, NOW 27, and Karl, 20, rode the cycle and swung on the trapeze. John did the "death walk" up the 45-degree steel mooring cables to the top of the pole.

"It's quiet, up there," John said. "It's challenging. Whenever we have a new stunt to try, it's a new challenge. We rely on each other. High-wire work takes discipline and teamwork."

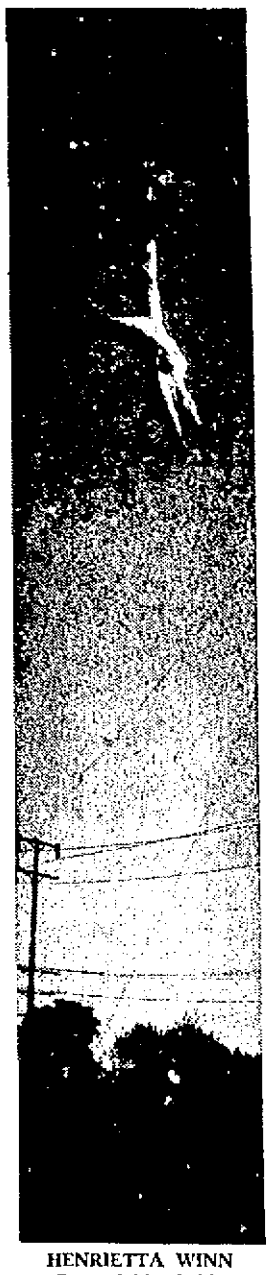

Hans' wife, Henrietta, 31, and the three brothers' sister, Marianne Winn, 22, dumbfounded the gawking neighbors by hanging by one foot, or by the back of the neck, from the high wire.

The two sons of Hans and Henrietta, Johnnie, 5, and Mike, 3, are forbidden the high wire. They do handstands at ground level.

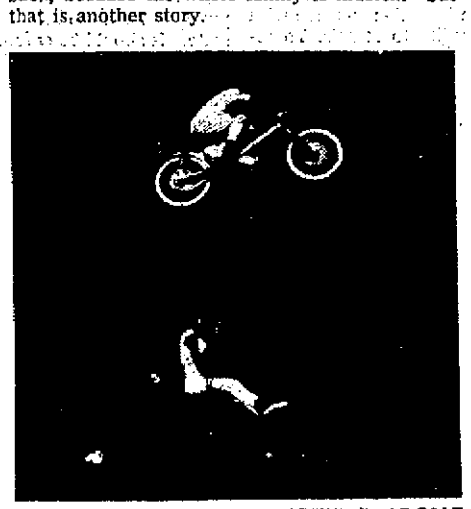

The Winn Troupe, famed in circuses of Europe, is hoping to get started on an American tour.

Meanwhile, the troupe's members are doing other work. One works for a tile company. One has been assistant manager of a market. Marianne is a waitress at a Lomita coffee shop.

Together the three brothers have a combo—the Winn Trio—which plays at nightclubs and such, because the whole family is musical—but that is another story.

Arbor Day Tree Planting Plan Dropped at El Dorado Park East

By GEORGE WEEKS

Faced by opposition from City Hall, enthusiastic volunteers who want to get started on the development of El Dorado Park East have given up plans for a massive tree planting there to celebrate Arbor Day March 7.

But they still hope to go through with the program, on an even bigger scale, when city officials decide the time is right.

Mrs. Helen Hicks, the housewife who originated the idea, took the rebuff from the city philosophically but with no loss of determination.

"When we began planning there were only a few of us interested," she said. "Now we are enlisting hundreds from the P-T.A., Scout groups and other youth organizations. We are getting ready for a block canvass in some neighborhoods — asking people to pledge trees for El Dorado. We are not accepting money yet, not until we get some further word of cooperation from the city."

* * * *

IN LIEU OF THE TREE planting March 7, Mrs. Hicks is trying to organize a picnic for that day, mainly to show how attractive the park could be made if given a woodland setting.

"We have waited seven years for the development of the east section of the park, and still there are no trees," she said. "We would like to make sure that the land is not used for a ball stadium or a subdivision or a golf course."

Asst. City Manager Robert C. Creighton, who was assigned the difficult task of diverting Mrs. Hicks' Arbor Day plans, said he considered the offer to donate trees "very commendable—but premature.

"We can't allow trees to be planted in a park where there is no sprinkler system," he explained. "We have to insist on the type of trees suitable for the soil and for the general development plan. And the Park Department will have to supervise the planting to make sure it is done right."

* * * *

HE REJECTED AN OFFER from Mrs. Hicks to arrange for volunteer watering until the sprinklers are installed. Similar efforts haven't worked out well in other parks, where most of the trees died and had to be removed, he added.

The city hopes to install a watering system in at least a portion of El Dorado East during the coming summer, he reported.

Mrs. Hicks, who lives at 3568 Knoxville Ave., said she still means to make sure there are good-sized trees in the bare park before her two children, Randy, 5, and Lindy, 2, are too old to enjoy them.

Vital Question in Phone Strike

Automated Firm--Can It Lose?

By CHARLES SUTTON

In the current telephone strike, it's not just man against management. It's also man against machine.

Labor experts feel that the machines may be tipping the balance against the Communication Workers of America in the union's four-month-long strike against the highly automated General Telephone Co.

They believe the dispute buttresses the axiom that a union which strikes an automated industry is virtually taking its life in its hands.

Veteran labor reporter A. H. Raskin, for example, in a recent Saturday Review article, notes that "changing technology already has made some industries almost totally invulnerable to union shutdown."

First of Two Parts

Raskin points to the nation's telephone systems and electric utilities as examples and says they're "now so automated that nothing short of sabotage or mechanized failure can disrupt their operations."

The CWA's own president, Joseph Beirne, makes much the same point—though not so bluntly—in his book, "New Horizons for American Labor."

In it, Beirne says that in a 1955 strike against Southern Bell, "we hardly laid a glove on 'em."

* * * *

BEIRNE'S candid statements made the question even more relevant to the General Telephone strike, they say.

These same observers, most of them sympathetic to the union's cause, also raise a number of other questions.

They wonder, for example, whether the union wasn't aware of how easy it would be for the company to recruit new workers when unemployment was running fairly high in the nation.

Then, too, the telephone industry has many women and white-collar workers. And these seldom make militant unionists.

Finally, they point out, the workers at General had never gone through "a major industrial conflict. They had no real history of labor struggle."

If all this weren't bad enough, the union has had the courts to deal with.

* * * *

PRIVATELY, CWA officials are making no effort to disguise their frustration and dismay at the licking they've taken in the courts, which have put severe limitations on the union's picketing.

A Southern California labor arbitrator, surveying the obstacles facing the union and the progress of the strike thus far, comments:

"The whole thing is quite sad. The strikers are really in a bad way. They're bound to take a beating."

"The fact is," says the arbitrator, who asks that his name be withheld, "in some situations the strike doesn't serve its historical purpose, which is to make management more reasonable and bring it to an agreement. Unfortunately, this happens to be one of those situations."

In the current strike, General's bargaining position has hardened rather than softened as the strike has progressed.

What accounts for this, observers say, is the gradually improved operating position of the company since the strike began.

General has managed to maintain telephone service throughout its far-flung territory despite the walkout of its almost 9,000 workers Oct. 19.

* * * *

MOREOVER, its automated equipment has not broken down due to lack of maintenance, as the union had predicted it would. And it has picked up a large number of new workers to augment those who have abandoned the strike and gone back to work.

And the strikers continue to trickle back, even though

ELAINE WINKEY . . . And Daughter Gretchen

PEDDLE PUSHER

Library Trainee Wheels to Work

Sleeper-clad, tousled 19-month-old Gretchen Winkey is a familiar sight on East Long Beach streets. Depending on the kind of night she's had, she rides the special seat on the front of her mother's bicycle with hot-rodder enthusiasm or sleepy-eyed limpness.

The early morning tour isn't just a constitutional. All last year it was part of a regular route which her mother, Mrs. Elaine Winkley, worked out when she decided to become a library trainee with the Long Beach Public Library. It runs like this: deliver Gretchen to baby sitter on bike, pedal on to work at branch library (wearing dark glasses for disguise in case someone thinks embryo librarians should be more dignified). After work, go to school in car pool. After classes pick up bicycle, Gretchen, groceries and hurry home to prepare dinner for husband, Tim, who works as a page at the library while attending State College as a music composition major.

Mrs. Winkey is a part of the library's trainee program that came about because of the nationwide shortage of trained librarians, said Blanche Collins, city librarian.

To qualify as a trainee, an applicant must have already received a BS or BA degree from a recognized four-year college or university. He or she must be willing to enroll immediately in library school and agree to remain with the Long Beach Public Library for two years after receiving a masters' degree in library science. Three years is the maximum time allotted for completion of work. So far, trainees have completed it in less.

Trainees work at the Main Library or branches as many hours as school commitments permit. Under general supervision they perform the least difficult technical and professional library tasks and do simple reference and advisory work with the public. This practical experience makes school more meaningful. And a regular salary, plus a chance at the annual Inez Dean Scholarship Award offered by the Long Beach Public Library Staff Association, adds incentive.

Mrs. Winkey and Mrs. Frances Murray, recently appointed children's librarian at Brewitt Branch, were recipients of the scholarship award this year. Mrs. Murray receives her MA degree in August.

ONE OF THE first trainees to complete the program was Ralph Webb, who worked as a page during the latter part of high school and through four years of college. At present, he is with the Peace Corps in explosive Venezuela where he teaches and assists the government in setting up college libraries. His job is proving stimulating and often dangerous.

Jim Jackson, a former teacher and now head of the document section, completed his trainee program last year.

The current crop of trainees includes Jolan Szontagh, also a former teacher, Mrs. Suzanne Privette and Richard Lyders.

Televised Press Conferences—Is It Really Better?

THE TELEVISED PRESIDENTIAL press conference, a distinctive feature of the administration of the late John F. Kennedy, has fallen into disuse in the Lyndon Johnson regime, and many Americans miss it.

People feel somehow that they are better informed when they hear and see the reporters and the President exchanging questions and answers. But do the advantages of the live, televised press session really outweight the disadvantages?

TRUE, THE OPENNESS and candor of the televised conference testify a free and democratic society. There is a sense of immediacy and a directness of communication which otherwise cannot be achieved. And the exchanges often prove sprightly and entertaining, with the result that the viewer tends to take a greater interest in public affairs.

However, the televised conference with its nationwide audience exerts pressure on the President to answer all questions and at once, in some cases without sufficient reflection or consideration for the ultimate effect of his words. A slip of the tongue, not immediately corrected, can lead to serious misunderstandings of public policy.

In the press conference without a TV audience, reporters are able to pursue questions until full, well-rounded answers have been obtained. With an audience looking on the conference is essentially a program, and the tendency is to jump hurriedly from one question to another rather than to develop a line of questioning on one topic. The audience must not be bored, so the story is incomplete.

THE PRESIDENTIAL press conference is an important instrument for shaping public opinion both at home and abroad. It should be conducted in a manner which will provide the public with the greatest amount of meaningful and reliable information. While there should be a certain amount of off-the-cuff give and take, the President should be able occasionally to say, "I don't know about that; let me check." Ideally, he should receive the more important and complicated questions far enough in advance of his conference to permit him to frame answers in writing. This is a practice which, if followed more often, would have saved the country and all the Presidents of recent history many a headache.

President Johnson evidently feels that the limited, intimate press conference rather than the TV conference suits him best. He should not be too severely criticized for choosing a method which probably in the long run enables him to communicate more effectively with the American public.

Kennedy-Backed Hopefuls Emerge

I, P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—There is at least a handfull of Kennedy candidates entered in congressional races, and Republicans, antennae tuned in for almost any possibility, feel more may turn up. Democratic organizations, too, are aware of this push and in at least two instances appear to be greeting it with mixed feelings.

Astronaut John Glenn is, of course, the best known of the group. He is running in the Ohio primary against Democratic Sen. Stephen M. Young, his political ambitions kindled by the encouragement of Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy and Sen. Edward Kennedy. His entry in the Ohio lists has stirred up bitter infighting within the Ohio organizations.

Rep. James Bromwell (R., Iowa) may face Sen. Kennedy's former legislative assistant, John Culver, in November, but this entry, too, has caused some bitterness in the Democratic Party there. Culver resigned from the Kennedy staff last fall, returning to his native state to campaign for office though Bromwell's opponent in 1962 announced after his defeat he would attempt it again. Reportedly, Sen. Kennedy has agreed not to take the stump for Culver until after the primary.

Rep. Pat Martin, a freshman Republican congressman from Riverside, Calif., has two names to contend with this fall. His opponent will be Gene Tunney Jr., son of the heavyweight champion, who has the ardent support of Sen. Kennedy, a former law school classmate. Kennedy went out to Martin's district two weeks ago, giving speeches in Tunney's behalf in several communities of the huge 38th District.

Rep. Abner Sibal (R., Conn.) will have as a probable opponent T. F. Gilroy Daly, who recently resigned his job as Justice Department attorney in New York and is also considered a dedicated Kennedy man.

All mentioned have just recently moved into the states of their political destiny.

REP. PETER FRELINGHUYSEN (R., N.J.), has compiled a list of what is "in" and what is "out" in the Johnson administration for the benefit of his constituents.

Among them:

"TV stations are out, stereo is in.

"The astronauts are out, except for one.

"Harvard professors are on the way out. Replacements will come from Princeton.

"It's in again to talk about the New Deal. Poverty is in too, affluence out. Any mention of foreign policy is out.

"Congress may be coming back in. It's too early to tell.

'... And an Economic Note. The President Announces a $2,000 Cut in the White House Electric Bill'

Reds Testing the West

WASHINGTON — These are critical moments in world history. They are not made less serious by the ceremonials and cordial expressions of friendship between the Prime Minister of Great Britain and the President of the United States. For basic differences between the major powers of the Western alliance are glossed over in the diplomacy that so earnestly seeks to put the best face on disquieting facts.

LAWRENCE

It was like this in the 1930's, too. Britain was eager for trade and almost up to the last few months of 1939, when the war broke out, actually supplied Hitler with arms. Proposals for economic boycott made by President Franklin D. Roosevelt were rebuffed.

This is not to imply that any government in the Communist bloc is necessarily planning war today, but certainly the Western will to fight is being tested.

Castro's recent behavior in Cuba is a case in point. He got a scare in 1962 when the late President Kennedy mobilized American military forces and demanded that Soviet missiles be removed. But the Cuban dictator doesn't know today whether President Johnson will be equally resolute. By cutting off the water supply at Guantanamo, the Cuban regime put the new President to a first test and found that there was no military reprisal.

Denying water to the base was, of course, a hostile act by Castro. It was, indeed, a flagrant disregard of the practical side of America's treaty with Cuba which permits the United States to use Guantanamo as a naval base.

The lack of resoluteness in the White House and State Department must have made a deep imprssion on Castro and on his advisers, especially those in Moscow. For if it is assumed that the United States will accept such acts of aggression rather than take any military action in an area only 90 miles away from the shores of this country, then additional steps might be risked by the Communists as a means of further humiliating the United States government before the world.

Even as Castro moved against the United States' base in Cuba, Moscow moved to mess up the situation in Cyprus and in other parts of the world.

Some of the evidences of the appeasement mood in the West are coming to the surface. The British Prime Minister publicly asserts the British intention to trade with Cuba and extend credits to Russia. To remove discontent, rather than to let the discontent remain and grow, is hardly the way to promote revolution inside a country.

THE CLAMOR TODAY in Europe and Canada for an entente with Red China and the open encouragement being given by France to the Communist Chinese strike a sympathetic chord with the appeasement-minded in this country. It is declared that a new era is at hand—an era in which the facts of an enemy's conquests must be recognized. Such a course is synonymous with surrender.

LBJ Hears Hassle on Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON — President Johnson sat at a White House dinner for congressional leaders the other night until 11:30, patiently listening to them expound on foreign aid. After they finished, he took them on a personal tour of his private living quarters, and at 11:45 escorted them to the elevator to say goodnight. Then he saw there was one extra place in the elevator and he got in himself, took them for a look at the swimming pool. Only then did he go to bed.

PEARSON

Next morning he was up in time for an 8:00 a.m. prayer breakfast at the Mayflower.

The man who sat on Johnson's right at the dinner was Sen. Dick Russell of Georgia, the elder statesman of the South. When Johnson was a relatively young senator and aspired to be Democratic Leader in 1952, it was Russell who corralled southern support. LBJ owes his first big Senate boost more to Russell than to any other one man.

On Johnson's left sat Sen. William Fulbright of Arkansas, elder statesman on foreign affairs. When Johnson aspired to be Senate Democratic leader, it was Fulbright who phoned senators trying to block his election.

But at the White House dinner it was Fullbright who supported Johnson on foreign aid: Russell, his original supporter, was not even called upon to speak.

The President merely proposed a toast to Dick Russell, and Russell proposed a toast to the President. That was all.

There was a private reason for this silence. Before the dinner, the Senator from Georgia had told the former Senator from Texas: "don't call on me, Mr. President. If I have to get up I'll say that 95 per cent of the foreign aid program ought to be scrapped. But be sure to call on Wayne Morse. He's our leader on foreign aid. He organized a full debate on foreign aid for the first time since 1947."

Johnson did call on Morse, though first he called on his chief supporter, Sen. Fulbright, who warmly supported the idea of putting the military phases of foreign aid under the U. S. Department of Defense. Fulbright said he would like to know one reason why this should not be done.

"I'll give you a reason," snapped Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio. "We in the House have to get elected every two years, and you senators don't have to be elected but every six. Last year you had no opposition yet you spent about a year down there in Arkansas. Apparently you don't have to do much for Arkansas so you try to do it for the rest of the world.

"Maybe you don't have to worry about your absenteeism," continued the fiery Ohio congressman, "but if a House member like me was away from his job all that time, he'd be beaten the next time he ran."

When President Johnson called on Sen. Morse, the latter replied: "I have a high respect for the Secretary of Defense but in this case he's wrong. Military aid is foreign policy. You can't separate military aid from foreign policy. What you're trying to do is sweep foreign aid under the rug and if you think you'll get more money that way, you're wrong.

"Second," continued Morse, "I am much concerned over attempts to take away from Congress its constitutional functions. The constitution calls for three separate but coordinate functions of government. That's not a cliche.

Hosmer, Deukmejian Appeal for Unity at Lincoln Fete

I, P-T Political Editor

BIGGEST HAND at the Lincoln Day dinner here last week went to Barry Goldwater's note of greeting to the some 600 diners. Nelson Rockefeller's message (I'm with you in spirit) got a very light hand, as did the note from Rocky's California chairman, Sen. Kuchel.

HOUSER

Calls for party unity after the primary got a medium-sized applause—more than for Rocky or Kuchel, less than for Barry. The applause for the principle of closing ranks behind the Republican nominee, whoever he is, may have been a peak of good hope for the party. It could have meant something else—Barry's people applauding the idea of Rocky's fans joining behind Goldwater, or vice versa.

Most of the talk on the GOP's two-party system within the party however has been that Goldwater's "a choice—not an echo" people would be the ones to sit out the election or give less than wholehearted support if Goldwater fails to be nominated.

Assemblyman C. George Deukmejian (East Long Beach-Signal Hill) had stern words against this prospect:

"If our house is divided after the primary and if any Republican says he can't support Mr. Rockefeller or Mr. Goldwater, he is working for a man who supported the New Deal, the Fair Deal, the New Frontier and the patron saint of Bobby Baker!"

Long Beach Congressman Craig Hosmer won a standing ovation after a strongly partisan 18-minute talk preceding the main address by Wyoming Gov. Clifford P. Hansen.

ON THE INTRAPARTY struggle, Hosmer drew a bold line between what the GOP offers in comparison with Democrats: "If we run Alf Landon again, I'm for him!

"Whether you like Mr. Goldwater or Mr. Rockefeller, I know that insofar as the 32nd District (Long Beach-Lakewood-Signal Hill-Dominguez) is concerned, within 24 hours of the nomination there will be a new committee of supporters from each side behind the winner of the primary. That's the way we can and must operate. . . . In anyone the Republican party would pick we'd have a great deal more to be proud of and to rely on for leadership than with the candidate on the other side.

"Once our candidate is picked let's for heaven's sake close ranks for the good of the country and the entire world . . . take the story of what Republicans believe in and convince the people that America's destiny lies with our party."

Hosmer said the game of political campaign strategy and tactics has a party focusing on its strength and diverting attention from the other party's strength, citing as example President Johnson's war on poverty and its implication that Republicans are FOR poverty.

THEN HOSMER played the game himself: Areas of greatest appeal to the party, he said are (1) defense and (2) conduct of international relations. "I don't think there's one person in this room who really believes the United States should take a soft line in international relations or that love for Uncle Sam will get the United States of America any place in the world of hate, ignorance and turmoil in which we live."

The new look in Washington today, said Hosmer, has the man with the "10-gallon-head, I mean 10-gallon-hat trying to figure out what to be boss of." He said Truman used to give midwestern-type parties; Ike the military-courtesy type; with JFK you had to be a violin player with long hair to get any place; LBJ gives us a couple of drinks and says, "Come on over to the East Room" for a work session.

Diners seemed enthusiastic to the unity message from Hosmer and Deukmejian and were warm to the Goldwater flavor of Governor Hansen's talk. Even the Ladies for Goldwater who provided dinner decorations were saluted generously.

GOVERNOR HANSEN'S Wyoming, whose population is less than that of the City of Long Beach, he told the audience, is strongly for Goldwater. He said he did not want to announce his personal feelings between the candidates but added, "We're a conservative state. Senator Goldwater is more acceptable in Wyoming than any of the others. He has a better state organization and the polls show him leading there."

But the main point of the whole evening was the underlining of the GOP issue which may rank above any it can develop with Democrats—will Republicans vote for a Republican in November no matter what his name?

Capital Crime Leniency Hit

EDITOR:

The law says that capital punishment is the law of the state. It should be enforced. Gov. Brown has no authority to keep saving these murderers from the penalty they deserve.

We are in great danger from these habitual criminals who are turned loose on society after a few years in jail. We can expect this situation to get worse until we make our voice heard in protest against this menace to life and limb.

We can do something. We must force the people in authority to do their duty. An aroused and informed public can help remedy the situation.

IT MUST be discouraging to law enforcement officers, prosecuting attorneys and juries, who did their duty as law abiding American citizens to protect decent society to see so many convicted criminals meet with such mitigating punishment.

Mr. Johnson Cuts the Light Bill

I, P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—There used to be a wheeze about where was Moses when the lights went out, and the answer was, in the dark. That's where we're all going to be if somebody doesn't keep the President away from the light switches.

Mr. Johnson has just boasted to one of his audiences that he has cut the White House light bill from $5000 to $3000 a month. Some night he ought to cast himself in the role of tourist and walk around the White House, say about 10 o'clock, to see how it looks with the lights out. It looks like the interior of Lincoln's tomb at midnight.

If ever there was a building meant to be luminous it is the White House. At night, it stands there like a stately marble sculpture in the low light diffused into its shadowy setting by the nearby city lights, making a very special sort of entity by what seems like an inner radiance of its own. That's when the lights haven't been turned off.

Turning the lighis off subtracts something worth more than $2000 a month from the available supply of intangible assets in this country. This isn't a loss to the residents of Washington alone. There aren't many times you drive by the White House night as well as day, without coming upon a car full of tourists driving slowly by, feasting their eyes on the President's house. They get in the way of traffic, but nobody cares because everybody understands. There's a saying that when you find you no longer get thrill out of seeeing the White House, it's time to leave Washington. Not many people leave.

Perhaps four million people from outside Washington drive by the White House at night. Maybe more. Shutting the lights off is not far from putting it out of sight for the night.

Washington is becoming more and more brilliant at night because people like it that way. Sen. Mike Monroney, (D., Okla.) recently won wide praise for a bit of hocus-pocus in the legislative budget which makes it possible to floodlight the capitol dome every night the year around, whether Congress is sitting or not. The Washington monument is a glowing spire in the city at night. The statue of the seated Lincoln is now softly illuminated.

But there stands the White House in sable gloom—if you can see it. It looks as if nobody's home, even when everybody is.

There's something wrong with the order of priorities here. There are better ways of saving $24,000 a year—or $60,000, if the President goes all the way—than turning off the lights in the White House.

This is something public opinion ought to deal with instead of waiting for the shareholders of the Potomac Electric Power Co. and the National Institute of Bulb Manufacturers to attack for selfish motives. It might make a good campaign issue for the Republican opposition, Johnson being in the dark all the time, shutting himself off from current affairs, and so on. He's probably hurting himself, politically with this fixation on the light bill. It will soon ge ridiculous to refer to him as the wiry Texan.

POLITICS

Candidates' Caldron Boiling

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Long Beach and Southern California today face the busiest and most interesting political week of the new year, climaxing in the Friday through Sunday state convention of the California Democratic Council (CDC) in Long Beach Arena.

Principals in the Southland hustle include President Johnson, Sens. Clair Engle, Hubert Humphrey and Eugene McCarthy, former senator and state Goldwater chairman William F. Knowland, Sen. and state Rockefeller chairman Thomas H. Kuchel, Gov. Brown, a number of state constitutional officers, U. S. representatives, assemblymen and state senators.

* * * *

LBJ COMES to Los Angeles Friday morning to start two days of state talks with Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos and to join him in receiving honorary degrees at UCLA. Democratic Party factions dispute whether Johnson, after Saturday goodbyes to Lopez Mateos, will head back to Washington or helicopter to Long Beach for an appearance before some 5,000 to 7,000 delegates, alternates and observers at the CDC convention.

Similar dispute surrounds the possibility of a visit from Engle, recuperating from August brain surgery and the center figure in what promises to be the highest drama of the CDC meet.

* * * *

ENGLE GOT his senatorial launch from a CDC endorsement. A dramatic cane-in-hand appearance before them this week would, in the view of many observers, win their endorsement again.

This scene will be watched intently by candidates-in-waiting Rep. James Roosevelt, Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk and State Controller Alan Cranston. If Engle does not appear, these three most likely will jump in quickly and ask CDC backing.

Roosvelt already had circularized a "Dear Delegate" letter accenting his accord with CDC's liberal positions, appealing for their support and cautioning them against a "no endorsement" course.

* * * *

CRANSTON, as a founding president of CDC, has a built-in following and, in addition, has said he will not run if he fails to get CDC endorsement. A current rumor has it that Engle will pull out of the race in Cranston's favor. That might seal the prize for Cranston, but lacking this development, he would have a tough tilt against the more-candidly liberal appeal of Roosevelt.

Mosk talked with Engle by phone last Thursday and understood Engle was trying to arrange Senate business so he could come to Long Beach. Mosk thereafter announced he would not detract from Engle's homecoming with the scehduled announcement Saturday of his own intentions.

Mosk did, however, advise his friends to "keep your powder dry." While Mosk might not receive the CDC endorsement, polls show him leading all prospective candidates of both parties.

McLAIN FOR SENATE

Meanwhile, Long Beach-area friends of Mr. Senior Citizen, George McLain, will honor him at a "Draft George McLain for U.S. Senate" rally at 1:30 p.m. Monday in Machinists' Hall, 728 Elm Ave.

Chester Wood, 80-year-old chairman of the Long Beach McLain committee, said 500 are expected for the rally. He said McLain has not decided on the race but noted that he drew more than 650,000 votes in a "Gray-Haired Revolt" against Gov. Brown for leadership of the 1960 California delegation to the Democratic National Convention.

CWA Strike Gets Nowhere

the 5,500-odd workers still out continue to remain in remarkably high spirits in the face of the overwhelming opposition they face.

Today, with the strike well past the 100-day mark, the company is feeling increasingly confident. It claims close to 70 per cent of its normal hourly work force, its equipment is operating well, it is meeting its heavy construction commitments, it is installing new phones without seriously falling behind in any one area and it is making money.

In short, it is not at all acting like a company which is in real trouble.

AS FOR THE CABLE-CUTTINGS, they've been no more than a nuisance to the company on the scale they've taken place. And they've been a convenient embarrassment to the union, as well.

The only area where the company may be said to be hurting is in a category called change orders, that is, the transfer of equipment within a home or business.

The company admits it is running well behind in change orders, but it doesn't consider the lag very serious. Moreover, it says, it has recently begun to catch up.

The CWA denies that the company is as well off as it claims to be. Says Louis B. Knecht, district director of the union, "If they were really winning this strike, don't you think they'd say to hell with the union and call for an election to see if the CWA should remain the plant bargaining agent?"

* * * *

NOTWITHSTANDING Knecht's assertion, union statements indicate that the CWA feels that General may be out to break the union.

One recent union statement spoke of "the ever-growing suspicion that General Telephone is not interested in settling the strike, but breaking the union."

General vehemently denies this. "Why would we want to destroy them? We've always had good relations with them."

G. E. Woods, director of public relations for the firm, admits, however, that the company has no intention of giving the union the wage and welfare package it is asking for, and which it has already received from the larger Bell Telephone System.

In claiming the company isn't as strong as it appears to be, Knecht points to the lag in change orders and indicates that the backlog in that area may well be the company's Achilles heel.

* * * *

THIS REMAINS to be seen. A spot check of space firms in General's operating area indicates that while a number of companies are annoyed by delays in the transfer of equipment, they are not seriously put out by them.

On the other hand, there appears to be some concern in the government, where the chief of the U.S. Mediation Service has expressed the fear that defense installations might be affected by the strike.

Knecht and other union leaders say they went into the strike with their eyes wide open. They were under no illusions that the equipment would fall to pieces, or that telephone service would come to a halt. Their primary purpose in walking out, they say, was to call public attention to their grievance with the company — a company, by the way, which they say they hold in contempt for putting profits ahead of the welfare of its workers.

Magnolia School Board Head Raps Opinion Phonics Illegal

President James A. Allen of the Magnolia School District claimed Saturday that there were errors in Orange County Counsel George F. Holden's ruling that the district's first-grade phonics course is not legally acceptable because it does not have state or county approval.

He said that it merely augments the state-approved "basic textbooks" in use since mid-November, but conceded that the controversial American Institute of Reading phonics program "was not approved as a supplementary course," nor was approval asked.

* * * *

ALLEN, who, with trustees Harry L. Milligan and Dr. Charles R. Downs, approved the AIR program, said in a prepared statement that its use is a policy of the board majority.

A recall was triggered against them—with use of the phonics program as one of the issues—shortly after seven principals resigned en masse Jan. 20 as of June 30, end of the school year. The district's other principal had quit two weeks earlier, effective the same date.

THE RECALL election originally set for April 21, has been changed to April 28 because County School Supt. Frank Grunenfelder found there otherwise wasn't time to prepare legal notices.

He said this means that the filing of nomination petitions for candidates will close March 13 instead of March 6.

More than 25 persons have been nominated as possible candidates for election to the Magnolia board in event of recall of any or all of the three members, it was disclosed by Mrs. Doris Wright, chairman of the Save Our Schools (SOS) Committee spearheading the recall move.

* * * *

SHE SAID a 13-member "screening committee" will be set up to interview potential candidates beginning Monday. Then, those remaining as candidates will be introduced to 200 "key" workers of the SOS campaign. A trial ballot then will be called.

By Feb. 28, the SOS-sponsored candidates will be announced, she said.

The disputed phonics program was but part of the problems the principals held to be insurmountable. When they quit, they charged the administration with being vague as to personnel practices and policies, with undermining morale of the district's teaching staff and with disrespect for the heads of the individual schools.

* * * *

ALLEN made no comment on those charges other than at a public meeting in which the allegations were denied, and the blame for disintegration of communications shifted to the principals.

He said the phonics program is the responsibility of the majority of the board.

Speaking for himself in a prepared statement, he stressed that the board and not Supt. Charles Wilson accepted the AIR setup.

"I have studied the recent opinion in regard to the AIR phonics program," Allen said. "The opinion probably casts doubt on the purchase of library and supplementary textbooks made by most school districts in California.

* * * *

"I HAVE outside opinion, from qualified sources, that this county counsel opinion is erroneous, and I can assure you that this matter is far from settled," his statement concluded.

County Counsel Holden had ruled that Magnolia's use of the American Institute of Reading phonics program was illegal because it has neither approval of the State Board of Education nor the Orange County Board of Education. He held that the local district cannot approve any textbooks, nor can it use textbooks not approved.

The phonics program is taught to about 1,000 first-graders in Magnolia's schools.

The board of trustees meets Monday night in regular session, but Holden's opinion is not on the agenda for discussion, Allen said, adding, therefore, it cannot be discussed officially "but people may ask some questions."

Set Negro Fund Meet Feb. 23

Long Beach and Pasadena committees for the Negro General Welfare Fund will be set up at the meeting of the organization at 4 p.m. Feb. 23 in Cressy Park, on Rosecrans Boulevard, west of Wilmington Boulevard, Compton.

Hampered by lack of money —the organization operates out of the homes of volunteer workers — the Fund, incorporated in 1962, is the answer to major problems facing the Negro, according to its president, the Rev. Philip Perry, 42, of Los Angeles.

"The Negro today needs to become productive," he said. "We need more craftsmen, more men in industry and business. We need to be able to make non-profit loans to Negro businessmen and industry. And we need to do this as Americans to help eliminate the frustrations of the Negro."

The start is through education and employment assistance, says Rev. Perry. "Since organization, we have not emphasized fund-raising—we actually have received only about $900—but we have been able to obtain as associate members industries and businesses who help us in job-placement of Negroes and in assisting those who have received subsistence scholarships to continue their education. These are the answers to juvenile delinquency, school-drop outs and need for public relief."

The Fund receives its mail at P.O. Box 5451, Compton.

Lee W. Alexander, 2016 N. Nestor, Compton, is vice president of the fund; Mrs. Leilani Hill of Los Angeles is secretary. A fourth director will be named at the unnual meeting.

Seek 300 New C.C. Members

The Chamber of Commerce, engaged in an intensive drive for 300 new members, Saturday listed seven chairman in the campaign with an election year theme.

Teams are named after government and judicial posts, said John McKennon, chairman of the campaign. They are: Senators, headed by Dr. Malcolm Todd, M.D.; Representatives, Scott Debbins; Judges, Bill Wilson; Assemblymen, Paul McKenzie; Supervisors, Jess Grundy; Councilmen, Ray Bliley; Congressmen, Henry Powell.

McKennon said some 150 men will be competing for the prize—an all expense paid trip to Las Vegas (excluding gambling) to the member bringing in the most new members.

The drive winds up March 17.

Eaton, Khrushchev Will Meet Monday

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev made a date Saturday to see his old friend—Cleveland industrialist Cyrus P. Eaton. The two will have a reunion Monday.

Eaton is on his way home from a conference in India and stopped off to see his friends in the Kremlin who also include First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan and Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko. These two entertained him Saturday.

"I WILL NEVER HAVE TO FACE THIS PROBLEM ALONE!"

"When my husband suggested we talk to the Rose Hills man about before-need memorial property, I knew he was thinking of the unnecessary suffering my friends went through because they had not planned ahead.

"We arranged a Family Protection Plan, while we both could choose what we wanted, without emotional pressures. He says he feels ten years younger, with the peace of mind he gained, knowing that I will never have to face this problem alone. He has proven his love beyond mere words.

"We certainly are glad we chose Rose Hills. Its beauty is so natural, with rolling hills, lovely lawns and gardens, and no headstones or monuments, it looks more like a park than a cemetery. There were so many beautiful sections from which to choose, and we found just what we wanted.

"We know, too, that Rose Hills will always be as lovely as it is today for they have that government-supervised Endowment Care Fund.

"By planning ahead, we gained financially, too. We were able to arrange a monthly payment plan that fits our budget perfectly, a plan which minimizes the cost to us.

"And as one of those little extra touches you always appreciate, the Rose Hills man gave us a handy Estate Portfolio for our important papers. It has containers for insurance, real estate papers, stocks and bonds and other vital records, properly catalogued so they are easy to find. He told us this portfolio is free to anyone interested."

This reaction is typical of that of thousands of wives, whose husbands had the foresight to plan in advance. Why don't you talk to the man from Rose Hills soon? Arrange an appointment by phone, or better still, send in the coupon for your free Estate Portfolio.

L.B. State Blitz Rips Cal Poly

By AL LARSON

Al Windfeldt shoveled in 21 points and Bob Roeland added 17 as Long Beach State turned on a second-half blitzkrieg to defeat Cal Poly of San Luis Obispo, 94-83, Saturday night on the 49er floor.

Trailing 41-36 at intermission, coach Dick Perry's club came on with a rush to snap a five-game losing streak and post its second win of the year over the Mustangs.

The 49ers now stand 3-5 in CCAA play and 6-15 overall. Cal Poly's conference record is a lowly 1-8, and 5-14 for the season.

* * * *

WINDFELDT, who led the 49ers' attack the first half with four field goals, added four after halftime, along with five free throws, to achieve his career high at LBSC.

Roeland also had an impressive night, banging in five field goals in the second half to keep the 49ers buzzing.

Long Beach outscored Cal Poly by one field goal after the first 20 minutes of play, but the Mustangs sank 15-of-18 free-throw attempts, including a string of 11 to build what appeared to be a safe lead.

At one time, they led by 11 points, 26-15, with 6:39 to go in the half, but reserve guard Dave Brown and regular Ken Knapp moved the 49ers in and out of fast breaks and screen patterns, and it wasn't long before LBSC looked like a different club than the one that fell so flat Friday night in losing to Fresno State, 93-76.

The lead changed hands nine times the final half before Roeland put the Prospectors ahead for good, 75-73, with 4:19 remaining. Bob Horwath, the conference's all-time scoring king, who was demoted to the second team recently, wound up with 10 points to boost his three-year record to 597 for the Mustangs. He played only 16 minutes.

LIKEWISE, John Rambo, Long Beach's big threat, was used sparingly and also had only 10 points. He played just 14 minutes—all in the final half.

Four Cal Poly boys fouled out in the rugged contest as officials called 58 personals.

Lyn Hodge turned in one of his finest performances in three years as the 49er captain controlled the boards before drawing his fifth foul with 3:47 to go. He had 16 rebounds, his high of the year, along with nine points. He took only six shots and made four.

Long Beach outshot the visitors, hitting 32 of 70 for a 45 percent effort. Poly sank 27 of 63 for a 42 percent accuracy rating.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Champion Sonny Liston was pegged the 7-1 favorite by Las Vegas bookmakers Saturday in his heavyweight title fight with Cassius Clay in Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 25.

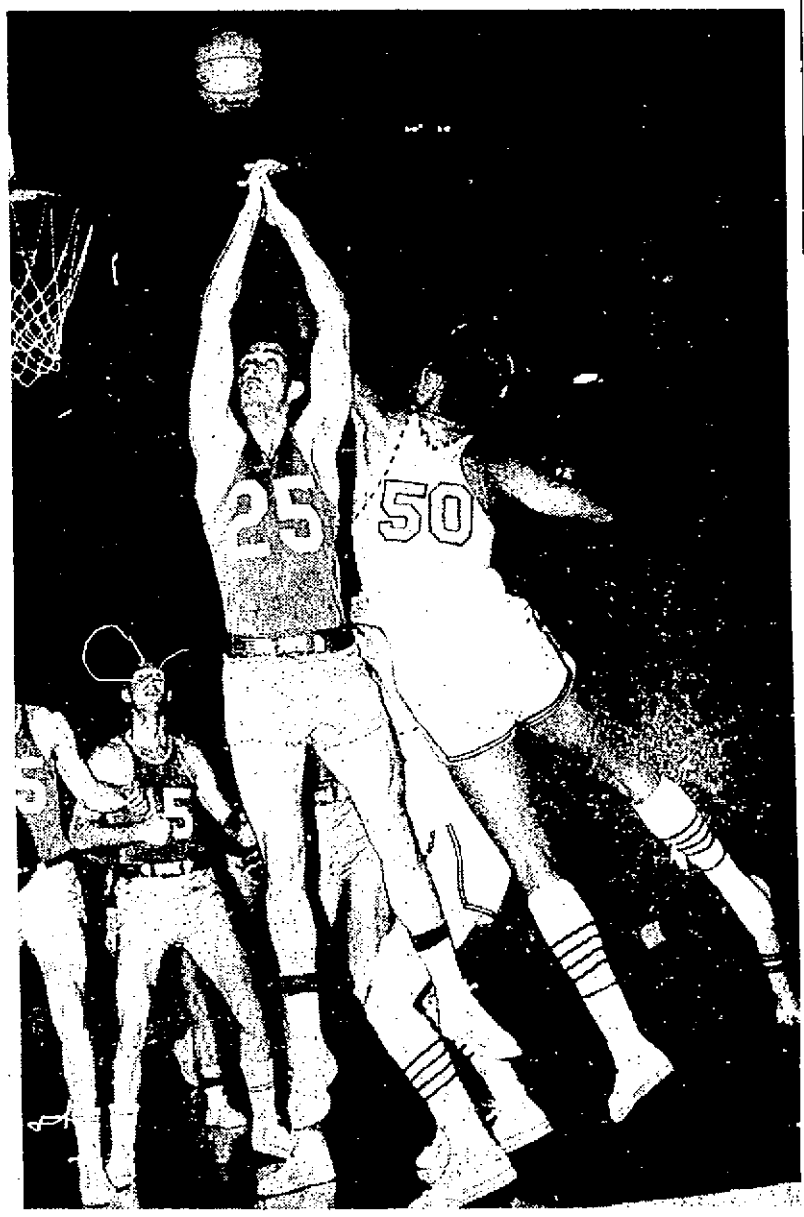

Odds in favor of Liston have risen steadily. A week ago he was listed a 6-1 favorite.

UCLA Races to 21st Triumph as Walt Nets 15

By JEROME HALL

Historians of basketball will study the 1963-64 UCLA team with wonderment.

The Bruins are bearing down on an undefeated season, they are far out in front in the polls, they are dismantling teams with ease and they seem to be only seven games away from winning the NCAA championship.

But they can't shoot.

Maybe they don't have to, because Saturday night the UCLA quintet breezed past Washington's Huskies, 88-60, before an L.A. Sports Arena crowd of 8,251. In the first game of the doubleheader Washington State beat USC, 80-76.

It is an amazing statistic that with all those points, the Bruins made only six long shots in the entire game. They took 90 shots, another amazing statistic.

BUT THEY HAD THE SPEED and quickness to follow up their misses and turn them into layins, or what the basketball fraternity calls garbage shots.

Maybe it is expecting too much of the pint-sized Bruins to be great at everything, for they outrebound teams that are much taller and they blitz past teams that are supposed to be fast and they outmuscle teams that are supped to be muscular.

But they still can't shoot.

The Washington Huskies, who have won only seven of 21 games this season, had a better shooting percentage, but they were blown off the court with a furious rally at the outset of the second half.

So maybe it isn't important to shoot well.

It was the night that Walt Hazzard became the all-time scoring king of UCLA. He needed 15 points to pass the record of 1,225 for three years set eight seasons ago by Willie Naulls, now a pro star.

HAZZARD GOT EXACTLY 15 points. He had to strain to do it, for he did not have a better night shooting than anyone else on the team.

Hazzard fired the ball at the hoop 10 times in the first half and made only two. He shot another seven times in the second half and hit three of them.

Coach John Wooden was "happy to win under these circumstances," which is another chapter for the historians to study—a coach who almost apologized for the way his team played in winning by 28 points.

Hazzard's comment was "we really played lousy." The comment of Gail Goodrich, the game's leading scorer with 22, was: "I can't remember a night like this one before."

The Bruins are four games ahead in the AAWU standings with five games to play.

Hazzard brought the crowd to its feet in the opening seconds with a twisting, underhanded pass to forward Jack Hirsch, who pushed it in a layup. Hazzard did the same thing seconds later.

Satisfied with that phase of his game, Hazzard stepped back and fired through a 20-footer and it appeared he was off to a fast start.

THIS TIME THE HUSKIES, who played a slow-down style Friday night in losing by 15 points, chose to run with the racehorse Bruins and were only three and five points behind most of the first half.

But then the Bruins erupted in a manner peculiarly Bruin. They scored eight consecutive points while the Huskies hardly got the ball across the center line.

At halftime, the Bruins were ahead 35-27 and the Huskies were in the advanced stage of fatigue.

The Trojans were trying for their third win in a row and they might have made it had not their big center fouled out midway in the second half.

USC was behind by one point with 11 minutes remaining when their world began to crumble. John Block went out on his fifth foul.

Block was having one of his better, if not best, nights. He scored eight consecutive Trojan points during an early second-half Trojan spree. He totaled 18 points in his limited playing time. He had rebounded like a veteran, though he is but a sophomore, a 6-9 soph.

Too Tragic To Believe---Cubs Brass

MESA (AP) — Chicago Cubs officials were stunned Saturday when they learned second baseman Ken Hubbs had died in a private airplane crash near Provo, Utah.

"It's a shock," said Cub athletic director Bob Whitlow. "It's just too tragic to believe.

"We haven't even thought about a replacement," Whitlow said. "He was our second baseman, and had shown he was ready for a long tenure there.

"This is a tragic blow to his parents. Our thoughts are with them."

Whitlow and other Cub officials are now in Mesa preparing for the spring training season, which opens next week for pitchers and catchers.

Whitlow and John Holland, Cub vice president, indicated they had no objection to Hubbs, taking flying lessons. "We can't regulate everything the players do in the winter," Whitlow said.

Chicago baseball writers recalled Hubbs frequently talked to manager Bob Kennedy, former Marine flyer, about flying and never missed a chance to get into the cockpit at the landings of planes carrying the Cubs on baseball trips.

Thus, a brief big league career launched in a blaze of glory just two seasons ago ended for the 22-year-old Hubbs, who said when he made the grade:

"You don't have to worry about second base here for 10 years."

But no popoff was this lad who in 1962, his first full Cub season, played 78 consecutive games without an error and handled 418 chances, breaking two major league records for second basemen.

Hubbs' big time career was born of confidence, but his self-assured manner never could be called brash.

His smashing of the two records Bobby Doerr had held since 1948 also won Hubbs, then only 20, National League rookie of the year honors for 1962.

* * * *

LAST YEAR, HUBBS BATTLED the sophomore jinx, slipping to a .235 batting average from .260 the previous year.

But the kid from Colton, Calif. still got a salary hike. "You don't measure a talented player like Hubbs by what he doesn't do," Vice President Holland said a few weeks ago. "We know what he does for our club and it's plenty."

The 6-foot, 180-pounder joined the Cubs' farm system in 1959 after graduating from Colton High where he was an outstanding athlete.

As a quarterback, he was offered scholarships by 15 colleges. But baseball was in his blood, even though he hoped one day to get a degree at Brigham Young University where his brother, Keith, played halfback.

It hit Hubbs like a bolt out of the Arizona blue he could make the big time when the Cubs traded away Jerry Kindall and Don Zimmer and said the job was wide open in spring training of 1962.

* * * *

THE 20-YEAR-OLD WAS given an all-out chance at Mesa, Ariz., that spring and responded like a champion, even though he was a converted shortstop.

"Something just popped me open," Hubbs told writers amazed at his sudden skill afield and at bat. "I suppose the tremendous amount of coaching the Cubs gave me bolstered my confidence so I think I can make the grade.

"I hope this isn't something like just a lucky streak."

It wasn't for the lad who just a year before, in 1961, was a struggling shortstop for the Cubs' class B Wenatchee, Wash., club and spent hour after hour getting second base tutoring from the Cubs' Bobby Adams and Lou Klein in the Arizona Instructional League.

"Each day they would make me turn a 100 double plays in practice," Hubbs later recalled.

"I would make, or take the throw at second and relay to first over, and over, and over until double plays were coming out of my ears."

It was on June 13, 1962, Hubbs began his record-smashing streak when he crisply handled a grounder by Smoky Burgess of the Pirates.

The rest of June, through July and August, Hubbs continued to field perfectly amid mounting pressure. As his errorless skein grew, his batting average slumped—from .285 to .250.

Finally the bubble burst, on Sept. 6, when Hubbs cleanly fielded a double play ball stroked by Cincinnati's Gordy Coleman but threw the ball wildly to second.

Cal Rally Trips Tribe

STANFORD (UPI) — University of California rallied in the second half Saturday night to defeat Stanford 59-52 in a Big Six contest that gave both teams a 6-4 record in conference play.

Bruce Ballmer connected on a 25-foot set shot with 7:30 minutes remaining to put Cal ahead 48-46. Stanford tied the score seconds later, but then Dan Wolthers put Cal ahead to stay and Ballmer followed with another long set shot.

The Bears played a ball control game the rest of the way.

'Anita Payoff Mark--$205

By ERNIE MASON

Inclusive, a four-year-old who was winless in five starts this year and had won only three in 21 the past two years, won the $59,300 San Luis Rey Handicap Saturday for a record $205.40 payoff at Santa Anita.

The unsung hero of what was a rough race nosed out the second bet favorite, Mr. Consistency, and survived a claim of foul quickly lodged by Mr. Consistency's veteran rider, Kenneth Church.

* * * *

DUSKY DAMION came in third by 2½ lengths and the favorite, South Africa's Colorado King, was two lengths farther back in fourth place.

Church claimed Inclusive lugged in on him in the stretch, but the stewards disallowed the claim.

Inclusive, ridden by Rudy Campas, returned $205.40 to win, $44.80 to place and $15.80 to show. The win payoff topped the previous record for a stakes in California, the $180.60 return of Perizade in the Vanity Handicap at Hollywood Park in 1951.

Inclusive's lone distinguishing victory was in the Texas Handicap at Sunland Park last year.

Mr. Consistency paid $4.20 and $3, and Dusky Damion $5.60.

The time for the 1⅛-mile run, a tuneup for the $100,000-added San Juan Capistrano Handicap March 7, was 2:25⅕.

The crowd of 50,822 was quiet until the stewards viewed the race movie and a tremendous cheer went up when the big price was posted on the board.

With one entry, a longshot named Repute, declared, 13

DUSKY DAMION, far back as usual in early stages, moved fast on outside, pulled down backstretch, came between horses in stretch, finished strong. COLORADO KING was well placed early while racing close to pacemakers, moved up between horses to take command entering stretch, then weakened under pressure in last sixteenth. CEDAR KEY moved up on inside to main track first time around, forced to front on backstretch, gave away after setting pace for a half mile. ALDERSHOT fired after setting pace for first half mile. Jockey Church lodged a claim of foul which was not allowed. Jockey Hermosa also claimed foul against Aldershot entering main track which was disallowed.

VETERAN Johnny Longden had Colorado King within close range as the troop headed past the grandstand the first time and on into the back stretch.

Mr. Consistency was also held off the race but coming into the stretch the 5-year-old South African import, seeking his third straight victory since coming to this country, took the front end.

He couldn't hold it as the longshot sensation and Mr. Consistency began their two-horse duel to the wire.

Give Credit to Clay's Mouth

The flack on the Feb. 25 Liston-Clay title bout —which will be shown on closed circuit TV at both the Auditorium and West Coast Theater here—is flowing into sports departments these days more rapidly than water from a leaky radiator.

The publicity men are desperately trying to get across one vital point: That Cassius belongs in the same ring with Liston.

HANK HOLLINGWORTH

I've never subscribed to that theory and apparently I'm not alone, else why would the tub-thumpers go to such lengths to make the public believe this point?

The match has its intriguing facets, thus a live gate of $1,000,000 is virtually certain — and, more important, proceeds from theater television could top the $6,000,000 figure.

The credit belongs to Cassius, but through his mouth not his fistic achievements.

Anyway, here's a random sample of the publicity drivel I've received . . . and see if you don't believe my statement that the flack dispensers are desperately trying to make you and me believe that Mr. Clay is worthy of a title shot with Liston.

ONE ITEM: "The experts agree that it was more Floyd Patterson's failure than Sonny's prowess which made Liston look unbeatable. The consensus is that Liston is good, but not great."

The flacks then point to what they consider the chink in Liston's armor—his weakness in his bout a few years ago with Eddie Machen, who went 12 rounds with Sonny.

Then, they quote Machen, who is not only a has-been but more truthfully, a never-was.

Says the not-so-great Eddie: "Liston is a single-tracked gunner. I'd even say he is a one-armed fighter—all left hand. Against me he didn't seem to know how to use his right except in close. I remember how easy it was to slide inside or under his jab. I did it round after round. The thing that sticks in my mind is that he didn't change. He kept making the same mistakes throughout.

"I have to respect Clay. He has the speed and shiftiness which could cause Liston to get discouraged and lose confidence. He has the same sort of tools I have.

"My big regret is that Clay beat me to the title shot."

Eddie, you've taken too many punches. Your big relief should be that Clay beat you to the title shot. If Machen got into the same ring with Liston today, the funeral people could start measuring him for a box right now.

REFLECTING MY SENTIMENTS is an article from the Feb. 15 issue of TV Guide Magazine.

"Students of the sweet science are not as puzzled over how Clay will attack Liston as they are over how he landed the fight in the first place," begins the piece.

"An inspection of Clay's record shows that his handlers fastidiously have avoided dangerous opponents.

"And so, in less than three years, Cassius ascended —if he will pardon the illusion—like a gasbag, combining a modicum of fighting with an avalanche of words to consummate what doubtless will be one of the major financial strokes of boxing."

The phrasing is perfect, especially if you happened to be on hand in the L.A. Sports Arena when Cassius opposed a lumberjack named George Logan. Logan was a bleeder, which means if you tapped him with a fly-swatter the claret would flow. Lacking completely the niceties of the ring sport, Logan attacked Clay the only way he knew how—barge in as you thought you were starting a Pier Six brawl or cleaning out all the umbays in some bar.

Logan did his job well. He had Clay as troubled as an income tax evader. Yet, Cassius managed to flick a few jabs in the direction of Logan's eyebrows and Georgie's red stuff came pouring out as if the dam had broken.

The minute Logan colored red, the bout was stopped. But up to that point, a non-classical barroom brawler had Clay in deep trouble.

If that shows Clay's class, the heavyweight division has deteriorated worse than the U.N.

THE FLACKS MISSED NO opportunity to laud Clay. Another publicity tidbit began: "The truest test of a champion-to-be comes when he has been knocked down and offstride. And young Cassius Clay has twice achieved this in his career."

Now swallow this: "He was subjected to his first test of chin in 1962 when Sonny Banks, a towering left hooker from Detroit."

That stirs you up a bit, doesn't it?

Then: "The second instance came last June 18 in London when Cassius was fighting Henry Cooper. Suddenly, Henry let fly a left hook. Clay flew back and through the ropes. Dazed, he rolled back in and made his feet. Cassius then passed the acid test: He recouped his strength and rendered his opponent helpless."

George Logan, Sonny Banks and Henry Cooper . . . hardly strong credentials for tackling Liston, would you say?

CELTIC GAZELLE IN FORM
Bill Russell makes like a gazelle under basket as he scores against San Francisco. Russell and world champion Boston Celtics meet Lakers at L.A. Sports Arena tonight.

LAST UNTIL PLAYOFFS

Lakers, Celtics in Home Finale

By DON HARDIN

Pro basketball fans, heed this advice if you like to see the Lakers and Celtics play. And, so many of you have liked them in the past.

Tonight may be your last chance until next November.

The saucy Celtics and the sick, but-trying-to-get-well Lakers play their swan song in regulation NBA play this evening at the L.A. Sports Arena.

Game time is an early 7:05.

The Celtics, who are not having a picnic in the Eastern Division either, hold a 6-3 edge over the Lakers for the season. Over the past two seasons the two teams were absolutely even, including playoff games.

But, playoff is the big word now. During the past two seasons it has been all Celtics and Lakers with the Boston crew winning the title in 14 games by a total of five points.

* * * *

AND, THE LAKERS, who were seemingly going for their third consecutive Western Division title, were looking up from third place Saturday night toward San Francisco. Boston, holding a slim two-game lead over the torrid Cincinnati Royals, were playing Wilt Chamberlain and his gang there.

It's been a hectic season and it won't last long. The Lakers have only 18 games to play and they've got to sprout new wings quickly in order to resume leadership of their division. Yes, they are certain to be in the playoffs, regardless if they catch up but they have to go through a formidable array of teams and players if they are to play the Celtics again before next fall.

A near-capacity crowd is anticipated this eve for one of the season's pivotal battles. Then the Lakers hit the airways and return on Washington's Birthday to meet the Royals. In their last eight home games they will play Cincinnati, St. Louis and San Francisco twice each.

Ouch!

Boston Zips by Wilt & Warriors in NBA Headliner

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Boston Celtics, catching fire in the third period after a see-saw battle, Saturday defeated the San Francisco Warriors, 96-87, in a National Basketball Association game.

Tom Heinsohn potted a 25-foot jump shot with the score knotted 60-60 near the end of the third quarter and gave the Celtics a lead which they never relinquished.

Wilt Chamberlain paced the Warriors with 32 points while John Havlicek led Boston with 25.

TWO NEAR FREE-FOR-ALLS

Viking 'Jinx-Busters' Topple 'Gades, 64-60

By KEN PIVERNETZ

BAKERSFIELD—If nothing else, the 1963-64 Long Beach City College basketball team will be remembered as the "jinx-busters."

The Vikings defeated arch-rival Bakersfield here Saturday night for the first time in the Renegades' gym in 11 years by a narrow 64-60 decision.

Despite missing three 1-and-1 foul shots in the last 70 seconds, the Norsemen still had enough to win and go back into a tie for second place in the Metropolitan Conference standings with Cerritos, each with 7-3 records.

It was a bitter game that saw two technical fouls called, one player ejected, and two near free-for-alls.

The Vikings jumped off quickly and were on top at halftime by nine points (41-32) before the 'Gades staged a comeback that saw them steadily close the gap in the final 20 minutes.

* * * *

BOB NEWLIN'S jumper from the top of the key put Bakersfield on top for the first time, 57-56, with 6:50 to go, to set the stage for a hectic finish.

The game was even 58-all at 4:43, then Mike Waldie put LBCC ahead for keeps 36 seconds later. Lee Marskell hit the first free throw on a 1-and-1 situation to give the Vikings a 61-58 advantage at 3:47.

Bakersfield's Ray Ermigarat then was tossed from the game for deliberateiy fouling George Deering, who missed his foul try.

The Vikings eventually added three throws in the final minutes against the over-eager Renegades.

* * * *

ROMIE Hargrove was nearly given the heave-ho with 7:07 left when he squared off against Larry Toliver. Both benches emptied, but officials restored order and no one was ejected.

Waldie paced the Vikings with 27 points, equalling his season high. He had support from Bob Johnson, who had 17, and Marskell, who contributed 11.

Toliver kept the 'Gades in contention, especially in the first half, and wound up with 23 points, but Bakersfield couldn't get any consistent outside shooting. It did control the backboards, however, but that wasn't enough.

DEADLINE PASSES:
FINLEY STILL AT WAR

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Charles O. Finley, owner of the Kansas City Athletics, denied Saturday night that he had rejected a city offer for a compromised three-year contract for use of Municipal Stadium, only hours before the American League's lease-or-else deadline ran out.

The war of words broke out as the midnight deadline set by the American League closed with no indication that there was hope of solving the impasse.

Finley's denial came after John D. Maguire, chairman of the city council's baseball committee, had spoken with the A's owner at his home in LaPorte, Ind.

"I asked Maguire if he was authorized to offer a three-year contract," said Finley. "He said he had no authority to offer it but that if I was willing to accept it he himself would make an effort to get the negotiating committee together.

"Your story is that I flatly rejected. I flatly deny that any offer of a three-year lease was made to me. The mayor is the one who has been the chairman of all these negotiations. The mayor and the city manager represent Kansas City—not a two-bit politician councilman."

Finley also classed "as a manufactured lie" a story quoting Kansas City businessman Alex J. Barket as saying Finley had offered last month to sell the A's for $7 million.

Meanwhile, in Boston, American League President Joe Cronin said that Finley did not face automatic expulsion from the league if he failed to sign a lease by the midnight deadline. Cronin said the league would not act until Monday.

Wichita Snares Thriller; Vandy, Davidson Upset

Compiled From Wire Services

Wichita's Wheatshockers, thinking they won in regulation time and had left the floor, were called back and went on to whip Cincinnati 59-58 in overtime Saturday night to highlight collegiate basketball action across the country.

The Shockers thought they won it on Dave Stallworth's basket at the buzzer, 56-54, but after a 10-minute delay — and with Wichita in its dressing room — Cincinnati convinced the referees that the buzzer sounded before Stallworth shot and the noise of the crowd drowned it out.

Wichita coach Ralph Miller argued desperately, but had satisfaction anyway as it was Stallworth, held to a low 14 points, who also made the decisive points.

It was the first time that Wichita has beaten Cincinnati on the Bearcats' home court.

Two of the country's top 10 teams, Davidson (No. 4) and Vanderbilt (No. 7) met defeat, but UCLA, Michigan, Duke, Wichita and Villanova won. Kentucky, Oregon State and Texas Western were idle.

From the second 10, Illinois (No. 17) lost to Minnesota 92-81 and Oklahoma State (No. 12) fell to Iowa State 50-48 in overtime.

* * * *

FIFTH-RANKED Duke spilled fourth-rated Davidson, 82-75, to hand the Wildcats their second consecutive loss (18-2). Jeff Mullins scored 22 as the Blue Devils improved their record to 17-3.

Guard Danny Schultz scored 35 points as unranked Tennessee halted Vanderbilt, 64-62, leaving the Commodores two games back of the Vols in the Southeastern Conference race.

Second-ranked Michigan boosted its Big 10 lead with a 99-87 win over Indiana as Cazzie Russell and Bill Buntin each scored 23 points. Gary Bradds had 40 points for the sixth consecutive game as Ohio State topped Wisconsin, 92-74, and Minnesota took second place by beating Illinois.

* * * *

NINTH-RANKED Villanova easily whipped Canisius, 73-58.

Other top individual efforts included a 33-point game by Notre Dame's Walt Sahm, a 32-point showing by Purdue's Dave Schellhase, and a 34-point performance by Providence's John Thompson.

Nick Werkman tallied 30 for Seton Hall against Providence to become the 15th player in major college history to crack the 2,000-point mark in a three-year career. He has 2,020 points.

NCAA Reveals Plan for Picking Olympic Cagers

KANSAS CITY (UPI)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Saturday announced plans for selecting basketball players to compete for berths in the October Olympic Games at Tokyo.

The Association said it will be allowed to select 36 athletes to take part in the Olympic basketball trials at St. John's University in Jamaica, New York, April 2-4.

Six of the athletes will come from the championship team of the national collegiate basketball tournament to be crowned here March 21.

The remaining 30 players will be selected from the entire NCAA membership by a committee of the National Association of Basketball Coaches.

Amateur Athletic Union also will participate in the U. S. trials.

REALLY WINS BY A NOSE
World record holder Bob Hayes lunges and hits tape with his nose to win 60-yard dash in New York Millrose Games. The latest "World's Fastest Human" will run in Long Beach Games Tuesday night.

Hayes Eyes 5.9 in L.B. Games

'World's Fastest Human' Faces Top Field Tuesday

By JOHN DIXON

Every year or two there's a new "World's Fastest Human," but Bob Hayes undisputedly is fastest of them all.

He has the competitive record and the stopwatch notches to prove it.

Hayes, only man to run the 100-yard dash in 9.1, believes he will become the first man to run the indoor 60-yard dash in 5.9—and soon.

"I'm looking to do it anytime now," Hayes says. "I've run the 60 five times, once in 6.1 and four times in 6.0 (tying the indoor record). Maybe I'll get the record in Long Beach Tuesday."

* * * *

THE FLORIDA A&M turbojet has had a spectacular career, but he's still got as many goals as Wilt Chamberlain.

"First I want that indoor record. Then I want to run 8.9 outdoors in the 100—I've got my heart set on it. I want to wind-up my career with three gold medals at the Olympic Games in October, and finally I want to prove that a sprinter can play professional football."

A 192-pounder who rolls like a ship in a storm as he generates a full head of steam, Hayes started running in 1959 "because I knew I could run faster than guys on the team."

He ran 9.3 as a freshman, 9.2 as a sophomore, and lowered the No. 1 international target to 9.1 last summer. Though he seldom runs the 220, Hayes deadheated the curved 220 world record of 20.5 last term.

His best marks are 9.1 100, 10.1 100 meters, 20.1 220, 20.5 220 curve. The average of his best 10 marks at 100 yards is 9.27, fastest in history. Harry Jerome is second at 9.29, Mel Patton 25th at 9.42. Hayes' competitive 100 record is 35-2.

Hayes Equals 70 Mark

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Sprinter Bob Hayes equaled his own indoor record of 6.9 seconds in the 70-yard dash at the Mason-Dixon games Saturday night. The Florida A&M flash set the mark here in 1963.

In women's events, Tammy Davis set an indoor record in the 70-yard low hurdles with a 9.1 performance.

* * * *

JO AN TERRY of Tennessee State, who set the old record here in 1962, finished third. Second was Lorraine Dunn of Tennessee State.

Dallas Long, Southern California's world record holder in the shotput, sent the 16-pound ball 62-feet 6½ for his best effort this season and victory in that event.

Earlier, two women sprinters bettered the 70-yard record with separate 7.6 second qualifying heats.

Wyomia Tyue equaled the world mark minutes after it had been set by Edith McGuire.

* * * *

ROY HICKS, Army enlisted man, stationed at West Point, skimmed over the 70-yard high hurdles in 8.1, one-tenth of a second off Hayes Jones' indoor record. Hicks edged out Ralph Boston, the ace broad jumper from Tennessee State. Jones was forced to withdraw because he has the flu.

Englishman Bill Cornell of Southern Illinois University nipped John Dunkelberg of the North Carolina Track Club to win the 880 in 1:50.9.

* * * *

VILLANOVA'S two-mile relay team set an indoor mark of 7:24.9 on the eight-lap mile track. Noel Carroll of Ireland ran the final half mile in 1:48.8.

Kansas State's John Camien turned in a 4:10.9 mile, finishing with no one close.

High-jumper John Thomas cleared 6-10 in winning his event. He reversed a Thursday night New York loss to Lew Hoyt of Southern California.

Broad-jumper Boston went 25-10 for his top effort of the season.

Man to Man

WYNN

LONG

By JERRY WYNN

Long Beach, which thus far has withstood earthquakes, subsidence and junior baseball, is bracing for a new menace this week.

He is a giant named Dallas Long, who stands 6-4, weighs 260 and throws a 16-pound iron ball as if it were a grapefruit.

But you need not worry if you procure a loge seat at the L.B. Arena Tuesday night for the first Long Beach indoor track and field carnival. Long seldom throws beyond the fifth row of the floor level.

The world's premiere shotputter and record holder at 65-10½, the USC dental student will seek to eclipse the indoor marks of 64-11¾ in his first major Long Beach appearance.

Sports often are referred to as glamorous, Dallas. Do you find any romance in shotputting?

"Yes. I have a personal love for it and there is glamor in just the fact that you are writing this story about me. It's nice to be mentioned in the papers."

Put the question another way. Why do you throw the shot?

"It is something I can do and do well and enjoy doing. Because I've been successful, I've been able to travel and see the world and reap many benefits."

What started you on a career as a shotputter?

"In high school at Phoenix, football was my first love. I was a tackle. During the off-season, I began to throw the shot. I became successful at it and continued in hopes of making the Olympic team. I was fortunate enough to make the team (Ed. note: He won a bronze medal at Rome) and never has been sorry about giving up football for track."

Do you think shotputters have to be more dedicated than other track and field competitors?

"No. In some events such as the 100-yard dash, you can get by on sheer natural ability, and in others, such as the marathon and distances, it takes an ungodly amount of sacrifice. Shotputting is in the middle. You have to work. That's for sure."

What percentage of shotputting is strength and what percentage is skill?

"It all depends on the individual. Some fellows get by with little strength and a lot of technique and speed. Bill Nieder was not exceptionally strong as shotputters go and he held the world's record. Then there is Gary Gubner, who undoubtedly is the strongest person who has ever lived, and he is not overly successful. I place more emphasis on speed and technique."

Along the same line of thinking, if Sonny Liston would throw the shot against you, would you fight him?

"For $100,000 I would be glad to. I'd probably do as well as Clay."

Parry O'Brien says he tries to "psyche" an opponent by looking mean. Does this bother you?

"No. I think it is very overrated. The only way he could upset me would be to throw the ball farther. I don't believe in hexes or evil eyes."

Who do you consider your strongest competitor for an Olympic gold medal at Tokyo this fall?

"It's too early to tell, but I would be extremely surprised if it was not another American, probably Gary Gubner."

Does your new plastic-covered ball give you an advantage?

"It's no advantage over another person, but a personal help to me. Anyone is welcome to use it. I have relatively small hands, and the large ball feels like a basketball against my chin. I hope to do better with this one, especially in indoor meets."

What was the greatest thrill of your career?

"Without a doubt, my greatest thrill was breaking the world record. That was always uppermost in my mind, and I was also thrilled it happened on our home field at the Coliseum."

Which is easier, putting a shot or pulling a tooth?

"After a hard day at dental school, I'd rather shotput any time."

A true giant in a sport of giants is Dallas Long.

Beatty Third in 4:13.4; Win Streak Snapped

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Jim Beatty, still recovering from a cut foot, sustained his first indoor defeat in four years Saturday night when he placed third to winner Morgan Groth in the mile run at the Golden Gate track and field meet.

Making his debut of the season, Beatty held the lead for the first six laps, then gave way to San Jose State's Ben Tucker who placed second in the event.

After that, the North Carolina veteran slowly faded and was a good 25 yards to the rear when Groth grabbed the lead from Tucker at the gun lap. Groth, the NCAA champ, won in a time of 4:07.9.

Tucker had a time of 4:09.3 while Beatty was clocked in 4:13.4.

IAAF OKs 22 World Track Marks

LONDON (UPI)—The International Amateur Athletic Federation approved 22 world records set in 1963, but failed to act Saturday on a 17-foot pole vault height reached by John Pennel and a 9.1 second clocking achieved by Bob Hayes in the 100-yard dash.

United States athletes were credited with eight of the new marks, including new records in three relay events.

The approval or rejection of the Pennel and Hayes' records, it was believed, would be tabled until a full meeting of the IAAF later this year. The dispute stems from the asphalt surfaces both athletes used in their record breaking attempts. World records:

62-5 PUT BY MATSON FIFTH BEST INDOORS

DALLAS (UPI) — Randy Matson, Texas A&M's teen-aged freshman giant, moved nearly a foot closer to the U. S. Olympic team Saturday night when he got off a 62-foot, 5-inch heave that was the fifth best indoor mark in history.

The 18-year-old Pampa, Texas, youngster, cleared the 60-foot mark on all six of his throws and was over 61 feet three times as he bettered his previous best this season—61-6¼.

The 6-foot, 7-inch Matson won the outstanding athlete award hands down in the third annual Dallas Invitational track meet before a near-capacity crowd of 7,000.

The toss has been bested only by Gary Gubner's 64-11¾, Parry O'Brien's 63-1½, Arthur Rowe's 62-11½ and Dallas Long's 62-7½ indoors.

John Roderick, Southern Methodist sophomore, spoiled teammate Billy Foster's reign as the Texas indoor sprint king when he nipped Foster in the feature 60-yard dash in 6.1 seconds.

Gubner Sets Record; Title to St. John's

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gary Gubner of New York University set a meet record by winning the shotput at 59 feet in the Metropolitan indoor intercollegiate track meet here Saturday.

St. John's won the title for the first time in 22 years and thus ended Manhattan's 14-year streak as champions.

4:46.8 NOT A 'TYPO'

Cunningham Won't Forget Slowest Major Mile Ever

NEW YORK (AP) — In these days when sub four-minute miles are almost routine, 4:46.8 sounds more like walking time. But that time, involving three of the nation's best 28 years ago, produced one of the most thrilling of all mile races.

The race, the Columbian Mile in the Knights of Columbus Games at Madison Square Garden in March 1936, was recalled when Glenn Cunningham visited the scene of some of his greatest triumphs.

It was the windup of the 1936 indoor track season. Cunningham, America's premier miler of the decade, had been beaten consistently by Gene Venzke, of Penn, a stylish runner, and Joe Mangan of Cornell, a tough competitor. They would let Cunningham set a burning pace and then out-sprint him on the last lap.

* * * *

THE COLUMBIAN mile was billed as Cunningham's revenge, perhaps a world record. But it became the slowest major mile ever run.

Cunningham, instead of setting a fast pace, dropped in behind Venzke and Mangan. If they slowed down, Glenn slowed still more. The crowd booed as the runners jogged the first one-half mile. Venzke looked puzzled, Mangan confident.

The speed from the half-mile mark to the three-quarter pole quickened but still Cunningham trailed. Then, like a jackrabbit from his native western Kansas the 1933 Sullivan Award winner cut loose. He quickly took the lead as the crowd roared.

Cunningham hit the tape several yards ahead of Mangan with Venzke staggering home third. And the time, 4:46.8, looked like a typographical error. Revenge? Yes, but far from a world record.

"I recall that race well," said Cunningham, who now devotes all his time to making a home for unfortunate children on his farm near Augusta, Kan.

* * * *

"I WAS determined to win this one and spent sometime on the West Coast just practicing sprints. I was ready for the race of my life though my fastest mile, 4:04.8, came two years later on the boards at Dartmouth."

Psychological Warfare

Cassius Clay deserves an award for breathing new life into a dying fight game, but instead will be cast in the role of the "villain" when he challenges champion Sonny Liston for the heavyweight title a week from Tuesday.

Clay, who just turned 22 last month, has built an "image" of a cocky youngster with questionable ability who reels off cornball poetry and trite little sayings—most of which are written for him—and refuses to take much advice from anyone.

CASSIUS CLAY
It's His Idea

But actually, he's a smart youngster who is aware of what he's doing every second.

The poetry has become a bit threadbare and some of his lines have become tedious, but it continues in high gear because it's all part of a well-planned campaign to get Liston's goat. Clay's needling of the champion has been going on now for well over a year.

In a serious moment when he was in Las Vegas last July for the Liston-Patterson bash, he told us that his needling "is what I call psychological warfare . . . and I won't let up on that big bear until the bell rings. Maybe not even then. I want him mad.

"Why? If you go back over his record, you can see that whenever he has gotten mad in the ring, he really flips. He starts missing and swinging wild. His timing goes off. He's done it in several of his fights.

"Everybody is judging Liston off his two quick wins over Patterson, but if I can get him to flipping his lid it will be a big advantage for me."

HENRY ARMSTRONG, THE immortal "triple crown" champ, agrees. Henry is one of the small group of observers who feels Clay has a "good chance" to beat Liston . . . "if he carries that ego into the ring with him and he doesn't freeze like Patterson did. Sonny is a good puncher, but Cassius is young, strong and unusually fast for a big man."

Armstrong was impressed with Clay the first time he saw him. That was in Miami two years ago when Cassius met Ingemar Johansson in their now-famous sparring session while the Swede was training for his third bout with Patterson. The session was halted in the second round with Johansson "out on his feet." They promptly requested Cassius to leave.

Anyway, the upcoming Liston-Clay match reminds Armstrong of his fight with Sugar Ray Robinson. "It was late in my career. I was getting old and I couldn't touch him. He was too fast and he had good legs. That's what Clay's got—and that could prove to be the decisive factor.

"Clay is 10 years younger if Sonny's age is correct, and Cassius also is taller, almost as heavy, has a good reach, is faster and can box. And he can hit hard enough so that it certainly isn't a hopeless situation if he just uses his head and doesn't freeze. That's important.

"Cassius is a worrisome puncher. He jabs and runs and that is going to get Liston even more provoked if the bout goes a few rounds. Sonny's going to try and finish him in a hurry. And if he doesn't, it should get interesting because I don't think he has much stamina for a long, hard fight."

LISTON HAS ENJOYED SOME of his "insult" sessions with Clay, up to a point. As long as they follow the "script" that Sonny has been able to memorize, everything has been all right. But Clay likes to drag 'em out and when the champ runs out of things to say, he gets irritated as Cassius prattles on.

Clay has learned just how far he can go . . . and when to let things drop. For instance, the "show" at the airport recently when Liston arrived in Miami was "staged", but suddenly got out of hand.

A friend in Miami close to the situation reveals that Sonny actually was in the mood to fight right then "in front of only a dozen people."

When Liston's plane pulled up to the ramp, Clay and his group, which includes a professional comedian who stooges for Cassius and "feeds him lines," were waiting. However, airline officials had an electric cart waiting to drive Sonny and his party to the opposite end of the airport.

When the cart pulled away, Clay and a half-dozen of his followers started to chase it, waving and shouting. The girl driving panicked and stopped the vehicle.

The last thing, of course, that Clay wanted to do was catch up . . . and when he saw it stop, he pulled up short and his friends piled into him like the cops in the old Mack Sennet comedies.

Liston growled to his trainer, Willie Reddish, "I think I'll bust him in half now." It was then that police were called to control the situation and to keep Sonny from "flipping his lid" right then.

AFTER THE PATTERSON FIGHT in Las Vegas last summer, Liston was asked if Cassius' remarks bothered him and he said . . . "the only thing that would irritate me about that guy is if he would sign to fight someone else before I get a crack at him."

However, Clay is getting to him. Sonny has been doing a slow burn for the last month and a half over some very personal comments by Cassius which definitely have "hit home."

And reports from Miami reveal that Liston has been getting more surely every day since arriving there and that's why his handlers are trying to keep Clay away from him. "I'm afraid if they got close, Sonny might go after him . . . and that's no build-up," Reddish says.

Sonny himself is calling this a "grudge fight" and declared recently that "I gotta whip that guy even if I have to do it in private. Even if it meant the ruin of boxing and even if I couldn't be champion any more, I still wouldn't let him last a second longer than I possible can."

So Liston is getting madder and madder. Whether this is good or bad for Clay remains to be seen. However, it's Cassius' own "idea!"

It's Spring Again...

...Angels Dodgers On Wing Again

BILL RIGNEY
No Feminine Shriek

RIGNEY TO GREET 31 EARLY-BIRD ANGELS (INCLUDING BELINSKY)

By ROSS NEWHAN
I, P-T Staff Writer

PALM SPRINGS—It may not be enough to get the Beatles off page one, but the Angels do open spring training here Monday.

There will be no feminine shrieks greeting the Angels, only the rigid commands of manager Bill Rigney leading his fourth expeditionary force into the desert.

Thirty-one players (25 pitchers, six catchers) have been ordered to first formation Monday with the balance of the squad (20 infielders and outfielders) scheduled to report the following Monday, necessitating perhaps, for the first time, two-a-day drills.

The 51-man contingent (41 of whom are on the Angel roster, the other 10 being free agents) represents the largest working force ever to assemble at Angels Stadium here and is a far cry from the meager gathering of 35 which greeted Rigney in the pioneer year of 1961.

Only eight members of that original club will be present this spring as the Angels slowly begin to reap the harvest of their own farm system.

Rigney, who toured Virginia Country Club with George Brower, Jim Crooker, Rocky Bridges and Harold Parrott prior to his arrival here Saturday, sees many hazards dotting the 1964 fairway. Still, he wears the optimistic smile which is a baseball managers' spring trademark.

• • • •

"OUR GOAL IS A FIRST DIVISION berth," said Rigney, a seven-handicapper whose club was handicapped by injuries and Lee Thomas' prolonged slump into a ninth-place finish last season.

"For the first time we'll have a camp where youth dominates and, for the first time, these youths will have been raised in our own organization rather than in the farm system of another major league club.

"This spring we'll be able to look for the complete player. In the past we've been satisfied with one whose specialty was either hitting or fielding. Now it's time to find men who can do the whole job."

The Beatles will be replaced by battles in the Angels' camp. They will be supplied by another quartet —four youths with the potential of the complete player.

• • • •

DICK SIMPSON, ED KIRKPATRICK, Bill Kelso and Bobby Knoop, who average in age 21 years and whose total major league experience is 43 games (37 by Kirkpatrick), promise to be the spring's headline makers.

Simpson, blessed with immense speed, and Kirkpatrick will battle for Leon Wagner's left field vacancy. Kelso, a $25,000 draft steal from the Dodgers, is the sleeper pick to win a spot on the Angels' 11-man pitching staff.

Knoop, as in cop, was drafted from Hawaii and is sending Billy Moran to third base in the spring's biggest experiment. Rigney, however, warned:

"I see Moran becoming another Jim Gilliam. Each spring there will be someone waiting to take his job but by October Moran will have played his 140 games." (Moran requested and received permission to report with the batterymen.)

• • • •

RIGNEY AND PITCHING COACH Marv Grissom will waste little time this week beginning the search for a fifth starting hurler. Kelso, Barry Latman, Aburey Gatewood, Fred Newman, Bob Lee, Don Lee and Mike Lee are among the applicants.

"Pitching-wise," explained Rigney, "our biggest concern is Ken McBride. He won only one of his last 13 starts, a fair indication that we better give him a full four days' rest from the very start."

Gene Autry and Bob Reynolds, whose baseball interests DID MAKE MONEY last season, returned the dividends to the players and thus it will be a satisfied, no-holdout squad which seeks to regain the spirit and dash of the third-place 1962 club.

It's off to an amazing start. Bo Belinsky reported two days early.

ANGEL ANGLES: Besides Moran, Jim Fregosi will also report with the early-birds. . . . Joe Adcock has been given permission to report one week late in order to clear up personal business. . . . Hot 66 by Cupit at Tucson

TUCSON (UPI) — Dimple-chinned Jacky Cupit went five under par on the last five holes Saturday to shoot a 66 and take the third-round lead of the Tucson open golf tournament with a 54-hole score of 203 — 13 under-par for the distance.

The stocky Texan, now playing out of Corona, Calif., moved into a three-shot lead over Tommy Aaron who had a 206 total.

Friday's co-leaders, Bruce Devlin of Australia and Tex Baxter, were tied at 207 with four rookies George Archer of San Francisco and Chuck Courtney of San Diego.

CUPIT, MOVING along one under par after 13 holes, finally caught on fire on the 14th to shoot five consecutive threes, including one eagle.

Cupit's wild finish in the brilliant sun at the 49er Country Club overshadowed a course record round of 64 set by Al Johnston of Montreal, Canada. Johnston had nines of 32-32 and now is tied at 210 with Al Geiberger and Joe Taylor.

Johnston hit 17 greens and had nine birdies against a single bogey. He chipped into the cup from 40 feet for one bird and had other birdie putts from 20, 15 and 10 feet among others.

Ortiz Gains TKO Over Elorde

MANILA (AP)—Carlos Ortiz of New York retained his world lightweight championship Saturday night on a 14th round technical knockout over Flash Elorde of Manila.

Referee James Wilson of Los Angeles raised Ortiz's hand in victory at 1:44 of the 14th round after the Puerto Rican-born champion had battered Elorde with several hard lefts and rights against the ropes.

The decision came as a surprise to the crowd of 60,000 at the outdoor Rizal football stadium.

But Wilson said: "If I had let it go on it would have been a knockout."

There were no knockdowns. Each man weighed 135 pounds, the lightweight limit.

Until the 14th, the fight seemed very close. The American champion was scoring well with swinging left jabs and powerful rights to the body.

But the Filipino challenger, who holds the world junior lightweight title, was also piling up points with deft counter-punching and a slashing in and out attack.

Ortiz was cut over the right eye in the second round and the wound was opened several times later in the fight.

A shocked silence pervaded the stadium after the decision was announced. There were no boos, however.

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—T. A. Grissom's T. Bird galloped to an easy victory in the $12,900 Pelleteri Handicap at the New Orleans Fair Grounds.

BOWIE, Md. (AP) — Bonny Johnny, finding an opening between the early leaders on the final turn, rushed to a head victory over Kings Song Saturday in the $20,000-added Southern Maryland Handicap at Bowie Race Course.

Richard S. Reynolds Jr.'s colt paid $5.40, $3.60 and $2.40, running the seven furlongs with Danny French aboard in 1:24 3/5. The time was the fastest for the distance at the Bowie meeting so far.

Poly Eyes CIF Title in Track

Poly High's track team has lost only one dual meet in Moore League history, and that is exactly one more than anybody expects the Rabbits to lose this year—in league or out of it.

Coach Lee Forman is bubbling over his talented spikers and is the first to admit that, with normal progress and barring injuries, "we will have a good chance for the CIF title."

His optimism is based on two 9.9 sprinters, three 22 flat runners, one 50.9 quarter-miler, two 1:57.6 half-milers, a 14.2 and 19.0 hurdler, one 24-foot and two 23-foot long jumpers, 6-2 and 6-3 high jumpers and a potentially super relay team.

* * * *

IF THE RABBITS can show steady improvement on these marks, they will indeed be the team to beat in the CIF.

Decathlon champ Earl McCullough will be gunning to crack 14 and 19 seconds in the hurdles and already has cleared 6-2 in the high jump and 22-9 in the long jump.

CIF champ Marv Motley is back in the long jump (24-3½) and Manuel Murrell (23-7½) could hit the 24-foot mark. Fred Muench is a 9.9 and 21.3 sprinter, Larry Freeman a 6-3 high jumper and Al Nichols a 1:57.5 half-miler. Rich Anderson has done 1:57.6.

All Moore League schools figure to be improved, thus precipitating a wide-open battle for second place.

* * * *

OTHER TOP individuals include high jumpers Pat Finley (6-3½) and Jim Keck (6-2), pole vaulter Don Blair (12-10), shotputter Hal Olmstead (54-0), miler Chuck Webb (4:28.2), half-milers Rob Russell (1:59.5) and Ralph Spicer (1:59.5), quarter-miler Jim Buck (50.7) and sprinter Steve Harvey (10.0, 21.7). CIF Swimming Relays at Poly on Tuesday

Poly High will host the prelims of the CIF swimming relays Tuesday, starting at 2:30 p.m. Fifteen schools will compete in this, one of four sectional meets.

Top qualifiers, based on time, will go to the finals at El Segundo Friday. Teams competing at Poly are:

Downey, Chadwick, Poly, Wilson, Jordan, Millikan, Lakewood, Lynwood, Montebello, Norwalk, Palos Verde, Pioneer, Santa Fe, Victor Valley and Western.

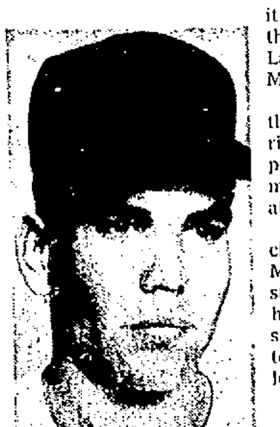

NCAA, Preps Rap Friday TV by NFL

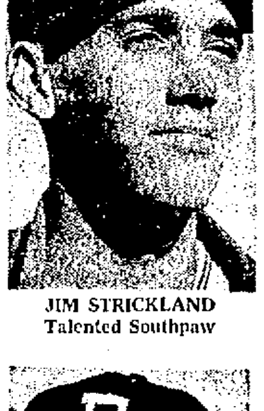

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association went on record Saturday against television of professional football games on Friday nights during the 1964 season.

The National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations also urged a coordinated, vigorous protest by the group's 20,111 members.

The NCAA sent a telegram to all members of the Judiciary Committee of the U.S. Senate to check whether the intention of the National Football League to televise five or six Friday night games was a violation of the Federal Antitrust Law passed in 1961.

Millikan Picked to Win Tough Moore Baseball

By DOUG IVES

Gazing deep into our crystal (base) ball, we find that high school teams here will be better than ever, and that a new champion looms on the horizon.

Admittedly, the message we're receiving is fuzzy, but it says that Millikan will, by the narrowest of margins, nip Lakewood and Poly for the Moore League title.

We also see a note attached that urges us to reserve the right of re-appraisal after the practice season — or even at mid-season if our early evaluation becomes embarrasing.

The hazard of picking a champion in the always-close Moore League race nothwithstanding, Millikan appears to have the pitching and hitting strength, plus the experience, to make it a winner over the long, 15-game season.

* * * *

COACH BOB MYERS has 10 lettermen, an outstanding pitcher in Mike Mantsch, two all-city returnees in Jay Bartley and Steve Lewelling and experience at every position except shortstop.

Pitching depth always is important in the Moore League, and the Rams have this in veterans Denny Moulton and Jeff Davis. And there are other hurling candidates that show promise, also.

If Millikan does win it all, it would end four consecutive years of frustration which has seen the Rams finish in third place, one notch from gaining a CIF playoff berth.

Lakewood and Poly should be nipping at the Rams' heels, however; Wilson could do the same if its pitching comes through; Jordan should be improved, but not to the point where it's a title contender; and Downey faces a rebuilding year.

* * * *

DEFENDING league and CIF champion Poly has a sensational trio returning in shortstop Ike McCraw, outfielder Oscar Brown and pitcher Bob Wiswell, but no proven talent after that.

The nucleus is there to make the Hares a title threat, however McCraw was Player of the Year in 1963, Brown was an all-CIF first teamer (as was McCraw) and Wiswell didn't lose a game (9-0).

Lakewood boasts eight lettermen and experience at every position except one. This includes talented pitcher Jim Strickland, power-hitting catcher Bob Schellenberg and .309-hitter Rod Gaspar.

Wilson can match anybody in hitting, with John McKee, Randy Norton and Pat Cashman, among others, leading the way, but it is pitching that probably will decide the Bruins' fate.

* * * *

JORDAN finished last in 1963, but nine lettermen should get the Panthers out of the doldrums. Downey, last year's runner-up, is in dire straits, having graduated every starter.

Long Beach's Catholic League representative, St. Anthony, figures to be a title threat with five lettermen, including hard-throwing veteran hurler Mike Small.

On an individual basis, pitchers Wiswell, Strickland, Mantsch and Small should give Long Beach prepsters plenty of notoriety. All four are being bird-dogged by major league scouts.

Millikan's Bartley and Poly's Brown finished 1-2 in the Moore batting race, and vice-versa on the full season. McCraw, McKee and Lewelling also were consistently good hitters last year.

* * * *

THERE WILL BE two new coaches — Paul Pettit at Jordan and Steve Hartman at St. Anthony to join Myers, Bill Crutchfield at Wilson, Ardie Boyd at Lakewood, John Herbold at Poly and Phil Jones at Downey.

All clubs either scrimmage or start their practice slates this week. Here's a rundown on each team, listing lettermen, other varsity candidates and 1963 batting and pitching marks:

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

Railroad Canyon Opens This Month

Don Martin, operator of Railroad Canyon Lake, announces that fishing will start Feb. 29, and that the lake has a good population of bass, crappie, bluegill and catfish.

This is the lake which Metropolitan Water District water is flowing on its way to Lake Elsinore, which will be opened to boaters sometime in April. Electronic fish screens are keeping straying fish from going down stream to Elsinore, so Martin says there is no problem in that field.

Fishing permits will be one dollar per day per person. There are 75 boats available at three dollars a day and a few motors at five dollars a day. Launching fee for a private boat is two dollars, but no motors larger than 10 horsepower will be allowed.

There is a modern trailer park and a campground, situated next to a store, bait, tackle, gasoline and ice.

Railroad Canyon Lake is 28 miles southeast of Corona and five miles above the town of Elsinore.

The Martins are taking reservations for the opening weekend and other days beyond that. Write Railroad Canyon Lake Resort, Route 1, Box 61, Romoland, Calif. The telephone number is Elsinore 674-2725.

LONG BEACH CASTING CLUB'S midwinter tournament goes into its second and final day this morning with a Cyril Ball-John Frank breakfast at 7:30 a. m. The dry fly for accuracy begins at 9 a. m., to be followed by skish fly and wet fly for accuracy. The two bait accuracy events and the skish spinning and bait accuracy will wind up the tournament in the afternoon.

The tournament started Saturday with the distance events.

If you want to brush up on your casting or see how it's done by experts, go to the pool in Recreation Park on Federation Drive just E. 7th Street. There is no charge and visitors are welcomed.

Pacific Landing did some goodwill work on St. Valentine's Day (Friday) by letting sweethearts and wives ride free with their men on fishing trips to offshore banks and to Catalina Island.

It's later than you think; San Diego is starting its search for a Yellowtail Derby queen. The 18th annual derby starts March 31. The contestants for queen must be 17 or older and the winner will be selected March 5 at the San Diego Armed Services YMCA.

The Long Beach Yacht Club Anglers have a second meeting on Wednesday night, Feb. 19, and chairman Don Callan promises some surprises for his newest of fishing clubs in Southern California.

BILL BUCKNAM, KLAMATH RIVER expert, reports that steelhead were running like crazy in the Scott River and in the Klamath above and below the Scott up through Feb. 12.

Bill says that the fish were fat and of good size. Mixed in the runs were numerous silver salmon.

However, anglers must take into consideration that weather conditions up north could change the situation overnight. That is one of the reasons why I often hesitate to write about salmon and steelhead. If you have contacts in the north, telephone just before you plan to leave and watch the weather forecasts.

Bill writes that a guide service for the Klamath is being developed. Dick Sturgill, of Rogue River fame, has been licensed for the Klamath, Jim Roads, at Happy Camp, and Al Kutzkey, at Hornbrook, are doing excellent jobs in drift-fishing.

Sturgill will guide at Bigfoot Ranch Lodge, which is Putnam's territory.

Bill also writes that the Siskiyou County Board of Supervisors is considering the possibility of constructing an air strip near Bigfoot which would be adequate for small planes.

Nobody gave much of a thought to this part of the Klamath until Iron Gate Dam was completed. That regulated the water fluctuations and made it possible to float-fish that part of the river for the first time.

REVIEWING NEW OUTDOOR BOOKS, we find that Dover Publications, Inc., 180 Varick St., New York, 14, N. Y., has put three paperbacks (all reissues) on the market. One is "Our Small Native Animals: Their Habits and Care," which refutes many fallacies about snakes. The author is Robert Snedigar, curator of reptiles, etc., at Chicago Zoological Park.

Another is William (Cap'n Bill) Gould Vinal's "Nature Recreation: Group Guidance for the Out-of-Doors." It's good reading. The third is Ernest Thompson Seton's "Two Little Savages," an exciting adventure story of two boys who built a teepee in the woods and lived in it for a month.

J. Lowell Pratt & Co., 15 E. 48th St., New York 17, N. Y., announces the publication of four paperbacks in an entirely new series, Compact Outdoorsman's Library, under the general editorship of Ray Ovington.

The books are "The Compact Book of Hunting," edited by Jim Rikhoff, who tells when and where to hunt in America.

"The Compact Book of Boating," edited by Jack Seville, and it is a book that has a wealth of boating information;

"The Compact Book of Photography," edited by Ray Ovington, is valuable to cameramen, professional or otherwise, and

"The Sompact Book of Fresh-Water Fishing," edited by Bob Zwirz, and there are some wonderful chapters in it.

NEW EXPERIENCE FOR SENIOR SAM SNEAD

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—Sam Snead, who has won more than 100 golf tournaments in his long career as a golf professional, is due for a new experience this week.

SNEAD

The balding belter from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. and Boca Raton, Fla. will make his debut in a tournament where many of his 419 rivals can call him son without sounding patronizing.

It is the 25th PGA Seniors Championship—the big one for pros 50 and older—to be played Thursday through Sunday at the new PGA National Golf Club at Palm Beach Gardens, Fla. Snead became eligible in May, 1962, but didn't enter last year's tournament.

At least two in the entry list aren't likely to be worried about Snead's first appearance. They are Jimmy Demaret, who has faced Sam in more than one head-to-head encounter, and tall John Barnum of Belmont, Mich., who beat Snead recently in the PGA National Golf Club Championship on the same course.

The winner of the $30,000 tournament will receive $2,500 top money, the Teacher Trophy and an expense-paid trip to Great Britain to play the British senior pro champion for the international senior title.

Foyt Easy Victor in Challenge Cup

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A. J. Foyt drove to one of the easiest victories of his auto racing career when he took the 250-mile American Challenge Cup by more than three laps Saturday.

It was like a Sunday spin for 28-year-old Foyt of Houston, Tex., in his Chevrolet-powered Scarab-Mecom after Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif., went out at the halfway point because of mechanical trouble in his Lotus Ford.

Foyt averaged 106.190 miles per hour for 66 laps around a 3.81-mile course. He earned $5,500.

* * * *

ABLE TO slack off after Gurney left, Foyt went the distance without a pit stop.

"It got a little lonely out there," he joked.

Until Gurney went out, he and Foyt alternated the lead 16 times officially and dozens more times as they gave the crowd, of 8,000 thrill after thrill with their jockeying around hairpin turns of the infield.

These two were the class of the race in their low slung open cockpit sports type cars — Foyt's a distinctive blue and Gurney's a bright red.

1, A. J. Foyt, Houston, Scarab, 104.19; 2, Glenn (Fireball) Roberts, Daytona Beach, Ford Fairlane Sprint; 3, Ed Hugus, Pittsburgh, Lotus 23; 4, Charles Kurtz, Clearfield, Pa., Porsche RS-61; 5, Robert Hagestad, Denver, Porsche Super; 6, William S. 150-Plus Vie at Strip in Drag Main

Week-days, officer Gary Cagle, 30, is in charge of finger-printing in the Vernon Police Department but, today, weekend drag racer Cagle will tool the world's fastest and quickest fuel roadster in the big roadster-coupe meet at Lions Drag Strip.

The Chrysler-powered Cagle-Newhouse Special not only claims the world mark (8.50 sec. elapsed time at 184.42 m.p.h.) but holds the roadster records on nine western strips and state records on four—California, Utah, Nevada and Idaho.

Cagle's home-built speedster is a favorite to take class honors, but more than 150 cars, including a score of fuel dragsters will go in a dozen categories.

Gates at the 223rd St. raceway will open at 9 a.m. with elimination from 1:30 to 5:30 p.m., said C. J. Hart, director.

Foes of Oil Depletion Tax Law Gain

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The latest Senate skirmish over oil's controversial 27½ per cent depletion tax allowance ended with a net gain of two votes for those opposing the 38-year-old measure.

The new 57-35 vote upholding the allowance is a bit deceiving when compared with the 50-23 vote cast during the crucial Senate test in 1962.

Most of the gains made by both sides came from votes cast by holdover Senators who were absent or did not vote in 1962 even though their positions on the matter were well known at the time.

Four Senators switched positions last week without changing the overall Senate lineup in that two switched from each side.

* * * *

THE ONLY significant change resulting from the new vote involved the 13 Senators who were casting their first votes on the controversy.

The new Senators were split, 7-6, in favor of retaining the full 27½ per cent allowance but the net result of the 13 votes was a two-vote gain for the opposition.

These same 13 seats had been split, 9-4, two years ago when the overall Senate lineup was 66-34.

* * * *

THESE CHANGES, plus the known sentiments of the eight Senators who did not vote last week, reduced full depletion's overall edge to 64-36.

Even in defeat, however, Senator Paul Douglas, D-Ill., saw his plan for a graduated reduction to 15 per cent poll a record 35 votes.

In previous sessions, the Douglas plan had polled 31 votes in 1958, 21 in 1959, 30 in 1960, and 23 in 1962.

The four who switched positions between 1962 and 1964 were Senators Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., Hugh Scott, R-Pa., Hiram L. Fong, R-Hawaii, and Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass.

McCarthy and Scott voted for the full 27½ per cent after having voted with Douglas two years ago. Fong and Saltonstall switched to the graduated reduction plan after having voted against Douglas in 1962.

* * * *

THE FOUR NEW Senators who added strength to the Douglas camp were Democrats who had succeeded Republicans — Senators Daniel B. Brewster, D-Md., Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., George S. McGovern, D-S.D., and Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn.

The two new members who added to full depletion's strength were Senators Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, and Herbert S. Walters, D-Tenn.

The Douglas amendment would have permitted the full 27½ per cent for gross incomes below $1 million but would have made graduated reductions down to 15 per cent for gross incomes in excess of $5 million.

Depletion tax allowances are available to more than 100 minerals and metals but only oil and gas are permitted the maximum 27½ per cent. In any case, however, the allowance cannot exceed 50 per cent of net income.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Corporate Financing Plan of AT&T a Record

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The biggest corporate financing program in U.S. history took the business spotlight last week.

It was undertaken by American Telephone and Telegraph Co., which turned to its family of 2.25 million stockholders to raise $1,225,000,000.

The company offered its shareholders the opportunity of purchasing 12,250,000 shares at $100 each. This was $46 below the market price on the day the offer was made.

Each shareholder received the right to purchase one new share for each 20 held.

* * * *

TRADING IN the rights—20 are needed to purchase one share — began on the New York Stock Exchange Wednesday with 3,375,000 changing hands.

American Telephone's common stock surged to a new all-time high.

It helped the general stock market, as measured by the averages, reach a new historic peak.

The magnitude of AT&T's money raising undertaking is illustrated by that fact that all common stock financing in 1962 totaled $1.3 billion.

AT&T will use the proceeds of its stock offer to help finance a $3.25 billion 1964 growth and modernization program for its telephone system.

Also in the communications field, the Communications Satellite Corp. reported that six companies had answered its request to submit proposals for designing an international commercial satellite.

* * * *

AT&T AND Radio Corp. of America submitted a joint proposal. Thompson Ramo Woolridge, Inc.'s proposal included International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. as principal subcontractor. Individual proposals were submitted by Hughes Aircraft Co. and Ford Motor Co.'s Philco Corp. subsidiary.

Business and individuals were encouraged by the progress being made toward enactment of the income tax reduction legislation.

Different versions of the bill have been passed by the House and Senate, and conferees from both bodies are trying to reconcile differences.

House spokesman agreed to go along with the Senate on reducing the tax withholding from the present 18 per cent to 14 per cent in one step, quickly after action is completed on the bill.

* * * *

THE ADMINISTRATION says this would pump about $800 million into the economy this year and go a long ways toward keeping business on the upturn.

The Department of Commerce reported that the U.S. balance of payments improved further in the fourth quarter of 1963. The quarterly deficit was the smallest in years.

For the year as a whole the United States had a deficit of $3.02 billion. This included an especially high deficit in the first half and a sharp reduction in the second half.

In the second half, the deficit was at an annual rate of $1.6 billion, the lowest since the balance of payments began to be a serious problem in 1958.

* * * *

REASONS GIVEN by the Commerce Department for the improvement were reduced net purchases of foreign securities and a spurt in exports, particularly agricultural products to both Communist and non-Communist countries.

The Commerce Department also reported that inventories rose only slightly in December from November and that total business sales climbed to a record.

Theologian Dies

ROME (UPI)—Father Reginald Garrigou-Lagrange, a leading Catholic theologian, died Saturday at the age of 83. The Dominican prelate had been a teacher of sacred theology at the St. Thomas Acquinas Pontifical University here for more than 50 years.

GLEASON--McQUEEN

Poles Apart but Screen Buddies

CHRIS NOEL provides the love interest for Steve McQueen in "Soldier in the Rain."

HOLLYWOOD — Off-the-screen, Steve McQueen and Jackie Gleason don't have too much in common. But they're teamed as buddies in Allied Artists' "Soldier in the Rain."

The first and obvious difference — the story goes—is that after meeting McQueen, Gleason walked into Producer Black Edwards' office and as though personally affronted gasped huskily:

"McQueen doesn't drink!"

* * * *

McQueen tipples grape juice, eats health foods, is tanned, lithe, strong, and cat-quick.

Gleason has the feeding habits of a Diamond Jim Brady. He never bends over unless there's a pool table under him, and hasn't seen his toes while supported by his feet in years.

McQueen was a Missouri farm boy. He has been an oil driller, a logger, a Marine tank driver-mechanic with "the only souped-up job in the outfit," and a professional racing driver. Next to his wife and two children, his great loves are fast cars and motorcycles.

JACKIE GLEASON (L), STEVE McQUEEN
They Don't See Eye to Eye Off the Job

GLEASON, Brooklyn's child, has been a carnival barker, a medicine-show spieler, and a burlesque and night-club comic. Self-educated, he reads everything, writes scripts and music, conducts orchestras and paints for a hobby.

Gleason laughs at the "method" cult of acting. McQueen sat at the feet of its high priest, Lee Strasberg, of the famed Actors' Studio.

CHANGED HER LIFE

He Razzed Her, She Fell for Him

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Movie actor George Peppard changed Elizabeth Ashley's whole life when he said to her, "Lady, you're not a bad-looking girl . . . for a boy."

"It was last June, the second day of 'The Carpetbaggers,' when he dropped that one," Liz told me a few nights ago.

"He was right. It was the first time I'd ever thought about it and I gave it a really serious think. I was dressing severely. I was looking like a charming 14-year-old boy.

ASHLEY

I was pretending I have no bosom. I HAVE a bosom! I bought a bikini. Now I love being a woman."

Besides falling in love with Peppard after he'd said that, Liz became such a triumph in "Barefoot in the Park," and attracted such attention for her femininity that . . . but listen to her via my tape recorder.

* * * *

"IT'S REALLY a bit much to have people writing about me like I'm a homewrecker or going to replace Elizabeth Taylor as a sex symbol," she said with almost a giggle.

"There are times when you really believe you are the most devastating creature ever let loose in civilization, but you wake up next morning and look in the mirror and say, 'You know, I don't think I'm going to give Sophia Loren one minute's worry.'"

Q: Do people still say you look like Audrey Hepburn?

A: People will ALWAYS say I look like Audrey Hepburn. Because we both wear our eyes on a slant and because I concealed my bosom since the fashion magazines loved me for it.

Q: You were living some kind of pose then?

* * * *

A: I DEVELOPED about 10 personalities I could do off the cuff. I lived my life like I was written by Hemingway or Truman Capote, and, God forbid, I think there were times James Baldwin wrote me. And it never came to me what I was doing until George Peppard told me that I wasn't a bad looking girl if I just acted like it.

Q: You didn't really break up his home?

A: No! I had been separated from my husband two months and he'd been separated for a year before we ever laid eyes on each other.

Q: Do you know if or when you're going to get married?

A: No. I do know I'm terribly happy. I'm very sort of faithful. It's miserable, though, with George's work out in Hollywood, and mine here, and us only seeing each other every few weeks.

* * * *

Q: DO YOU consider yourself an "overnight success"?

A: NO! You could give them a big hit when people say that! I'd worked for four years, I was in a Broadway flop, "The Highest Tree," and "Roman Candle," also a bomb, and off Broadway, besides waiting tables and checking hats from one end of Greenwich Village to the other.

Q: What'll you do next?

A: I must do a serious play. I must stick my neck out. I must do something I don't know whether I can do. I've got to stretch now. I've got to really stretch.

FAMILY-SIZE HIT AT MAGNOLIA

Comedy 'Tailored' to Talbot

By SAMUEL A. BOYEA

A fine cast, headed by Lyle Talbot, made a family-size hit of Henry and Phoebe Ephron's "Take Her, She's Mine" at the Magnolia capacity audience opening Friday night.

A bitter-sweet tale of a Number One daughter going away to college, this two-act comedy neatly fits the wholesome, teeveespun talent of Talbot. Using his family and anyone who strays into his domain as "straightmen" or perfect foils, Talbot as the over-ambitious father, Frank Michaelson, literally Jack-Bennys his way through the vehicle. The left-shoulder shrug, the limp wrist and the bland narration are all there.

And properly so.

* * * *

"TAKE HER, She's Mine" is a personality rather than a character comedy. Clever surface playing gives zest to its abundance of clever lines. But in-depth playing would have exposed its rather loose construction and the tendency of the authors—obviously movie writers—to depend on the curious camera eye rather than on the introspective treatment more akin to the stage.

But playwrights Ephrons were not treating the abrasive passions of our times, so why quibble?

When Sandra Church (Molly) leaves her Los Angeles home for a women's college with a good men's location—Hawthorne (surrounded by Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth, and Princeton)—we expect the usual heartaches of parents left behind and of a daughter who must run the traditional gauntlet of "growing away" from home. Sandra Church, a young actress with the fresh, Ivy League look, is just right for the part as she bounces her way through disarmament, first weekends, and "virginity retained." She is a good, young actress, not given to nuances, but such achievements come with more experience.

As her ever-understanding mother hoping for Sandra's big catch of a Harvard husband, Kathy Davis is her usual competent self in a part which does not begin to test her major talents. Lana Biggs (Liz Michaelson), as the neglected younger sister, is still a little blase for one so young, but continues to grow as a young actress. If she would only emotionalize more and intellectualize less!

* * * *

THE PLAY abounds in clever "bit" parts. Our old friend, John McMillen, is devastatingly funny as the poet-teacher, Mr. Hibbets, interpreting for his class the poetry of a Dylan Thomas-like Liam McTigue who believes in "life, death and an installment due." Ivan Bonar is fine as the infuriated father of the "homeseed" boy. (Emmett (Sean Morgan) who tries to match the romantic ardour of Molly's Ivy League dates by "dating" under the name of Mr. and Mrs. John Keats in a Beverly Hills hotel. Morgan plays his difficult part with verve.

But most sustained supporting role is turned in by tall Catherine Crews as Sarah, the "avant-garde" girl who tells the ardent freshmen: Be careful, or you'll knock out my contact lenses. She is a natural "needling" comedienne.

Pat Brown, using flashbacks, quick blackouts and good technical men in Perry Barrett (sound) and Jack Cuppock (lights), keeps things moving swiftly—a great need in a rather contrived second act which almost succumbs to one sequence dangerously called "The Sleeping Pill."

Toughest Rights Bill Faces Senate Row

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
United Press International

The House passed the toughest civil-rights bill in American history last week after a North-South fight that was remarkably bloodless.

The overwhelming 290 to 130 bipartisan vote shifted the issue to the Senate where a wall of Southern Democratic resistance could dam it up and stop the wheels of Congress.

The measure contains most of the provisions Negroes and other staunch civil rights advocates long have sought —fair employment opportunities, equal access to hotels, restaurants and other public accommodations, federal protection of voting rights, power for the Department of Justice to start desegregation suits, etc.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON hailed it as "an historic step in the cause of human dignity." He hoped the same spirit of bipartisanship would prevail in the Senate. But the Senate has different ground rules.

There the powerful Southern bloc has the privilege of unlimited debate. The members already have formed relay teams to talk the bill into eternity. This puts it up to the Senate leadership to let them talk or gag them with a distasteful cloture rule.

The House bill covers nearly all the rights proposals made by the late President John F. Kennedy and endorsed by President Johnson. It is certain to be a pivotal issue in the general election campaign and could be decisive in whether the South turns its back on Johnson.

The President observed Lincoln's birthday by placing a wreath in Lincoln Memorial and urging all Americans to fulfill the promise and unfinished work of the great emancipator. This, he said, is "to assure a fair chance and equal opportunity for all men."

THE RUSSIAN HIERARCHY got a severe jolt when it was disclosed belatedly that Yuri I. Nosenko, secret police agent with the Soviet disarmament delegation at Geneva, had defected to the United States.

The 36-year-old Nosenko is believed to possess top secret data on Soviet nuclear weapons, defense plans and disarmament strategy. He was said to have used this information in bargaining for political asylum.

Dispatches from Moscow said Soviet officials had accused the United States of kidnaping Nosenko. Earlier they had charged Swiss authorities with conniving with foreign agents to engineer Nosenko's disappearance and had demanded his return. Swiss officials replied with angry denials and a warning about diplomatic relations.

Still later Soviet authorities asked the State Department for permission to interview the young defector and also for information on how he came into U. S. hands. The department said Nosenko was "agreeable" to an interview and that it would take place "somewhere in the United States at an early date." American officials will be present. This is a normal practice.

THE DEPARTMENT discounted Moscow reports that the Kremlin would recall its disarmament delegation if Nosenko was not surrendered. Nosenko vanished from his Geneva hotel Feb. 4. The department said he had asked for sanctuary before that date. He is married and has two children.

President Johnson slapped at "bigots, alarmists bellyachers and critics" of his foreign and domestic policies in two addresses, the first to Internal Revenue field officers in Washington, the second at the 200th birthday anniversary of St. Louis.

He conceded some errors at ome and abroad but said he had seen times when "the skies were grayer."

"Regardless of what you hear and regardless of what some of the bellyachers say," he declared in his Washington speech, "we are a much beloved people throughout the world." He added that foreign policy was not a one-way street.

IN ST. LOUIS he denounced "twisted arguments that would damage the good name of our country" and added that Americans can be confident that those who distort the truth to alarm the people will not fulfill their ambition."

Much of his criticism was aimed at Republican president aspirants and members of Congress who blasted his administration in Lincoln Day speeches from coast to coast.

On another political front, University of Illinois classicist Revilo P. Oliver, a John Birch Society leader, wrote in a Birch publication that Americans would learn to "curse" the late President Kennedy. He said Kennedy was assassinated because "he fell behind the Communist time-table for taking over the U.S." Robert W. Welch, founder of the society, praised the article as "a superb commentary."

On other news fronts the President took steps to put the garrison on the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, on a strict military basis. All dependents—about 3,000—will be brought home gradually. Several thousand Cuban workers on the base also are being fired.

The action followed Communist Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's order cutting off the base's water supply in reprisal for the seizure of four Cuban boats illegally fishing in U.S. waters.

The Navy is ferrying in ample water supplies and no longer will rely on the Cuban source. This deprives Castro of sorely needed dollars as well as dismissal of the Cuban workers.

A UPI dispatch from New York said Organization of American States investigators had found Cuba guilty on four counts of aggression against Venezuela, confirming charges made by Venezuelan President Betancourt.

British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home and the President wound up two days of talks in Washington with a communique which pointedly omitted mention of British and other allied trade with Castro. Though Johnson is trying to topple Castro with an economic blockade, Britain and France persist in selling Cuba buses and trucks to revive its crippled transport system.

JOHNSON STRESSED to Home the subversive and disruptive influence of the Castro regime throughout Latin America. The Prime Minister told a press conference before departing for London that Britain must trade to survive. Hence, he said, it not only is prepared to increase its trade with Castro but will extend long-term credits to Russia, also counter to U.S. policy.

Home said his government believes "comfortable" Communists are less dangerous than lean Communists. But he said Castro would not get British arms, economic aid, or loans. "We don't believe in boycotts. We don't discriminate in our trade according to political creed," he said.

Aside from this, the Johnson-Home talks apparently were harmonious and dealt extensively with world trouble spots and how to attain peace.

The President sent Congress a special message calling once again for medical care for the aged, financed through Social Security. "There is no need or room for second class health services," he said. Fees of personal physicians would not be covered. The bill is dammed up by lack of a few votes in the House Ways and Means Committee.

* * * *

JOHNSON ALSO ordered government contractors to end hiring discrimination because of age except when qualifications fall short or rigid retirement plans ban such work. He said "older workers are an indispensable source of productivity and experience which our nation can ill afford to lose."

Senate and House agents working out a compromise $11.6 billion tax-cut bill came to quick agreement on lowering the withholding tax rate to 14 percent. This could mean more take-home pay for most Americans by March 1 if the bill is passed, as planned, late this month.

Johnson continued pushing his war on poverty and revealed that R. Sargent Shriver, head of the Peace Corps and also in charge of the anti-poverty campaign, will attend future cabinet meetings. Shriver's stature has been increasing coincident with reports the President may choose him as his running mate in the presidential election.

NATIONALIST CHINA broke diplomatic relations with France—apparently under French pressure—after President Charles de Gaulle extended diplomatic recognition to Red China. President Johnson is bitterly opposed to DeGaulle's action, fearing it could lead to the spread of Communist influence in East Asia and possibly Africa. De Gaulle would "neutralize" the whole East Asian area where France once wielded great influence.

Anglo-American efforts to end bloody Greek-Turkish civil strife on the island of Cyprus by sending in a peace force, collapsed. Cyprus President Archbishop Makarios said he would seek United Nations Security Council action. This would give Russia a foothold in the dispute—exactly what the U.S. and Britain have been trying to avoid.

At Dallas, Tex., a judge directed that the trial of Jack Ruby, night club entrepreneur who shot and killed Lee Harvey Oswald, the alleged assassin of President Kennedy, be held in Dallas. The defense and prosecution had argued over whether an impartial jury could be chosen in Dallas, site of the assassination last Nov. 22. Oswald's mother testified here in Washington last week before the presidential commission investigating the assassination. She said she believed her son was innocent.

Brazil Buys Belgium Arms

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Brazil army officials were reported Saturday to have contracted for the purchase of $50 million worth of Belgian armaments.

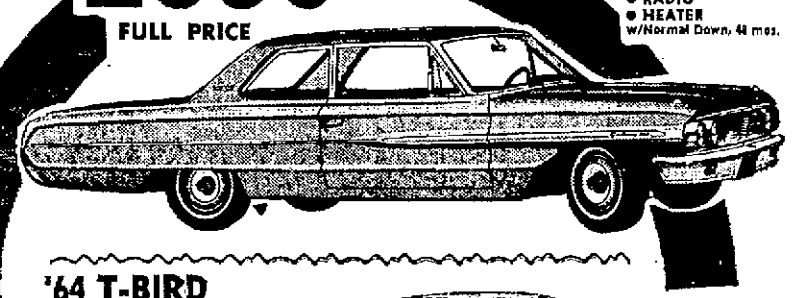

Rio de Janeiro's independent newspaper Jornal do Brasil said that newsmen were excluded from the contract signing ceremony by an army colonel who said that it was a "secret matter." The first shipment to Brazil, said Jornal, would consist of 50,000 rifles.

DEAR JOHN:
How does one start a letter like this? How does one say she's found happiness beyond her wildest imagination—she's discovered a life so luxurious—so fantastic? Well, honestly John, I've found a place where the apts. have lush carpeting, beautiful furnishings, maid service, original oil paintings—and 6, yes 6 heated POOLS—a tennis court—and a nearby golf course. And John, there are 4 quadrangles—one with Oriental landscaping—another in New England—one in Polynesian . . . and the other in Mediterranean—and what a swing'ng bunch of neighbors who live in the penthouse & garden apts.—So you can understand why I must write this—On 2nd thought, John, why don't you get an apt. here? Rents start at $140 per mo. . . and you'll be close to Douglas, or any place you work. . . It only takes me a few minutes to get home. Oh yes, John, I'm living in the HUNTINGTON GARDEN APTS., on Heil & Bolsa Chica in Huntington Beach, . . . Come see me.
ALWAYS,
MARY

Realtor OF THE Week

BARBARA MOSS

Barbara Moss, well known in Real Estate Circles throughout California and the Nation, has been appointed to serve on the Educational Committee of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, as well as Educational Chairman for 1964, for the Long Beach Board of Realtors. She has lectured in 25 states on Real Estate Board Operations, setting up Multiple Listing Services as far south as Hawaii, and last year was on the California Real Estate Association's State-Wide Seminar talking to over 10,000 in the northern part of Calif. on "Listings—The Lifeblood of a Salesman." She was Executive Director with the Long Beach Board of Realtors for twenty-three years and during that time was appointed manager of the Better Homes Shows held by the Realty Board, where over 100,000 citizens each year viewed programs on homes, appliances, building construction in the years of 1933, 1945, 1948 and 1952. But with all of these far-flung activities she maintains her own offices and specializes in selling Commercial, Residential Exchanges and Business Investments. Even gone as far as handling the development of two subdivisions. Her sales personnel are well trained, because she has sponsored a 60-day IN THE FIELD TRAINING PROGRAM within her sales office.

Her offices are located at 500 E. 4th and she is associated with Harold K. Steele. Their firm is known as Steele & Moss Enterprises, Realtors. She is a member of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers, L. B. Chamber of Commerce, Long Beach Advertising Club. She has two lovely daughters, Karen who will be of voting age this month, and Jarin who is a "song and flag girl" at L. B. City College. All three are natives of California.

You just don't have enough of the proper ingredients to make a Silk Purse out of a Sow's Ear. And you can't say that a used car is exceptionally good just because it has a fresh polish job. You need more ingredients. We call this CONDITION, and all of our Fine used cars have it.

When we receive a trade-in that lacks the proper ingredients, and is a Sow's Ear, we wholesale it to dealers who specialize in Price Merchandise. We urge you to COMPARE our SILK PURSE used cars with Others.

They Love Us in Australia

(Editor's Note—To Americans wearied by attacks in varied spots around the globe, the welcome mat that seems to be out in Australia will come as a pleasant relief. Here is a first-hand report by a Yank who has traveled to Australia enough to know when he's wanted.)

By WILL GRIMSLEY

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—As far as Australians are concerned, there's no such animal as the "Ugly American."

The Yanks, often pictured as puffed up with wealth and power may not win popularity contests in Bangkok and Beirut, Zurich and Zanzibar. But the people love 'em in this broad, developing land of the koalas and kangaroos.

"All you need is an American accent and you get treated like a king," said a paunchy Pitt Street pub keeper as he fanned the foam from a tanker of potent Australian beer. "All the sheilahs start swooning. The blokes shout another round of beer. Before you know it, you're humming 'The Star Spangled Banner'."

Australia is a distant branch of the British Commonwealth, in some respects loyal and deeply rooted in the British traditions, but it's getting to look and act more like a boisterous nephew of Uncle Sam.

WE ARE A LOT closer to America than England —not only in miles but in our culture and habits," a young executive for a large Australian oil firm remarked. "I wouldn't be surprised if some day we wind up as another of your states—what would we be, number fifty-one?"

A talkative taxi driver—and they're all talkative when they find they've got a fair from across the Pacific—put it another way as he nursed his hack down Castlereigh Street in the heart of this bustling metropolis.

"I think we ought to quit singing 'God Save The Queen' and start singing 'God Save Australia'," he said glumly. "Our best friend is the United States, not John Bull."

In fairness, it must be said that this cab driver's viewpoint probably represents a small and disgruntled minority. While most Australians have a strong affinity for America, most of them remain loyal to the Queen.

BUT NOT the hack driver, harboring resentment of incidents in the last big war.

"If the Indonesians or the Communist Chinese sweep down on us, who's going to come to our rescue? Not the Limeys. It'll be the Americans, just as they did the last time.

"Remember the Japanese were almost on our necks, moving in as far as New Guinea. When we asked to bring our boys back from South Africa to help defend the country, Churchill (Prime Minister Winston Churchill) said 'No.' He said if the Japanese swept over Australia, the Allies would come back later and chase them out.

"Well, you know what happened? The Yanks came down and pulled us out of a jam. We'll never forget that."

IN THE BEAUTIFUL Australian capital of Canberra, the so-called city in-between because it lies halfway between the rival Sydney and Melbourne, the American ambassador occupies a red brick colonial home that might have been snatched from old Virginia.

There are other marked American influences. The Australian War Office buildings, block-like structures of stone, are called the "Little Pentagon," although they are square, with four sides instead of five.

Towering over them—and over the entire city, one of the world's newest and fastest growing capitals—is a huge concrete spire stabbing into the air, with an eagle poised on top.

This is a symbol of American-Austrian solidarity, planted there by friends of the two countries.

Residents of Canberra, a city with a mushrooming population which now has reached 70,000, do their banking and shopping in a modern, white stone business section which has been labelled "Little Manhattan."

AMERICAN DOUGHBOYS who were in Australia during World War II would hardly recognize the country today. Coastal cities such as Sydney, Melbourne, Adelaide, Brisbane and Perth have undergone a remarkable face-lifting.

Most of them now look like any modern American city—with first class hotels, skyscrapers poking their domes into the blue heavens, modern department stores and shops.

All of them follow the American influence. The new buildings are structures of glass, stone and steel that might have been transferred from Rockefeller Plaza or Madison Avenue in New York.

The new hotels have modernistic lobbies, all types of services and large cabana-type rooms with television sets, hot coffee spouts and porcelain baths.

With the influx of new Australians from other parts of the world, attractive restaurants offering all types of food—Polynesian, Mexican, French, Mexican and Italian—are popping up in all major cities.

You can buy a hot hamburger and a soft drink on the corner, but in the drug store you still can get only drugs. It's the law. The milk bars and fruit stands still exist—once the only means of a quick snack—but the small lunch spots and subterranean coffee houses are plentiful.

IN ONE WAY, the Australians haven't followed their American cousins.

It's still tough to get a beer or a cocktail after the sun goes down. Melbourne and Adelaide have 6 o'clock closing of all bars, precipitating the famouse "6 o'clock swill." In Sydney, Brisbane and Perth, the lounges stay open longer but 10 o'clock is the limit.

In many places, waiters grab wine glasses off the table promptly at 10 p.m. The only heavy, unrestricted drinking can be done either illegally in little dens where patrons bring their own booze or in night clubs where there are unlimited licenses.

It's in these night clubs that Australians get a little more of American culture in the form of imported crooners, dancers and comedians straight from Hollywood or strip teasers who learned their bumps and grinds on West Madison Street in Chicago and Calumet City, Ill.

The Aussies get their main entertainment by watching U.S. movies or plays transported from Broadway (usually a couple of years late) or by sitting in front of the big magic box known as television.

Here the fare also is strictly American. The favorite shows are the "Untouchables" and "77 Sunset Strip."

"We couldn't get away from the American influence if we wanted to," grunted one Australian. "Every time we flip on the television dial, we get Forty-Second Street or Dodge City, Kansas.

Pacific Coast Club to Remodel, Expand

RECREATION AREA TO BE 'MOVED UP'
Enclosed area here is private beach of Pacific Coast Club on Ocean Boulevard. Expansion plans call for two-story garage in this area, which is south of main building. Deluxe recreation spot will be relocated to roof of garage, which will be on same level as present big indoor pool.

Recreation Spot Will Be on Roof of New Garage

By VERN ANTHONY
Southland Progress Editor

Keyed to a half-million-dollar remodeling and beautification program, a "return to elegance" is programmed for the Pacific Coast Club of Long Beach by its new owners.

The club facility, located at 850 E. Ocean Blvd., previously was operated by the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Sale of the castle-like seaside structure was completed Jan. 10 to Richard Rand of Beverly Hills, representing the Pacific Coast Club, Inc., of which Rand is secretary-treasurer.

THE NEW OWNERS took over the facility Feb. 1, with Wayne Ferrell as president in charge of all operations.

Ferrell, of 1500 Dorothy Lane, Newport Beach, managed the Balboa Bay Club from 1955 to 1960, and recently was manager of the Huntington Harbour Beach Club in Huntington Beach. He was manager of the Wilton Hotel in Long Beach from 1953 to '55, resigning to take the Balboa Bay Club position. He has had wide experience in hotel management.

Major improvement planned for the Pacific Coast Club property, with work scheduled to start shortly, will be building of a two-story 150-car parking garage for members. This will occupy a 120x167 foot area where the club now has its private beach to the south of the main structure.

THE BEACH RECREATION area will be raised to the level of the club's 75x35 foot swimming pool, built to A.A.U. standards, which will become an indoor-outdoor pool by means of sliding glass doors.

The elaborate outdoor recreation area will be on the garage roof and the addition will include some luxury beach apartments. There will be additional elevator service for garage and recreation areas.

Redecoration and refurnishing of the main reception hall, originally called the "grand hall," is scheduled; but there will be no changes in the richly colored vaulted ceiling — reaching upward 50 feet — the floor marble or the massive fireplace.

THE MAIN LOUNGE, with lofty ceiling beams resembling hewn timbers but made of cast cement, will be remodeled into an elegant new dining room and bar. Focal point will be the large fireplace of Italian travertine.

Entrance to the garage will be from Ocean Boulevard over a ramp to be built along the west side of the Coast Club, which occupies a 150 foot frontage on the boulevard. The property runs to a depth of 260 feet toward the ocean.

Ferrell said the interior decor would be brightened considerably, with luxury furnishings, but with retention of the "baronial" atmosphere.

THE CLUB has a fascinating history.

It was organized by a group of prominent Long Beach men — object fellowship and promotion of the city.

In 1922, three clubs had been launched — Pacific Club, Petroleum Commercial Club and the Long Beach Athletic Club. Four years later, these were merged under the name Pacific Coast Club and incorporated. Formal opening was Oct. 26, 1926.

The choice seaside site was purchased for $200,000 and the club on completion represented a $2 million investment.

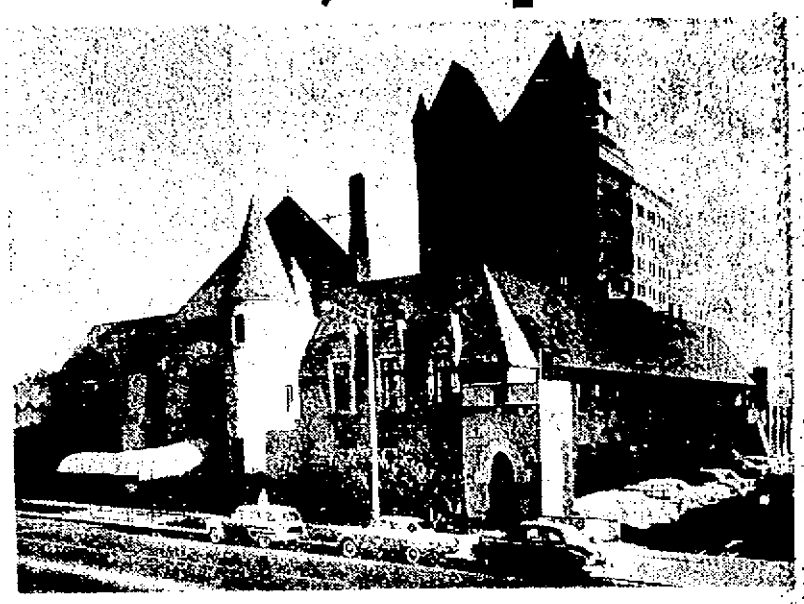

Designed in the old Norman period, the structure has been a skyline landmark over the years, and has been hailed as one of the most beautiful clubhouses in the nation.

THE COAST CLUB has outstanding athletic facilities. In addition to the pool, there are five handball courts, fully equipped gym, complete body conditioning facilities for both men and women, deluxe steam room for men and shower and locker rooms.

The club was consolidated in 1928 with the Los Angeles Athletic Club in the largest transaction of its kind on record. LAAC operated the club until the recent sale.

Although under independent new management, the club will continue reciprocal privileges with LAAC, Ferrell said.

CASTLE-LIKE COAST CLUB
View from Ocean Boulevard shows picturesque Pacific Coast Club structure. New garage will be on far (south) side. Cars will enter and exit from boulevard over ramp to be built along right side of building over present inadequate parking lot.

MODEL SHOWS EXPANSION
Coast Club member DeWitt R. Lee of Walker & Lee Realty (left) and Wayne Ferrell, new president in charge of club operations, discuss model showing where new garage, apartment and recreation areas will be built (at right of tower). Roof will be recreation spot.

PICTURESQUE BEAMS TO STAY
Huge, lofty beams of main lounge will remain dominant when room is remodeled. Decor will be brightened, with new luxury type furnishings.

MAIN LOBBY ALSO WILL BE REDECORATED

Empire to Build at 5th and Pacific

Empire Savings & Loan Association of Van Nuys has acquired a site in downtown Long Beach where it will build its fourth savings and loan office, William Balopole, president, has announced.

Empire Savings will start construction about March 1 of a two-story office at the southeast corner of Pacific Avenue and Fifth Street. It expects to open its new facility about July 1.

Empire Savings, with assets of $85 million, is the principal subsidiary of publicly-owned Empire Financial Corp., Van Nuys. It currently maintains branches on Sunset Boulevard in Los Angeles and in Pacoima. It recently was granted approval to open a branch in Palos Verdes Estates.

* * * *

BALOPOLE POINTED out that the Long Beach office, located in the heart of a primary trading area of nearly 400,000 perons, will provide Empire with offices in three major population centers strategically located throughout Los Angeles County, San Fernando Valley, Los Angeles-Beverly Hills and Long Beach.

The Long Beach facility will consist of a modern two-story, 5,000 square feet building, with safe deposit box facilities. It will feature sit-down service in addition to many other unique Empire extras.

Empire has acquired an adjoining site and convenient free parking will be available.

Appointed to NAREB Committees

Members of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors were among 499 realtors and board executives appointed last week to 1964 committees of the National Association of Real Estate Boards by the new president, Ed Mendenhall of High Point, N.C., following approval by the board of directors.

10,000 Pairs of Shoes Made Daily at Grove

By BOB BAUGHEY

A few days after Orange County's population, with considerable fanfare, passed the million mark last October a team of New England industrial experts arrived in Garden Grove to take charge of the only manufacturing concern of its kind west of the Rockies.

The concern for some time had been engaged in a death struggle with mounting economic losses. Disaster could be just down the street. So the business found a buyer.

The buyer was the Randolph Manufacturing Co. of Randolph, Mass. Thenceforth the Rubber Corporation of California became the Randolph Rubber Company, an autonomous "sister" company of the Massachusetts concern, with the handy executive code name of "Randy West."

* * * *

"RANDY WEST" manufactures only one type of product—rubbersoled canvas footwear.

It is the only one of some 15 rubber shoe companies in the nation that doesn't also manufacture other rubber products, such as automobile tires, raincoats, gloves — and an endless list of rubber-based novelties, you name it.

It is the only factory in the West producing rubber footwear by what the trade calls the "conventional method," i.e., the vulcanizing process. "Production type" of footwear, made largely by machinery, also is manufactured, but represents only about 20 per cent of the output.

* * * *

WHEN THE new owners took over in October the total output of the factory was approximately 4,000 pairs of shoes per day.

As this was being written this total has climbed, after 120 days of new management, to more than 10,000 pairs.

With an average retail price of $4 per pair, this represents a store tag value of $40,000 every working day. And the production chart needle still is going up.

Julien S. Weinstein, executive vice president of "Randy West," headed the team of eight executives who began pumping know-how blood into the business the morning after their arrival in California.

* * * *

OTHERS included Robert Cohen, president of both the eastern and western companies, and Paul Van Doran, "Randy West" vice president and general manager. All had been brought up in the business.

The company's sprawling main structure on Stanford Avenue yields no clues to passersby of what goes on within its 160,000 square feet of floor space; no indication that within its walls work more than 450 men and women, each contributing his or her special effort in the multiple processes involved in fabricating 10,000 pairs of shoes every day.

If the end product were only one design of footwear the processes would be less complex. But more than 300 different designs are manufactured.

* * * *

AS SPRING approaches the work load will increase, more employes will be added, and the huge warehouse where a stockpile of a half-million pairs of boxed, crated shoes is normal, will become more replete.

During the short 4-month new management interim, new and more modern machinery already has been bolted down. The foundation of a 20,000-square-foot addition already is poured.

Well trained in an axiom of long-haul competitive growth, company officials are bearing down hard on a continuing program of increased quality.

Firm to Build New Plant Near L.B.

Virtue Bros. Mfg. Co., a unit of the Furniture Division of Schlumberger Limited and a manufacturer of wood and metal dinette and casual furniture, has announced purchase of a 20-acre plant site on Santa Fe Avenue near Del Amo Boulevard near Long Beach. Price was not disclosed.

The site is situated in a triangle formed by the Long Beach, Harbor and San Diego freeways and is adjacent to tracks of the Southern Pacific, from whom the land was purchased.

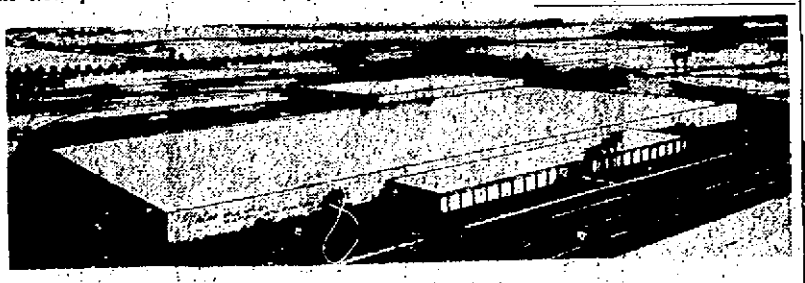

Virtue general manager Orville McIntosh said a contract has been signed with Bechtel Corp. for construction to begin immediately on a 400,000 square foot single story steel and concrete plant. The new plant is scheduled for occupancy in October of this year.

* * * *

"THE LOCATION is ideal," McIntosh declared. "Excellent highway accessibility will enable our employes to get to and from work easily and our trucks will be better able to serve Virtue's many customers in the Southern California area."

Announcement of the new site ends a six-months search in the Greater Los Angeles area for a plant locale to replace the company's present facilities on Century Boulevard, across from International Airport. The present plant, home of Virtue since 1946, was purchased last summer by Litton Industries.

Virtue employs approximately 700.

* * * *

Area Realtors to Hold Sales Conference in L.B.

$710 Million Building 'Tonic' Seen for Orange Co. Economy

Economic growth of Orange County will receive its biggest input in history from Orange County home builders and subdividers in 1964, with 40,000 dwelling units and a dollar volume of $710 million in building permits, predicted Cedric E. Sanders, chairman of the Orange County committee of the Home Builders Association of Los Angeles, Orange and Ventura counties, at a meeting of HBA builders at Disneyland Hotel last week to outline programs for a record year.

"Orange County home builders set new all-time records in 1963 for homes and apartments, but we expect to break these marks again in 1964," said Sanders, Santa Ana home builder.

* * * *

IN 1963, Orange County home builders constructed 36,766 dwelling units, both single family homes and apartment units, an all-time record high total, he said.

"This was an impressive gain of about 10 per cent over 1963, which was a record year itself with 33,214 dwelling units," he continued.

Plans already announced by subdividers show that the home building industry in Orange County will continue its impressive growth pattern, he said. He predicted gains of at least 10 per cent in the total number of units and the dollar valuation.

Robert A. Olin, Pomona home builder, who is president of the HBA, commended Orange County builders on their record year and assured them that the future was unlimited if they build homes that meet the demands of buyers and at the right prices.

* * * *

PATRICK J. O'DONOVAN, HBA executive vice president, Los Angeles, headed the HBA staff at the meeting.

Two reports were highlights of the meeting. Don A. Gannon, Newport Beach home builder and developer, vice-chairman of the HBA Orange County committee and chairman of its legislative and legal subcommittee, reviewed state legislation which will effect the home builder.

Robert H. Grant, Anaheim developer, also vice chairman of the HBA Orange County committee, and chairman of its membership and attendance subcommittee, reported on a program for enrollment of new members.

L. B. Accountants Will Hear Davies

Davies, partner, Lybrand, Ross Bros. and Montgomery, will discuss the problems encountered in developing a profit plan and in convincing top management of the benefits of its use.

The meeting will be held at the Long Beach Elks Club starting at 6 p.m.

Hits Urban Renewal 'Inequities'

Under federal public housing and urban renewal programs the largest subsidies usually go to the wealthiest communities, so that in effect the poor are being taxed to subsidize the rich, it was charged last week by President Edwin P. Neilan of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

This inequity is morally wrong," Neilan said in a letter to 2,900 presidents of local chambers of commerce. He offered the presidents help to get local housing and renewal programs started.

* * * *

NEILAN SAID that a new, comprehensive chamber study of the two federal programs proves that both have failed to meet their welfare goals. The study, which was made for all states and congressional districts, according to Neilan, shows that:

—In general, the richer communities benefit the most from the federal programs.

—The less the people of a state use their own tax resources, the more federal dollars that state gets.

—Administrative costs of the programs amount to $1 for every $7.50 in subsidies.

—And "fair shares" for all communities would have pushed the cost of the programs to $109 billion, instead of the $8.6 billion given to favored communities.

* * * *

NEILAN, who is chairman of the board and president of the Bank of Delaware, Wilmington, asked the local chamber presidents to put their groups on record in support of local responsibility for renewal and housing.

He said that the National Chamber "can help you now to take the lead in community development," with a self-help program that has been tested and proved in more than 50 cities.

Pacific Island Village's first unit of 111 homes is now under construction. The sales office will be open, on Crown Valley Prakway, March 15 and furnished model homes will be open May 15.

Eventually Pacific Island Village will have 700 dwellings, a neighborhood shopping center and the Pacific Island Club, a private membership club with recreation, dining and other facilities.

* * * *

MANCO was purchased by the Losch Co. during late 1963 from M. A. Nishkian, well-known professional engineer in domestic and foreign construction operations.

Exchange Trend Seen

Larger income properties will move in record volume during 1964 with a definite trend toward exchanges, according to sales indicators from a local real estate company.

Three transactions of the company in January exceeded $150,000 each.

C. O. Givens, general sales manager of Rex L. Hodges Realty Co., released sales figures showing a record January for his firm, with exchanges of large income properties accounting for much of the increased volume.

* * * *

INCLUDED in exchanges by the company during January: a 17-unit and 4-unit apartment packaged at $274,000, through the Seal Beach office; a $188,950 exchange thrpugh the Garden Grove office; and the $169,500 exchange of a 16-unit apartment by the Belmont Shore office.

"The move toward exchanges in larger properties is generated by the tax factor and benefits that can be drawn there," Givens said. "In anticipation of this trend a full time tax attorney has been added to the staff of Hodges.

Dividend Voted

The board of directors of United States Borax & Chemical Corp. has declared a quarterly dividend of 20 cents per share on the 4,223,545 common shares outstanding. The dividend is payable March 13, 1964 to stockholders of record February 28, 1964.

Custom Touch Is Provided in Large Neptune Homes

LARGE BEDROOMS
Large walk-in closet, separate dressing area and luxury bath combine with the oversize master bedrooms of the new Neptune Homes. Both one and two-story homes are available with prices starting at $25,995.

Custom touches, many of them brand new, are making an impression on visitors to the big Neptune Homes off Brookhurst Street at Garfield in Fountain Valley, builder Roland Lagerlof reports.

The long-time Orange County custom-home builder has included many of the extras found only in expensive homes in the Neptune development where flexible terms and reasonable prices have found favor in the initial unit.

Finer cabinets, extra "full splash" tile, deluxe built-ins with all of the usual optional features, custom-like light fixtures, wall-to-wall 100% nylon carpet, cement driveways, wood shake roofs, and the new "master control" lighting system are all proving popular. The master control lighting concept gives owner one control at entry and second master control at bedside to turn all or as many lights off from the two positions as needed. It is both a safety and convenience feature, Lagerlof pointed out.

* * * *

BUYERS MAY purchase the two, three, four or five-bedroom homes and select from both one and two-story luxury plans for as little as $495 total down. The builder pays all costs and can arrange financing to suit almost any good family, the Neptune builder stressed.

To reach Neptune from the Long Beach area, take Seventh Street through Long Beach, continue east on the Garden Grove Freeway to Brookhurst. Then go right about six miles to Garfield and turn left to models. The location is about nine miles from Long Beach and about four miles to Huntington Beach State Beach.

Federal Help in Building of New Communities Looms

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Johnson administration wants the federal government to get into the business of helping to build entire new communities.

The aim is to provide more orderly development in the fringe areas around existing cities where the big population growth is looked for in the years ahead.

As described by President Johnson in his housing message to Congress, the new communities would be "complete with all public services, all the industry and commerce needed to provide jobs, and sufficient housing and cultural and recreational facilities for moderate and low-income families as well as for the well-to-do."

* * * *

THE GOVERNMENT would help pay for the planning and would lend the money to build streets, schools, parks and other public works. Uncle Sam also would insure mortgages to aid private developers in buying land and improving it.

The administration wants to start small. A few towns would be set up to begin with. If they worked, the program would be expanded.

Officials are making these points about the new communities:

—They'll mean more orderly growth than in the past. Land development will have to follow a detailed plan approved by the Housing and Home Finance Administration. The plan will have to include enough new schools, streets, utility lines, etc., to take care of "resonably forseeable" growth.

—The large scale should permit savings on construction.

—There'll be a chance for "exciting" new design. Washington isn't going to dictate, but hopes, nevertheless to encourage good design.

* * * *

SINCE THE NEW TOWNS will have their own industry and commerce, there'll be less need for mass transit to carry workers to and from the big cities.

—The communities will include low-income families along with the better off. Because of the federal aid, they'll have to accept Negroes along with whites. They'll also have to provide housing for the elderly.

The idea of setting up such self-sufficient communities is not new. Officials point, for example, to Reston, Va., and Columbia, Md., near Washington. What's new would be the federal participation.

Larger Tankers to Be Accommodated in Port

The Port of Los Angeles and the Mobile Oil Company have joined in a cooperative effort to expand terminal facilities on the harbor's main channel to accommodate the larger tankers loading and off-loading crude oil here, Albert Perrish, president of the Los Angeles Board of Harbor Commissioners, announced last week.

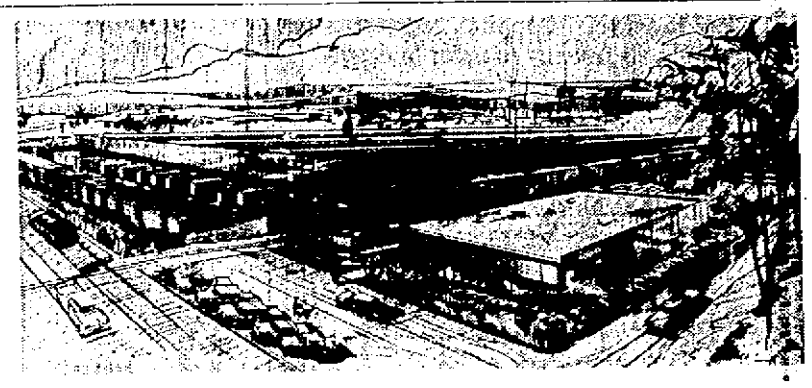

The Harbor Department has awarded a $70,000 contract to the Guy F. Atkinson Co. to install two large mooring dolphins at the terminal, fireproof walkways between the dolphins, and two landside mooring anchors.

The oil firm, in the process of modernizing its tank farm on Terminal Island, said its work, in conjunction with the Harbor Department project, will permit more efficient and faster operation in handling tankers. The expanded facilities will permit the handling of a 16,000-ton and 30,000-ton tanker simultaneously. The expansion also will expedite the handling of tankers in the 50,000 ton (370,000 barrel) class.

Lawrence L. Whiteneck, chief harbor engineer, said the work on the installations in the main channel will be completed within three months.

Growing Suburbs

The continuing growth of suburbs will play a large part in pushing the construction industry to another record year in 1964, according to Charles S. Jensen, president of C.I.T. Corporation, leading industrial and commercial financing firm.

UNDER CONSTRUCTION AT ORANGE
General Tire & Rubber Co. is expanding its Southern California operations with construction under way in the City of Orange on this new polyurethane foam-plastics manufacturing building and Pennsylvania Athletic products warehouse. It will be structural steel frame construction with metal siding, will have 125,000 square feet of floor area, and depressed rail and truck docks on two sides. Enginering design and construction is being handled by AETRON, the archiect-engineer division of Aerojet-General Corp., under supervision of B. F. Rose Jr., Aerojet vice president and general manager of AETRON.

Farrow Realty Hits $30 Million Again

TOP SALESMAN HONORED
Jerry Farrow (left), owner of Farrow Realty Corp., Garden Grove, presents silver platter to Art Sailor, of Farrow's Anaheim office, for top performance during 1963. Sailor led Farrow's eight-office force in directing sales of existing homes throughout Orange County.

For the second consecutive year, sales exceeding $30 million have been recorded by Farrow Realty Corp., Garden Grove-based firm with eight offices throughout Orange County, Jerry Farrow, owner, announced.

For the 12-month period ending Dec. 31, sales of new homes in subdivisions, existing residences for individual clients, and apartments totaled $30,305,324, Farrow said. The heavy volume made Farrow one of the top realty firms operating exclusively in Orange County.

• • • •

FARROW REALTY Corp. new home sales division staffed numerous subdivisions for builders and developers in Orange County during 1963. New homes sold averaged $22,560 per sale. Resale homes averaged $19,696 per sale.

Included in the totals, said Farrow, were sales of 265 new homes built by Farrow Development Co., headed by Robert Farrow. The homes were in the development company's Tiara Estates Emerald series in Fountain Valley; Treasure series at Euclid and Chapman in Garden Grove, Lewis and Lampson series in Garden Grove; and Orange series in the City of Orange.

Top Farrow Realty Corp. salesman, Farrow added, was Art Sailor, of the Anaheim office. The new home salesman was Tom Anderson. Both received silver platters.

Apartment Rental Unit Attractive

A high occupancy ratio—rare in many large scale apartment developments—is attributed at the Southwood Apartments in South Gate to providing an atmosphere of a development of major magnitude while retaining a feeling of privacy and personal attention, according to John Gause, general manager for the realty management firm.

Gause added that this is accomplished by a design layout in which the 260 units are contained in 12 distinct and smaller buildings, each with its own facilities for recreation, upkeep and laundry.

• • • •

THE APARTMENTS represent modern suburban living equidistant and less than 15 minutes drive from the centers of Long Beach and Los Angeles as well as from Los Angeles State College.

Furnished apartments start at $85 per month. In addition to the choice furnishings, the apartments include a selection of gas or electric built-in appliances in the kitchen, wall-to-wall carpeting, drapes, phone jacks and other features.

A limited number of rental units are currently available and may be inspected at 10800 Wright Road, in South Gate.

Beer-Bottle Record

A record 5.2 billion non-returnable beer bottles will be shipped in 1966, according to a forecast made for the glass container industry by The Econometric Institute. That total will represent an increase of about 35 per cent over the 1963 level, estimated at 3.7 billion units.

Buccaneer Series Near Sellout; Start New Unit

Start of construction for a new unit of homes at the Sunkist Plaza development in Huntington Beach is being readied as the current Buccaneer Series approaches the sellout point, according to Sy Bram, executive director of Sunkist Plaza Builders, the developing firm.

The rapid sales of the beach city development have caused the new unit to be readied sooner than anticipated and a similarly rapid sellout is being predicted for the new unit.

Bram attributes the rapid sales to the inclusion of numerous extras not usually found in homes of this price range. A similarly major factor of sales appeal has been the fact that qualified buyers can move in with no down payment—only costs of $150.

• • • •

THE HOMES FEATURE a complete array of Waste King Universal built-in kitchen appliances for the convenience of the housewife. This is included at no extra costs.

Waste King, one of the nation's leading kitchen appliance manufacturers, recently cited the builders of the Buccaneer Series for their imaginative design and convenience features offered at the development.

He based the success of his other developments on the Sunkist Plaza firm's mass buying power, acquired through its years of building experience. "This allows us to build more dollar values into each home for a price comparable to other developments."

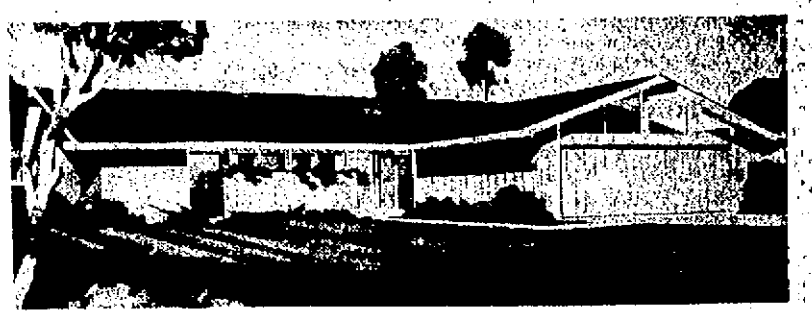

Three basic floor plans can be incorporated into a choice of 25 exteriors that cover nearly every motiff available.

"This one of the reasons why, all things considered, it is one of the best home values in Huntington Beach," added Bram.

• • • •

THE QUALITY residences which feature as a bonus extra completely fenced rear yards, includes a separate utility room, Formica Counters, natural ash cabinets, forced air heating with thermostat control, brick fireplaces, aluminum and glass shower doors, sliding wardrobe closets, shades and aluminum screens.

To reach models, drive east on Garden Grove Blvd. to Golden West; right to Bolsa; right to Springdale; then left on Springdale and follow signs to furnished models.

HUNTINGTON BEACH HOME
Sunkist Plaza Builders announced that another unit of their Buccaneer Series would be launched at once since the present development is near a sell-out. Homes like this are offered for no down payment.

Westmont's New Unit Sells Fast

New floor plans and exteriors are meeting with overwhelming acceptance in the new unit eleven of the big, planned Westmont community in Fountain Valley where buyers may now select from a new four-bedroom and a new three-bedroom home with family room and over-the-garage bonus room.

Low prices are still in effect with some models set at $21,800 with both FHA, Veteran and conventional terms all available. Included in the new unit are block walls, landscaping, and sprinklers along with the built-in kitchen and big bonus room.

THE BONUS ROOM has proven a delight to growing families with the room easy to convert to extra bedrooms and bath or playroom and rumpus area. All plans with the exception of one three-bedroom home with breezeway offer the bonus room as part of the basic price.

All indications point to a rapid sell out of the new unit with occupancy set for mid summer, a spokesman says. Four homes are also available in the tenth unit.

"Time and time again buyers wait and are disappointed," sales head Ray Haffdaul explained.

To reach Westmont from Long Beach, take Seventh St., east to Hwy. 39 then go right three miles to Warner. Turn left at Warner one mile to the tree and flower lined Westmont entry.

Service to Buyers Boosts Sol Vista

LUXURY IN SOL VISTA HOME

Here is one of the models offered at the International Home Fair by Sol Vista. The homes are loaded with built-in luxury and are priced from $23,050.

"One of the important reasons for our high percentage of referral home buyers in the International Home Fair is our home owners' service policy," says Bob Solomon, vice president of Alco-Pacific Construction Co. of Westminster, builders of Sol-Vista Homes.

Alco-Pacific's plan is basic, but thorough in its service to new home buyers. The beginning of the post sale time of a Sol-Vista home starts with an inspection of the home to note any construction defects so they may be corrected usually before the buyers move in.

* * * *

IF THE BUYER notices any discrepencies in construction, materials of appliances, after move in, which were overlooked in the original inspection, he is covered by the one year service warranty which Alco-Pacific issues with each Sol-Vista home they build.

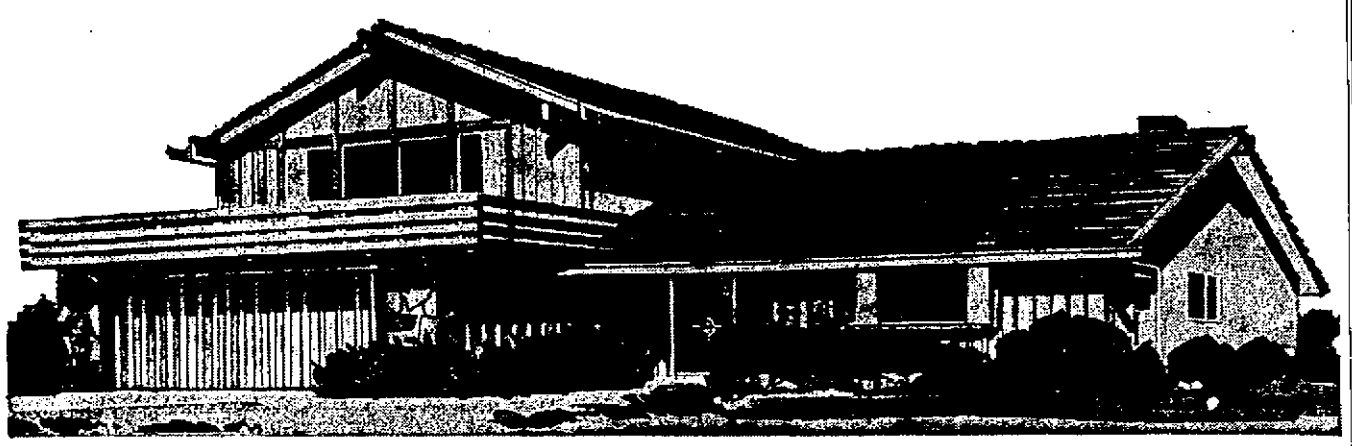

Solomon points out, "So effective has been Alco-Pacific's attitude toward reasonable customer complaints, our home buyers are now one of our best sources for new sales. Better than 25% of the sales made at our International Home Fair community have been recommendations from previous Sol-Vista home buyers."

* * * *

SOLOMON concluded, "Alco-Pacific believes it is not possible to build a perfect house. We do our best and stand behind our product for one year should any defects which originated in construction appear."

International Home Fair homes sell for $23,050 to $29,600 with model homes now on display at Westminster Blvd and Bolsa Chica in Westminster.

Community Plaza Holding Open House

A grand opening celebration is set for today at the distinctive new Effinger condominium — Community Plaza. Located between Grand and Termino Aves. in Long Beach, the development is one of the most elegant residential developments in the area.

Participating in the opening will be the Southern California Edison Co.

Fourteen three and four-unit buildings are included at Community Plaza, each expressing a unique architectural motif — contemporary, conventional, ranch and provincial. Most of these buildings have been sold to private owners and leasing of the units has commenced. "We even have families already living here," Effinger stated "and tenants moving in every day."

* * * *

CONDOMINIUM ownership provides full title to the building, plus an undivided interest in the landscaped common area. This reduces maintenance costs, shared by the owners with less upkeep and responsibility.

A large pool is for the use of residents at Community Plaza, plus a putting green, barbecue area and beautifully landscaped yards.

Each unit was designed to provide luxurious living and includes efficiency all-electric kitchens—with built-in range, oven and automatic dishwasher.

OPEN FOR RENTALS

Rendering shows a large four-unit building at Community Plaza in Long Beach. The condominium celebrates the grand opening today. Some units already have been leased and occupied.

THE SYSTEM consists, along with other data processing equipment, of new and versatile transmission devices which enable computers to "talk to one another" over long distances at high speeds using telephone cables.

Known as IBM 7710 data communication units, the devices make it possible to exchange information at the rate of 40,800 "bits" per second. Although the installation may be used for high speed transmission of any type of coded data, its primary purpose will be to centralize in minutes the bookkeeping function for UCB's branches in both northern and southern California in the Los Angeles EDP Center.

The checking account bookkeeping for 100 UCB Southern California offices already is being performed by OSCAR, and it is expected that all of the statewide branches of United California Bank will soon be linked to the Los Angeles EDP Center for their checking account bookkeeping. Savings account bookkeeping will be the next step.

Start Work on Long Port of L.A. Wharf

Work began last week to construct one of the longest wharfs to be built at one time at the Port of Los Angeles, and to prepare the way for the harbor's new international shipping terminal.

The Guy F. Atkinson Co., contractors for the $3,107,000 project at Berths 218-225, is building the 3,550-foot long concrete wharf, which will accommodate six ocean-going vessels simultaneously.

Located on the Terminal Island side of the harbor's main channel, the new wharf is designed to serve a planned new terminal complex consisting of two 200x1008-ft. transit sheds, a 200x700-ft. warehouse, a covered storage area and 1,000,000 square feet of paved open area for cargo handling and storage.

* * * *

ALBERT PERRISH, president of the Los Angeles Board of Harbor Commissioners, explained that the wharf-building project actually will follow two separate but simultaneous schedules. The first, to include 1,800 feet of wharf, is to be completed in 350 calendar days; the second, an additional 1,750 feet of wharf, is to be finished in 200 calendar days.

"Construction of the first transit shed, backland paving and grading, and the laying of railroad tracks," he said, "will begin even before the first section of wharf is completed.

"While all this work is going on, construction will begin on the second scheduled section of wharf, and the second transit shed and related projects will be done. By following this construction procedure, the entire terminal should be completed within two-and-a-half years," Perrish added.

* * * *

LOS ANGELES Harbor engineers said the entire project is being scheduled on an electronics data system. First, time periods for individual phases of the over-all project are established. Then, the EDP system permits daily verification of progress, as well as easy identification of any "problem areas" or delays for any reason. Adjust-

NEARLY HALF SOLD

(Parcels 10 Acres and Up)

Southern California Mountain-Ringed Recreational Retreat . . . for Discriminating Buyers

Close-In Location—Two hours, twenty minutes from Los Angeles over freeways and excellent roads to "Old West" seclusion and charm. Historic gold-rush area in beautiful natural basin is protected by surrounding mountains. Accessible by three roads—and an airstrip on the ranch.

Lush, Growing Land—In Walker Basin, an area of working ranches with lots of trees and green vegetation, the property is rich in history. On it the famous old Joe Walker gold mine was closed, after water came in faster than it could be pumped out.

Fabulous Climate—At the 3500-foot level it is definitely cooler in Summer, enjoyable all year. Four seasons, blue skies, good rainfall, some snow, and clear, clear mountain air make this a wonderful vacationland all year.

Water and Utilities—Fed by runoff from surrounding mountains, the water table is reportedly good. A 60-foot well sank in 1952 tested 240 gallons per hour. Electricity is available, and telephones are now in.

A Great Playland—Surrounded on three sides by Sequoia National Forest and overlooked by towering peaks to 8,000 feet, this is fantastic country. Ideal for horses, it provides practically endless miles of adventure on horseback. Just 16 miles north you can fish, swim, boat and waterski on Lake Isabella. Another 15 miles to Shirley Meadows, with good snow, ski runs and rope tows.

Wildlife Paradise—Excellent hunting, easy limits on a variety of game birds, and one of the largest deer herds in the state.

Acreages—These are nice spacious spreads—10 acres and larger. Once a working cattle ranch, but presently raising quarter horses, this is scenic land with oaks, rock formations, stream beds, flatlands and rolling hills. Each parcel has a choice of several sites for building that hideaway home. Plenty of land is available for you to divide and retain a view site for yourself.

But a Cheap Speculation—No $10-down-and-$10-when-you-catch-me promotion—and not desert sand. This is good land at a fair price in an unspoiled high mountain valley setting, for those who hope to invest in recreational living. We insist you stand on the land and know what you are buying. But first, mail the coupon today for additional information.

Ward's to Expand in Southland

The chairman of Montgomery Ward, John A. Barr, has announced a $50 million expansion program for the greater Los Angeles area.

About 10 new retail stores, similar to a new 161,000 square foot retail store opened last week in Canoga Park, are planned for the suburbs and the city, according to the head of the billion-and-a-half dollar national merchandiser.

Barr also announced a 450,000 square foot warehouse will be built in the area by the fall of next year, to serve present and new stores.

Since the fall of 1959, Ward's has opened 13 new stores in California. Three of these — Canoga Park, Santa Ana and Panorama City — have been opened since 1960, to bring to seven the number of stores operated by Ward's Los Angeles metropolitan district.

The next new store is scheduled to open in the spring of 1965 in Ventura. Other sites for new stores will be announced when real estate negotiations are complete.

Electronic Designing of Homes Seen

Chances are good that America's homes of 1980 will be electrically designed, believes a leading home building industry executive.

Harry G. Stewart, executive vice president of L. C. Major & Associates, Inc., Downey, the nation's leading community co-ordinators and residential designers, said his firm is investigating the use of electronic drafting machines similar to those used in aerospace plants.

"Human creativity will always prevail in the conception of design," Stewart said. "But eventually computers will be able to provide the answer to what the most sensible floor plan and design is for a given family."

The L. C. Major organization, which has designed over 440,000 single-family residences throughout the nation, already is using electronic control systems for construction and cost control, Stewart said, "to meet the challenge of today's thinking."

Purchase of Home Now Seen as Good Investment for Future

A GARDEN PARK ESTATE
Furnished family and dining room of one-story Garden Park Estates home in nearby Garden Grove is shown here. Room is located close to kitchen for housewife's convenience.

An investment in a brand new home is a wise investment in the future, officials of Garden Park Estates feel. "At the rate land values in California increase year in and year out, it makes good sense to participate in those profits — by investing in a solidly built home, located in a desirable neighborhood."

One of the most successful residential developments in Southern California, Garden Park Estates' homes also offer the advantage of a comfortable and solidly constructed house designed to meet the multiple needs of busy families, a spoeksman points out.

* * * *

NOW IS THE TIME, they say, to make that important investment, while it's still possible to buy an outstanding residence within a moderate price range.

Garden Park Estates' homes are offered from $19,225 to $26,450 with low monthly payments starting from $106.17. Veterans can purchase a residence for nothing down, except costs and impounds. Non-veterans are offered lowest FHA down on thirty and thirty-five year loans. Conventional and Cal-Vet terms are available too.

* * * *

A WIDE SELECTION of interior and exterior designs are offered—to fit the tastes of many families.

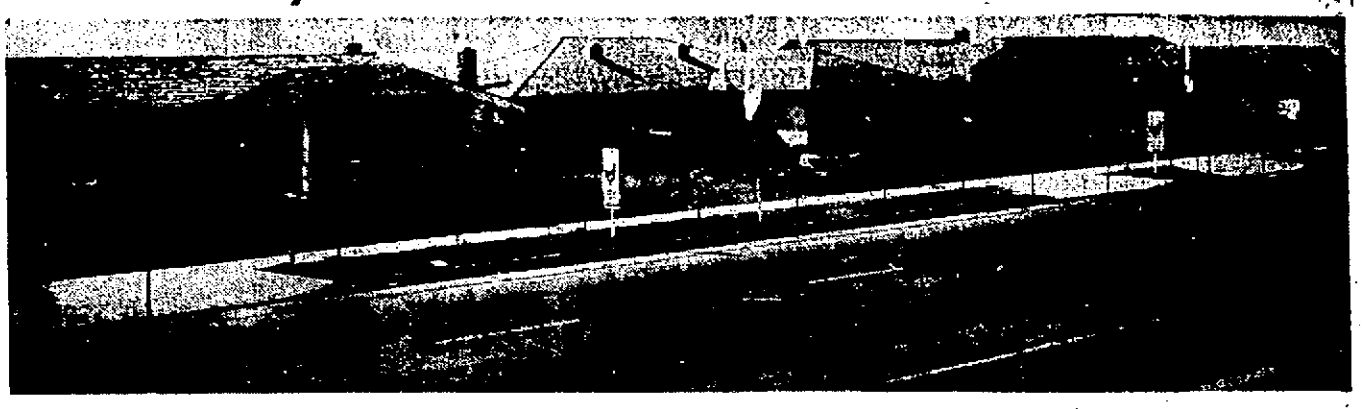

Both one and two-story homes with spacious rooms are available including some with three, four and five bedrooms.

Desirable appointments in the homes are decorator lighting fixtures; sliding glass door and sliding aluminum window, modern built-in kitchen appliances and colored plumbing fixtures in baths.

Furnished models are open daily at Knott Avenue and Garden Grove Freeway in Garden Grove.

Los Angeles has been selected as the site of the 1964 convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, and thousands of Realtors from all over the country will attend Nov. 6-12.

Sale-a-Day Is Recorded at Laurelhurst

LAURELHURST STREET OF HOMES
Pictured is a portion of a street of homes in the Laurelhurst III development in Santa Ana. The 300-home development is averaging a sale each day, according to developer Charles W. Hester.

One of the last remaining new-home developments in the City of Santa Ana, the 300-home Laurelhurst III project continues to record one-a-day sales pace. According to builder-developer Charles W. Hester, this continuing sales record is proof that the Orange County buyer is looking for a truly complete home, one that offers him the most value for the dollar.

"Our experience shows that today's buyer is very aware that the average new-home owner puts hundreds, usually thousands, of additional dollars into a new home within the first year after taking occupancy."

* * * *

"WE HAVE TRIED to protect our buyers from exorbitant after-sale, out-of-pocket costs by providing them with a truly complete new home," Hester stated.

The Laurelhurst III buyer receives front yard landscaping, rear yard fencing, sprinklers, built-in appliances including a dishwasher and lavish carpeting — even window shades are included.

Another key feature of these three and four-bedroom, two-bath homes is their ideal location within the City of Santa Ana.

The Santa Ana Valley High School, Smedly Junior High and Adams Elementary schools are adjacent to the tract. A supervised community swimming pool is within walking distance.

Prices start at $21,695 and can be purchased with as low as $195 down. Four models, furnished, are open daily.

Laurelhurst III is located on Warner between Harbor and Bristol in Santa Ana.

AT STATE COLLEGE

Offer Small Business Management Courses

Two courses designed for key personnel in small business management will be offered by the Division of Business Management at Long Beach State College starting late this month.

A seminar covering financial planning, legal problems, personnel, taxes, credit management and advertising will meet each Wednesday night for eight weeks starting Feb. 26.

DR. HOLMES

A nine-week course meeting Tuesday nights starting Feb. 25 will be devoted entirely to financial management and investments.

Faculty for the two courses will be drawn from persons with practical as well as academic experience in the field of business.

* * * *

BOTH COURSES are designed for owners, managers and key personnel in small businesses. Enrollment fee is $50. Enrollment will be limited in size to provide maximum participation in the seminars.

Further information may be obtained from the coordinator, Small Business Management Seminar, Division of Business Administration, Long Beach State College, Long Beach 4.

The four million small businesses in the United States make up 96 per cent of all they account for more than half of the total business activity. Thus, their continued existence and health is obviously of prime importance.

* * * *

THE UNPLEASANT fact is that many thousands of small businesses in the country fail each year. A new record high in business mortalities was set in the year 1960. Figures show that nearly 7 out of 10 new businesses started in the last five years have failed or withdrawn from operation, and a study of these failures reveals that the largest single cause by far was poor management.

These figures pointing up the importance and the hazards of small business come from Dr. Robert T. Holmes, coordinator of the seminar.

* * * *

"BALANCED management ability" is the key ingredient in the success of most small business, Dr. Holmes pointed out.

"The large corporation can utilize the services of highly trained specialists and technicians in all major fields. In contrast, the small business manager must perform all or many of those functions himself."

Offer Distinctive Fireplace in Homes

One and two fireplaces are offered in a vast selection of design and material at El Dorado Estates' homes, say the officials.

Materials for the unique fireplaces include Palos Verdes stone, used brick, common brick, black marble and many others. "We're particularly proud of the distinctive fireplaces in the homes," officials said and reported a favorite is a black marble combined with painted white brick.

"A fireplace is a definite asset in a home," they said, "and of course the latest trend is the bedroom fireplace. We offer them in several of our models and present residents tell us they make good use of them, particularly on rainy evenings."

* * * *

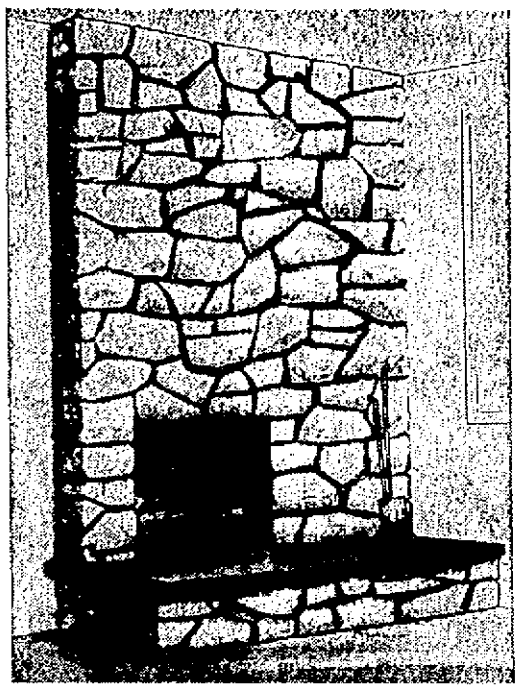

A PLANNED community, El Dorado Park Estates' homes were constructed with lath and plaster walls with acoustical ceilings; No. 1 shingle roofs; custom-design lighting fixtures, and beautiful planters of brick, wood, Palos Verdes stone and Bouquet Canyon stone.

How the savings and loan associations work with the home building industry will be described by Robert C. WHERE? OH, THERE!

Tourists, like Wendy Kincaide of Lomita, pictured here, will have an easier time finding their way around Los Angeles Harbor now with these new directional signs, just installed in 25 locations throughout the waterfront, say harbor officials. Lake Park Big Homes Appealing

Unique design features and floor plans in both the one-story California ranch models and the two-story, five-bedroom Huntington model are drawing record attention at Lake Park, sales manager Don Hermanson reported.

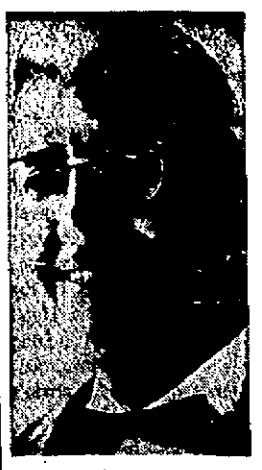

One of the major factors which also is contributing to the sales success at Lake Park, the $40 million, 2,000-home community near Lakewood, is the location of the community to major employment areas, he said.

MORE THAN half of the homes sold to date at Lake Park have been two-story models, Hermanson said. The two-story, five-bedroom Huntington is priced at $21,950.

VA, FHA and conventional financing arrangements are available and qualified veterans may move in free at some models. Also available to qualified veterans is no down payment financing, he said.

Lake Park homes are priced from $17,750.

To reach Lake Park from the Long Beach-Lakewood area, drive east on Carson to the models, just east of Moody.

SPEAKER

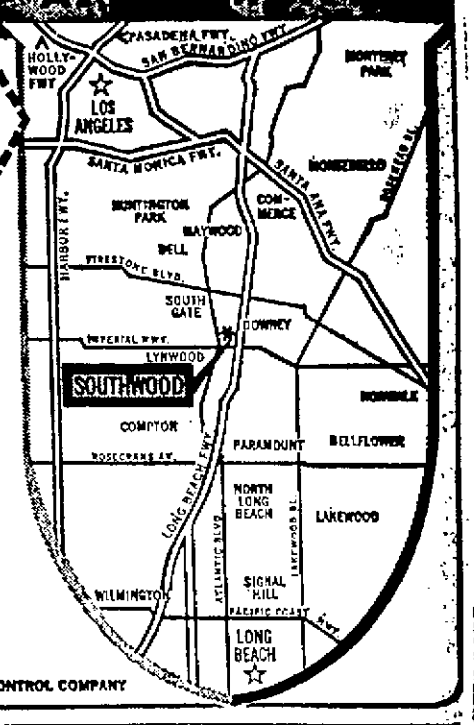

James E. Ballinger, chief engineer for Orange County Harbor District at Newport Beach, heads new speakers' bureau set up by Orange County Engineers' Council. It will operate the year around to supply speakers to discuss various phases of engineering.

Profits Sticky

Although the nation's cement producers in 1963 shipped a record 350 million barrels, topping the previous high (1959) by 15 million barrels, profits for the industry have failed to keep pace with the gain, industry sources say.

Litter Becoming Major Problem

NEW YORK (UPI)—Litter has become a huge problem in the United States, according to Keep America Beautiful, the national litter-prevention agency. In New York City alone three million tons of litter are collected each year—enough to fill the Empire State Building 15 times!

Auto Leasing Is on Increase

NEW YORK (UPI) — National auto rental and leasing volume could well reach the $800 million mark in 1964, in the opinion of Steven J. Ross, president of Kinney Service Corp.

Ross said projected 1964 figures would mark the third consecutive year of record figures for the auto rental and leasing field. "The industry," he said, "is looking for better than $700 million volume for 1963 and this would mark a major gain over the $603 million done in 1962."

To Conduct Employment Survey Here

"How many weeks did you work in 1963?" This and other questions on work experience last year will be asked of persons in households participating in the Census Bureau's February Current Population Survey. Interviewers will call on local households this week, Leonard C. Isley, director of the bureau's regional office in Los Angeles announced.

Further questions relate to the amount of time lost because of unemployment and other reasons, a description of the principal job held during the year, and similar items.

Information furnished by local families will be combined with that gathered in 356 other sample areas of the country to obtain national estimates of the 1963 employment situation. In addition, information will be collected about the number of weeks women 18 to 64 years old worked in 1962. The answers to these latter questions will be used to select a sample of women who will be followed up later this spring to discover how much and how often these women work or seek work.

Stock Split OK Awaited

TORRANCE — The board of directors of Standard Brands Paint Co. (ASE) at a recent special meeting voted to recommend for stockholders approval a split of the outstanding common stock on a 2-for-1 basis.

The directors also announced intention to pay regular quarterly cash dividends of 7½ cents per share on the common stock outstanding after the split has been effected, thus increasing the cash dividend rate by 50 per cent.

The stock split is subject to shareholders' approval of a resolution adopted by the board calling for an increase in the number of authorized common shares from 1,000,000 to 2,000,000.

The amendment to the articles of incorporation proposed by the directors will be voted on by shareholders at a special meeting to be held on April 2 at the company's office in Torrance.

If two-thirds of the stockholders approve the increase in authorized shares, the stock split would become effective with the filing of the amendment with the state of Maryland.

Where Home Is... The Heart Is

By CURTYNE DRISCOLL

You won his heart, how are you treating it?

SAVING your husband from undue stress and watching his diet will help save him from a heart attack, according to the Long Beach Heart Association.

"Stress is probably the most important single factor contributing to a heart attack," said an association spokesman.

"Diet is believed to have a significant role," he continued. "It has been shown in countries where there is a high rate of fat and cholesterol, the heart attack rate is higher."

The association offers the following "how to save your husband tips."

1. MAKE the home situation pleasant, calm and quiet. When he returns from work, greet him with a smile. (Ed. note: Never mind what kind of a day YOU'VE had. And for pete's sake wait until after dinner to tell him about the garbage disposal being stopped up.) It is recommended that if he must go out later in the evening he should have a restful period before he leaves.

2. Avoid keeping up with the Joneses —by the time you're in your forties you have had it. You are either a success or not. It is time for your husband to slow down. (Note: This news may depress him enough to not only slow him down, but bring him to a complete stop.)

3. ACCEPT life, don't fight it—develop a sense of inner contentment, learn to make adjustments as problems occur and accept life without continually striving to change your situation.

4. Encourage your husband to develop a hobby. There is nothing better than a hobby or active sport to help him forget his problems and worries. Make the weekend full of interest and relaxation in anticipation of his return to the old grind on Monday. (Note: And develop a good list of plumbers, carpenters, painters, gardeners and window cleaners.)

5. ESTABLISH a good diet—stay away from heavy, rich desserts. Prepare more fowl and fish, which have polyunsaturated fat. Have three balanced meals and eliminate between meal snacks. (Note: And try to eliminate those expense account lunches. Go ahead, just try.)

Seriously, heart and blood vessel diseases cause more deaths in the United States each year than all other causes combined. They disable more Americans than any other diseases or disorders. They cause one out of every two deaths in the prime-of-life years, 45 to 64.

The month of February is National Heart Fund Month. The Long Beach Heart Association is participating with a door to door residental solicitation today, which is Heart Sunday; a Heart Tea, Feb. 27, at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Whaley; and a Heart Ball, Feb. 28, at the Elks Club, sponsored by Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity of Long Beach State College.

FUNDS collected from these events will be awarded in heart research fellowships to doctors in specific areas of heart study.

Honorary national chairman of the Heart Fund is Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. Local Heart Fund chairman is Jim Evans.

Doctor Calls for Heart Research

Dr. Lavane E. Sansum

By BEN ZINSER
I, P-T Medical-Science Editor

Atherosclerosis.

A big word, frightfully dull at first glance—but solve its mysteries and they'll hand you a Nobel prize.

For, if you want to whip the problem of heart attacks and strokes, not to mention other disabling ailments, you've got to find some way to stop atherosclerosis, slow it down or prevent it.

That's the opinion of Dr. Lavane E. Sansum, president of the Long Beach Heart Association.

HE BELIEVES that heart research's major effort should be directed against atherosclerosis.

Briefly, atherosclerosis is a thickening of the inner lining of the arteries—fatty deposits inside the arteries which narrow them. Its danger? Blood flow may be obstructed to the point where either a heart attack or a stroke ensues.

Contrary to the opinion of many, this condition is not an inevitable consequence of aging, Dr. Sansum says. Rather it is a metabolic disorder.

In fact, some families don't seem to be bothered by atherosclerosis. In certain families, he says, you'll see many elderly persons with arteries ordinarily seen only in far younger individuals.

"If you could prevent hardening of the arteries, many persons would be better able to grow old gracefully," Dr. Sansum says.

FOR NOT ONLY could you ward off heart attacks and disabling strokes, but you could prevent memory loss and personality changes brought about by degeneration of blood vessels in the brain area.

One of the most important by-products of control of atherosclerosis would be the prevention of premature death from coronary heart disease, Dr. Sansum says. Many victims of coronary disease never survive the first heart attack.

The problem is highly complex, Dr. Sansum says. There's more to it than merely attempting to hold down the level of fats in the blood he notes.

"I don't think we can change the American diet enough to get the answer," he states.

Surgery on the coronary arteries, now coming in to more widespread use, won't be the answer either, he continues. Because of the nature of coronary heart disease, surgical procedures will be able to help only certain patients.

Heart transplants, which medical science hopes to be able to achieve before too long, will solve some problems but still will not provide the entire answer, he adds.

Doctors still will have to deal with atherosclerotic problems which have led to kidney trouble and circulation disorders of the legs.

The answer, when it comes, probably will be a medical approach, Dr. Sansum speculates.

AS OF NOW, however, medical attempts to lower blood fat concentrations, for instance, are unsatisfactory.

What is needed is more basic research into hardening of the arteries, he urges.

It will take money, he says.

"The Heart Association has a lot of projects it would like to fund but cannot," he adds.

Atherosclerosis.

Don't try to pronounce it if it's difficult. Call it hardening of the arteries, thickening of the arteries, plugging up of the blood vessels—but, above all, call it treacherous. And fight it this month, Heart Month, with a check to the Heart Fund.

Social Temperature Reads Balmy Parties

By Iola Masterson
I. P-T Women's Editor

LOOK SMART? Mary Jane (Mrs. Jim) Ormon's long chiffon ball gown, with its floating back panel caught by huge rhinestone pin (see below) is not only smart but extremely clever, fashion-wise. For answer to just how smart and clever this back treatment is, page W-8.

She has invented clever fashion surprise.

BIG PARTY and a beautiful one was given by Jane (Mrs. Chester) Hosmer, Julia (Mrs. H. A.) Witz and Ruth (Mrs. J. F.) Rothwell Friday at Virginia Country Club. And what more fitting date than Valentine's Day to gather long time friends from through the years together.

About 230 guests, all in the loveliest of feminine fashion ensembles, were bidden. A big Valentine in the foyer, especially created of pink tulle and red and pink roses, greeted guests to the 11 to 1 p.m. brunch. The smaller centerpieces on individual tables mirrored this handsome "greeting card." Pearl McGinnis returned to her old VCC haunts to do the decor.

Assisting were Helen Davis, Dell Lewis, Doris Brinkmon, Lottie Meyers, Byrd Garten, Mary Green, Ronella Murphy, Virginia Wildey, Irene Malone, Gertrude Haas and Jean Harter.

Adding to the over-all glamor effect of the day was background music, harmonious to the conversation, played by a group of three musicians.

PRESIDENT Dale Ely of Downtown Kiwanis Club was in fine fettle when the club hosted its Valentine's Ladies Day Tuesday at the Lafayette. At least, he was in fine fining fettle, leveling fines against everyone he could spot whose name has been in the public print lately, including the Kenny Wings Sr. and Jr., "Smitty" Crain and Bud Holton (who were allowed to split their levy), Jim Crooker, Mott Peek and (nervy Dale!) he even extracted a dollar from the pert purse of every woman at the head table.

Wild Waves Say...

A few in the crowd spotted were Dorothy and Police Chief Bill Mooney, Irma and Merm Hall, Vyrle and Howell Honeywell, Fran and Bill Junkins, Evelyn and Ken Hemphill, Mabel and Vern Brustkern, Evelyn and Max Livoni and Lois and Les Watson. Hah. That'll give Dale some fine names to fine around with.

Program was primarily presented by Jan Murdock, formerly of L.B., now of Inglewood, who gave a humorous, illustrated, dialogue on how not to dress plus a good talk on personality development.

Among some of her comments. . . . "Poise is pause. Am I really thinking and doing for others as they are for me? . . . We must develop tolerance and learn when to let our hearts rule our heads.—or our heads rule our hearts. . . . We are the value we place upon ourselves," plus many other thoughtful observations.

SPEAKING of Lafayette, Manager John McKennon and wife, Pat, entertained for Lorne and Nancy Green (he is the familiar "Bonanza" TV show lead) and heads at hotel really turned as the familiar giant strolled through.

They discovered that Lorne's favorite dish is, of all things, marinated wild hare. So after careful researching of recipes by the exec chef that's what was served in Cafe Lafayette. Don't ask me where they got the hare, but thar it was and delicious, even to those who thought such critters abounded only on our Municipal Airport runways or in the hills of Dominguez.

Also present, and a head-turner, was Francoise Ruggiere, French starlet, who just finished "Global Affair," Bob Hope's now being released motion picture.

ROOM WITH view—a view (on all sides) of chic women—was Petroleum Club's main dining room when the combined professional auxiliaries had annual luncheon there Monday.

"Jim" (Mrs. Tom) Bronn wore a beige straw I admired. Found out she made it herself—makes all her own hats and has a closet-ful of them. She makes all hats for her Wilson and USC coed daughters, as well.

Also admired a handsome shiny, straw (green) worn by Inez (Mrs. Walter) Ross. Discovered she, too, makes all of her own hats—has at least 40 chapeaux Her other passion is shoes and, she admitted, she must own 50 pairs.

Smart, as always, was Glenda (Mrs. Earl) Barnes in black cloche lined in muted print of black, brown and white. Smart as all get out, too, was Merle (Mrs. Russ) King's outfit topped with red felt derby. Gloria (Mrs. Richard) McWilliams wore a green feather hat, very exclusive. I was told she was shopping in Beverly Hills with group of friends who decided to try on hats in one of the better hat shops and talked her into buying this one. Some friends! As I recall the story, they walked away without hats, left Gloria to be the only sheller-outer for toppers. Could have gone through the whole room and had a complimentary remark to make but time to stop. It'll go to their heads!

MELLVE WILSON left Saturday for Rome and the Far East with an airlines satchel packed with genuine Hong Kong dollars! What a way to go.

Seems Dorothy Forman entertained at a leave-taking party and it was at this time the satchel was presented. Dorothy had WASHED the bills and dried them on a mirror in an effort to make them look more gala.

Enjoying bridge after luncheon were Dorothy Jean Ellery, her sister, Rita Maidel, visiting here from Djakarta, Indonesia, Frieda Pritchard, Waula Pearson, Eunice Crail and Hester Gray plus the much astonished, needless to say, delighted guest of honor. Happy travels with moola of the land!

It was 4 to 6 p.m. event, naturally; had to be so the young ladies could help mothers entertain and took place at Kirkpatrick's spacious Park Estates home after school hours.

Life size corrugated paper dolls in pink lined the walkway and festooned the door and there was a red carpet welcome—really red carpet—to home's portals. Although actually adult, those asked to assist who have daughters were, in turn, assisted by said daughters, ranging in age from six years to college level and from one to several per mama. IF they had daughters, that is.

Greeting the more than 200 guests who accepted the paper doll invitations (done by artistic Betty Anne, herself, who else?) with daughter, daughters—or none—were (catch your breath and read on) Nancy Bauer, Pat Brennan, Julia Cheney, Shirley Gean, Sandy Gill, Pat Goddard, Carol Hoagland, Evie Hodges, Eleanor Kirkpatrick, (her dotter-in-law was hostess), Nadine Kirkpatrick, Hazel Klein (Mary's mother-in-law), Ramona Kline, Jean Looman. . . .

AND . . . Dixie Millie, Carmen Parrish, Jeannie Rastello, Alice Seibert (hostess Mary's mother), Alberta Sagehorn, Ethel Severson, Evelyn Whaley, Beverly Wing, Betsy Tauhman, Artie Stevenson and Mildred Wing.

Well, as you can see, there was a gala crowd at that gathering before the guests ever showed up!

Life size dolls — real and corrugated.

Valentine Nuptials for Pair

Wayfarers Chapel at Portuguese Bend was chosen for the wedding on Valentine's Day of Abigail Gilbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip B. Gilbert of Long Beach, and Dr. Walter M. Kearns Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Walter M. Kearns of Pompano Beach, Fla.

The bride wore a floor length gown of white organza with a fitted bodice, bateau neckline and full skirt. The white embroidered floral design on the bodice was repeated in a wide border around the skirt. She carried white roses and stephanotis with trailing ivy.

The sisters of the bride, Mmes. Richard Borcher of Chico, and Edmund Storms, Los Alamos, were her attendants. Dr. Joseph A. Mayer served the bridegroom as best man. Dr. Thomas McNamara was usher.

THE FORMER Miss Gilbert is the granddaughter of the late Mrs. Anna M. Gilbert, dean of girls at Polytechnic High School for many years. She attended schools in Coos Bay, Ore., and Long Beach State College.

Dr. Kearns was graduated from Princeton University, received his masters degree from Northwestern University and his M.D. from Johns Hopkins University. He is a member of the American College of Surgeons and the Los Angeles Surgical Society.

ANSWER TO THE 'BEATLES'

For the Ladies, Danny's Lady Bug Cake

By MARY NETH

Stop flipping through those cookbooks, ladies!

We've got the solution for what to serve the girls at the next auxiliary tea or bridge party.

Second grader Danny Carter graciously has consented to tell how he whipped up his famous bug cake.

The design, sure to win you acclaim, won him a ribbon at the Naples School Cake Contest.

No pale piece of pastel party pastry, the Carter creation features an eye-stopping lady bug (some called it a "Beatle") motif and comes in authentic insect colors: red body, chocolate cup-cake head, black wavy legs and feelers against a vivid background of chartruse green—"the grass, where bugs sit, you know."

* * * *

"IT WAS EASY to make," says Danny modestly.

"He did it all himself, with just a little negative help from his brothers (9 and 4 years) and sister (2)," says his mother, Mrs. Hugh Carter.

"Yep, they kept getting in the way licking the beaters and bowls," says Danny.

Anyway, once Danny decided on a bug (instead of a mouse or monster), he lined up the supplies. Included: one box of cake plus frosting mix and a dime store's supply of jelly beans, licorice whips, tiny hard candles plus food coloring, marshmallows and peanuts.

"You don't really need the marshmallows and peanuts," he advises. "But, they're nice to have around."

THE DIRECTIONS? Bake one round and one cup cake each; cool and frost. The jelly beans are for the spots and the eyes and the licorice whips make the legs and feelers. Decorating time: One hour and 15 minutes.

"The legs are the hard part," says Danny. "They kept slipping—it took gobs of frosting to keep them stuck up."

Unfortunately, no one knows how Danny's cake tasted.

"By the time it got home (minus five spots and two legs), I decided it looked a little too worn to be edible," says Mrs. Carter.

"But, I guess Danny was pretty lucky at that. Someone ate the torch off Kevin O'Neil's Olympic ski jump cake before the judging and little Helen Rhea, third grade, slipped 100 feet from the school and dropped her American flag face down on the pavement."

* * * *

THE CONTEST, held on P-T.A. Founder's Day for the past 12 years, is co-sponsored and supervised by recreation director Vera McAllister and P-T.A. recreation chairman Marge Tead.

Cakes, baked and decorated at home, are judged in two categories: those baked and decorated by the child and those decorated only by the child.

Each contestant wins a ribbon in some category (they range from artistic to clever) and the popularity of the event is attested to by the fact that more than half the children in school participate . . . this year 150 out of 200 families.

As to Danny's beribboned bug—any women who'd like to copy the design is welcome to do so, according to Mrs. Carter. "But, don't ask Danny to do the job," she pleads. "One cake a year is enough."

BUGS MAY TOP the current "Beatle" craze if Danny Carter's cake catches on. In bold tones, it represents a walking (legs uneven) lady bug; would make a lovely centerpiece, don't you think? A prize winner at the Naples School Cake Contest, it's "easy to make." See story.—(Photo by Joe Risinger.)

And Now... Look What's Ahead for the Men

...S-t-r-e-t-c-h Fabrics, Kookie Hats and Colors that S-c-r-e-a-m!

By MARY ELLIS CARLTON
I, P-T Fashion Editor

The man in the grey flannel suit may be replaced in 1964 by the man in the white stretch coat and pants.

And those teen-age men you see in surfer clothes may not be surfers at all. Chances are they've just been swept up in the latest fashion wave.

That's the word from the American Institute of Men's and Boy's Wear, who—in conjunction with the 46th annual convention of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers held in Los Angeles—just unveiled the latest in men's wear.

EXPERTS from top fiber producers and mills note that s-t-r-e-t-c-h is the big word in men's fashions. Fabrics with give will be found not only in sportswear but in business suits—even formal wear.

Said one expert: "They're not only comfortable, they look fresher and less wrinkled at the end of the day."

About that surfer influence: Surfing has become such a teen-age rage, say the experts, that teen-age men (that's what AIMBW calls them) from Des Moines to Del Monte are going all out for the surfer look.

And manufacturers are providing plenty of ammunition with laced-front swimtrunks, hooded parkas, wheat-colored jeans, collarless sweatshirts and kookie hats.

ASCOTS, that staple of the sporty Hollywood set, are back. And African prints, the wilder the better, are coming.

Blazers are big. So are white suits, or off-white ones.

Other trends:

Ties—getting more colorful. There's less tone on tone, more printed patterns, more white in patterns. Traditional ones are slightly wider.

Shoes—lighter browns, without the reddish and black tones of winter. Blacks will be brighter with lightweight calfskins taking over from heavyweight grained skins.

Belts—alligator, calf, pin seal and moroccos are coming in, along with a big array of light and bright elastics.

Slacks—more belt loops and more with plain, rather than pleated, fronts.

And it's noted that girl-watchers may be in for some trouble this year. They'll have difficulty making their whistles heard over the loud, noisy color combinations in sportswear.

After a Fashion

Here's What's 'In' . . .

Checking in for spring (from left), very lightweight button-through worsted topcoat worn with iridescent blue-green suit, black high-style slipons, medium grey pinch-front felt hat . . . for boating, broadly striped cotton knit tank top; white duck pants, matching hat; bright orange quilted nylon float coat that doubles as life jacket, holds up to 250 pounds in the water... new collarless T-shirt, kookie straw hat, white jeans . . . the always-popular blazer in bright green linen worn with single-self-belt; silk ascot fills in neck of plaid shirt . . . the authentic surfer look, matching lace-front swim trunks, parka top in cotton duck.

Learn From Experience

Take a look at the West hand only. You have 20 high card points, a very good six-card suit, two aces and three kings. Do you plan to open with a conservative one heart or an optimistic two bid?

Either prospect is pleasing but your dreams are rudely interrupted. Instead of passing as any nice opponent would do South bids four spades! Now, what do you do?

Thirty years ago I would have bid five hearts. I would feel that all I needed to make the contract would be heart support, the queen of diamonds and a singleton spade in dummy and that I was not going to let South fix me.

Today after 30 years of being fixed by everyone from the greatest experts to the veriest beginners, I would double.

* * * *

THE THEORY is that when you expect to be fixed try to get some sort of plus score in any event. I really expect to set this four spade bid and I am not at all confident that I will be able to make five hearts.

This time the decision to double is a wise one indeed. I will probably set four spades two tricks for a net profit of 300 points. Even if South plays double dummy I will collect 100 points and five hearts will be doubled and set at least one trick. Not too much difference except that pluses are pluses and minuses are minuses.

Nielsen urges each individual and all organizations in the area to support the project.

She Hears His 'Yes' After Thirty Years

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I'm glad that leap year comes this month. For I popped the question to him, and he said "Yes."

For 30 years I have been waiting for him. In the meantime, he has been widowed twice. But I never married, always waiting for him. And last week I called him up and asked him to let me take him to dinner. He was surprised for a minute, but then he said, "Why sure, Martha!"

He wouldn't stand for me picking him up. But I asked him under candlelight at the restaurant to put on my finger a ring I had bought, he thought this was fun, and we will be married next month.

We have both saved enough money to buy a little home in Florida. So don't let anyone ever tell you that it isn't worth waiting to find heaven. I've found mine. Those 30 years now seem like a day. — LUCKY MARTHA

DEAR MARTHA:

And you will find, I am sure, that these last roses are by far the best.—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I've written you before but you never answer. Why not? My problem is my father won't let me get my driver's license and says I have to wait until I'm 21. I'm past 16 now.

He works all the time, and Mother can't drive. I know I could be a lot of help if I had my license. What to do?—DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE:

I'm sorry about not answering, but my dear I had 51 letters last month from 16-year-olds complaining about the same thing you do. There is no way I can help. This is an individual problem in each family — and has to be worked out individually, too.—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have a very young daughter (just 17) who has two young children. They started fighting when they were over at our house the other day and instead of spanking them my daughter simply yelled at them.

My son-in-law got up and gave the youngsters a little spanking, and then turned my daughter over his knee and spanked her, too, saying this was an example of what she had to do to discipline the children.

Even though she is young I think he had no right to spank her and I am very indignant. What do you think?—WONDERING MOM

DEAR MOM:

Of course I don't think a husband should spank his wife, no matter how young she is. But I do think he should make her understand the importance of disciplining the kids.—M.M.

MAJOR & MINOR NOTES

Young Dancer's Career Is Traced

By RACHEL MORTON
I. P-T Music Critic

The Robert Joffrey Ballet, a recent attraction here with the Community Concerts series, made a tour of Russia last fall. Two members of the company, Bill Tarpy and Christine Sarry, are pupils of our own local ballet teacher, Valerie Silver. Bill Tarpy came to see me recently and what he told me was most interesting and informative.

Bill was born in Long Beach 19 years ago. His mother, whose maiden name oddly enough was Martha Graham, took her son at the age of 6 to a tap dance class.

"That is not what I want," he told her after a few lessons. Then he saw the film, "The Red Shoes." He saw it seven times. "That's what I want," he exclaimed, "ballet dancing." So began his lessons with Valerie Silver and he has never ceased taking from her.

"She is the greatest of them all. She has a spiritual approach to the dance which none of the others have," he says.

* * * *

AT THE AGE of 9, Bill Tarpy danced his first solo dance, the Bluebird in "Sleeping Beauty," and at 12 he danced leads in Coppelia which Valerie Silver produced.

At 15 years of age Bill started ballet lessons in Los Angeles with David Lichine, who was with the original Ballet Russe. Lichine took him to Mexico City where they made a film, "Graduation Ball."

When he was 17 he danced at the Pilgrimage Play Bowl in a production put on by Valerie Silver. From his appearance came a Ford Foundation scholarship for lessons in New York City with the famous Russian dancer, Balanchine.

"I loved my work with this great teacher," related Bill. "But New York City depressed me and I decided I should go home and finish my education." He graduated from Wilson High School in 1963.

* * * *

ONE DAY last October a telephone call from New York from Christine Sarry.

"We are going on a tour to Russia," she explained excitedly, "and they need one more male dancer." They sent Bill a plane ticket and within three days he was accepted as a member of the Robert Joffrey Ballet. In three weeks he was on his way to Russia.

The biggest thrill came when they first entered the famous Maryinsky Theater in Leningrad where they opened their three-week season. In this theater had danced Pavlova, Nijinsky, Ulanova and Nureyev, and all the other great Russian dancers. Members of the Joffrey Company all reached down and touched the "sacred" floor in a remembering tribute.

* * * *

BILL DESCRIBED the theater itself as very beautiful, with red velvet chairs, white wood paneling with gilding and chandeliers everywhere. The theater seats 1500, although 1760 is the official count. After they left the theater, the young Russian ballet dancers were waiting for them with welcoming hugs, although they could not speak one another's language.

"Communication by way of the arts," said Bill, "is far more effective and convincing than diplomatic parleys."

In Donetsk, a little coal mining town, they were the first Americans ever presented. Although a small village, it had a beautiful modern opera house. Ten performances in Moscow completed the 10 week-tour. Everywhere there were standees and at the last performances in Leningrad the curtain rose and lowered 27 times, and as the dancers advanced for bows, they were pelted with flowers. In Moscow on the final night, they were 35 curtain calls.

* * * *

FROM THIS thrilling experience, Bill Tarpy has come back with but one ambition: not for himself, but for Long Beach.

"We are known as the International City," he said. "My dream is to see here in Long Beach some day an International Fine Arts Conservatory second to none in the world."

Dream on, Bill Tarpy! Every great achievement started as a dream.

Will Solo With Symphony

As has been their custom for almost 20 years, Long Beach Symphony Association has again sponsored a competition for student musicians, the winner of which will be presented in a concert next Saturday at 8 p.m. in Millikan High School Auditorium.

Auditions were held last week under direction of a committee from the association which included Ernest Webeke, chairman, Mrs. Charles Dorrans and Dr. Lester De Noyelles. Auditions are co-sponsored by the association, service clubs of Long Beach and the Long Beach Symphonettes.

Winners in the four divisions of the competition include Craig Nies, piano; Kathleen Crawford, voice; Don Kramer, strings; and John Dorch, winds. Each will receive a substantial cash award.

* * * *

SECOND PLACE winners who will receive certificates of merit include Pamela Saltzman, voice; Lynn Curtis, strings; Christopher Haffenden and Edward Allan (tied), winds. Presentations will be made by representatives of the sponsoring groups.

The program will include Berlioz' "Trojan March" and Enesco's "Rumanian March." Audition winners will perform with the orchestra in Mendelssohn's "Violin Concerto" (third movement); Tchaikovsky's "Piano Concerto No. 1" (1st movement); Stomatz "Concerto for Clarinet" and "Jewel Song" from Gounod's "Faust." Lauris Jones will conduct the 90-piece orchestra.

* * * *

THERE IS no admission charge for the concert which is made possible by a grant from trust funds of the recording industries, obtained by cooperation of Local 353, American Federation of Musicians.

There will be dancing after the concert. Reservations may be made for groups of 20 or more by calling the Symphony Association, 1935 E. Seventh St.

Film Series Opens at L.B. State

"La Belle Americaine," first presentation in the Long Beach Film Society's spring series, will be shown in the Long Beach State College Little Theater next Sunday at 5 p.m. and again at 7:30 p.m.

Robert Dhery directs and stars in this 1961 French comedy about a convertible automobile. Collet Brasset, his wife, is his co-star. Companion feature will be "Return to Glennescaul."

* * * *

OTHER TOP films to be presented during the series are "Aren't We Wonderful," German, with "The Painting," March 15; "Street of Shame," Japanese, with "Black Cat," April 5; "Two-Way Stretch," British, with Peter Sellers, May 3, with "City of Gold"; "End of Innocence," May 17; "The Awakening," with Anna Magnani, May 31.

Series memberships are $5 and may be ordered by writing Long Beach Film Society, P. O. Box 8091, Long Beach 90808. Single admission tickets are available at the box office for $1.25.

At Biltmore

"The Sound of Music," Rodgers and Hammerstein's musical success, will open a 12-day run at the Biltmore Theater in Los Angeles on Monday.

On March 2 one of Broadway's biggest current stage attractions, "The Private Ear and The Public Eye," now playing at the Morosco Theater in New York, will arrive at the Biltmore for a three-week engagement. A quartet of London's brightest young stars will divide the roles in the two separate plays.

Experiments of Trio Show Print Evolution

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

Fanciers of print-making will find much to interest them in the exhibit at the Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., which continues through next Sunday. A collection from the Museum of Modern Art, under the sponsorship of the Columbia Broadcasting System Foundation, it contains the works of the Englishman, Sickert, the Swiss, Vallotton, and the French Signac, all of whom lived in the late 19th and early 20th centuries.

These three men represent not only their own work, but reflect the close influence of numbers of artists on each other during those early days of rapid revolution and experimentation in European art.

* * * *

SICKERT profited from the fine etching technique of Whistler, mundane subject-matter and angle-shot approach from Degas. All of these, like many other artists of that era, were excited and influenced by Japanese woodcuts which had arrived in great numbers in Paris as wrappings for shipments of china.

Sickert's most remarkable characteristic is that his people are wraith-like while the architecture and furnishings of his etchings are very solid. He is enthralled by lower-class music halls, the performers, and the enthusiastic response of the audience. "That Old-Fashioned Mother of Mine" is a singer in dress-suit and his shadows in the spotlight; it is given form by a variety of line patternings, though the figure itself is treated as a flat silhouette.

* * * *

VALLOTTON, who worked in woodcut eschewing the revealing of grain in favor of sharp black and white, achieves strong effects. It shows a female nude sprawled amidst highly patterned pillows on a tapestry-covered bed. We view the scene from high on one side, and the turns of the patterns of flat color tell us succinctly about the shapes.

In "Student Procession," "Manifestation," and "The Charge," reverses of strong dark and light patterns are effective in both composition and the indication of different personalities in the crowds depicted.

* * * *

SIGNAC experimented in the post-impressionist color theories along with Seurat. They sought to capture the shimmer of light by using various colors together; they also developed theories of the emotion of color.

While Signac used the litho technique which Toulouse-Lautrec exploited, the approaches are almost opposite. The latter used broad, flat planes of intense color defined with sinuous line; Signac uses almost no line and his forms develop from the variations and overlaps of small strokes of color.

In "Port of San Tropez," tones of blue, red, and yellow are juxtaposed and overlaid. "Boats at Flessingue" is a riot of elaborate curving directions, not just in the boats and rigging but in a sunset sky as well which seems to bear some relationship to Van Gogh's "Starry Night." One black and white litho, "The Paris Flood of 1922," is a quick and brilliant perception.

Sculpture at LBSC

While Art Editor Elise Emery is on vacation her column is being written by Betty Wentworth.

Opening of the master's exhibit of Tenold Peterson will be honored with a reception at Long Beach State College tonight from 8 to 10 p.m. The public is invited.

The exhibition is the first master's show to be allocated the space of the entire large art gallery, and includes paintings, drawings, sculpture and prints.

Peterson is the first recipient of a loan program for graduate architectural sculpture given by the Long Beach State College Foundation. He has been in prominent juried shows from La Jolla to San Francisco, and three years ago he was second prize winner in a National Art Director's competition in New York for college students.

Considered to be an exceptionally original artist by his associates, Peterson has developed a completely personal style of treating forms (abstracted from observation of human form) and their interrelationships in space. Many of the paintings are huge and impressive in scale.

* * * *

LONG BEACH Art Association invites all artists to participate in the March Juried Exhibit to be held in the LBAA gallery in the Villa Riviera, 88 E. Ocean Blvd. Entries will be received next Saturday and Sunday from 1 to 7 p.m. and on Feb. 24 from 1 to 5 p.m.

Juror will be John Leeper, whose paintings are exhibited nationally in top galleries and museums. Oils, watercolors and mixed media are acceptable. Ralph Tarzian, director of juried exhibits, is in charge of arrangements. For further information call the gallery.

On Tuesday night at 7:30 guest speaker at the association's monthly meeting will be Dr. Maxine Merlino of Long Beach State College who will present a program of the art of India, Nepal, Hong Kong, the Philippines, Japan and Bangkok, featuring sculpture and major architectural monuments.

Dr. Merlino has also done work in theater set design and murals, and worked with Preston Sturges in his theater restaurant, "The Players" in Los Angeles. Slides will be shown.

* * * *

AMONG ARTISTS and sculptors from throughout the state whose works of art have been accepted for display in the All California Art Exhibit at the National Orange Show in San Bernardino, several are from the Long Beach and nearby areas. The show will run from March 12 through 22.

Represented in the modern watercolor category is Grace S. Dimmick, 477 E. Adair St., Long Beach, with Herbert Griswold, Newport Beach, in the same category. Accepted in the conservative watercolors are Rex Brandt, Corona Del Mar; Dorothy McKinney, La Habra; Kathryn Olson and Roger Armstrong, Laguna Beach.

Modern oils accepted were from Leona Freeman, Dana Point; Ruth Osgood, Balboa Island; Allan Pedersen, Zan Wassen, San Pedro; and David Rosen, Laguna Beach.

* * * *

"NEW AMERICAN Sculpture," an exhibition of works of five outstanding artists of the past decade, has been prepared by the Pasadena Art Museum to run through March 7.

The exhibit includes works of Lee Bontecou, John Chamberlain, Edward Higgins, Kenneth Price and H. C. Westermann. Although all five are American born and live here they share a common tendency to draw upon a more distant ancestry, such European "grandparents" in sculpture as Brancusi, Arp, Calder and Miro.

Also on display in the galleries are "Spiritual Sculpture," including a recently acquired Christus; a collection of Venetian glass, displays of American and German expressionism, master prints from the 15th to 20th centuries and Rembrandt etchings.

The museum is open to the public daily except Monday.

Violin, Piano Concert Set

Ninth in the Long Beach Museum of Art's chamber music series is to be a violin and piano concert Thursday at 8 p.m. at the museum, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.

Featured are Arnold Belnick, violinist, and Sidney Stafford, pianist, who will play sonatas by Bach and Franck and a Schubert duo.

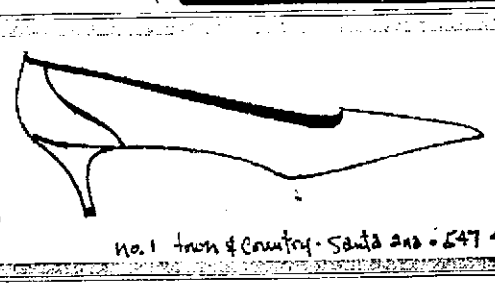

Belnick, a former soloist with the New York Philharmonic has also played with the Heifetz-Piatigorsky chamber orchestra and is a soloist for Columbia Records. Stafford is well known to museum audiences, having played here previously, and has accompanied a number of opera stars.

The concert is free to all under the sponsorship of L. A. County Music Commission and the City of Long Beach.

Sneedles and Vrooms Delight Center Visitors

What may well be the world's most fancifully inhabited "zoo" is on display through February at Lytton Center of Visual Arts, 8150 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood. The zoo is an exhibit "Of Creatures 'n Kids 'n Dr. Seuss," designed for children and adults of all ages, and is a display of many of Dr. Seuss' manuscripts and his highly distinctive "animals."

Dr. Seuss, (real name Theodore Seuss Geisel and a resident of La Jolla), has sold more children's books than any author in history, including Lewis Carroll.

In the course of writing and illustrating these works, Seuss has created an unmatched collection of fantastically named creatures. Many of his original drawings, both in finished and developmental form, some on loan from UCLA's rare manuscript collection, are at the Lytton Center show.

For example, there are the "Sneetches," the "Foona Lagoona Baboona," the "Chuppendale Mupp," the "Grickily Gractus," the "Hooded Klopfers," "Sneedle," "Umbus" and "Vrooms," just to give a Seussian sampling.

* * * *

FOREMOST of all is Dr. Seuss' most popular character, "The Cat in the Hat."

The "Cat," portrayed by actor Robert Towers, reads Seuss stories to Center visitors. Towers is properly costumed in the Seuss cat's highly distinctive red and white hat, about as tall as a Buckingham Palace guard's shako, plus the cat's drooping red bow tie and most important, his winsome expression.

In conjunction with the Seuss show is another exhibit of other highly imaginative "creatures" created by 6 to 14 year olds from Eldorado School in Orange, Monterey Park Creative Workshop and Pasadena Art Museum Junior Workshop. Their assignment was to devise their own creations from either the animal or mythological world.

* * * *

AS THE exhibit shows, the children came through with flying colors, with a "Worm from Outer Space," a "Feather Bottle," an "Axphixius Futura" and the "Gandy Chummley." They used egg cartons, pie plates, bits of wool and string as well as clay.

Other displays include George Pal's gnomes from the "Wonderful World of the Brothers Grimm" and Tony Duquette's fairy tale miniatures from "Camelot." There are also free hourly showings of especially selected short color movies in the Lytton Auditorium. (But reports that the movie projector is operated by a "Nizzard" just aren't true).

The center is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and admission is free.

Vienna Boys Choir to Sing at City College

Vienna Boys' Choir, 22 musical ambassadors from Austria, will appear in concert at 8 p.m. Friday in Long Beach City College auditorium, Harvey Way near Clark Avenue.

Tickets to the college's "Evenings at Eight Extra" will be available during the week at the student body banker's office, 4901 E. Carson St., and at the box office Friday night.

Representatives of a 465-year tradition, the Vienna Choir Boys are products of intensive training at the famous Seminary School in Vienna, founded in 1498 by decree of Holy Roman Emperor Maximilian I. The choir often performs works by two celebrated former members, Josef Haydn and Franz Schubert.

Ages of the choir boys range from 8 to 14, and many a tuneful boy soprano becomes a "has been" at 12 or 13, as voices begin to change. The Seminary School assists former choir members with further education and training for future careers, however.

IMPRESARIO Sol Hurok, who arranged the choir's first trip to the U.S. in 1932 and is sponsoring its 20th American tour this season, has commented: "They sing like angels — but they eat like horses."

Repertoire of the group ranges from religious and classical music to folk songs and costumed operettas. In the latter the boys display a considerable flair for acting and comedy along with their flawless musicianship.

Donald E. Sullivan

CHEF OF THE WEEK

He Came, Saw, Couldn't Forget

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
L. P-T Food Editor

He first glimpsed the splendor of Southern California while peeking over a clarinet in Pasadena's Rose Bowl.

Today's Chef of the Week, Donald E. Sullivan was a member of the University of Nebraska Band, when that university played Stanford in the 1941 New Year's game. He doesn't remember which team won, he was so smitten with his surroundings.

Sullivan remained in Aurora, Neb., his birthplace, until enrolling in the Univeristy of Nebraska at Lincoln, from which he graduated with a degree in business administration. He pledged Delta Sigma Pi.

* * * *

SULLIVAN'S tour through the houses-of-learning (from high school up) was made possible by various and sundry feats of industry. For instance, he was doorman at the Nebraska Theatre in Lincoln, the janitor at the State Capitol Building, and a guide at both the New York and San Francisco World Fairs.

But right in the middle of it all, with no money—and no worries, he said, "Let's get married." And that's what he and Evelyn Williams, his high school sweetheart, up and did. She's proven his lucky charm ever since.

* * * *

FOLLOWING graduation, Don spent ten months with Dupont as cost engineer while awaiting orders for Navy duty, which eventually took him to Notre Dame for training. He received his commission as Ensign in 1943 and set out on his first tour of duty to Long Beach. Never having seen an ocean before, he was immediately assigned the job of Harbor Pilot.

Learning via the grapevine that the Destroyer, USS The Sullivans (named for the five Sullivan brothers who had been war casualties) was being built, Sullivan requested duty aboard that ship. It was granted, and he took over as gunnery officer with the rank of senior lieutenant. He found 21 other Sullivans aboard, also.

When "The Sullivans" had won the war, Don returned to Long Beach, and after interviewing companies for three weeks, he went to work for the Payne Furnace Co.

In 1949, he, with two others, formed the Southland Heating and Air Conditioning, Inc., with Don as vice president and treasurer.

* * * *

TEN YEARS later, he formed another company, the Advanced Engineering and Supply Corp., which is distributor for Payne Heating and Air Conditioning Co. in southwest Los Angeles, Riverside and San Bernardino Counties. It's "wholsul" only. They have 72 dealers and Don is president of the company.

The Sullivans have a son, Tom, recently from Nebraska U., now at City College, and 16-year-old twin daughters, Susan and Sandra, Wilson students. They're both brunettes and "Brunettes," cheer leaders, song leaders, 'n such.

Sullivan had a bit of rooting coming his way while in school, also. He lettered in football and played on the champion team, The Aurora Huskies. Vice president of his senior class, he made honor roll his first year. Then he got married.

A MEMBER of the Downtown Kiwanis Club, he is trust adviser of Region 10 for the North American Heating and Air Conditioning Wholesalers. Region 10 includes California, Arizona, New Mexico and Nevada. Having worked up through the chairs, he has served as president of the Long Beach Builders Exchange. As a family, they are active in the Lakewood Village Community Church.

Perhaps it's just as well that Sullivan's business is strictly wholesale. If anything needs fixing around the house, Mrs. Sullivan quickly calls the repairman before Don discovers it. There's a reason!

Our "Chef" can, and does, however, turn out a fetching batch of Barbecued Pork Chops. Here's how he does them:

BARBECUED PORK CHOPS

8 lean pork chops
½ cup catsup
tsp. salt
tsp. celery seed
½ tsp. nutmeg
⅓ cup vinegar
1 cup water
1 bay leaf

Brown chops in hot fat. Combine all remaining ingredients, and pour over chops. Bake in 325° oven for 1½ hours, turning chops once during baking.

Wears Satin for Wedding

In a gown of lace styled over satin, Mary Ann Sutton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell E. Sutton, 904 E. 70th Way, became the bride of Gary James O'Neil in Bethel Lutheran Church.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. O'Neil of San Pedro.

For the 8 p.m. ceremony Feb. 15, Mrs. Fred Ashley served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Pat and Jan Sutton, sisters of the bride. Richard Poulsen, a cousin of the bridegroom, was best man and ushering the 160 guests to their places were Michael Stephenson and Joe Di Cala.

* * * *

THE NEW Mrs. O'Neil is a graduate of Jordan High School. Her husband is a graduate of San Pedro High and attended Harbor Junior College.

Following a honeymoon stay at San Juan Capistrano the newlyweds will make their home in San Pedro.

Ho Ho! Here is Reason for Tricky Back Drape Look

Smart reason for clever back panel on Mary Jane Orman's gown (see W-2) becomes aparent. She broke shoulder on leaving Chamber of Commerce meeting; caught heel on step and fell, kerplunk, into flower bed, quicker than you could say geranium. For busy social whirl she has devised number of matching scarves to secure in back with handsome pins. What appears style-wise drape has dual purpose. In front wisely, comfortably cradles arm, in sling effect.
Husband Jim has been buying her new pins, scarves like 60. Children, Debbie, Steve, have done share, too, with housework, homework.

Husband, Wife Social Planned

OUR COVER

When Palm Springs last took a count of swimming pools, there were 3,099 — but wait! That was a few days ago. The count could now be 3,105 or 3,110, because new pools are going in at the rate of nearly one a day! Already dubbed the "Golf Capital of the World," Palm Springs also claims the world record for pools — boasting one for every five permanent residents, most per capita of any place on earth. Pools are as common as third bedrooms or dens in medium-priced Palm Springs homes. In fact, architects design homes around pools and one home builder even blasted his pool out of solid granite. And another builder advertised "wall-to-wall water," not as absurd as it might seem! For more about Palm Springs turn to Page 7.

George Washington's home in Mount Vernon, Va. This is the west front or land side view. Flanking courtyard, left, is Martha Washington's kitchen and covered way.

The Home Washington Loved

By Enola Chamberlin

MOST OF US, wherever we live, are glad to have friends come to our homes. And in this respect we are like George Washington, only he was perhaps more hospitable than many of us would be. For he welcomed strangers as well as friends.

"Let them come and see so long as they are sober and orderly," he said in effect regarding those who wished to view the buildings and gardens of Mt. Vernon.

His was always an open house so we know he would be gratified were he able to sit in his study today and watch the throngs that walk quietly through the rooms that look almost as they did when he and Martha warmed them by their presence.

THIS WASHINGTON home of today, set in its 500-acre estate, is owned by the Mt. Vernon Ladies Association, organized by Miss Pamela Cunningham in 1858 when Mt. Vernon was offered for sale for $200,000. She called on the women of America to subscribe money to purchase the estate that it might be preserved for their children's children. The house and grounds were restored to be as nearly as possible as they were when Washington lived there. They are being maintained by the thousands of visitors who pay a nominal fee for admittance.

When Mt. Vernon was first opened to the public as few as 25,000 visited it in a year. In contrast a million go through its gates now in that time.

A superintendent and 60 persons work full time to keep the estate in apple-pie order. It takes 16 guards to mingle with the sightseers to be certain that no little trinket finds its way into someone's pocket. It is gratifying to know, however, that very few attempts are made to carry off souvenirs from the noted house.

THE PILLARED front of the mansion is known to everyone through pictures if not by actual sight, but the rear holds far more of interest. There in the form of a huge horseshoe, beyond the courtyard and bowling green, stretch a score of buildings that were of prime importance when life was lived there. These buildings include servants' quarters, ice house, not where ice was made but where it was stored after having been cut from pond c river. There is a spinning house, a gardener's house, smoke house, warehouse, coach house, barns and paddocks.

In the Washington kitchen a large cooking hearth is surrounded by the iron pots and kettles which were used to prepare meals for the family and guests. Such things as spice boxes and pewter plate warmers are of special interest to visitors. Washington's revolving chair stands as always before the desk in his study. Here it was that he wrote in his diary, kept his account books and penned his will. His bed, a four-poster with canopy, looks as if it could be turned down at evening for its one-time owner. This bed is a huge affair as well as an odd one. It is six feet square and made entirely of mahogany.

WASHINGTON went to live at Mt. Vernon with his half-brother Lawrence when he was 15 years of age. It was not then the mansion it was finally to become. Washington inherited it at his brother's death when he was 22. When he married Martha at 27, he began to enlarge the house. He was his own architect. He designed the buildings, measuring, spacing, overseeing their erection. It always grieved him if he had to be away when any of the work was going on.

Although Mt. Vernon is where the most interest in the Father of Our Country is shown, there are other places where honor is paid to him. At Sulgrave Manor, Washington's ancestral home in Sulgrave, England, British citizens as well as Americans wander through the rooms and around the grounds where Washington's progenitors lived for 120 years.

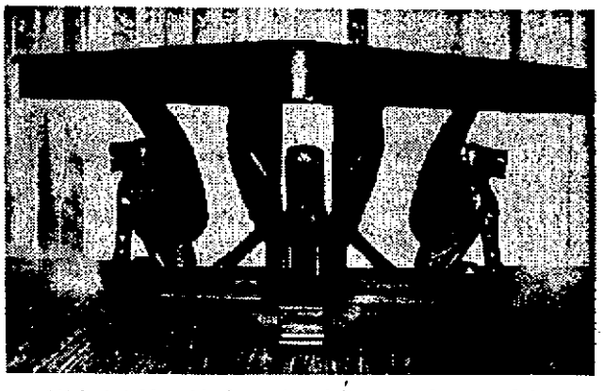

The land of this estate, about 400 acres, has not been kept. Only about two acres around the house remain. The Stars and Stripes along with the Union Jack, are flown at the doorway of the manor. This shrine is maintained jointly by the British and the Society of Colonial Dames of America. It was bought for preservation by a British group in 1914, a tribute to 100 years of peace between England and the United States.

It is certain that such a gesture would have pleased Washington. That he would have been gratified to see the two flags, at war in his time, folding and unfolding peacefully in the same breeze. For, after all, though a great general, Washington was a man of peace.

Did It Belong to Napoleon?

Walnut table with four winged lions can be traced to 1880s. The "King Lion" supposedly can bring ill fortune.

By Retta E. Ewers

WHO MADE the strange table illustrated on this page? How did it happen to land in California in 1880? What monarch's dining room did it grace, and where?

Is the legend concerning it true?

"My husband's father got it at an auction in San Francisco in 1882," said Decima Allen of Riverside, the owner, "but we were never able to learn anything of its history."

She expressed the idea that it may have belonged to Napoleon, but this seems unlikely since the lion represents royalty, and he was not of royalty.

EACH OF the four winged lions, forming the legs, have been called 'griffins,' but this legendary animal has the head, neck and beak of an eagle. Ears of the lions are small, pointed and originally held large gemstones—eight in all.

Similar in design, the figures differ one from the other. One, the king, must always face north, supposedly to ward off evil and bad luck.

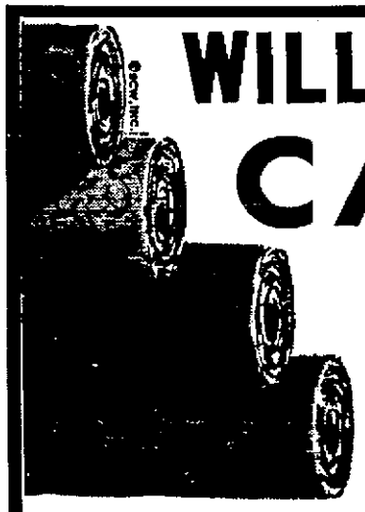

Black walnut forms the top, so highly polished its touch is like soft satin. Portions shine like gold, and when chipped it tends to "heal" itself.

The owners have been offered substantial sums for the table, but have declined to sell it. They would like to learn something of its history. Who made it? Designed it? Where are the jewels from the lions' ears?

Perhaps someone eventually will find the answers.

The Willbanks Story:
The Willbanks Carpet Co. is a departure from the usual carpet specialty shop. It was founded on the premise that quality carpet, backed by expert installation, could be sold at a minimum mark-up in sufficient volume to be profitable. The extension of this premise was to operate without frills and costly fixtures from a low rent and thus low overhead location in a factory warehouse on a side street in Signal Hill. By eliminating high rent and other cost-raising features, the company decided it could afford to pass on to its customers the substantial savings by giving more carpet at less cost.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on TREMAYNE.—H.O., Long Beach.

H. O.: TREMAYNE is from Cornwall which is in southwest England. This surname was a village title taken from the old Cornish words "Tre-Men" meaning "town or homestead at the stone ruins." The ancestry of this titled lineage extends back to Perys de Tremayne of the town of Tremayne in the mid-1300s. The family coat-of-arms has three golden right arms joined at the shoulders and bent in the form of a triangle, with clenched fists, centered on a red shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the genealogy on BEWLEY. —F. B., Garden Grove; B. H., Lakewood; M. B., Seal Beach.

F. B., B. H., M. B.: BEWLEY began as an ancient French town, Beau-Lieu, near Teurs, meaning "beautiful place." Beau-Lieu, adopted as a family name by a former resident of the place, was brought to England in the 1100s. The original French spelling was then phonetically altered to Bewley. The Bewley shield from Kent, England, is silver, emblazoned with a black chevron between three black eagle heads.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you explain ROYLE and ROYAL.—L. M., H. R., L. R., Long Beach.

ROYLE and ROYAL have several early English sources. They are evolutions of "Ryehull" meaning "rye-covered hill," a locality in Cheshire. The same source phrase also meant "watercourse by the hill." Early Cheshire records of 1318 state that Richard de Ruyhul owned a hamlet called Ruyhul. This place is now known as Ryle, but it is the original home of this family. The Royle coat-of-arms has a diagonal red stripe placed between three red crosses in a silver shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on NULLMEYER.—H. N., Garden Grove.

H. N.: NULLMEYER was originally Null-Meier. This place-origin name had its inception in north Germany and meant "hill farmer."

DEAR MISS RULE: May we have the origin of AHNEMAN.—L. A., Long Beach.

L. A.: AHNEMAN, originally the German surname Ahnemann, began as a coupling of "Ahne," a nickname taken from Arnold, and "Mann," for "adherent or follower of." Arnold was a hero name describing "strung as an eagle."

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly explain FUNICELLO.—M. F., Lakewood.

M. F.: FUNICELLO is an Italian occupation-origin surname. The remote medieval forefather bequeathed his trade title to present generations, for Funicello meant "sons of the rope maker."

DEAR MISS RULE: Have you data on FRYER, FRIAR, FREER.—E. G., B. F., Long Beach; R. C., Garden Grove.

E. G., B. F., R. C.: FRYER, a phonetic spelling of FRIAR and FREER, another alteration, all refer to a friar or priest. The resemblance of the family ancestor to a priest, both in manner and religious attitude was the cause of this name's usage. Ancestors include Elizabeth Freer, married at London in 1558. The English Fryer and Freer shield is black, decorated with three silver dolphins and a silver chevron.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please publish genealogy on GABRIEL.—A. B., Long Beach.

A. B.: GABRIEL may be either English or French. In both nations this name was endowed on the family ancestor in honor of the Archangel St. Gabriel whose name meant "with the strength of God." Gabriel ancestors were among the nobility of the French medieval province of Franche-Comte. Their shield is black, engraved with three gold leopard heads. English progenitors include Thomas Gabriell of Yorkshire in 1376. The English Gabriel shield is gold, decorated with 13 black rectangles.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please inform us on COLTRANE.—R. C., Long Beach.

R. C.: COLTRANE is from the Scotch and Irish Gaelic clan name MacCodlatain, meaning "sons of the sleeper." The Irish home counties of this family were Carlow and Wexford.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please include data on HELD.—F. H., Seal Beach.

F. H.: HELD, when traced to its German origin, is revealed as being a dialect form of Hild meaning "battle." No other data is available on Held.

Palm Springs Love Affair

By Jane Hengesbaugh

Each year Palm Springs adds something new or makes changes that increase the attraction for visitors. Andreas Canyon, top photo, however, is one beauty spot that is unchanged but always intriguing. Above, another view of the canyon, with its palms. Below, new feature of the spa, an aerial tramway which terminates at this mountainside structure. Bottom, one of the 3,100 plus pools that sparkle in area, this one at the Spa Hotel.

EACH YEAR Palm Springs has a love affair: Its approximately one million seasonal visitors fall in love with Palm Springs, and Palm Springs loves the visitors. And each year something new is added or changed to make Palm Springs more glamorous and more lovable.

The Palm Springs Angel Stadium (formerly the Polo Grounds) will dust off the bleachers on Feb. 24 as the Los Angeles Angels open their fourth spring training season in the spa. The Angels will have a 13-game spring schedule, starting March 7, playing such stellar teams as the San Francisco Giants, Chicago Cubs, Cleveland Indians, Boston Red Sox and Hawaii Islanders.

Palm Springs' 16 golf courses are in full playing bloom, green and fresh as perpetual spring. Golfers are playing on the additional third nine holes recently completed at Bermuda Dunes Country Club, making this the first club with a 27-hole course in the desert area.

THE $265,000 AIRSTRIP recently opened at Bermuda Dunes Country Club on Dec. 14 accommodated 652 private planes in the first 30 days, surpassing all anticipated use. The strip can handle planes as large as Convairs and DC3s. The $300,000 hangar has eight offices (probably the only hangar in the country to include a dentist under its roof); instructors have begun a ground school, with 15 students (members of the country club) already enrolled. An over-all $1,000,000 development.

Canyon Country Club's additional 18 holes are planted and the first nine due to be ready for play this month; second nine by the end of March. These additionals give the "Winter Golf Capital of the World" its first 36-hole golf course.

There are four new golf courses on the drawing board for the area. It is estimated that 400,000 rounds of golf will be played on the courses among the sand dunes this year.

The $8 million Palm Springs Aerial Tramway, sometimes called "The Eighth Wonder of the World," in the first three months after opening took the 100,000th rider up to the mountain station in December, and the 50,000th car went through the entrance gate at the valley station the following day.

A PROPOSAL HAS been made to the Mt. San Jacinto Winter Park Authority to develop the recreation area at the top of the tramway, which would include ski runs and tows and an ice skating rink.

The $1 million International Hotel has opened the doors to its 52 rooms, which have king-size beds or two queen-size beds, per double room. The hotel's policy of giving a free car wash and Blue Chip Stamps to guests has proved to be an interesting policy and enjoyed by the guests. There are no dining facilities at the hotel, but Continental breakfast is served 24 hours a day.

With the addition of 150 rooms, at the cost of $1½ million, the Palm Springs Riviera Hotel has brought its total of rooms to 507. The new $750,000 convention center is serving its purpose well, approximately 15,000 persons having made use of facilities since it opened in October. Besides being used by conventions, local functions needing more space for audiences are making use of the center's 3,500 seating capacity. The 15th Annual Palm Springs Police Show with its many famous guest stars who appear for charity is being held indoors for the first time at the convention center on March 7.

How Tom Mix Backed Into the Movies

By Wendell Roberts

"WE DIDN'T know we were making entertainment history," recalled Harvey Hazelleaf of North Long Beach. "They just told us fellows in the band to get into our cowboy outfits and find some horses. The Selig Polyscope Company wanted to use our wild west show for some films."

The year was 1909, the locale along the Des Plaines River at Willow Springs, near Chicago. The show troupe was Circle D Ranch Wild West and Indian Congress, complete with real cowboys, Sioux Indians fresh off a North Dakota reservation, and a clarinet player with itchy feet.

Most of the cowmen were from Montana, although there was one rider who had spent the previous few years in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. He was hired primarily to handle show stock and throw a rope if an animal decided to commit mayhem. His name was Tom Mix.

WITH TWO-REELERS produced on the spur of the moment, with neither script nor stars, anyone with a camera and imagination could become a producer. The motion picture palace was still in the future, most audiences paying a nickel or dime a head to sit on rented undertakers' chairs in a vacant store building.

A few years after that 1909 season, Tom Mix was to become king of the cowboys, inheritor of the mantle worn by Bronco Billy Anderson and William S. Hart—all this with neither resonant baritone voice nor guitar.

"We'd started with Will A. Dickey's show troupe the year before, in 1908," Hazelleaf remembers. "Charley Baner, in our home town of Kewanee, Ill., was a musician who decided our little group ought to be able to play, travel and get paid at the same time. An ad in 'Billboard' magazine did the rest.

"BY SPRING, a half-dozen men, including my brothers Corbin and Roy, made the jump from the corn belt to the tent show wild west, playing cities in Iowa, Minnesota, Illinois, Wisconsin, and even into Canada."

The troupers liked the idea well enough to rejoin the Circle D for the 1909 season, signing on again in Bolivar, Mo. Hazelleaf had spent the interim on the showboat Emerson, plying the Ohio and Kanawha Rivers.

"Tom Mix used to chum around some with our bunch," says the Long Beach man, "but you could never say he believed in tooting his own horn. Ask him a question, and he'd answer it honestly, though he wasn't much on volunteering information about his past.

"His wife, Olive Stokes Mix (his third, according to some biographers), was with the Dickey outfit, too. They were married before the season opened, in January."

THERE HAVE been reams of publicity on the late Tom Mix, some of it true, some exaggerated, some of it absolute falsehood. In the library of the Motion Picture Academy in Beverly Hills are envelopes stuffed with clippings, about the star, others about the Selig company. Yet, in all the material, there is only a short paragraph or two alluding to Mix's start with the Dickey show.

True, he was hired to handle stock. But his outstanding ability and showmanship soon earned him a place in the regular lineup—to the accompaniment of some jealousy on the part of the Montana cowboys. They weren't sure he was a real 'puncher or a smart drug store "westerner" who'd learned to handle stock in the Chicago yards.

Oddly, the publicity buildup given Mix was unnecessary.

A well-known encyclopedia gives Mix's birthplace as El Paso, Tex. In a 1961 newspaper interview, Olive Stokes Mix stated flatly that it's false. She remembers visiting his family where he was born—on Mix Run, near Pennezette, Clearfield County, Pennsylvania.

Mix, now a silent films legend, was killed in an Arizona auto accident. He was owner of a circus at the time.

He was born in 1880 and was well into manhood before he ever saw the real cow country. Mix had enough adventure under his belt by the time he joined the Circle D show to last a lifetime. Much more followed.

WHEN THE NAVY turned him down, he joined an Army artillery unit for the Spanish-American War. In those days, artillery meant horses for transport. Young Mix developed a knack for handling them that built his career.

He was sent to Cuba, working into a spot as special courier to Gen. Fightin' Joe Wheeler, a Confederate hero. Mix saw fighting with Roosevelt's Rough Riders, when they were assigned to Wheeler's corps.

Later, still in his Army hitch, Mix was shipped to the Philippines with 150,000 other Americans during the insurrection. He once pulled the body of a friend back to the American lines under heavy fire.

During the Boxer Rebellion, Mix was sent to Peking with American expeditionary forces before he was mustered out. Even then, his adventures were just beginning.

He got a job helping a supplier of mounts to the British in South Africa during the Boer War, eventually accompanying a consignment and serving for a while with the troops.

MIX WAS A long way from settling down. He went to the Southwest, spent some time with the Texas Rangers, became a sheriff in Kansas, later was appointed deputy U. S. marshal for eastern Oklahoma. His career in law enforcement included acquisition of a bullet crease, along with a reputation. The notorious Shonts gang of rustlers found Mix was no drug store cowboy when he helped capture them.

It was in Oklahoma's Cherokee territory that the cowboy bought a spread used in filming an early documentary, "Ranch Life in the Great Southwest."

His work in the film was only to handle stock and act as safety man, out of camera range. Not content with that, he asked if he could get in the picture.

"Sure," was the answer, "if you can show some speed."

He showed speed, and finished a scene by bulldogging a young steer in about 16 seconds. Director Francis Boggs was impressed enough to keep Mix in mind.

SOME TIME IN 1909, according to releases, the future star added to his reputation with Miller Bros. 101 Ranch Show. The dates are not clear, though he is credited with being a rodeo star.

A short time later, Selig must have entered into an agreement with Dickey and the Circle D. Mix made his first two-reeler, "The Range Rider," for the Polyscope Company at Flemington, Mo. After that, supporting roles were not for him, as the producer recognized Mix's value.

"We made at least a half-dozen films along the Des Plaines," Hazelleaf remembers. "Some titles included 'Up San Juan Hill,' 'The Millionaire Cowboy,' 'An Indian Wife's Devotion,' and 'Britain and Boer.' All were short films, for which Selig was noted."

THOSE EARLY productions were important enough to give Mix his real start in motion pictures. After the Circle D interlude, he went with Essanay Studios, another pioneer, and later to William Fox, forerunner of 20th Century-Fox.

One historian says that Mix almost singlehandedly made the Fox company. "He did for Fox what musical westerns did for Republic and Rin-Tin-Tin did for Warner's."

Hazelleaf and his brothers returned to Kewanee, Ill., when the season closed at Vincennes, Ind., but the Long Beach man wasn't quite through with Selig and Mix.

After a protracted bout with typhoid, he took a job singing illustrated songs at the Idle Hour Theater in nearby Princeton. It was 1910, and the two-reelers were in release. On the showbill was the sign, "See our tenor in 'The Millionaire Cowboy'."

Unclaimed Treasure

A report on valuables that go down the drain

Recovered from the Long Beach network of sewers, this stack of articles displayed by Sydney Preen, superintendent of sewer maintenance, Dept. of Public Works, gives some idea of service rendered by department.

By Walt Hoster

YOU ARE stranded on a dark and desolate street. It is raining and your car keys just slipped from your fingers and plopped smack-dab into a storm drain.

What do you do?

It is easy. You call the emergency crew of the Long Beach Department of Public Service—that's the sewer department to you.

A friendly voice assuages your fears. It is likely the voice of the dispatcher, Al Nieto. You tell him your trouble. He asks where you are.

"Stay right there," Nieto advises. "We will have a truck there in a few minutes. Watch for it. It has a yellow flasher over the cab."

In about 10 minutes several men garbed in weird costumes arrive. They wear steel helmets, heavy canvas harness, sturdy boots; they have oxygen tanks strapped to their backs and they bear strange lanterns and torches. They descend into the depths beneath a manhole cover. After a few minutes you have your keys and you are on your way home. It was a brief and not a too unhappy delay.

THE APPAREL of the men is all for safety. The harness is a must. In the event of a mishap the man below can be hoisted to the street. The oxygen tanks are for just that; if there is no oxygen below, he has it. One strange lantern—to test oxygen efficiency—gives a pre-warning. There is a telephone in his helmet.

There has not been an accident in almost 500 days.

The scenes are legion. The procedure is routine.

A policeman calls Nieto, "I have a kitten down a sewer," he reports.

Again within a matter of a few minutes the tears of some youngster are dried. The emergency crew has recovered another kitten that had been dropped or frightened down the opening of a storm drain.

The fame of the Long Beach Department of Public Service is almost universal. It all began several years ago when a large trunk of recovered but unclaimed treasures was shipped to Atlantic City as a display for a convention of Water Pollution Control Federation. Since then, the trunk, which contains a rich store of silver and gold rings and pins, bracelets, watches and jewels, lighters and heirlooms and countless other toys and trinkets, has been making annual rounds to other conventions throughout the nation.

"THE DISPLAY is important," declared Sydney Preen, superintendent of sewer maintenance, who in 31 years with the department has thrown away several tons of recovered-unclaimed items. "Once of value to someone, when unclaimed it becomes junk. The display emphasizes what we do here in Long Beach. Every year we have crews come in from other cities to work with our men and learn our procedure. We also draw Public Service officials from such countries as Brazil, Australia, New Zealand and Canada."

A call to the department to report a loss brings the warning not to attempt to recover an item yourself. Manhole covers can and do smash fingers and toes. Children have been lowered into manholes to get a lost ring, a wallet or a ring of keys. The emergency crews usually recover the lost article—and the child.

Recovery of treasures lost in the vast drainage and sewer systems has developed into a rather exact science. A series of traps and catch basins interspersed along the countless miles of underground pipes and tunnels are aids in the plan.

Staff Photos by Chuck Sundquist

Pup that skiddd into a storm drain while chasing a ball is recovered for mistress, Kathy Williams, 7, by emergency crewman Alfonso Nieto.

THE TELEPHONE jangles to report a valued diamond brooch down a drain. Assistant Superintendent Charles Skidmore puts out a radio call to send an emergency crew on its way. A storm has changed a dry drain into a heavy underground stream. The brooch has been washed away. A man is radioed to a catch basin. Then inflated rubber balls, varying in size from 6 to 48 inches, are placed in the line. Water slowly pushes the ball as it sweeps the pipe. If the brooch has jumped the first trap the men move to the next for a successful recovery.

Sometimes the efficiency of the emergency-recovery crews backfires—to the chagrin of the loss claimant.

One Long Beach woman reported some highly valued jewels had been lost down the drain. The usual procedure was put into operation in an attempt to recover the prized items from their underground locker. Several traps were checked; special flexible rods, 500 feet long, were used; different sized balls were put in the drains. No recovery was made. There just were not any valued jewels. As in all such cases where jewels, wallets and money are reported lost the police are called. Crack investigators of the Long Beach Police Department moved into the picture. A discomfited and saddened woman tearfully confessed she had lost heavily at some gaming tables and had sought to hide her losses from her husband in the secrecy of the complex drainage system. The system has no secrets. Her jewels were found safe in the vault of a pawn shop.

SOMETHING LOST in the home is usually a simple task for the emer-

A Reporter Has a Look

By Hoyt McAfee

ON MY LAST closely-supervised visit to Guantanamo Bay, I heard it described as "the true bastion of U.S. naval power in the Caribbean." Likewise as "the best deep-water anchorage in the Western world." Plus: "Our number one protection against Russian submarine forays in this area."

Gitmo (its informal nickname to all naval and military forces) was—I saw from close up—bristling with fortifications and protective devices. Key Navy officials assured me: "In an emergency situation, we could dig in at this base and repulse a full-scale attack by outside enemy forces. With reinforcements from our fleet, we feel that we could defend and hang on to this naval fortress (Gitmo) indefinitely."

At every turn one attitude prevailed among officers and enlisted personnel: We're on our toes and geared for any eventuality:—for any treacherous move by Castro's Cuba. All of which started me to wondering: In spite of its strong defensive position, and state of battle readiness, does Gitmo have a sore spot? An Achilles heel? In short, a weak link in its defensive chain?

WHEN I PURSUED that question, it netted me this familiar response: "It would be a breach of security to go into that — for publication." But my own observation acquainted me with a seldom-mentioned fact. This one: That the 10,500 Americans and 500 Cubans living within the Gitmo perimeter depended upon Cuba for fresh water.

A U.S. Marine sentry informed me: "We get it from a nearby river—on the other side of the Big Fence—and pay Castro $14,000 monthly for it." To which a finance officer added: "Sure, it's vital to the welfare of this base—a necessity. Any way you look at it, we've got to have a certain supply of fresh water daily. It so happens that we can obtain it faster—and far less expensively — from the close-by river: which, unfortunately, Castro controls."

My inquiry as to whether the tempestuous Fidel had ever threatened to choke off this water supply—or hike the payment rate on it—produced this reply: "Not yet. But he may attempt it at some future date as a provocative act to hit us where it hurts."

THAT PROMPTED me to ask: "How would you here at Gitmo cope with that emergency? In other words, how—and where—would you obtain the fresh water you needed daily to survive?" He thought for a moment, then offered: "We'd have to haul it in by tankers—and may I add: that would be a laborious and costly process.

"That, plus a small supply from the conversion of sea water into drinking water, would make us independent of Fidel's whims and provocations. But, I repeat: that would be the emergency—and much more expensive—solution."

As we all know, Castro's recent maneuver (in cutting off Gitmo's fresh water supply) forced President Johnson to fall back upon the "emergency solution" referred to in my preceding paragraph. This loss of $14,000 monthly in "water revenue" will strike another blow at Castro's already sorely-beset Cuban economy.

AS FOR the sailors, Marines, and officers assigned to Gitmo, Castro's move simply means one more provocation in their tension-packed daily lives. For example, a powerful 10-foot steel fence surrounds the Guantanamo Bay perimeter—an area ceded to the U.S. by Cuba in 1903 and renegotiated in 1934. Armed Marine sentries are stationed at key lookout points, strategic locations, and isolated posts along that international fence.

On the other side of it, well-disciplined Cuban militiamen glare at the jeep patrols and Marine guards in the daylight hours. Incidentally, these Castro sentries reflect the new Russian influence in Cuba—in that they all outfit themselves with Russian helmets and combat boots. On their rounds, they go armed with Belgian B A L rifles, now among the best in the world.

With the coming of darkness, Castro militiamen unleash their witches' brew of tricks and provocative sallies. As a warmup, they hurl rocks and pieces of garbage at Marine sentries patrolling the other (American) side of the fence! In the early-dawn hours, they slip up from their side and shake it with all their might.

That sets off a rattling uproar! In explanation, long strings of beer cans attached to the fence on the U.S. side provide a "built-in" burglar-alarm system. It goes off with a wild clanging every time Castro militiamen rattle the fence. Which they do during the quiet hours of the night—to arouse and provoke the "Yanqui" sentries. After which the Castro men shout insults at all U.S. Marines in sight.

American sentries have strict orders to ignore all provocation — so as to keep the friction and tension at an irreducible minimum. Well, the Marine guards grin and bear the insults magnificently—in their on-duty hours. Away from their posts, however, their thoughts on Castro militiamen would never pass muster with the censor!

During an inspection trip, I learned about another irritant Castro has fashioned on his side of the Gitmo boundary. Some observers dub it "Fidel's cactus curtain." In brief, his henchmen have planted Maya bushes along

Inside Guantanamo Bay

USS Abatan, Navy water distillation and storage ship, anchored in Guantanamo Bay, is an aid in water crisis.

the fence. These plants have a flesh-ripping and blood-producing sting, and discourage curiosity-seekers from "poking around."

BUT IT WAS at Gitmo's Northeast Gate that I witnessed the most offensive acts of all. Some 2,500 Cuban workers—maids, drivers, mechanics, and laborers—stream out of Gitmo daily by that route. U.S. Marine guards frisk them expertly (but never arrogantly) to prevent their carting stolen merchandise off the base. A few try to do that occasionally.

Then comes the Big Shakedown by the waiting-to-pounce Castro militiamen. They conduct it provocatively—prolonging it, tossing in insults ("you're such a fool to work for the greedy, murdering Yanquis!") in the process. Female Cuban militiamen—also decked out in Russian military garb—give the women laborers from Gitmo a thorough going over.

American officials hand the thousands of Cubans employed at Guantanamo Naval Base a warmth of credit. One Navy personnel officer stated it this way: "They bear up under these offensive shakedowns, insults, and new forms of harassment remarkably well. Despite all provocation, they stick faithfully to their jobs with us. Equally important, they do their work and perform their duties satisfactorily."

After a moment's reflection, he added: "You know, I'm convinced that they and other Cubans who think and feel as they do are the real hope for a new and better Cuba some day!"

HOMES

Example of De Luxe Qualities

By Stella George

EXEMPLIFYING deluxe qualities in a tract house, the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Van Dyke, 3661 Lama Ave., presents an atmosphere of serene smoothness and uncluttered freedom.

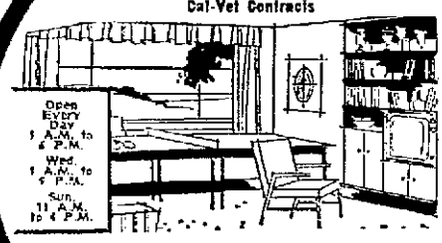

The dwelling is spacious, with a room for many moods and purposes. In the lower level is an out-sized rumpus or family room with a built-in wet bar. Next to this room is another room which is ideal for a guest room (there is an adjoining bath) or den or playroom for visiting grandchildren. Every housewife will envy the laundry-sewing room in this area of the home, where appliances stand ready for instant use.

Beauty and comfort are in evidence throughout the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Van Dyke. View of the living room, above, shows conversation grouping. A sense of spaciousness is retained.

A first-floor rumpus room is large and most attractive, definitely an area of great versatility and possibilities whatever the occasion.

View of front entry, dining area and entry hall from the fireplace end of the living room. Function is evident in entry with "island" of storage, from floor to ceiling.

The front door opens onto an entrance hall which leads to the living room straight ahead (the fireplace can be seen from the front door), and the kitchen to the immediate right. The stairway is to the center left. The entrance hall itself is really an entry effect created with a functional view in mind since the "wall" at the right consists of floor-to-ceiling closets and cupboards. The dining room forms an "L" to the right of the living room.

UPSTAIRS ARE three bedrooms and two baths. The master bedroom has the spaciousness of one found in custom homes, with its own dressing room-bath adjoining.

Interior designer Lewis Nypower planned the decorating. A sculptured, sophisticated elegance was achieved in a Mediterranean influence, with Spanish, French and Italian overtones combined with contemporary for function and livability.

Carpeting is a neutral martini shade, one which shows fine furniture pieces to advantage.

The conversation grouping around the fireplace consists of a long antique white sofa and coffee table facing two occasional chairs, across the way. The French dining room set is reminiscent of the candlelight-and-wine era of gracious living.

THE RUMPUS ROOM downstairs is truly an all-purpose room. Nothing was make-do, as sometimes happens when it comes to decorating the most used room in modern homes.

Two electric-blue occasional chairs face the long curved sofa in the far corner of the room. Each accessory was chosen with care, to enhance and be enhanced by the surroundings. It seems as if home and furnishings were made for one another. The tall floor lamp near a blue chair is but one example.

A rear garden is terraced. Thus, there is a pleasant view from the high windows in the lower level room.

Top Your Stew With Biscuits

By Mildred K. Flanary
Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

Hearty stews "hit the spot" at this time of year, and are easy to make—bit special with biscuit topping.

POPULAR in late February is a hearty stew. Mom likes it, for meat, vegetables and biscuits are combined in one easy-to-make, economical dish. The he-man combination of savory beef and broth along with favorite vegetables pleases the entire family.

Biscuit topping makes stew a bit special. The biscuits discussed here are made as usual, but they contain onion salt to perk up flavor and rolled oats for an interesting texture and a nutrition bonus. They're placed atop a stew brimful of beef cubes, seasonings, small white onions that are just about bite size and tender carrots. Celery adds extra flavor and potatoes please hearty appetites. Tomatoes and lima beans complete the stew with their color and flavor. The biscuits are placed in a circle atop the dish for the last 12 to 15 minutes of baking

Serve in a baking dish that goes directly from oven to table. Lettuce wedges and big glasses of cold milk can complete the main course. And how about topping grapefruit and orange segments with scoops of lemon sherbert for dessert?

Biscuit-Topped Stew

Stew:

- 1½ lbs. beef stew meat, cubed
- 2 cups water
- 1 tablespoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 6 small white onions
- 6 carrots, cut lengthwise
- 2 celery stalks, cut in 1-inch pieces
- 6 small potatoes, cut in half
- 1 1-lb. can tomatoes
- 1 10-oz. pkg. frozen lima beans

Biscuit Topping:

- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- 4½ teaspoons baking powder
- 1½ teaspoons onion salt
- ½ cup shortening
- 1 cup rolled oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
- ¾ cup milk

Dredge beef in flour. Brown in small amount of hot fat in large heavy kettle. Add water, salt and pepper; cover and simmer 1½ hours or until tender. Blend the 2 tablespoons flour with ¼ cup cold water; stir into stew. Add onions, carrots, celery, potatoes and tomatoes; cover and cook 15 minutes. Add lima beans; cook 10 minutes. Pour into 2½-qt. casserole.

For biscuits, sift together flour, salt, baking powder and onion salt into bowl. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in oats. Add milk gradually, mixing lightly until dry ingredients are just moistened. (If necessary, add a little more milk to make a soft dough.)

Turn dough out on lightly floured board or canvas; knead gently a few seconds. Roll dough to ½-inch thickness; cut with floured round cutter. Place biscuits on top of hot stew. Bake in a preheated hot oven (425 degrees F.) 12 to 15 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Note: From remaining dough, cut biscuits. Bake on ungreased cooky sheet in hot oven (425 degree F.) 12 to 15 minutes.

TITLE GIRLS

VETERAN film maker Howard Hawks has fashioned a brash uninhibited blending of romance and slapstick comedy with his latest production for Universal, "Man's Favorite Sport?" starring Rock Hudson and Paula Prentiss. As an effective aid to developing the proper setting for the new comedy, Hawks obtained the services of two top flight beauties to decorate the opening titles of his picture. They will be seen indulging in man's favorite sports when the title of the film is flashed on the screen.

When it comes to basketball, Penny Quillan demonstrates that she has topnotch form.

Smocking
With a Split
Personality

Spring Speaks Softly

On-the-go separates in Dacron and cotton: Soft yoke smocking, gentle back gathers switch to trimly tailored little boy look in front. Back wrap skirt gains important front with inverted pleating panel. Bobbie Brooks designs.

Spring will be a breeze for the junior miss who likes to look radiant and lively in a natural way. Basic formula for this look is an attitude of softness, happily reflected in fashions for daytime, datetime, playtime.

Bobbie Brooks registers softness in spring dresses and separate via tiny tailored tucks, smocking, gentle gathers and petite prints. These details, reminiscent of a little girl look, have grown up for on-the-go shapes and find their way to the least expected spots.

Softness speaks for spring semester separates. Smocking backs into a shirt and prints peak from the skirt lining to match a top. Shown are just two of the many mix and match looks that quietly multiply a wardrobe. Both have a common denominator, the wrap skirt. And either is appropriate for mingling on campus or dashing from desk to date.

The Empire smock dress, rating tops in fashion news, acclaims a feminine soft look. And with tucks tied high in Indian Madras, the Empire shown here keeps its shape with an Ivy League touch. It can go to class, to a social whirl or let you wander barefoot through the first green blades of grass.

Keeping the shape for all this softness is Dacron and cotton, the fabric that has the versatility to let one skirt ripple softly in the breeze and another stand-out for a crisp yet gentle flare.

Home Workshop

Padded back rests heighten the look of luxury in this headboard design, as well as insuring lounging comfort.

By Bill Meyerriecks

SKETCHBOOK'S idea for a comfortable, padded headboard is one any handyman can build any home maker will love—and best of all, it really is a unique, luxurious unit that will be appreciated in any bedroom of the home. It is designed to be flexible enough to fit any need—double bed, single bed or even twin beds. If you are planning to revise your bedroom any time in the near future, or perhaps to expand to an extra bedroom, S-147 of the Sketchbook series is a plan to have and consider.

The headboard has built-in comfort and convenience. Under the cabinet tops at each side, for instance, there's a shallow drawer for storage, which offers as much if not more than the average night table. Over this is a shallow shelf for clock or radio. Below the drawer is a large compartment for magazines where you can easily reach that favorite book that you love to read in bed.

IMMEDIATELY under the case top there is a pull-out board for that luxury of luxury—that first cup of coffee in the morning.

Sloped attractively and lightly upholstered over foam rubber, the two backs are hinged at the bottoms to provide access to the valuable hidden storage space within.

The plan gives you all details in easy step-by-step directions to build the headboard plus full material and parts lists. It is suggested that you make the project in hardwood, but plan also tells how you can substitute pine or even plywood.

FOR THIS pattern, specify design S-147 and send 50 cents with name and address to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, California.

Radar-Cataract Study Begun

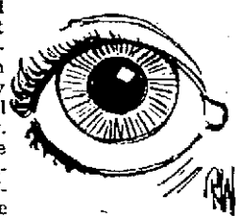

By Ben Zinser

Scuthland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

CAN CONSTANT exposure to radar cause cataracts?

Veterans Administration medical researchers have started a study to find out.

Investigators are assembling all records of World War II and Korean veterans treated for cataract and comparing them with military occupational specialty. Aim: to see if radar technicians suffered more frequently from cataracts than men with other job assignments.

The study was started on the basis of preliminary evidence suggesting that the lens of the eye may be particularly sensitive to microwave radiation.

BAD-CHECK artists are usually older, better educated persons than other criminals, psychiatrists at Washington University, St. Louis, have found.

A new study, reported in Diseases of the Nervous System, shows that check offenders also present this picture: a high prevalence of alcoholism, previous delinquency, military service difficulties, marital discord, previous arrests and previous imprisonments.

AT LEAST one baby out of every 100 live-born infants has a birth defect observable at time of birth, according to preliminary findings in a long-range study being conducted by the Public Health Service.

The study disclosed 5,210 defects in 520,000 babies born in 27 states during the first five months of 1963. Most common malformations were harelip and cleft palate, clubfoot and defects of the genitourinary system.

TRAMPOLINES should be erected only in gymnasiums for the athletically sophisticated, and even then should be attended by qualified experts, editorializes the Rhode Island Medical Journal.

The apparatus should be made available only to those willing to accept carefully graded instruction, the editorial continues. The danger: accidents which can permanently paralyze the user. An improper fall on the neck or back can injure the spinal cord to cause paralysis.

ONE-FOURTH of all drug addicts in California are said to be users of a compound called Percodan, says the Journal of the American Medical Association.

But it's going to be tougher to get the drug now. The Federal Bureau of Narcotics has ruled that drugs containing the pain-reliever oxycodone can be supplied in the future only by written prescription. Percodan contains oxycodone.

In the past, 46 states permitted the sale of Percodan by a phone call from doctor to pharmacist. Some addicts, especially in California, had been faking these calls, the narcotics bureau says.

THE OCCUPATION with the highest death rate is that of President of the United States, says the journal Industrial Medicine and Surgery.

In an editorial the journal comments: "At the present time there are those who hold that professional boxing is the most hazardous of all occupations. Writing statistically, that occupation appears to be a haven of safety when compared with the occupation of being President of the United States."

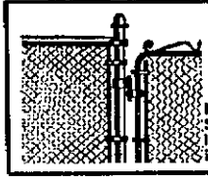

Four of the nation's 36 Presidents have been slain in office, all by firearms, the journal notes. In other words, one in nine has been assassinated.

HOW YOUR CHILD LEARNS

Too Much Phoning?

By Howard E. Kent

QUESTION: "My teen-age daughter is always on the telephone, and I wonder if doesn't do a great deal of harm to her school work. What do you think?"

ANSWER: Take the optimistic view. She may be talking over her lessons with a classmate.

A recent study was conducted to see if using the telephone hurt the study habits of female college students.

The researchers discovered that students do use the telephone a great deal, but classwork happens to be one of the big topics of conversation!

The conclusion: Telephone conversations don't detract significantly from school work and in fact may contribute to academic progress.

If your casual eavesdropping on your daughter's telephone conversations tells you that she is one of those who isn't talking school work in those telephonic marathons, take corrective action. Put a time limit on telephone conversations—with some suitable household chore as the penalty for violation.

QUESTION: Do we solve the problem of gifted children simply by segregating them in our schools?

ANSWER: Hardly. Research has shown that among "gifted" children there is a great variation of abilities and interests.

It is an over-simplification to treat the gifted as a group of persons substantially alike. Just as they differ, as a group, from average students, gifted students differ from one another. There's no way of getting around the fact that human beings are individuals and must be dealt with as individuals.

A school system doesn't deal adequately with the question of the gifted child merely by creating an accelerated class.

You Ask, We Answer

By Haskin

Q. In World War II, did any U. S. Marines take part in land actions in Europe?—T.O.

A. The only Marines who saw action ashore in Europe in World War II were members of Marine Detachments from the capital ships of the Navy, a number of Marine observers, and instructors in amphibious landings and air-naval gunfire techniques. These persons served in many places throughout Europe.

Q. Will boiling hard water make it soft? J. U.

A. Temporary or carbonate hardness, caused by magnesia and lime carbonates held in solution, can be partly removed by boiling. Permanent hardness cannot be removed by boiling, but can be destroyed by the addition of washing soda, which precipitates the insoluble carbonates. All hardness may be destroyed by the use of zeolites, a special kind of sand which removes the lime and magnesia from water which is passed through it.

As a reader of Southland, you can get an answer, by mail, to any question of fact by writing to Southland Magazine Information Bureau, 635 F St., N.W., Washington 4, D.C. Please enclose return postage or self-addressed, stamped envelope.

gency crew to find. Unless that engagement or wedding ring is chopped up by the disposal unit it can usually be recovered when a stop point is made at the street. That is just an easy task for your plumber.

Cats, kittens and small dogs are often pushed or chased into storm drain openings. Their recovery and return to the arms of their owners is mere procedure. Humane Society men help when animals are intentionally or inadvertently lost in the drains.

On occasion, police have stood by with a robbery or burglary suspect while crews climb below the street to fish out evidence—a wallet, perhaps, or some article taken from a person or a home.

Rubber and aluminum, in various sizes, are used to block off lines in a matter of a few minutes.

Extra shock troops move in when a storm strikes the Long Beach area. A batch of 50 to 75 calls is not uncommon under such circumstances. People become nervous; they drop things and they fear their homes will become flooded. Public Service men do not worry. Under a new preventive maintenance program stoppages virtually have been eliminated. Clogged sewer lines have dropped in number from a prior norm of 500 each year to less than 30 for all of 1963.

PREEN POINTS out that it is really not a simple task to recover some lost item from the underground lines. He stresses the danger of the work; insurance rates for his men are among the highest in the world; wearing of air tanks and harness are absolute musts. The men below are fed fresh air from specially designed blowers. If men working below—seeking your old high school ring or the watch you received upon graduation—do not report on the EXACT minute others go after them.

A map room holds one of the most comprehensive of any delineation systems in all of Long Beach. Maps reveal all the city's underground secrets; its intricate network, the level of every basement, each drain, sewer, catch basin or ditch.

A vast part of the life of Long Beach is often hidden beneath the pavements. In case you lost some of your marbles, well, they may have been recovered by the emergency crews. When Al Kammerer, former dispatcher, retired last Dec. 31, he had collected 27 gallons of the little balls.

BOOK REVIEWS

LBSC Man an Author

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

RICHARD E. KIM was 18 when he, a youth from the north of Korea, joined the army of the Republic of Korea to fight the invading Communists who held in thralldom the region of his birth. This teacher of English at Long Beach State College is still a young man, but he has been through the mill. He fought in the Korean war from 1950 to 1954, and became aide-de-camp to both South Korean and American military leaders. He is a scholar as well, the holder of no less than three Master's degrees.

And he is a novelist of considerable power and promise. His novel "The MARTYRED" (Braziller $4.50) is at once among the best stories the Korean war has produced, and a first-rate study of the conflict that rages in the minds and hearts of men caught up in the swirl of war.

The army of the Republic of Korea has seized the Communists' capital, Pyongyang. The Communists, not long before that capital's fall, had arrested 14 Christian ministers. When the liberators arrive, only two of the 14 have survived; South Korean Intelligence has found out that the others have been shot.

Why were the two spared? It puzzles the chief of army political intelligence, Colonel Chang; Captain Lee is assigned to investigate. Were all the 12 murdered ministers martyrs? It would make good propaganda, thinks Chang, himself no Christian. A Communist major has been captured; he claims some of the ministers sought to betray the others to save their own lives. Did they "die like dogs," as the Communist says?

Captain Lee is young, idealistic; he must find the truth. Author Kim draws in Lee a character confined to no one country, and in Mr. Shin, one of the ministers who has survived the massacre, an enigmatic central character. The skill with which they are drawn plays no small part in holding the reader to the last sentence of "Martyred."

WHILE ON a forbidden hunting outing, young Sean Courtenay shatters the leg of twin brother Garrick with an accidental shot and then is forced by their father, a wealthy rancher, to witness the amputation.

This pitches the tempo and mood for Rhodesian Wilbur A. Smith's first novel, a powerful story of South Africa at the turn of the century. "WHEN THE LION FEEDS" (Viking, $5.95) is the saga of Sean Courtenay who, because of his traumatic experience, develops a contempt for physical weakness and a passion for high adventure and gambling with high stakes for power.

There are women: his first wife, who pulls through a difficult delivery, miscarriage and fever and then commits suicide; a pregnant girl friend who marries brother Garry when Sean is believed dead; voluptuous, charming Candy Rautenbach, gold-field hotel owner left at the altar by Sean's partner Duff; and Katrina, the lovely Boer girl he marries and loses to a tragic fate.

There is violence, as he joins his father and brother in war against the neighboring Zulus; takes on all comers in a ring in the gold fields to raise a stake for the mining gamble that makes him and Duff fabulously wealthy; and hunts elephants for ivory. There are energy and excitement—all the elements of forceful fiction.

The title comes from Zulus who join Sean on his big safari after he loses his mines: "Something always dies when the lion feeds, and yet there is meat for those that follow him."

ALL ELIZABETH Bowen's writings are like diamonds, hard and sparkling. The Anglo-Irish novelist's newest book, "THE LITTLE GIRLS" (Knopf, $4.95) adds a little more to a stature many cubits high. Three women meet; they were school chums when they last saw each other and in those youthful days had been relentless in their scrutiny of each other. In their reunion events and forces of the old days better left sleeping rise to the surface, too close for comfort.

It takes an Elizabeth Bowen to make of such a situation a memorable book. This is a comedy but it is etched in acid.

PIOTR RAWICZ

A first novel, "BLOOD FROM THE SKY," by Rawicz, a Ukrainian Jew who survived the extermination of his community, reminds many readers of the work of Kafka and Camus. (Harcourt, Brace and World, $4.95.)

Photos by Hans Bomskov

PET PARADE

Very Important Cats

By Eleanor Avery Price

TWO CATS of special distinction will be prominent at the Cal Coast Cat Show today, the second day of the cat feature, in Long Beach Municipal Auditorium.

One of the interesting entries is a cameo-colored household pet, Pinkie, making his debut in cat shows at the age of 13. He is owned by Leata Cobb of Long Beach.

The other unusual cat is a fabulous feline, a blue point Himalayan insured at (and for sale at) $5,000. Owned by the Chestermere Cattery of Calgary, Alberta, Chestermere Chen-Soo (Snookie to his owners) is being displayed by Mrs. Jeanne Ramsdale also of Long Beach. Mrs. Ramsdale, as judge of a cat show in San Francisco last October, gave Snookie second best in show, and so has a warm personal feeling for this lovely feline.

SNOOKIE is the product of nine years of breeding Himalayans at Chestermere Cattery. His owners feel he is tops, and most judges concur, as he now has garnered quite a number of wins.

The Himalayan is not an import From Himalaya. He is a homemade cat, in essence of Persian type and Siamese coloring. He has a distinctive mask and points, brilliant blue eyes, a long flowing coat, a cobby body, a quiet voice. His antics are hilarious but his disposition is sweet and affectionate. He is not a

Cameras in the Skies

A 16-mm. camera records Thor flight. Top left, first exposure at about 125 miles above earth, others at increasing heights. (Note earth curvature in last two.)

By Richard LaCoste

MISSILEMEN forced to destroy by an electronic signal malfunctioning missiles didn't know which particular stage had separated prior to destruction. Modern photography has changed all this.

Most important, cameras today enable space scientists to study separation of the different stages of missiles to aid them in improving stabilization devices.

Such a project was the placement of a small camera inside a Thor — the Free World's first operational insile (IRBM). Most versatile of U.S. missiles, the Thor has been used as a space booster, singly and in combination such as Thor-Able, Thor-Delta and Thor-Agena.

THOR ALSO holds the distinction of being the first ballistic missile fired from Vandenberg AFB.

What the photographs proved was that great possibilities existed for so-called spy-in-the-sky satellites which the Soviets have criticized so violently lately.

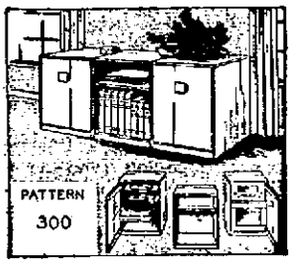

Four of an undisclosed number of photos were released by the U.S. Air Force. They reveal clarity in the pictures of the earth and patches of clouds although the negatives were only 16 millimeter in size. A special larger aerial camera in a big satellite constantly orbiting the earth could produce even clearer photos.

ACTUALLY, a satellite placed into an orbital path over the north and south poles would pass over every point on earth — including the entire Soviet Union — since the earth rotates below the circling satellite.

Photos were taken at altitudes of from 150 to 300 miles above the earth.

The capsule was ejected electronically in the Atlantic Ocean 39 minutes after launch and about 1,400 miles from Cape Canaveral.

Affair in Palm Springs

Golf is a principal pastime in Palm Springs and its environs. New links layouts are ready, more in the works.

GENE AUTRY'S Melody Ranch (formerly Holiday Inn), just down the road from Gene Autry's Ocotillo Lodge, is the latest addition to Autry's expanding hotel empire. The hotel opened under the new management in January with Gene Austin and The Whipoorwills in the new Record Room. Decorative changes are being made around the large pool area and in the lounge. A new entertainment policy is being started with music and "names" booked into the ranch. Another innovation is keeping the dining room open until 3 a. m. on weekends for late diners.

Located close to the center of Palm Springs is The Metropole. Opened late last fall, the supper club has Eddie King as its genial host, and is a favorite spot for celebrities. Dinners are served from 5 p. m. to midnight in the lush contemporary dining room. A trio plays nightly in the lounge, which uses deep red as its main color scheme with comfortable highly-polished mahogany furniture. The food is gourmet-fine and the service excellent.

One of the latest dining rooms to open in the Palm Springs area is Rim Rocks, built high above the desert on a mountain foothill. There is an excellent view of the surrounding area through gigantic picture windows. Rim Rocks has an intimate, relaxed come-as-you-are atmosphere. The dining space is adjustable and can accommodate up to 400 diners. The place is done in red, white and gold, with touches of black for accent. The restaurant's chef, Gabriel, was at the Balboa Bay Club and Sheraton West in Los Angeles. Host-manager Chic Masi is also manager of the Stadium Club during baseball season. Red Norvo and his orchestra opened the room, and "Ukie" Sherin is comedian-vocalist at the piano bar.

FOR THAT something different atmosphere, Aloha Jhoe's with its Polynesian decor is the place. Suey Lee, originally from Hong Kong and The Islands, is the chef and provides authentic island food. A fun-place for an evening, Kalani at the organ plays island music and popular American tunes. There is audience participation, with hula instructions by Maoana, a talented Tahitian dancer. Prizes are given all who "take a lesson" in the hula. Aloha Jhoe's has outdoor gardens with an island barbecue pit and waterfalls hidden among the tropical trees and vines. The gardens can accommodate 400 persons at their excellent luaus.

The 100-unit Tropics Hotel which is done in South Sea Island decor, has an interesting showplace in its Wine Cellar, the only one in Palm Springs. Done in old English decor, authentic miniature suits of armor accent the atmosphere of a ancient rock hewn cavern. Indirectly lighted by softly glowing round crystal lamps, wine kegs and the actual wine bottle racks serve to further the ingenuity of the decorations. Not open to the public yet, but used for private parties and conventions. Holds 100 persons comfortably.

BUILDING PLANS in Palm Springs and area include the nation's first resort condominium community, a $12 million project on 80 acres near Eldorado, one of Palm Springs' famous golf courses. The project's name will be Casa Dorado and overall plan will contain 246 garden apartment homes, a 7,300-square-foot clubhouse and recreation building, a nine-hole golf course, 11 swimming pools and other recreational facilities. First phase, which is getting under way immediately, consists of 48 residences, three swimming pools, first two holes of the nine-hole golf course, and recreation building.

Seven Lakes, another new golf home development, which should be under construction early in March, will lie on 143 acres southeast of Palm Springs. Seven man-made lakes will be sprinkled throughout the area, forming water hazards for some of the 18 fairways on the development's 18-hole golf course.

There will be 400 residential units around the fairways. These will be arranged in groups of 16 to 24, each around its own recreation area consisting of swimming pool and barbecue area. At the entrance to the project, the clubhouse will face a waterfall and an 18-hole putting green on an island. The entire project will be developed on leased Agua Caliente Indian tribe land, which has been leased for 65 years.

NEW POPULATION figures for Palm Springs, as of Jan. 1, show 17,756 permanent residents living in 9,449 dwelling units, an increase of 508 permanent residents since April, 1963.

Palm Springs' 28th Annual Desert Circus, the biggest celebration of the year, to be held April 8-12, will honor Hawaii this year. Hawaii's Gov. John Burns will be the honored guest. There will be a celebrity High Sheriff and Queen, usually a Hollywood movie beauty. The Circus includes one of the most colorful and exciting parades of all the spa parades. Other events include a chuckwagon breakfast, Desert Circus Ball, square dances, hole-in-one golf tournament, a Kangaroo Court, and general celebration for the week, including "arrests" for not appearing on the streets in western dress.

Sheraton to Expand on Waikiki

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

THE ROYAL Hawaiian, long the most famous hotel on Honolulu's Waikiki Beach and the "home" of countless Southern Californians who visit Hawaii regularly, is about to undergo a $4 million improvement that will include a new $2½ million wing of 125 luxury suites.

At the same time, chairman Ernest Henderson of the Sheraton Corporation of America —operator of four other important hostelries on the Islands — announced that construction also would begin this summer on a $3 million, 150-room resort hotel at Poipu Beach, on the island of Kauai, and that in 1965 another Waikiki beachfront hotel of 350 rooms would be built next to the Royal Hawaiian at a cost of $9 million.

The new wing of the Royal will be six stories, extending from the Royal's Diamond Head side along Waikiki Beach on the present site of the Uluniu Swim Club. All rooms and suites will face an ocean or Royal garden view and designed to complement the present hotel.

Over a continuing program of two years, all guest rooms and suites of the present Royal will be redecorated, and the hotel will be completely air-conditioned.

THE NEW resort on Kauai, to be known as the Sheraton-Kauai Hotel and Beach Club, will occupy a beautiful site on the island's sunny, south shore. It will cover a 30-acre area, 20 acres for the hotel and 10 acres for cottages. It will be open in early 1965.

Sheraton's new hotel on the Waikiki beachfront, scheduled to open in December, 1966, is as yet unnamed. It will rise approximately 10 stories on 1½ acres on the Honolulu side of the Royal Hawaiian. This luxury hotel will have de luxe guest room and suite accommodations and will feature a romantic Polynesian restaurant. It will be air-conditioned throughout with all rooms facing Waikiki Beach.

The Sheraton chain bought the Royal Hawaiian, Princess Kaiulani and Moana-SurfRider from Matson Navigation Co. in 1959, has since improved the Royal, built the Royal Manor and the Sheraton-Maui Hotel on the Island of Maui. It recently sold the Princess Kaiulani and Moana-SurfRider to the Kokusai Kogyo Co. but retained complete policy and operational control for those hotels with minimum 10-year management contracts.

ALSO OF INTEREST to those who plan to vacation in Hawaii again this summer is announcement that a new Surf and Sand Club is now open at the former home of the Outrigger Canoe Club on Waikiki Beach and that its facilities—for a modest fee—will be available to the public.

Included in the facilities are a private beach, locker facilities, hot showers, checking service, and a new budget restaurant.

Daily membership is $1; weekly, $5; monthly, $12.

THE 1964 Summer Travel Program to the University of Hawaii Summer Session is now accepting reservations, with departure June 25 from Los Angeles, registration June 29, and return Aug. 10.

For earning extra credits transferable to mainland colleges, both students and teachers may attend the classes. A wide range of subjects will be offered. A bulletin describing the program, with application forms, may be obtained from Dr. Robert E. Cralle, executive director, University Study Tour to Hawaii, 345 Stockton St., San Francisco.

Special rates for the six-week (47-day) session begin as low as $585 and include Pan Am round-trip jet from Los Angeles, de luxe accommodations in Waikiki Beach hotels, a schedule of more than 22 sightseeing trips and tours, cruises, dinner dances, luau and beach activities.

A VACATION to the Land of the Border can be much more meaningful if you are on good terms with its background. To get this, we recommend "A Guide to Mexican History," an information-packed paperback just published by Minutiae Mexicana, Ave. Alvaro Obregon 286, 20 Piso, Mexico 7, D. F., Mexico, $1.25 U.S.

The engaging text is written by Pauline R. Kibbe, American-born but a resident of Mexico City since 1954. After exploring Mexico's history, she delves into modern Mexico — its political development, land reform, education, and health and welfare. Other sections of the book offer pronunciation of Spanish and Indian terms, important dates in Mexican history, and a suggested reading list. Among the fine illustrations are three photos taken by Lowell Weeks of Long Beach.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH DELAPLANE

LAHAINA, Hawaii

"We are going on a rather fast trip around the world. (We have only 30 days of unlimited travel privileges as airline employes.) What are the absolute 'must' things to see?"

OUTSTANDING things that come to mind: the Taj Mahal by moonlight out of New Delhi. Temple of Baalbek in Lebanon, a short run out of Beirut. (By the way, Australian newspapermen enroute London always take a couple of days in Beirut—the swingiest town in the world, they say.)

You could take a look at Bibliof at the same time. Supposed to be where the Greeks got the name for the Bible and where it was first written down.

You should get a day in Bangkok — temple and river tour. Couple days in Hong Kong where you will spend twice what you planned.

Give Rome a few days. Good shopping, good eating. For couple of restaurants: Tre Scalini, Romulo's across the Tiber. Madrid is cheap. The Plaza Mayor is good to look on and a good place to eat in the corner, Corregidor or El Pulpito.

Paris is expensive. Sightsee the Louvre, shop the boulevards. London is great. See a couple of shows. Dublin, maybe. If you're coming back via the Caribbean, I'd say the Virgin Islands.

"We are a family of two adults and three children planning a trip to Ireland. We want to go PanAm from Miami to Lisbon and then by train or rental car through Portugal, Spain, France and England and on to Dublin. Would it be possible to travel on one passport?"

MINOR CHILDREN can go on one of the adult's passports. But I keep ALL my kids on separate passports. For example: You cross from Spain into France. You discover the suitcases are still on the Spanish side by some accident.

When you go back to retrieve them, you enter Spain again. And EVERYBODY on your passport has to leave one country and enter the other together.

The PanAm route to Lisbon lets you stop over at San Juan, Puerto Rico, you know. You could get in a couple of tropical beach days there.

"We live in a small town but would like to start a group that could take advantage of the group travel rates. How do we go about it?"

WRITE ONE of the major overseas airlines (TWA or Pan American) and they'll send you all kinds of literature. Group rates go for half or less —it IS a bargain.

The airline authorities laid a lot of rules on it: You have to be in business six months. The club must be formed for some other reason than travel. (However, you could form a camera club that incidentally likes to take pictures of foreign settings, couldn't you?)

Sasanquas

Sasanqua camellias provide masses of short-lived flowers in fall and winter and fill many needs in gardens.

By Joe Littlefield

MOST OF us are familiar with the showy, flowered Japonica Camellias, so popular during the winter blooming season.

One of several other groups of camellias are the Sasanquas. The branches grow willowy, and lend themselves well for training on wire or wood slats for support, to grow like vines, and cover wall or fence areas. There are varied colors to choose from, too.

These plants tolerate full sun, full shade, or partial shade and sun.

Sasanqua flowers don't last as long as the Japonica type. One plant properly trained to supports may cover an area 10 feet or more wide and 10 feet high. After several years, numerous short side branches will provide ample screening.

These camellias may be grown as mounding ground covers; trained to grow up a tree trunk for an interesting effect where a tree is in a patio; planted in a container with lath framework to support the branches for an interesting patio plant for partial screening; planted around a bird bath and allowed to mound; planted near a fish pool and trained carefully to arch out over the water creating an artistic and lovely garden effect, and, in the case of some compact varieties, as hedges.

ONE OF the most common japonica camellia problems some gardeners have is that buds turn brown, dry up and drop off. There are two phases of this problem.

The first pertains to camellia buds browning and drying up before they even begin to show flower bud color. If this happens each year, this may be due to the camellia being a poor bloomer. Eureka red, sensation, and Eureka variegated "peppermint stick," and Pink perfection are known to be bud droppers. Of these three named varieties, generally Pink perfection seems to hold a certain percentage of buds after several years. Cut back the others and graft good blooming varieties to them,

THE SECOND difficulty may be due to erratic watering during the critical hot summer weather, may be due to not enough deep waterings, lack of humidity from overhead shower baths in the summer, possible thrip bud damage as is the case at times with gardenias, and several other possible factors.

Where partially opened flower buds show color then brown, or fully opened blossoms turn brown around the petal edges, indicates a weather change. As soon as weather becomes warm, dry, or windy, the buds and blossoms suffer. The gardener should hose plants to provide a humid condition to help the buds and blossoms.

Temple City Presents 15th Annual Camellia Show

Temple City Camellia Society's 15th annual show will be presented at Los Angeles State and County Arboretum, 301 N. Baldwin Ave., Arcadia, from 2 to 6:30 p.m. next Saturday and from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Sunday. The public is invited and admission is free.

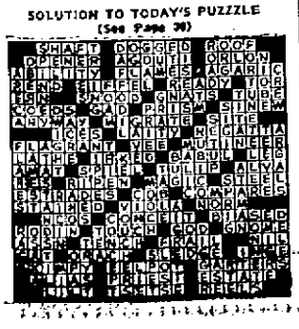

Anyone wishing to show flowers should bring them, correctly labeled, to the Lecture Hall, prior to 10 a.m. Saturday. Membership in the Temple City Camellia Society is not required. Twenty-two trophies will be awarded. A number of new blooms, developed within the past several years, will be shown.

Garden Clubs

Visitors will be welcome and gifts will be provided for members and guests. Parking at rear of building.

Soil preparation will be the subject of Dr. Robert E. Atkinson, PhD, garden consultant, at a meeting of Long Beach parent chapter, American Begonia Society, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Linden Hall, 208 Linden Ave. A plant table and refreshments are on the program. Visitors are welcome.

Crabgrass

Bluegrass

Chickweed

Barnyard Grass

Florida Pusley

Pigweed

A new chemical discovery combined with nitrogen fertilizer.

They'll be only a memory (along with the aching back) after you use Germain's "12" Brand Dichondra Weed Control, a completely new product that knocks out established Bluegrass and Bermuda grass, Crabgrass before it sprouts, and eleven more unwelcome guests. While it dooms these destructive weeds, "12" Brand Dichondra Weed Control does not damage, burn or retard your dichondra lawn — even a newly seeded one. (Similar products marketed today destroy the dichondra seeds along with the weeds.) Safe and easy to use, "12" Brand Dichondra Weed Control contains no lead arsenic, mercury or other metallic compounds. Just spread it on and water it in.

FEEDS DICHONDRA TOO.

Not only does "12" Brand do away with weeds; it feeds your dichondra nourishing nitrogen fertilizer. Your lawn will be everything you want it to be — without Crabgrass, Bermuda Grass, Annual Bluegrass, Knotweed, Chickweed, Smartweed, Barnyard Grass, Red Sorrel, Lambsquarter, Foxtail, Carpetweed, Florida Pusley, Pigweed and Goosegrass.

Just two applications a year (one in fall, another in early spring) will keep your weekends free from weed pulling. Use Germain's "12" Brand Dichondra Weed Control for a beautiful, weed-free dichondra lawn all year long.

Available now at garden dealers everywhere.

long-haired Siamese. If he were, his offspring could well have short coats. Instead, the Himalayan litters conform to a type and breed true. And he is not a simple cross of a Persian and Siamese. Years of selective breeding have gone into his make-up in England, the United States, and Canada. There have been times of deep discouragement and many discards. But success came when the Cat Associations officially recognized him as a breed.

Mrs. Marguerita Goforth of La Mesa is credited with naming the breed. The color pattern is found in other animals, notably the Himalayan rabbit. It's as simple as that. In English the same cat is called Colour Point Long Hair.

A DOG SHOW is scheduled next Sunday in the Electric Building, Baldoa Park, San Diego. Western Cat Club and Twin Counties Cat Fanciers are taking entries for a show March 21-22 in Northridge. Entry clerk is Dorothy Bond, telephone GArfield 4-7580, and deadline is Feb. 24.

Anyone interested in the big-hearted bull mastiff, a rare breed in this area, may see several in various age brackets by telephoning Mrs. B. Pertl, 8621930, for appointment.

JOHN APOSTLE
A Musical Treat

THE MARK of a fine restaurant is that extra touch which makes a superior meal look and taste even better.

At King Arthur's Steak House, a beautifully appointed restaurant at 5511 E. Spring St., one of the gourmet touches is a cup of sauce served with the special top sirloin steak. The cup contains a delectable mushroom sauce prepared with wine. The diner dips each forkful of tender, juicy steak into the sauce, enjoying a marvelous combination of flavors. The steak is $3.15, accompanied by outstanding soup or a superb tossed green salad, tremendous 14-ounce baked potato with chives and a genuine cheese sauce, onion rings, hot fresh cheesebread and beverage.

King Arthur's, owned by John Apostle, Tony Apostle and John Paulos, is a large, attractive place decorated with shields, lances, banners and other replicas reminiscent of the days of King Arthur and his dashing knights. The restaurant, which serves dinners Sundays from 2 p.m. on, will offer a special treat today—a variety of organ concerts by members of the Long Beach and Orange County Professional Organists Club. Starting at 2 o'clock, dozens of this area's most talented organists will play exhilarating music for several hours on an organ in the cocktail lounge and another organ in the Throne Room dining room. Bob Moreau, King Arthur's versatile organist, will be host.

Among the other dinner entrees featured (at no price increase) will be extraordinary prime rib au jus, $3.15; southern-style fried chicken, $2.75; fisherman's haul (three sea food items), $2.95; Australian lobster tail, $3.95; elegant New York cut steak, $4.75; and splendid fried eastern scallops, $2.65.

AN OPEN LETTER

'Colonel: Let's Make Mint'

DEAR COL. TOM PARKER:

I'm writing to you because I have a multi-million-dollar television idea which, with your show business knowledge, I hope you can turn into cash for both of us.

Since you're the manager of Elvis Presley, it isn't necessary for me to explain to you how anybody associated with a teen-age fad can ride to the top of a mint.

Let's go for that ride, Colonel, you again and me for the first time.

There currently is within the boundaries of these United States an English group that has brought its nation more publicity than anything since the Boston Tea Party.

Wherever this group goes, they're mobbed by swarms of our red-blooded American youths.

Maybe the President's daughters had too much homework to go pay personal homage, but the rest of the kids seem to have abandoned their books.

I'M NOT KNOCKING IT, Colonel, believe me.

I remember the time when our generation went ga-ga over one of Kay Kyser's singers just because he had a bang-down haircut. His name was Ish Kabibble and, as I recall, he couldn't sing very well.

How come you and I didn't think then, Colonel, to get four Ish Kabibble haircuts together? All we'd have to worry about now would be income taxes.

But there's no sense looking back, is there?

Because if we did, we could remember the time Sid Caesar put together a group that he called "The Four Haircuts" and we all thought they were just a joke, not teen-age ecstasy.

And what about poor Moe of the Three Stooges? Bet he never realized what a romantic idol he could be!

BUT LET THE PAST be preface, Colonel, and let's get down to the multi-million-dollar idea.

First we sign up four high school girls who all need one thing in common—they can't have any talent. To be specific, they must not be able to sing.

I suppose we could be a little lenient in the latter respect. However, under no circumstances should their vocal range be permitted to expand further than from do to re.

The next thing we do, Colonel, is give them haircuts. Not just ordinary haircuts, Colonel, but crewcuts.

Don't let that idea overcome you, please, sir. It makes sense.

If boys can wear girls' haircuts and be a hit, why can't girls wear boys' crewcuts and be likewise. It's a topsy-turvey world, you know.

We name this girls' group—get this, Colonel—"The Lady Bugs."

Does that ringo a bell, sir?

WE COULD GET A LOT of publicity on the idea that these are good, decent, law-abiding lady bugs who would never fly away from home and leave a teen-age kid alone as long as he had a radio and television set.

Then, Colonel, you get them on "The Ed Sullivan Show"—if there still is an Ed Sullivan show. He's survived a lot of catastrophes.

And "The Lady Bugs" become an overnight sensation with a song you and I write.

I've already got the title. Get this, Colonel—

"I'd Like to Tickle Your Toes."

Kick that one around for awhile and we'll have a billion-platter seller. We might even be able to open our own mint.

Then we can send "The Lady Bugs" to England and get our revenge.

Very truly yours,

BERT RESNIK

P.S.: You may have noticed, Colonel, that I did not specify the name of the English group currently visiting us. It is not that I am a coward, sir, and fear for my life in the event my mention of their name might be considered derogatory. It is just that I am a family man and they would miss me.

SPECIAL

THE 20TH CENTURY—Two faces of America—prosperous, booming Houston, Texas, and Clay County, Ky., in the economically stagnant Appalachians—are surveyed on successive weeks at 6 p.m., ch. 2. Opener, "Deep in the Heart of Houston," explores the reasons for the region's prosperity, and probes its educational, social and cultural climate. Interviewed are the director of NASA's new manned spacecraft center, one of the owners of the Colt .45s, the first Negro ever elected to public office in Houston, and the director of the famed experimental Alley Theatre. Walter Cronkite is reporter, with Dan Rather on-the-scene.

PARIS: STORY OF HIGH FASHION—Genesis of a new Paris fashion line, detailing the creative and manual arts required to produce it, is shown at 10 p.m., in color, ch. 4. Set in the salon of famed couturier Pierre Cardin, show became a vertitable coak-and-dagger production, with camera crews signing pledges of secrecy, exposed film tagged with a false label, and processed film locked in a safe until the latest Cardin collection was unveiled. George Vicas, producer, and Mme. HelenGordon Lazarell, editor of "Elle," are narrators.

IRENE RYAN
Changes Costume

'Granny' Dresses Up for Andy's Show

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Irene Ryan, the backwoods Granny on "Beverly Hillbillies," has doffed her burlap mountain gowns in favor of a slinky new dress.

Some folks might have trouble recognizing Irene when she appears as Andy Williams' guest on his NBC-TV show at 10 p.m. Tuesday, channel 4. Miss Ryan, wearing a gown stitched together by filmland designer Mr. Blackwell, contrasts sharply with the scratchy-voiced gal she plays on "Hillbillies."

Irene's character of Granny on that extremely popular series can be described as a female Gabby Hayes, always ready to pinch up her face at the slightest hint of a city slicker lurking about.

Miss Ryan, a veteran of years on vaudeville stages, scored her biggest professional success in that off-beat series about a mountain family that strikes oil, becomes rich and moves to Beverly Hills.

The show, now in its third year, has been a popular success even though it has come under cultural attack by those who believe it to be low-brow humor.

Irene and her co-stars Buddy Ebsen, Max Baer Jr. and Donna Douglas have made hundreds of public appearances since the show started. The popularity is appreciated, but Miss Ryan would like a change of pace, character and costume for a short spell. Williams' show will give her all of that and two new dresses in the bargain.

"I LOOK LIKE I was poured into one of the dresses," said Irene.

The dress must hold about a pint, because Irene isn't much bigger.

"One dress is velvet on the bottom and beaded at the top. It cost about $1,500. You could get my 'Hillbilly' costume in a Goodwill store."

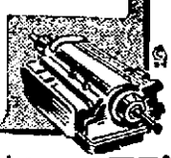

Irene's regular television ensemble has been described as early burlap. It consists of a sackcloth skirt, calico blouse, a tired sweater and shoes which came from a war surplus store. In fact, the whole character of Granny appears as if it came from a war surplus store.

"I really think Andy's show will be good for me because it's such a contrast to Granny," Irene said. "I sing a medley of songs that I did in my nightclub act. Then, at the end of the show, I appear as Granny."

The glamor world of an Andy Williams' show is a welcome relief from the back country philosophy of "Beverly Hillbillies."

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

Pamela Britton is an actress, but not a star.

That's alright with her.

For the past 20 years she has been an active professional in show business.

It's an activity that currently sees her playing the role of "Mrs. Brown" on CBS-TV's Sunday "My Favorite Martian" series.

In her other major television effort, she played "Blondie" in the series of the same name.

The 20 years have included motion picture credits in such films as "Anchors Aweigh," "Key to the City," "DOA" and "Letter for Evie."

There have been major stage roles in such productions as "Guys and Dolls," "Annie Get Your Gun," "Bells Are Ringing," "Oklahoma," "Bus Stop," "Born Yesterday" and "The Little Hut."

The 20 years include a stint as a singer with a band at the Latin Quarter in New York.

* * * *

BUT AS FAR as being a star with all the accompanying glamour, no thanks. It's not for Pamela.

"In the first place," she said, "it is always a battle to maintain the rank of star.

"More important, it's extremely difficult—almost impossible—for a star to have any kind of home and family life.

"A star — particularly a woman—must push her personal life to the side."

Pamela is not about to push her home and family life to the side.

* * * *

SHE HAS BEEN married for 18 years. She and her husband, Arthur Steel, Palm Springs hotel executive, have a daughter, Kathy, 17.

It's a personal life for Pamela which four years ago included the addition of a hobby, golf.

Recently Pamela — "I was weak in the knees afterwards" — made a hole-in-one at the Canyon Country Club in Palm Springs.

"I may give up everything else in life for golf," she jestingly said.

Healthful and good for the figure, she prefers the sport to "wasting time at bridge tables or in cocktail lounges."

As for being an actress—a profession upon which she decided when she was eight years old—she fully intends to go on enjoying it.

"If it becomes drudgery," she said, "I'll give it up."

Prisoner-of-War Movie More than Film to Compton Man

For the manager of a men's shop in Compton, "The Colditz Story" is more than just a movie.

The 1957 movie will be shown nightly, starting Monday, at 8 o'clock on channel 9. The men's shop manager is Sid Goldman, an Englishman who was imprisoned in the German castle. He is mentioned in the film.

Goldman will appear in person during "Million Dollar Matinee" at 2 p.m. on Monday to describe escape efforts pictured in the film.

"I get chills every time I see the picture," he said.

He'll show actual photos of escape attempts as well as other items he saved from Colditz Castle.

PLAN TV FACILITIES FOR WHITE HOUSE

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Use Former 'Broadcast Room' for Library

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Backstairs at the White House:

Work is going ahead on the project to set up permanent television facilities in the White House which will enable President Johnson to have news conferences on short notice and without his having to do more than walk a few feet from his office.

Recently when the executive wing of the White House was deserted except for secret service men and uniformed police on duty, experts from the television networks and the General Services Administration (GSA) looked over a conference room across a hall from the President's office.

Their goal is installation of lights and cameras which can be switched on in seconds should the President decide to communicate with the nation over his airwaves. The same setup will be used for presidential visitors who for many years have been interviewed in the driveway outside the west wing of the White House.

PRESS SECRETARY Pierre Salinger still refers to the project as being "under study." But it is now much more than an idea under exploration. Physical planning is under way.

During the 1948-52 rebuilding of the center part of the White House, much time, effort and money went into construction of a so-called broadcast room on the ground floor. Apparently the architects and builders were not familiar with needs of the broadcast industry and the room was used only a few times. During the Eisenhower administration, the broadcast room was turned into a storage area.

When the late President John F. Kennedy entered the White House, his wife cleaned out the broadcast room and turned it into a handsome reception room and library. It is a beautiful room, but still unsuited for the needs of radio and television for a number of reasons—space, acoustics and certain electronic difficulties which would make the area difficult to light properly.

ALSO, THERE ARE FEW rooms in the White House sufficiently large to house a news conference. The President's meeting with reporters recently was in the motion-picture projection room on the east side of the White House. Comfortably, this room can accommodate about 50 or 60 persons plus lights and cameras. If Johnson gives any sort of advance notice of a meeting with reporters, the projection room quite obviously is too small.

Is the rabbit on the Coast Federal Savings commercial a real live rabbit? If so, how do they get him to do it?

Ada Henry, Long Beach

It's live. Fulton and Jack Shaw, brothers who run "Old MacDonald's Farm" at Knotts Berry Farm, got him to do it.

They used the "conditioned reflex" theory advanced by Ivan Petrovich Pavlov, a Russian physiologist who died in 1936.

What the theory boils down to is: No work, no eat.

In training the rabbit, the Shaw brothers rewarded him with special pellet-food when he did the right thing. If the rabbit did the wrong thing, he was ignored.

Actually, there were two rabbits and two commercials. The training for each rabbit took several months.

One deposited money in a bank, using his mouth as a purse. The other, also using his mouth, moved portable letters to spell the sponsor's name.

Not to take anything away from the Russians, I do believe the conditioned-reflex theory was first noted long before Pavlov was born.

If memory serves me correctly, Mother Goose had a poetic treatise about poor Tommy Tucker who had to sing for his supper.

Jacuzzi WHIRLPOOL BATH

"We aren't sick!"

Lots of perfectly healthy people enjoy the benefits of a Jacuzzi Whirlpool Bath. From time to time all of us experience the discomfort of ordinary daily tensions or sore muscles. Such annoyances often go away by themselves; but, why wait when you may be able to hasten relief.

The Jacuzzi Whirlpool Bath was first designed several years ago to relieve minor pains associated with arthritis, rheumatism and similar ailments — conveniently and inexpensively in the privacy of your own bathtub.

But, it was soon discovered that the whirling water action of a Jacuzzi helps increase local circulation where applied, or helps induce sleep just before retiring, or soothes the aching of occasional sprains and bruises, tired feet and simple headaches.

So you see! Everyone has moments when he or she would appreciate Jacuzzi . . . the name that means Whirlpool Bath.

Call today for a free demonstration.

Exotic, Phooey! Kamala Wants to Be Girl Next Door

ACTRESS KAMALA DEVI, pictured as she appears in Universal's movie, "The Brass Bottle," guests on television at 8:30 p. m. Thursday with "My Three Sons," channel 7. The real-life wife of Chuck Connors, Kamala will appear in his "Arrest and Trial" series next Sunday.

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The bottom has fallen out of the exotic acting business and there are those who say it's just as well.

For years Hollywood turned out desert sagas featuring dark-eyed beauties and their dashing boyfriends. Or else the exotic actress portrayed a spy, stealing secrets.

Usually such pictures were high on slipshod intrigue and feminine curves and low on acting talent. The films made money for awhile, but suddenly they disappeared from the screens and so did their leading ladies.

Kamala Devi is an actress who would have fit those pictures like a glove. She's part East Indian, part English, has big eyes, and an appearance that was made to order for exotic roles.

But alas, she arrived in town too late, long after such films hit the skids.

As long as there are no exotic type roles around Hollywood anymore, the beautiful Miss Devi hopes to become the girl next door, a traditional character which is always in demand.

BUT SHE HAS A PROBLEM. Movie and television producers never think of the girl next door as being an Indian. Usually she's somebody on the order of Debbie Reynolds or Connie Stevens.

"I can play any role an American girl can play," said Miss Devi who is the wife of actor Chuck Connors. "I could never be a blonde bombshell but there is scope for a brunette. And people call my accent mid-Atlantic, somewhere between England and America."

Miss Devi appears as an East Indian girl in ABC-TV's "My Three Sons" series Thursday, 8:30 p.m., channel 7. Against that show's background of Americana, she'll certainly stand out.

But that won't be much help in her quest for the house next door. Maybe husband Connors can help. He tried. Kamala was cast in a segment of Chuck's "Arrest and Trial" series, playing a role next Sunday she hopes will picture her as an American girl.

"I hope it shows them that I'm not just an exotic creature," she said.

Whether or not Miss Devi convinces anybody that she can play home-grown gals, producers would be hard put to find a prettier actress.

And after all, what difference does it make whether she lives in Hollywood's house next door—or down the street.

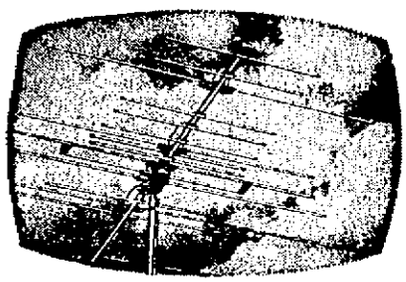

Miss Devi would brighten up the neighborhood.

COMPLAINT DESK'S LOSS

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Long Beach Actor in Major TV Role Tonight

Twelve years ago Robert Miller Driscoll stood behind the complaint desk of a large Chicago department store and diplomatically smiled as a customer unloaded her grievances.

The smile cloaked his yearning to be elsewhere, a specific elsewhere, show business.

However, the specific business of practical living, with emphasis on eating, was considerably more secure in the young executive training program of the department store than Driscoll knew it would be in show business.

Sometime between the moment he accepted the complaining lady's toaster — "or whatever it was" — and handed her a credit slip, Driscoll decided to be impractical.

* * * *

SHORTLY afterwards he left the department store, started in summer stock and "with ups and downs" has been in show business ever since.

One of the "ups" will be his first major television appearance in the role of Little Billy Slocum in "The Adventures of Jaimie McPheeters" at 7:30 p.m. today (Sunday), channel 7.

Other "ups" last year included appearances in the Community Music Theater of Long Beach productions of "Bye Bye Birdie", in which he had the role of Mr. McAffee, father of the teenage girl romanced by the rock- and roll hero; "Happy Fella," in which he was one of the three chefs, and "Music Man" in Anaheim's Melodyland where he played Marcellus.

Driscoll is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Roland D. Driscoll of Long Beach. His father is Presbyterian chaplain for

ROBERT DRISCOLL

Long Beach State College and his mother, Ruth, is a high-fashion model and teacher for Wilma Hastings Modeling School.

* * * *

THE MOST memorable "up" in Driscoll's career is a U. S. State Department sponsored tour of Russia with the cast of "My Fair Lady" in 1960.

"The Russian people couldn't be nicer to me," he said. "I had a wonderful time."

It was, however, a wonderful time that was marred by living conditions in Russia.

They weren't living conditions which personally affected him or other members of the cast.

"It is hard to believe, much less describe, the poverty — fantastic and horrifying — in which most Russian people live," said Driscoll.

"Yet their government will spend vast sums of money to luxuriously replace Katherine's summer castle in Leningrad rather than use those funds for the general benefit of the people."

Since the Russians live under such poor conditions, it's not surprising that they don't believe in "the Utopia" as America has been pictured to them.

* * * *

IT'S ALMOST inconceivable to the Russian people, for example, that anyone should have a private bathroom. It is still the common Russian practice to go to a public bathhouse once or twice a week.

"I remember one night when we had our supper brought to the theater," said Driscoll. "I had a small Spanish orange left and I gave it to our Russian wardrobe woman.

"Before I could stop her, she got down and kissed my feet."

It is seldom that Driscoll, a 6-feet, 1-inch-tall, 285-pound bachelor, has anything left from his supper.

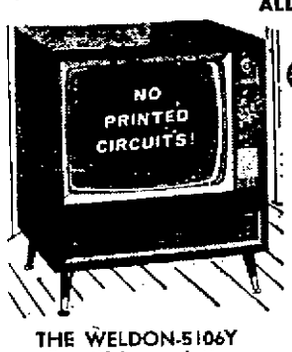

"I love to cook and like to eat," he said.

Happily, he's found that show business can provide the vittles for him just as readily as the young executive training program. He has no complaints.

KGER Civil Defense Station

Radio Station KGER (1390) has been designated the official "Emergency Broadcasting System" outlet for the Long Beach area.

In announcing the designation, Evar P. Peterson, assistant director of Civil Defense for Long Beach, said:

"This gives us the opportunity to report directly to the people of Long Beach, Lakewood and Signal Hill, the information and advice which is most vital to them."

Function of the Emergency Broadcasting System, which replaces CONELRAD, is to rapidly provide disaster information, including specific advice in the event of enemy attack.

Incorporation of the Long Beach radio station in the system was jointly authorized by the Federal Communications and the Department of Defense.

It would take the entire police force to keep the people of this area from battering down our doors!

Yes, people are funny. They'll willingly believe that planes can travel faster than sound, that the atom can be split, that moon trips are around the corner . . . even though they have never seen these wonders with their own eyes. But mention something having to do with health and appearance and at once you are up against a wall of superstition and misconception.

It took years before people were convinced that a weekly bath was not harmful, that tomatoes were not poisonous. And you probably know some people who still sleep with the windows closed to keep the "unhealthy" night air out.

But for real dyed-in-the-wool unbelief, you can't beat the skepticism about alleviating baldness. This area is filled with people who are genuinely worried about losing their hair . . . who have the desperate feeling that no price would be too great to ward off that premature sign of age. What can we do to convince these people that in the overwhelming majority of cases of hairfall we can undertake to with an ironclad guarantee of results? Uneasy as they are, every time they see another brushful of their own hair, they do nothing about it. Skeptical to the point where they won't even bother coming in and getting our 15 minute

FREE EXAMINATION

If YOU are one of those skeptical ones, we won't tell you any hair raising "stories." We simply say . . . get the free examination, and IF the examination shows we can help you, you will change your mind about your "hopeless" condition within FOUR of our treatments, or it won't cost you one red cent! We've done it for thousands, we do it for hundreds daily. Why should you think we can't do it for you! Come in today.

TV Psychiatrist Finally Laughs

HOLLYWOOD, (UPI) — Paul Richards, one of television's probing psychiatrists, is on the brink of laughter.

That's not easy for Paul. He's been trying to laugh since last September. But he's been bogged down in the serious business of playing a psychiatrist on ABC-TV's "Breaking Point."

That's a non-nonsense job, patching up a patient's mind when it gets out of kilter.

However, it shouldn't be all work and no play. A psychiatrist has as much right to a sense of humor as anybody else. "Breaking Point" is getting around to realizing this after several months of solemnity.

PAUL RICHARDS
Loses Gloom

Richards, a rather stern looking chap on television, has rarely grinned in the past. He grinned in December, smiled in January and bursts into laughter on this Monday's episode of the show at 10 p.m., channel 7.

* * * *

IF IT WEREN'T for the indications of humor in Paul's video character he would have become the Buster Keaton of psychiatry.

Richards finds no incompatibility between an occasional chuckle and the practice of psychiatry.

"We have found a way to deal with this subject and it doesn't have to be downbeat and depressing," he said. "I'm more secure in the role now and I've looked at all the episodes we've done. I think I might have been a little sullen."

He hopes to change all that, ridding the show of its gloomy cobwebs.

"We're not poking fun at the character of Mac Thompson. He is no less dedicated because he's part of life. I think it's better for me and better for the audience if I show a sense of humor."

A clincher for the argument for more smiles and less gloom came from Richards' wife, actress Monica Keating, who appears in one of the future "Breaking Point" episodes.

"When she sees me laughing, she says, 'Why don't you laugh like that on screen?'" concluded Paul.

Q. I question your allegation that the late President Kennedy ever attended Princeton University. Every record shows he is a graduate of Harvard. What is the truth? — Charles Ormes, Miami, Fla.

A. President Kennedy enrolled as a freshman in Princeton in 1935. He roomed until midterm exams in #9 South Reunion with two former classmates from Choate Preparatory School, Rip Horton and LeMoyne Billings. He then became ill with an adrenal insufficiency and left Princeton. Later he entered Harvard, from which college he was graduated.

Q. How many times has Tommy Manville been married, and what's the funny message you get when you call his house?—Amy Lyons, Hyde Park, Ill.

A. Manville, 69, has been married 13 times. When he is not at home, a tape recorder gives out with: "Mr. Manville is out. He will return shortly. At the sound of the 'beep,' please leave your name and the reason for your call. If you are an ex-wife of Mr. Manville's, don't bother to leave any message."

Q. The so-called "hot line" between Washington and Moscow—has Khrushchev or Johnson used it yet for any purpose?—Frank Richardson, Bangor, Me.

A. Not as of this writing.

Q. Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, 73, recently retired as head of Eastern Air Lines. Can you tell me how much money Eastern has made since 1960?—F. J., Mineola, N.Y.

Q. When June Allyson married that young barber, Glenn Maxwell, was her monthly family allowance from the Dick Powell estate reduced? If so, how much?—Penelope Douglas, Tucson, Ariz.

A. Yes, it was reduced from $5,000 a month to $2,500.

Q. What is Greer Carson's married name, and does she own a ranch near Las Vegas, N. Mex.?—D. J. T., Hale Center, Tex.

A. Her married name is Fogelson; she and her husband own such a cattle ranch.

Q. Why was Barbara Sherry, 16-year-old daughter of Bette Davis, married twice, once at the end of 1963 and then a week later in 1964?—Jane Donetti, Indianapolis, Ind.

A. Tax advantages. By marrying ahead of the scheduled 1964 date, the bride became a 1963 dependent.

Q. Is there a world's woman chess champion?—Katherine Peterson, Madison, Wis.

A. Yes, Nona Gaprindashvili of Russia.

Q. Could you please tell me what the lapel emblem that Lyndon Johnson wears stands for?—Gordon Closway, Winona, Minn.

Q. Why didn't Princess Grace of Monaco and her prince show up at President Kennedy's funeral when the rest of the world's true royalty showed up?—Lois Revere, Dayton, Ohio.

A. Princess Grace later came to mourn at the President's grave.

Q. There is a woman named Rae Jeffs involved with Irish poet Brendan Behan. Who is she, and what is their relationship?—Claire E. Y., Medford, Mass.

A. Mrs. Jeffs, an Englishwoman, lives with her parents in Sussex. Formerly she worked for a publishing company which printed Behan's manuscripts. A close friend of both the poet and his wife, Rae Jeffs is devoting herself to "keeping Behan working."

HE KISSES WOMEN FOR A LIVING

by PAUL SEAMAN

HONOLULU.

Peter S. Fithian, a 6-foot-3-inch, blond, handsome, deeply tanned young bachelor, has what is probably the best job in the world. He spends most of his time kissing women. Fithian estimates he has bussed some 38,000 women in the past 6 years—the length of time he has been operating "Lei Greeters of Hawaii," a prosperous service that welcomes vacationers to this island.

And he's well paid for his not-too-difficult work, for like all successful enterprises, the unique service fills a special need.

"Here in Hawaii," Fithian explains, "everyone tries to greet arriving friends with a lei and a kiss [see cover]. It's an authentic, well-practiced custom.

"But sometimes there's a problem. Somebody just can't make it to the airport to meet a friend when he arrives. That's where I and my staff come in. We meet the new arrivals and extend a traditional Hawaiian welcome, complete with flower leis and kisses.

"If it's a man we're meeting, one of my young Hawaiian girl staffers does the greeting, but if it's a girl, I or one of the other men take care of it."

A MATTER OF TIMING

Fithian admits to a few occupational hazards. "You have to watch who you're kissing," he says. "Once, one of my assistants got into a long line of arriving women—a tour group—and didn't quit puckerin' in time. He wound up kissing a man who was sort of trailing along behind them."

He notes that he himself has an occasional problem. Like everyone, he has blue days, and just can't stand to kiss anybody. "I do everything I can to get out of the act," he says, "but soon enough a pretty face goes by and—Bingo!—I'm back in the mood and rarin' to go."

It's not unusual for Fithian to meet and kiss more than 50 arriving women a day, among whom may be nervous grandmothers, giggling teenagers, glamorous debutantes or single girls looking for romance.

"These first minutes in Hawaii can be magical if the greeting is properly handled," he says. "People all over the world have heard of the lei, the kiss, the warm welcome. My job is to see they get it."

Hawaii's kissing man uses variety of techniques:...

...At Honolulu's airport he approaches some new arrivals from the side...

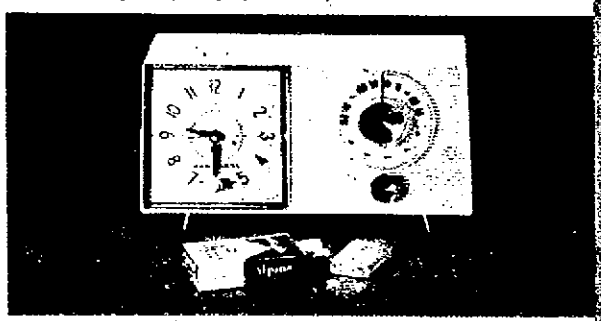

...others he awards wreath, then kisses. Still others...

...he comes at from the front, gazes into their eyes before kissing.

HAVE DOCTORS FOUND THE FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH?

by LLOYD SHEARER

Performing treatment, California specialist Dr. Harvey Kagan injects patient with new tissue-building fluid.

Ready for treatment, Japanese patient is marked for the areas to be injected for removal of facial wrinkles. The technique of silicone and lipids therapy to build up face and body contours was begun in Japan 12 years ago.

One day recently, into the swank Beverly Hills medical suite of Dr. Harvey Kagan trooped one of the country's top comics, age 55, one of the world's foremost screen stars, age 50, and one of the nation's former beauty queens, age 30.

Said the comic, whose nose was straightened a decade ago: "Doc, I want you to do my face when I get back from Las Vegas."

Wailed the Hollywood star, who has now reached that point in life where she is inviting escorts to previews: "You must fatten me up around the hips. I'm becoming as flat as a boy."

Declared the ex-beauty queen: "I want you to build up my bust from 32 to 38."

To this trio of celebrities, Kagan, a Brynner-bald, bespectacled medico, smiled pleasantly, spoke laconically, then deftly turned them over to his nurse for appointments.

What he was most interested in, however, was the poignant case of a 14-year-old girl from Long Island, N.Y., who all her life had suffered from lipodystrophy, a loss of fat tissue in her cheeks causing her face to look almost cheekless.

At 50, Harvey Kagan is one of the growing handful of U.S. doctors currently investigating the new nonsurgical techniques of augmenting body contours—making wrinkled men unwrinkled, flat-chested women full-chested, hollow-cheeked children full-cheeked, in general making people look younger than they really are and restoring the disfigured to normality.

plastic injections

Dr. Kagan and about 55 other doctors do this with a series of injections. Into facial wrinkles and underdeveloped hips, calves, cheeks, breasts, collarbone areas, they inject a fluid which consists of a silicone material and fatty acids. This fluid obliterates facial wrinkles and builds up contours of the face and body.

In the case of the 14-year-old schoolgirl from Long Island, Kagan injected each cheek half a dozen times. The resultant improvement was physically startling. Psychologically, too, the girl became a new person—happy, optimistic, willing to go to school and join the society of other teenagers.

Since 1961 Dr. Kagan has injected more than 300 patients with his formula and has watched it build fatty tissue where there was no tissue before, or where the cells had died.

In Hollywood, New York and Las Vegas today there are at least 100 actresses and show girls who owe their new measurements to Dr. Kagan's formula of 99 per cent silicone and 1 per cent lipids, which are fat substances. There are also a dozen actors who are more photogenic today because his series of shots has removed their wrinkles. But most rewarding to him personally are the half dozen cases of children and young women who, victimized by disease or misfortune, have been transformed by this therapy into normal-looking human beings.

For example, an attractive 18-year-old girl who had studied dancing intensively ever since she was 4 could obtain no work because her calves were underdeveloped. Too thin, they gave her the appearance of being knock-kneed. Dr. Kagan injected the areas with silicone and lipids, the fatty tissue developed and today the girl is working steadily as a dancer.

What happens to the human body when it receives an injection of silicone, which is plastic in liquid form, and lipids?

According to Kagan, "The usual problem with wrinkles or any other similar facial defect is that with age, the subcutaneous fatty tissues, the fat cells under the skin, shift or waste away. Or if a woman goes on an extreme diet, then frequently the tissues that have been lost are not replenished.

"The silicone material," he explains, "in conjunction with the lipids takes up the dead space. In 7 to 10 days the body area injected with the formula becomes infiltrated by fine connective and supportive tissue. Within this tissue are enmeshed tiny globules of silicone and lipid material, giving the effect of new tissue formation. The areas of injection diminish in size following the initial injection, but the sites are reinjected until a suitable result is obtained."

Suppose you are a 45-year-old woman who, over the years, has developed one or two frown lines, some "crow's feet" around the eyes, some deep forehead wrinkles. You go to a doctor experienced in this silicone theory and ask what can be done.

wrinkles disappear

He tells you that one or two injections in each wrinkle will erase them in less than a month.

Or suppose you want to change the contours of your bust. The treatment consists of 10 to 20 shots on each side, one every 5 to 7 days, for a period of 50 to 100 days.

It sounds so incredibly simple that you doubt it. So, sensibly enough, you ask, as most patients do, the following questions:

• Where did this technique originate? It was begun in Japan 12 years ago by Dr. Rin Sakurai, who 2 years ago was flown to California to teach and explain it to a few American doctors, who, in turn, are rapidly teaching it to others.

• Is the treatment dangerous? Is there any chance it will cause cancer or tumors of any kind? Dr. Sakurai has treated more than 10,000 patients with silicone without significant untoward results in any of his cases. Dr. Kagan has treated more than 300 cases in this country without any adverse effects. The Food and Drug Administration has prohibited the use in this country of the Japanese silicone which Dr. Sakurai injects into his patients.

As a result, American doctors employing the injection technique use silicone manufactured by Dow Corning, one of the most respected chemical companies in this country. For years, prostheses made of solid silicone—heart valves, tubes, various devices of Dow silicone plastic—have been implanted in the human body. Although they are foreign substances, they have stayed there, imbedded, for years—innocuous, arousing no infection, inflammation or tumors.

Dr. Kagan and other physicians claim the same is also true of the Dow liquid silicone they are using.

sad prior experiments

Other doctors I consulted who had reservations concerning the technique were quick to point out that 30 years ago some physicians attempted to enlarge breasts, hips and calves by injecting them with paraffin, a waxy substance used in candlemaking. The areas injected got larger but subsequently developed paraffin granulomas, areas of chronic inflammation in which granulation or healing tissue came to the fore. These doctors said they would wait another 3 or 4 years before they themselves undertook to practice the current silicone technique.

A spokesman for the Food and Drug Administration told me: "We have always taken a dim view of this practice of cosmetic therapy and breast enlargement. We don't like to see foreign substances injected into the human body. Unfortunately, our society places such a heavy premium on youth and good appearance that people, especially women, will do almost anything to attain beauty and the appearance of youth."

The American Medical Association, with headquarters in Chicago, reported it had received no adverse reports from anyone on the use of cosmetic injectable therapy and gave me a list of doctors who to date have done the most investigative work in the field. At the top of their list was Dr. Harvey Kagan.

The Los Angeles County Medical Society also revealed that no one had sued, complained or condemned the dozen or so doctors in its areas injecting patients with silicone and lipids.

• How successful is the procedure? Every individual's response varies according to individual body chemistry. The younger a patient is, generally, the better the result.

• Are the results permanent? It is too early to tell, but probably not. New tissue formation is present in the treated areas as a result of stimulation by the silicone and lipids. These tissues and their contents diminish with time because of the body's normal aging process. Additional booster injections have been necessary in Japan after 4 or 5 years.

• How much pain is there in the injection procedure? A local anesthetic is used, and only the sensation of a pinprick is felt when the injection is made. Usually there is no swelling or discoloration following the injection. Where there is, it quickly disappears.

• Is the silicone therapy experimental? Yes, it is relatively new and considered experimental, and doctors who are using it ask their patients to sign a "consent for treatment" form.

results are favorable

In researching this article, I interviewed 22 women who have taken the series of injections for wrinkle removal and bust, hip, leg and arm enlargement. All confessed they were satisfied with the results.

Said a 46-year-old society matron: "I went to a doctor because of wrinkles on my upper lip. I think I had 10 injections in all. The wrinkles are gone. It's been over a year, and they haven't come back."

A Hollywood star who has had her face lifted in Europe several times submitted to cosmetic injectable therapy this past September. "It's the best bet I've found yet," she told me. "Look at my cheeks. Six months ago they were getting real crepey. Today they're darn smooth. I've recommended the bit to every dame in show business."

A Las Vegas chorus girl told me: "I heard about this new technique from a girl friend of mine, so when I was in Hollywood I went to see this doctor who does it. He told me first that I would have to be examined by an internist. Then he explained it would take about 4 months of treatment to change me from a 32 to a 36. I took one injection every five days. It cost me $500, but I'm very pleased. I feel like a new woman."

Despite the basic conservatism of most doctors, which in the final analysis provides the major protection for their patients, the injection treatment for the improvement and correction of body contours is moving rapidly ahead in this country.

It is relatively simple and inexpensive, and almost any general practitioner can learn the technique.

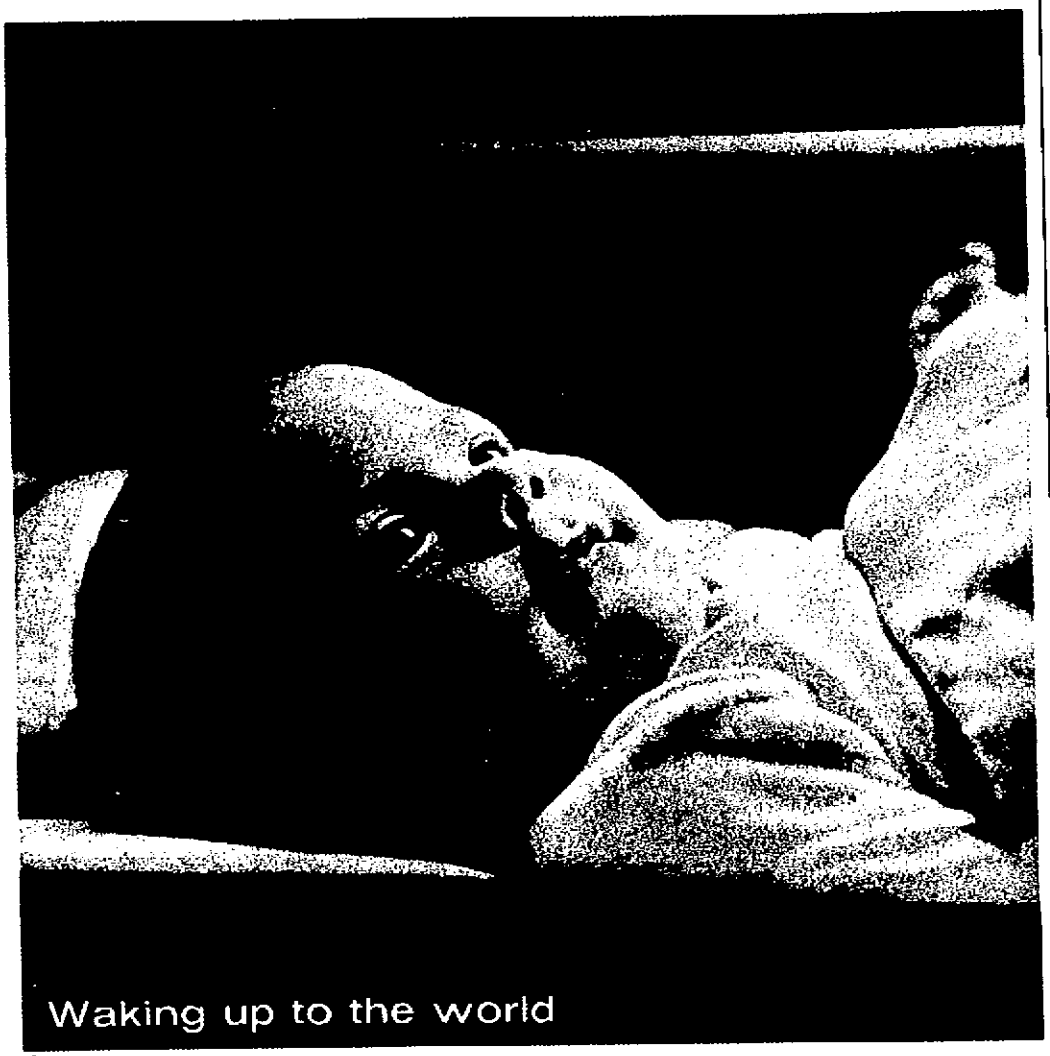

Moreover, in the past 20 years the group of aged persons 65 or over has increased at least 35 per cent in the U.S. By 1980, it is estimated, more than 40 per cent of the U.S. population will be 45 or over.

Many such persons become distressed by the outward manifestations of growing older—aging skin, fallen jowls, sagging breasts. Many, because of their wrinkled facial appearance, are denied the privilege of pursuing their careers before the public. There are others whose employment is dependent almost entirely upon their looks. At the moment, it is mostly to these people that the injectable therapy appeals. But until such time as it is proved harmful, the technique undoubtedly will become increasingly popular in all areas of a society such as ours, where we set a high premium on youth and where personal appearance affects nearly everyone's life.

Most of us want to camouflage our age. Modern medicine is now providing us with a new method.

BRINGING UP BABY,®
HINTS COLLECTED
BY MRS. DAN GERBER,
MOTHER OF FIVE

Think newborns do nothing but eat and sleep the first few months? Any expert baby-watcher will tell you that your baby is busy learning right from birth. He blinks at light and startles at sharp sounds. (Why, at one month he can follow light and sound and starts to learn from what he sees and hears.) Taste buds begin to develop by reacting to sweet, sour, bitter and salty almost immediately. Through skin sensations a wee one learns the comfort of warmth and cuddling, the discomfort of cold and pain. A do-nothing? Indeed not. All this activity is practice for future development.

Solid facts. When your baby's about to embark on cereal, you'll find Gerber Cereals ideal for several reasons. The mild flavors have a way of waking up tender taste buds gently. The texture has an easy-to-swallow smoothness that's designed to please a delicate palate. In addition, the nutrition your baby gets from Gerber Cereals will stand him in good stead throughout babyhood. All five are enriched with iron and calcium. Plus important B-vitamins . . . factors in sparking appetites and spurring growth.

More busybody activities. Apart from learning through his senses in the early months, a baby is busy with other things. For example: clenching and opening fists lead to eventual graspability. Flexing of legs and arms are trial runs for creeping. Coos and gurgles are the forerunners of speech. Yes, being a baby is a full-time job.

More early dietary data. Special baby juices come early in the modern baby's diet for the vitamin C they provide. Gerber Strained Orange Juice and Apple Juice are ideal starting juices because they're ever so mild and well-tolerated by babies. The Orange Juice has natural vitamin C, the Apple Juice is enriched with vitamin C to the same degree. Can't think of two more refreshing ways to help keep your baby's gums and other body tissues in good condition.

P. S. Gerber offers seven other combination juices (vitamin-C enriched) to teach your tyke the delights of different flavors.

For your baby's well-being: Gerber prepares over 100 baby foods -- infant formulas, cereals, strained and junior foods – to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say:

GEORGE WASHINGTON STRETCHED THE TRUTH FOR THE SAKE OF HIS COUNTRY

by JACK HARRISON POLLACK

Every American school child knows the legend of George Washington and the cherry tree. When the Father of Our Country was 6 years old, he was given a hatchet as a gift. One day, in the garden of his Virginia home, he used it to chop down his father's favorite cherry tree. When his father asked him about it, young George bravely cried out, "Yes, father, I cut it down with my hatchet. I cannot tell a lie!"

Yet the first President of the U. S., who has been a shining example of honesty to generations of Americans, thanks to this anecdote, was one of the best liars who ever lived.

But George Washington told his lies only in the line of military duty. As commander-in-chief of the Continental Army, he spun many a fine fib to fool the British and help win the war for independence. Despite the stereotype of Washington as a humorless man with a marble mien, there is an unmistakable gusto about his falsehoods.

The source of this new light on the Cherry Tree Hero is Dr. John Bakeless, distinguished historian, military authority and author of the book Turncoats, Traitors and Heroes. "General Washington revealed an unexpected talent for ingenious and elaborate untruths," this soldier-scholar recently told me. "On one occasion, the same falsified intelligence was 'leaked' to the British from Connecticut, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania and given to two British generals' headquarters. If they had any doubts about its authenticity, they could consult each other!"

General Washington kept up his mendacious militarism throughout the war and even encouraged his staff to think up additional lies to pass on to enemy agents! But he cautioned his intelligence officer, Col. Elias Boudinet, "Keep it within the bounds of what may be thought reasonable or proper. . . . You may add what you please, only take care to keep a Copy and send it to me. . . ."

THE FINE ART OF DECEIT

Typical of how Gen. Washington practiced his fine art was the time his frozen, ill-fed, sadly depleted army was quartered in Morristown, N.J., early in 1777. Total American army strength had sunk to less than 4,000. But Washington didn't want the enemy to know how meager his forces really were. To deceive the British—especially Gen. Howe, who had a detachment larger than the entire Continental Army merely 30 miles away—he spread his men two and three to a house along the main road for miles. "We are deceiving our Enemies with false Opinions of our Numbers," Commander-in-Chief Washington elatedly wrote to Congress.

One day, a New York merchant, claiming he was fleeing from the British, turned up at the Morristown camp. Spotting him as an enemy agent, the adjutant general wanted to arrest him immediately. But Washington was more imaginative. He instructed all his brigadiers to prepare exaggerated reports of their manpower, to show a total American strength of 12,000. These figures were carefully planted in a pigeonhole in the adjutant general's desk.

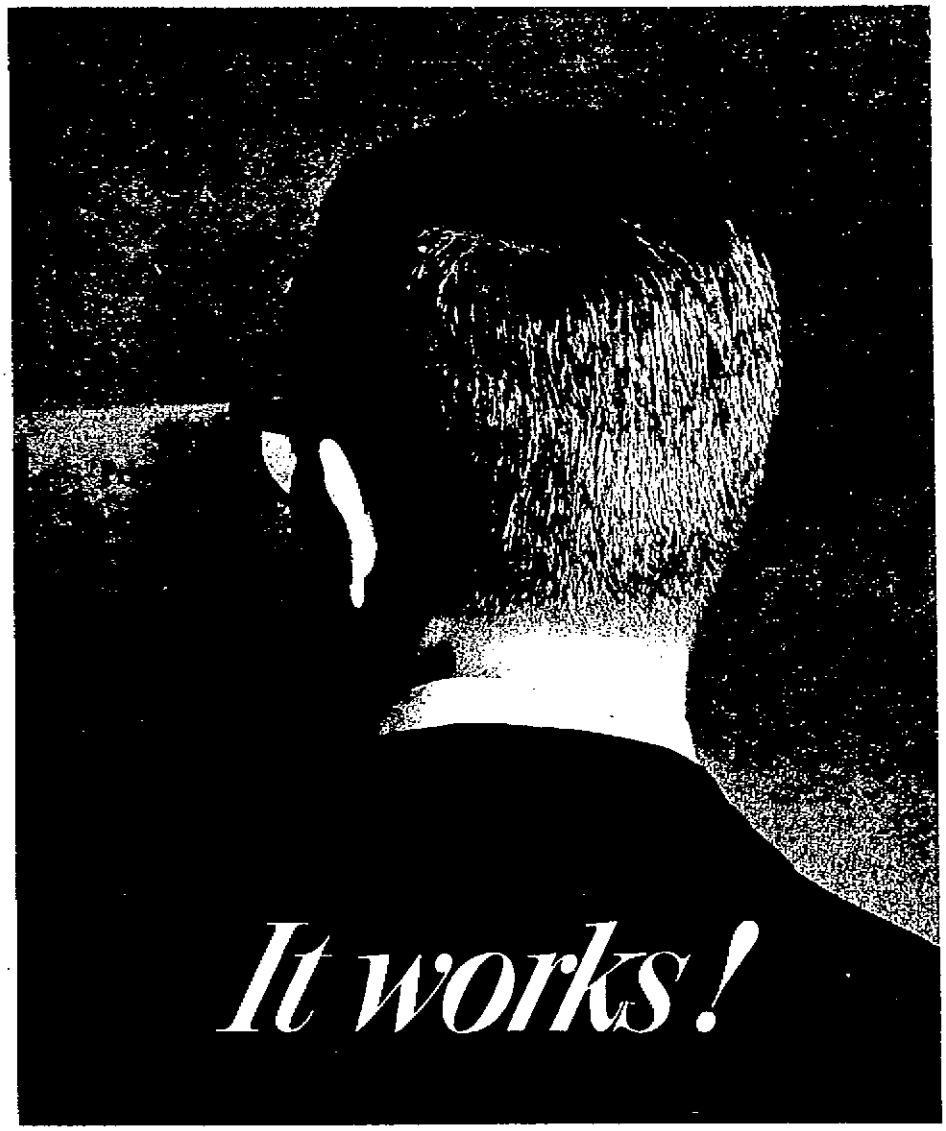

That evening, by prearrangement, when the adjutant was dining with the "merchant" spy, a sergeant rushed in with orders for him to report to Gen. Washington immediately. The spy was given ample time to "steal" the planted information from the desk. He did—and fled. Later, when he turned it over to Gen. Howe in New York, the British commander-in-chief was convinced that Washington's army was too strong to be attacked and spared them that winter.

Other gullible British generals, including Sir Henry Clinton and Lord Cornwallis, went to their graves also believing the hatchet hero's military lies. Even when he told the truth, George Washington could tell it in such a way that enemy agents believed the exact opposite! This talent helped him to win his most important battle.

THE HOAX WORKED

After joining forces with the French in New Jersey, Washington dropped many hints of an impending attack upon New York City. British agents spotted French uniforms on the west bank of the Hudson River and watched several large army ovens being built in New Jersey, indicating that the quartermasters corps expected to be supplying bread there for awhile. They also "captured" Washington's falsified orders for an attack on New York City. In a final inventive touch, Washington casually asked a British agent about water supplies and landing beaches on Long Island, saying that he had no special use for this information. He was just "fond of knowing the Situation of different parts of the Country. . . ." Yet he asked the British spy to maintain "the most profound Secrecy . . . by no means to lisp a word" of their conversation. To make his bogus plans even more credible, American troops began to move along a road which could take them to Sandy Hook, on the coast of New Jersey, from which they could threaten New York.

Then, in a surprise move, he turned completely around and marched southward to bottle up Cornwallis at Yorktown, Va. By the time British General Clinton in New York realized Washington's switcheroo, it was too late. The war was over.

MY FAVORITE JOKES

by Henny Youngman

EDITOR'S NOTE: Henny Youngman, veteran comic, was raised in the Flatbush section of Brooklyn. His parents wanted him to become a concert violinist and gave him violin lessons at the age of 8. Ten years later Youngman organized a neighborhood band called the Swanee Syncopaters. The band was terrible and quickly disbanded. Its leader decided to try comedy. For two years Youngman knocked about in small cabarets and speak-easies, finally catching on at the Yacht Club in New York. There he was brought to the attention of Kate Smith, who took him on as a guest star. Since that time, more than 30 years ago, Henny Youngman has become a familiar figure on Broadway, on radio, TV, night clubs, Hollywood and Las Vegas. He is considered one of the best ad-libbers in the business, and most of his material is stolen from time to time by young, ambitious comedians. Herewith some jokes Youngman told recently at the Tropicana Hotel in Las Vegas.

When do two yeses make a no? When you ask someone for a loan of a thousand dollars and they say, "Yeah! Yeah!"

You meet the craziest people on the subway. One day a fellow sitting next to me kept saying, "Call me a doctor. Call me a doctor."

"What's the matter?" I asked. "Are you sick?"

"No," he answered. "I just graduated from medical school."

"All right, Charlie," said the gunman to his partner. "I want you to walk inside the bank, anyone gets in your way, shoot him down. Grab all the money, come walking outside. I'll be sitting in the get-away car. And remember one thing—I'll be taking all the chances."

"You mean to tell me," asked his pal incredulously, "that you want me to walk inside the bank, anyone gets in my way, shoot him down, grab all the money, come walking outside? You'll be waiting in the car for me, and you say you'll be taking all the chances? What chances are you taking?"

"The biggest one of all," answered the leader. "I can't drive!"

The meanest thing you can do to a woman is lock her in a room with 1,000 hats and no mirror.

When I was a kid, I practiced violin. The neighbors threw stones through the windows. Imagine being that anxious to hear me play!

Statistics show that every four seconds a woman gives birth to a baby. Our problem is to find this woman and stop her.

My wife isn't cheap, but she goes to a beauty shop which makes her hair curly for only 49 cents. They have her stick her finger in a light socket!

I watched a new car roll off the assembly line in Detroit, and it's an amazing process. It starts out in little pieces, then it rolls down the production belt, and thousands of men and a million dollars worth of machinery put everything together. Finally, a shiny new car emerges. Then a woman buys it and turns it into little pieces again.

Jack the Ripper was never killed... he's doing my shirts!

A man was brought before the judge in a divorce court about his alimony payments. The judge said the court would grant the woman $25.00 a week.

"That's very nice of you, your honor," exclaimed the surprised man. "And I'll even chip in a few dollars myself!"

Definition of a fortune hunter: The type of girl who always marries for love—love of money.

"Get me the police!" shouted a voice to the telephone operator, "and hurry."

When the connection was made and the police sergeant at the other end asked what the trouble was, the voice replied: "I want to report a burglar trapped in an old maid's bedroom!"

The sergeant asked for the address, said he would send someone right over and then asked who was calling.

"This," replied the frantic voice, "is the burglar!"

A NEW ENTRANCE THROUGH THE BERLIN WALL

The opening of a new entrance through the Berlin Wall for Americans and other foreign tourists is expected to be a springtime news break. Brandenburg Gate, doorway to the famous Unter den Linden, will replace Checkpoint Charlie as the point of entry between West and East Berlin.

In former years, Unter den Linden was the famous parade street for the German Kaiser and for Hitler. In recent months, East Berlin authorities have been quietly rebuilding and modernizing this area. They hope that an eye-appealing view of Unter den Linden, with the rebuilt Opera House, the original Berlin University, the Tourist Office Building and other new edifices, will create a more pleasing first impression of the Communist zone. Today, the tourist gets a dreary idea of East Berlin when he enters through Checkpoint Charlie.

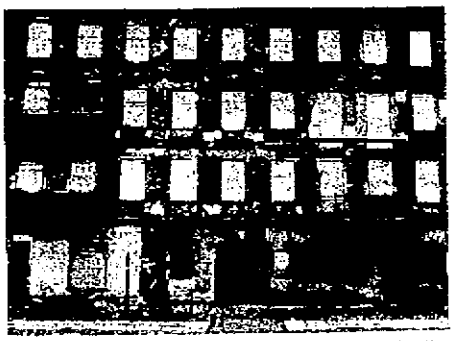

Business will continue at Checkpoint Charlie —at least for a short time. But the Reds are expected to divert traffic to their new showcase by speeding up entry there and introducing a deliberate slowdown at Checkpoint Charlie.

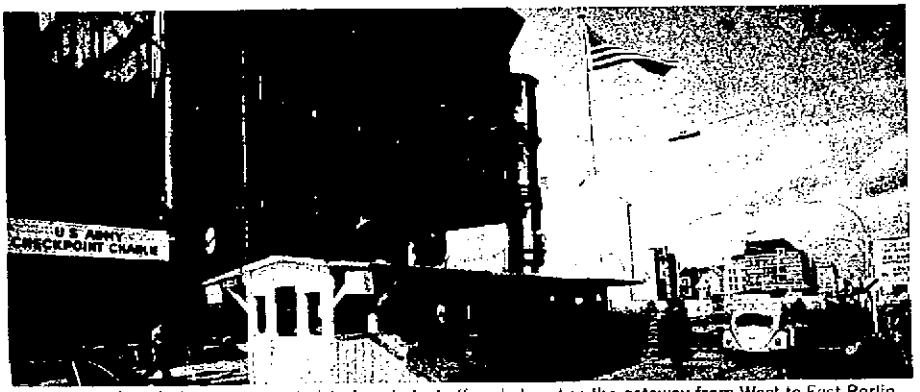

A view of no man's land from the West side of Wall.

East German soldier at Wall watches from pillbox.

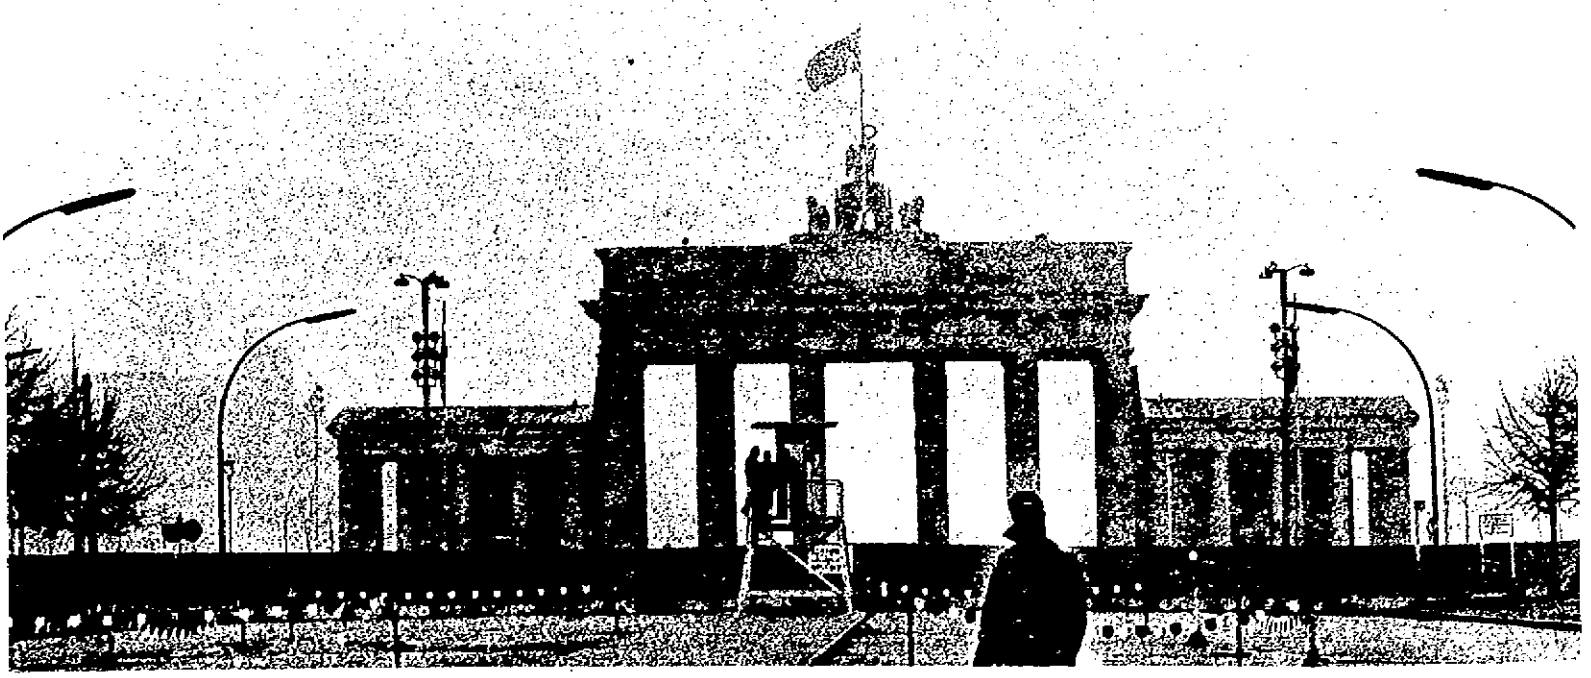

Bricks in windows thwart escapes from East Berlin.

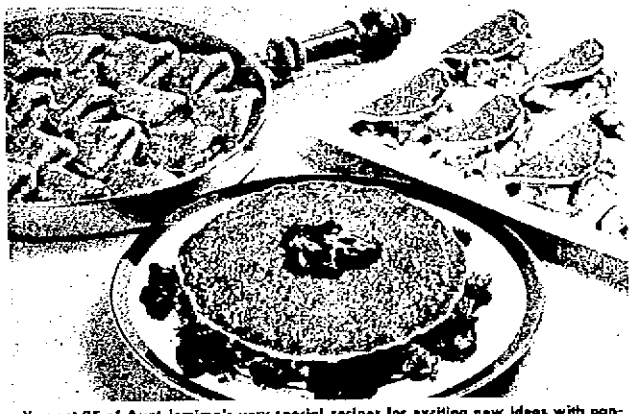

Checkpoint Charlie is soon expected to be choked off and closed as the gateway from West to East Berlin.

The Wall at Brandenburg Gate will soon become new point of entry to East Berlin for American tourists.

POWDER OR GRANULAR

THE MOST DANGEROUS

WASHINGTON, D.C.

Public Enemy No. 1 might be the fresh-faced, high-spirited teenager next door. He could be your neighbor, your banker, your cousin, even yourself. "He's a nice guy," people may say, "wouldn't hurt a fly." But behind the wheel of a car, with a few drinks under his belt, he is more dangerous than any slit-eyed mobster with a machine gun.

Each year he kills at least 20,000 innocent victims and maims hundreds of thousands more. The tragedy he causes is on such a scale it cannot be described; each terrible statistic, so impersonal on paper, is a shattering human story. One who has seen his share of mangled highway victims, U.S. highway safety director James K. Williams, told PARADE: "You never quite get hardened to the sight."

Yet, despite the pleading of police and safety experts, we go on tolerating the drinking driver. Police records blame him for half the 40,000 deaths and 1.5 million accidents on the roads every year. But authorities agree that the tipsy driver is responsible for far more accidents than the records show.

They also agree something drastic must be done—and done quickly—to stop the slaughter. Some would ban the drunken driver from the highways for life. Others favor penalties so severe that no one, having taken a drink, would dare touch a steering wheel.

Williams cites the example of Sweden where the police retrace the steps of every driver involved in an accident. If he has taken so much as one drink, the punishment is stiffened. Result: the average Swede won't drive after drinking.

But Williams makes an even more important point, which, unless it is recognized, will nullify whatever new laws may be introduced. This has to do with the public attitude towards the driver who drinks. Swedes have been brought up to regard drunken driving as the serious crime it is. If they go by car to a party, they expect the driver to remain sober. Instead of being ribbed for not touching a drop, he is ostracized if he does.

THE GRIM REAPER

But in this country, the man who drinks and drives is still socially acceptable. More often than not, he has to be really stiff before anyone will prevent him from going to his car. Perhaps his friends see him as a reflection of themselves some night after a party, perhaps merely as a figure of fun. They certainly do not see him as the grim reaper he may turn out to be at the next corner.

Not only the public at large but judges and juries tend to be tolerant of the driver who tipples. Apparently they identify more with him than with his victims. Highway officials from coast to coast agreed with William S. Foulis, director of the President's Committee for Traffic Safety, who told PARADE: "It's very hard to get a conviction for drunken driving."

One Midwestern judge, who let a defendant off with a stern warning, later admitted: "Sure he was drunk. He's a chronic alcoholic. But he is also a leader of this community. If he had been found guilty of drunken driving, he would have been finished in this town, and it wouldn't have solved his drinking problem. This way he has gotten enough of a scare and nobody has been hurt."

But the chances of "nobody getting hurt" are reduced drastically every time a drunk takes the wheel. Next time, this local big shot may run down a child or crash into a car driven by someone entirely sober and careful.

MOST ALCOHOLICS DRIVE

It may seem inconceivable that anyone with a record as an alcoholic should be permitted to drive at all. Yet the majority of the nation's 5 million alcoholics apparently have licenses. Dr. Melvin Selzer, a University of Michigan psychiatrist who specializes in alcoholism, reports: "In my experience, it is rare to find an alcoholic who does not drive."

Yet even the social drinker can be dangerous. Study after study has demonstrated beyond any statistical doubt that a single drink will impair driving efficiency. An analysis of 542 Canadian drivers involved in auto injuries, for example, established that 1 or 2 drinks increase the accident risk 1.5 per cent. After 4 or 5 drinks, a driver is 10 times more likely to kill or maim someone.

A study of drivers who had killed in New York City revealed 73 per cent had alcohol in their blood, and 46 per cent had enough to make them blind drunk.

Warning: it takes about 90 minutes for the body to burn up one ounce of alcohol. Thus for every drink, a person should wait 90 minutes before driving. Gulping black coffee or taking a shower doesn't help. It merely makes a sleepy drunk a wide-awake one, and much more reckless because he thinks he's sober.

The degree of intoxication that makes a man a menace is hard to prove in court. Police officers, sensitive to the lenient attitude of the courts, think twice before bringing drunk driving charges.

Enforcement is further confused by laws and penalties that vary widely from state to state, even county to county. In some Louisiana jurisdictions, for instance, a driver could be convicted if he'd had a few beers. In others, he'd have had to be "dead drunk."

Only 36 of the 50 states have legalized chemical tests to determine intoxication. But most states make the tests voluntary; repeated offenders know full well they can refuse to take them.

What can be done to stop the mayhem on the roads? Out of PARADE's study, several suggestions seem obvious and urgent.

• Anyone charged with drunken driving should be given thorough psychiatric and medical examinations to determine whether

DRIVERS

by JACK ANDERSON

he is an alcoholic. An alcoholic should not be allowed to drive — any more than a blind man.

• To prevent him from simply picking up a driver's license in another state, every applicant should be screened by the U.S. Driver Register Service. This is a voluntary clearinghouse of license suspensions; all states except Delaware now participate to some degree. Though only two years old, the Driver Register Service already has 400,000 suspensions on file (99 per cent of them for driving while intoxicated).

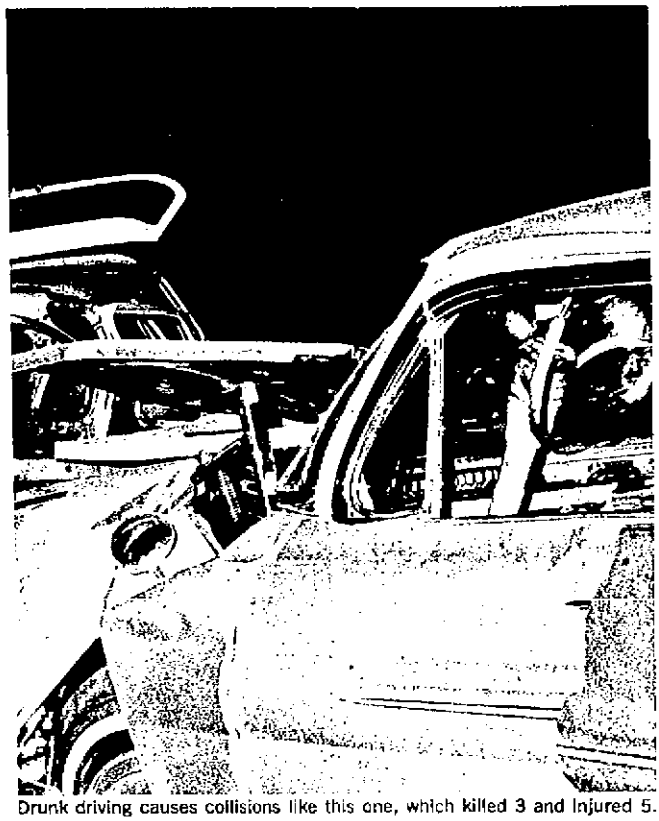

• Traffic penalties should be stiffened automatically for anyone who has alcohol in his blood. All states should adopt an "implied consent" law, as about a dozen already have, which makes refusal to take a blood test grounds for loss of license. This might persuade drinkers to stay off the highways until they have sobered up.

• More thorough investigations should be made of accidents to determine the role played by alcohol. Too many police officers leave out any mention of alcohol in their accident reports to avoid the issue in court. But Nebraska, for instance, is now urging police to make confidential reports on accidents.

• Both parents and police should crack down on teenagers who try to mix liquor and gasoline. New Hampshire Highway Commissioner John O. Morton told PARADE that, in his state, "the greatest single cause of fatal accidents is young people who drink and drive recklessly."

• Authorities shouldn't blame drunken drivers entirely for accidents that are caused partly by traffic hazards. Though sober drivers may be able to notice these hazards and alter their driving accordingly, the authorities must assume that drinkers may not realize they are there until it is too late. Therefore, the roads should be kept safe as possible, so the drunks will be less likely to involve others in accidents.

You can help make the highways safer by urging your city and state officials to adopt these recommendations. For your own safety, you must start treating the man who drinks and drives as a potential killer.

Drunk driving causes collisions like this one, which killed 3 and injured 5.

New Winegard Antenna Development for Better TV Reception!

excellent for Color and Black and White

Winegard engineers have developed a super-sensitive TV antenna that increases the amount of signal that gets to your TV set . . . at the same time knocks out ghosts, snow and other interference.

This unusual antenna is the gold anodized Winegard Colortron. It will give you sharply detailed TV pictures for color or black & white sets . . . even in difficult reception areas. It will pull in TV pictures hardly visible with ordinary antennas. And it is so powerful, you can operate 2, 3 or more TV sets from one Colortron antenna.

The Winegard Colortron works two ways to give you better reception. First, a patented Electro-lens design intercepts more signal. Second, a powerful electronic power pack amplifies the signal. The result is the finest possible reception.

Colortrons are rugged, too. Wind tested to 100 mph. Permanent GOLD ANODIZED finish won't weather-wear—stays like new for years.

For the best reception, insist on a Winegard Colortron. Four models from $24.95, electronic power pack extra . . . satisfaction guaranteed.* Ask your TV service dealer or send coupon for full story.

This tranquil pond makes the 3rd hole at Los Leones, Chile, one of the most challenging to play in the world. It extends for 150 yards and guards a small raised green.

WORLD'S TOUGHEST GOLF HOLES

■ In the mind of nearly every golfer lingers a vision of a hole he can't forget. It may be one he doggedly tackles regularly —without often defeating its hazards to equal par. It may be a handsomely landscaped and artfully challenging hole he played once on a trip. On these pages are shown some of the great golf holes of the world, great because they are superbly designed, set in beauteous natural surroundings and afford the golfer an exacting test of mind and physical skill. Some of America's professional stars have played them (at times with no more success than the average weekend "duffer") in the course of the TV series, "Shell's Wonderful World of Golf."

Says Gene Sarazen, one of the all-time U.S. golfing masters: "The great holes have something extra built into them by the course architect. These are the holes that you think about when you are talking about great golf."

Some of the most fiendish of these "extras" are encountered on the spectacular holes pictured here in their majestic settings, and on others of the world's greatest: the 5th at Dorado Beach, Puerto Rico —wrapped around a lagoon; 5th at Gleneagles, Scotland—you must clear a ravine full of heather; 1st at Royal Lahaina on Maui, Hawaii—an immense green protected by a pond and the Pacific; 7th at Crans-sur-Sierre, Switzerland—where the green hugs the lip of a deep Alpine valley; 11th at Capilano, Vancouver, Canada—a roller coaster green at the edge of a thick forest.

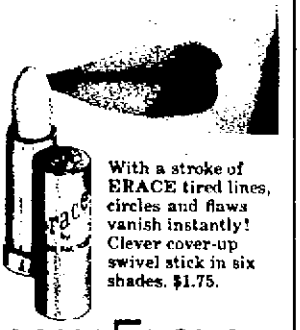

After the golfer drinks in the scenery, he had better gird himself for adventure. The great holes are all ultimate tests of his mettle—and his bravery!

PARADE'S SPECIAL

NO HOUSEWORK. Twenty years from now, claims the American Home Economics Association, the average U.S. housewife will lead a life without housework. Plastic crockery will be disposed of after each meal. Clothing will be made of disposable paper. Homes will be electronically dusted and deodorized. Madame will do little or no cleaning, will have more time for children, leisure, study and husband.

TALKATIVE CANADIANS. For the 11th straight year, Canadians have proved themselves the world's most talkative people on the telephone. The American Telephone and Telegraph Company reports that last year Canadians averaged 613.4 conversations per person, Americans 556.6 per person and Icelanders 527.1 per person. In the number of phones, the U.S. ranks first with 43.1 per 100 persons, Sweden second with 40.3 and Canada third with 33.7.

TOP HOLIDAY SPOT. Englishmen who are veteran tourists and know the world well have chosen as their most popular Continental holiday resort, Palma, capital of Majorca, in the Spanish-owned Balearic Islands located in the Mediterranean. Last year more than 500,000 Britons visited the place.

WOUND-HEALING STUDY. Does a flesh wound heal faster when covered or when left exposed to air? Seven San Quentin prisoners recently volunteered the use of their arms to answer the question. The answer: wounds that got no air healed two to five times faster than the exposed ones. The experiment was conducted by Drs. Cameron Hinman and Howard Maibach of the University of California. They cut into each prisoner's arm, then covered half of each wound with airtight film. Antibiotic solution was applied to all wounds. The bandaged areas subsequently acquired a healthy new skin covering faster than the exposed areas.

MORE TWINS. The percentage of twins throughout the world is rising. Two reasons: many premature twins are now saved who previously would have died; these surviving twins tend in turn to breed further twins.

anecdote of the week

■When comedienne Gracie Allen was in London, she, like most Americans, walked over to Buckingham Palace to watch the changing of the guard. After the guard was changed, and the sentries began passing and repassing each other in silence, Gracie shook her head, truly disturbed. A few minutes of watching, and she stepped up to the sentries as they were passing. "Come now, boys," she said cheerfully. "You're acting like children. Make up and be friends." ■

PLATO FIVE GREAT DIALOGUES

NOTHING short of amazing is the way this great classic (written more than two thousand years ago) hits so many nails squarely on the head today! Here, in the clearest reasoning in all literature, is the pure essence of how to get the best out of life — whether we possess worldly wealth or only the riches in our hearts and minds.

This beautiful edition contains the five great dialogues. In these conversations between friends — fresh, spontaneous, humorous, informal — you have "philosophy brought down from heaven to earth."

MARCUS AURELIUS MEDITATIONS

THROUGH these writings, you gaze as if through a powerful telescope at the Rome of eighteen centuries ago. You will be struck by resemblances to our own era as you read the wise Meditations of the great emperor-philosopher, Marcus Aurelius, the Stoic who found peace in traditional customs . . . the witty arguments of Lucian, the Skeptic, who punctured so many beliefs . . . the impassioned words of Justin, the Christian, willing to die for the new religion.

ARISTOTLE ON MAN IN THE UNIVERSE

"THE master of them that know," this supreme mind of the fabulous Golden Age of Greece was called by the poet Dante. He was so far ahead of his era that his ideas are astonishingly timely today. Nature, politics, art, drama, logic, morals — he explored them all, with a mind open to truth and a heart eager for understanding.

Included is the essence of his five celebrated essays. You will be amazed, as you read them, how this great philosopher discovered by pure reason so many truths upon which modern scientists and thinkers have only recently agreed.

Why Are Great Books Called "Classics"?

A true "classic" is a living book that will never grow old. For sheer fascination it can rival the most thrilling modern novel. Have you ever wondered how the truly great books have become "classics"? First, because they are so readable. They would not have lived unless they were read; they would not have been read unless they were interesting. To be interesting they had to be easy to understand. And those are the very qualities which characterize these selections: readability, interest, simplicity.

The Classics Club is different from all other book clubs. 1. It distributes to its members the world's classics at a low price. 2. Its members are not obligated to take any specific number of books. 3. Its volumes are luxurious De Luxe Editions — bound in the fine buckram ordinarily used for $7 and $10 bindings. It costs a whale of a lot to be laid up by an accident — any kind of accident. When the family bread-winner is hurt and can't work, his income is usually reduced or stopped entirely. Result? The family savings are drained so much that it may take years to recover from the high accident costs.

Bills for medical treatments, X-rays, hospital rooms, wheel chairs and a dozen other unexpected expenses, take a big chunk out of anyone's hard-earned savings.

This insurance is designed to help you solve the Accident Expense Problem. You may find it hard to believe, BUT this policy — at a cost of little more than a penny a day does pay the benefits shown below, for accidents at work, at home, in your automobile, on the street, and even at play.

Hundreds of claims are paid every week to men and women, like yourself, who never expected to be hurt. But they realized that, since one American in every 12 gets hurt each year, they just couldn't afford to be without this low-cost protection.

MISMANAGED L.A. HARBOR FOUNDERING

By EVERETT W. HOSKING
I.P-T Sunday Editor

(First of a Series)

Los Angeles Harbor—the largest man-made port in the nation and the self-styled "cargo capital" of the Western Hemisphere—is foundering.

Since the Mayor Sam Yorty-appointed Board of Harbor Commissioners took over control of the harbor a little more than two and a half years ago, the harbor has drifted from reef to reef.

. . . Never before in its history has the harbor lost its terminal lessees with such rapidity.

. . . Never before in its history have the harbor commissioners bent the conflict-of-interest laws with such brashness.

. . . Never before has the Board of Harbor Commissioners fought so violently—with its tenant staff, the Port of Long Beach and its own city officials.

. . . Never before have the harbor commissioners so flagrantly violated the ruling against "star-chamber sessions."

. . . Never before have the harbor's top civil service employes been so harassed—thus far two key executives have quit.

. . . And never before has the harbor's economic health shown such a steady decline.

Even the commissioners, in one of their rare moments of self-appraisal, admitted the gravity of the situation:

"We did not enter office to preside over the dissolution of Los Angeles Harbor."

This worried warning was voiced by a member of the Yorty-appointed board at that body's meeting on Nov. 6, 1963.

How has the organization with one of the ablest staffs in the country and an annual gross revenue of near $9,000,000 approached the brink of disaster implied in this statement?

Mismanagement of the harbor and indecision in a period when the Southern California business community is booming have caused the port's trade growth to grind to a halt, then gradually slip backward.

In the year preceding the Yorty appointees' takeover of the harbor's economy, the port's general cargo tonnage—the generally accepted barometer of a port's progress—totaled 3,691,468. At the end of the 1963 fiscal year—after just 21 months of the new regime's policies—the general cargo declined to 3,470,201 tons.

In the same period, Long Beach Harbor brought its general cargo tonnage up from 2,237,731 to 2,502,733.

The total commerce graphs for the two ports reflect a similar trend.

At the time of Yorty's coup d'etat, Los Angeles boasted 25,012,412 tons, as compared to last year's 24,351,976 tons. Almost a 1,000,000-ton drop.

Long Beach, meanwhile, rose from a 1961 figure of 10,719,534 tons to 11,365,729 tons last year, an increase of 646,195 tons.

Although commissioners proudly point out that Los

Church Voids Old Marriage of Jackie Kin

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Sunday News said in a copyrighted story from Vatican City Saturday night that Princess Lee Radziwill, sister of Mrs. John F. Kennedy, had been granted an annulment by the Catholic Church of an earlier marriage.

The 30-year-old wife of Prince Stanislas Radziwill and mother of two children was visiting in New York, but declined comment.

The News said the Vatican's Sacred Rota, high tribunal on matters of marriage annulments, took the action more than a month ago, annulling her 1953 marriage to Michael Canfield, former U.S. diplomatic aide and now a publisher.

PRINCESS RADZIWILL
Annulment Granted

The News, in a story by Eleanor Packard, quoted Prof. Ferdinando Della Rocca of Rome, a lay advocate in the rota, as saying:

"Yes, the plea for annulment ended favorably for Princess Radziwill, and she is now free to wed Prince Radziwill in a Catholic ceremony.

"She has been informed of the annulment, which was granted more than a month ago, but it was kept quiet.

"I cannot say more than that the annulment was granted by the Sacred Roman Rota."

The report said the church action was taken on the grounds of claims that "Canfield, a non-Catholic, had no intention of having children when he married Lee in a Catholic ceremony in Washington in 1953."

"Since having children is regarded a primary aim of marriage in the Catholic Church, Canfield's reservation was construed by the rota . . . as constituting grounds for annulment," the News said.

The newspaper said the case was heard by two panels of judges, consisting of three judges each.

Radziwill disclosed more than 18 months ago that his wife had been seeking the annulment since 1958.

• • • •

"HE SAID then that he and Lee planned to have a second wedding ceremony, this time in church, as soon as the annulment was granted," the News said.

The prince, a Polish nobleman, had been married twice before his wedding to the former Caroline Lee Bouvier.

His first marriage, to a Czech girl, was annulled by the church and she since has remarried.

His second marriage was to a shipping heiress who now is the countess of Dudley. That marriage ended in divorce, but was never recognized by the church because it was a civil marriage.

WITHDRAWS MONDAY

Original Counsel for Ruby to Quit

DALLAS (AP)—Tom Howard said Saturday night he will make a motion Monday to withdraw as a defense attorney in the murder trial of Jack Ruby.

Howard was the first lawyer employed by Ruby's family after the nightclub operator was charged with slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy, on Nov. 24, and had directed much of the early preparations for Ruby's defense.

Ruby's trial opens Monday.

Melvin Belli of San Francisco became Ruby's chief defense attorney in mid-December and added Joe Tonahill of Jasper, Tex., and Sam Brody of Los Angeles to the defense legal staff.

Tonahill told reporters Saturday night, "Howard is quitting. I hear he has an ill daughter."

Tonahill said Howard "is a good lawyer," and that he and Belli were "sorry to see Howard leave the case."

Belli couldn't be reached for comment.

• • • •

HOWARD said he did not have an ill daughter and added:

"I cannot talk about the situation now . . . not until I have a chance to talk to the (Ruby) family."

He said he planned to meet with the Ruby family today and continued:

"Then I think I will have something to say."

Airline Strike Is Settled

Five-State Water Plan Submitted

$1.7 Billion Now Sought to Start $3.1-Billion Job

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A $3.1-billion plan to develop the shrinking water supplies of the thirsty Pacific Southwest was spelled out in detail Saturday by the Interior Department.

A revised report on the plan first revealed last August called on Congress for immediate authorization of projects in five states at a total cost of $1.7 billion.

The revised blueprint, put together after months of dickering between state and federal officials, calls for federal construction of the $511-million Bridge Canyon and $239-million Marble Canyon hydroelectric projects in Arizona.

• • • •

IT ALSO recommends construction of the long-pending Central Arizona Project at a cost of $527 million and enlargement of the California state aqueduct for $240 million.

The report, signed by Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall, also was sent to President Johnson for submission to Congress. It was rushed to completion to meet deadline set by the EPC. The commission is considering an application from the Arizona Power Authority to build the Marble Canyon dam and applications from the APA and the city of Los Angeles to build the Bridge Canyon project.

• • • •

INTERIOR Department spokesmen said the two dams would be a key feature of the multibillion-dollar regional water plan because power revenues would be used to build other projects.

Officials said the plan would guarantee California, Arizona and Nevada a minimum of 7.5 million acre-feet of water each year from the Colorado River without taking water away from upper basin states.

The Central Arizona Project, for which Arizona Gov. Paul Fannin demanded first priority, would carry 1.2 million acre-feet of Colorado River water to the Phoenix and Tucson areas of the fast-growing state.

As proposed in the regional plan, the Central Arizona Project also would include construction of the $28-million Hooker Dam

U.N. Rejects Cyprus Call for Fast Action

What's So Fascinating?

Bid Made in Fear of Invasion

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Cyprus tried and failed to get an emergency meeting of the U.N. Security Council Saturday night on grounds she faced an imminent threat of Turkish invasion.

A U.N. spokesman said a council meeting about Cyprus was "tentatively set for Monday afternoon but it can be convened earlier if developments warrant."

• • • •

THE CYPRIOT bid for an "emergency meeting" came after Britain requested an "early meeting" of the 11-nation council to resolve a "dangerous situation" in Cyprus, scene of fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots. The United States endorsed the British move.

The U.S. statement made clear that the United States and Britain were still trying to get agreement on an expanded international peacekeeping force for Cyprus from the Greek Cypriot president of the country, Archbishop Makarios.

Later U.N. Secretary-General U Thant appealed to Cyprus, Greece and Turkey and the Greek and Turkish Cypriot communities to "refrain from any action which might lead to a worsening of the situation and further bloodshed."

• • • •

HE MADE the appeal in cables to President Makarios and to Foreign Ministers Christos Xanthopoulos Palamas of Greece and Feridun Cemal Erkin of Turkey.

Cypriot Foreign Minister Spyros Kyprianou was en route to New York for the council meeting and was expected to be here in a special delegation before the council convened.

Stunned by Death of Hubbs

Combined Wire Services

COLTON, Calif. — The glimmering hopes of the anxious parents of Chicago Cubs second baseman Ken Hubbs said he might have landed safely vanished Saturday when the bodies of the ballplayer and his companion were spotted in the wreckage of their light plane in Utah.

News of the death rocked this small city in San Bernardino County which worshiped the 22-year-old player as one of its hometown heroes. He was National League "Rookie of the Year" in 1962.

• • • •

THE PARENTS were notified of Hubbs' death by an official of the Western Air Rescue Center at San Rafael, Calif., about 11 a.m. Skindivers failed to recover the bodies from 15 feet of icy, murky water by nightfall Saturday.

"The family was very grief-stricken," a family spokesman said. The father, Enlis Hubbs, an insurance broker, thanked rescuers for their intensive air search.

The spokesman said Mrs.

SOME SAY FUMIGATE

Beatle Bug Bites L.B. Elders, Too

By MARY ELLIS CARLTON

Quick, Henry, the Flit . . .

The Beatle invasion has hit Long Beach.

Had you asked anyone here a couple months ago about Beatles, chances are he (or she) would have told you a beetle is a bug and you should fumigate.

Ask the same person today and he will, like as not, still tell you to fumigate. If it's a teen-age girl, however, she may just plain faint.

Incredible as it seems, those four likable mopheads from England have, in one week's time, out-Elvised Presley, sunk Frank Sinatra and set our teenagers on a new screaming jag.

But this time around, even oldsters have been bitten by the bug. As one balding middle-aged male, wearing a Beatle wig, quipped: "After all, every Beatle has to have a dad."

Fact is, you don't know when, or where, these days you'll run into an otherwise sensible gent sporting—or sprouting — long hair and bangs.

MYRON MILGROM

Long Beach's famed Kiwanis quartet (Norm Masserson, Harry Christensen, Brewster Gray and Jack Hammond) wowed onlookers the other day by draping their pates with Beatle mops while vocalizing at a luncheon.

Iacoboni Falls Dead at Tennis

Lakewood Councilman and former Mayor Angelo M. (Jack) Iacoboni, 48, died Saturday apparently of a heart attack while playing tennis in Anaheim with a longtime friend.

Iacoboni, the city's first mayor following its incorporation in 1954, collapsed at 2:30 p.m. and was pronounced dead on arrival at Garden Park Hospital, Anaheim, at 2:52. He would have completed ten years as a city leader in April.

• • • •

PHILLIP A. Younes, Anaheim insurance executive of 1315 Falcon Ave., said he and Iacoboni were playing doubles opposite each other with two other men at Loara High School when the attack took place.

"I saw Jack go down," Younes said, "just as he was set to return a serve. I rushed to his side of the net and immediately began mouth-to-mouth resuscitation when it appeared that he wasn't breathing."

L.A.C. Says:
A Heart Beat Away

In the minds of many voters—of both parties—the most important issue is who will be the second man on the ticket with President Johnson. They are more concerned over this than they are as to who will be the presidential nominee on the Republican ticket. This concern is largely due to the possibility that the running mate with President Johnson may be Robert Kennedy, Hubert Humphrey or Pat Brown.

Any one of these three would be President if elected vice president and anything should happen to the President. There is concern over the serious heart attack suffered by Mr. Johnson and the heavy work load he carries and the tensions surrounding his office. He is reported to be one of the hardest working Presidents who ever held that office. All these factors raise the question of the possibility of another heart attack.

It is argued that Robert Kennedy would be a logical candidate for vice president—he would carry with him the ardent supporters of his brother and the sympathy of those who were shocked by his tragic assassination. But it is also remembered that the attorney general was the closest adviser to the late President. He has been an advocate of the more drastic civil rights legislation. He advised his brother on the Bay of Pigs debacle, and used the FBI to intimidate the steel companies on the price raise issue.

The thought of having him in the presidency is frightening to a large portion of the voters. They fear his arrogant methods of operation would quickly take on the attitude of a dictator. He has encouraged ever greater governmental interference in business and the general economy. But he has considerable ability as a campaign manager and the prestige of the name carries considerable weight.

The thought of the ultraliberal Sen. Humphrey of Minnesota as President is little more palatable. He has been the darling of the left-wing ADA, the California CDC and other organizations with far left-wing leanings. He is an effective speaker and campaigner. But as a presidential prospect, he would be acceptable primarily to the far left groups of the Democratic party. This may be considered enough of an asset in the coming election to place him on the ticket with the President.

Another candidate given considerable publicity is Gov. Pat Brown. It is figured he might carry California for the party. The fact that he has raised the state budget more than 50 per cent in four years is not of interest to people in other states. His bungling of the Chessman case, his CDC association and his playing up to labor unions and support of the Rumford Act are calculated to hold the votes of these affected groups. But even many of them shudder at the possibility of his being President.

It may seem morbid to write of the possibility of the death of a President. But it would be unrealistic to overlook the fact that a man who has suffered a serious heart attack may suffer another. It was true of President Eisenhower who was re-elected after his attack. But Mr. Eisenhower was not the long-hour worker Mr. Johnson is. Both of these men—after a serious attack—have to take unusual care of themselves to avoid another.

These are valid reasons why the vice presidential candidate to run with Mr. Johnson is of greater importance than it has been considered in the past. He—if the party wins the election—will be but a heart beat away from the presidency. It is the reason why there is a greater interest in this second place on the Democratic ticket. The sending of Robert Kennedy to deal with Indonesia's Sukarno is thought to be a build-up for him and thereby indicates he may be Mr. Johnson's choice for a running mate in this year's election.

B26 STILL USED IN VIET NAM

Air Show Crash Revives Obsolete Plane Dispute

By LEE CRAIG
Aerospace Editor

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla.—The crash here of a 20-year-old B26 fighter-bomber, in which two men were killed, has revived a controversy over use by America's counter-insurgency forces of the aged aircraft.

The tragic accident, occurring as it did before an audience of several hundred high-ranking and foreign military officers and a contingent of West Coast press Tuesday night, unleashed a flood of bitter comment which incorporated a few facts with many rumors about performance of the world War II planes now on duty in Viet Nam.

* * * *

CRITICISM especially has been levied at the Douglas-built B26, with unnamed Air Force personnel quoted in newspaper accounts as revealing that six of these bombers have crashed in the Asian country when their wings fell off.

"We have lost several over there, as we have other types of aircraft," admitted Brig. Gen. Gilbert L. Pritchard, commander of the Air Force's Special Air Warfare Center here.

"We did recover one . . . and the wing had come off. And, as in all cases where structural failure may have occurred, we made a thorough investigation . . . all sorts of tests, including metallurgical.

"We found no evidence of metal fatigue, crystaligation or anything of that sort."

However, General Pritchard did order B26s grounded, pending results of the investigation into Tuesday's crash.

* * * *

WHY ARE these old, propeller-driven aircraft being used?

The Air Force has a simple, logical answer.

The Geneva treaty prohibits introduction of new offensive weapons into that part of the world. In addition, countries such as Viet Nam do not have runways to accommodate high-performance jets nor the equipment or know-how with which to maintain these tremendously complex machines.

Also, targets in counter-insurgency warfare are not steel-reinforced concrete bunkers, or great railroad yards. They are small groups of men, or a gathering of thatched huts.

Unleashing the fantastic firepower of an F105 Republic Thunderchief fighter on such objectives would be like using an elephant gun to kill a rabbit, Gen. Pritchard points out.

Many of these small nations already have been using such craft as the North American T28, Douglas C47 and others. Their pilots have been trained to fly them and their mechanics are capable of maintaining them.

* * * *

AND, SO far in Viet Nam, the Americans and South Vietnamese have had the skies to themselves. Main danger is from ground fire.

Not that the Air Force, Gen. Pritchard says, is not on the lookout for better planes.

Under evaluation now at Edwards Air Force Base is a Cessna T37 jet trainer, modified with higher thrust engines and equipped for a possible strike-support role. A new turboprop T28 will be delivered at Edwards for testing by the end of the month. Light spotter aircraft, almost capable of landing in your backyard, are also under consideration.

But meanwhile, the Air Force's air commandos are getting the job done with the weapons they have.

"The Good Land"

GEORGE WASHINGTON . . . The General, the Statesman, the First President of the United States. This great American whose birth we shall soon celebrate began his life simply, as a surveyor, a profession which taught him resourcefulness and endurance . . . traits which strengthened both his mind and his body.

When he established residence at the Mount Vernon estate, he excelled in all outdoor activities from colt breaking to wrestling . . . as a General in the Army, he led our country through most difficult times and led his troops to victory.

As President, he inspired and led his country into our first common government.

In the words of Henry Lee he was "First in War, First in Peace and First in the Hearts of his Countrymen."

DARYL SUPERNAW, 11, student body president at Buffum Elementary, speeds over course during Police Reaction Safety Demonstration.

SAFETY PRIMER:

See Him Run; Can He Stop?

Concerned over the increase of traffic accidents involving school children, Long Beach police are embarked on one of their most ambitious safety programs.

They are telling the young walkers and bike riders: You can't stop on a dime.

During the 1963-64 school year, 33,000 local kids are getting a visible demonstration of that warning in what the Police Department calls its "Traffic Safety Reaction Program."

• • • •

IN A demonstration, selected kids are asked to walk, run and ride a bike along a predetermined line in front of their school chums.

When Officers Robert T. Aughton and William J. Meyer blow a whistle, the kids must come to an abrupt halt.

When walking at a normal pace, it has been found that it still takes the child four feet to stop after hearing the whistle. It's 21 feet for the runner, more than 32 feet for the bicyclist.

Aughton and Meyer stick the needle into their lesson by driving over the same course in a police car.

No high speed for them, just a leisurely 20 to 25 miles an hour.

It takes the police car 60 feet to skid to a halt on a sudden signal.

• • • •

AS AUGHTON points out, that "dime grows and grows since it takes 17 of the 10-cent pieces to equal a foot."

ELEVEN-YEAR-OLD Les Elder hot-foots during safety demonstration. On whistle signal, he stopped to test his reaction time in case auto was coming at him.

"YOU CAN'T STOP ON A DIME," Officer Robert Augton tells school kids at Buffum Elementary as bicyclist comes to a halt.

The graphic presentation program was launched by Police Chief William Mooney in 1961, after dissatisfaction with a school lecture program in which the school children sat and squirmed in their seats in the auditorium while a police officer droned on about safety.

The number of schools signing up for the program have increased from 24 during the first two years it was in operation to the present 33.

During that time, police estimate 107,000 kids from public and private schools have viewed the safety demonstration.

• • • •

POLICE report an alarming increase in accidents involving children.

Last year, 64 preschool-age children were struck by cars in Long Beach—48 of them were held responsible for the accidents. One of the tots was killed.

In the school-age (6 to 17) category, 80 children were hit by cars last year. Police blamed 54 of the 80 for the accidents. One was killed.

Chief Mooney noted that there were 93 bicycle injury accidents in Long Beach during 1963—compared to 69 in the previous year.

CHILDREN RUN INTO DANGER

Long Beach police statistics show these as the average auto-pedestrian accidents involving children:

Preschool-age (1 to 5)—A child, between 4 and 5, running in front of an auto near his home, generally about noon on a Monday.

School-age (6 to 17)—A 6-year-old child running in front of an auto, generally about 4 p.m. on a Wednesday.

Bandit Suspect Says He's Ex-FBI Agent

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A man who was collared by an assistant bank manager in what police said was a holdup attempt has identified himself as a former Federal Bureau of Investigation agent.

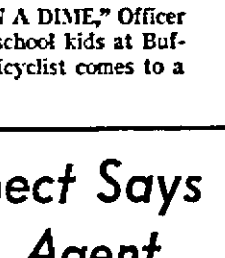

The man, identified as Robert Hagenston, 35, Culver City, Calif., was arrested at the metropolitan branch of the U.S. National Bank.

He said he had worked in the early 1950s as an FBI agent in Detroit, Baltimore, and Kansas City, Mo.

John Williams, special agent in charge of the Portland FBI office, said a Robert Hagenston had been an FBI agent in the early 1950s.

Final verification of Hagenston's identity will be made through fingerprints, Williams said.

OTHERS JUST PLAIN BUGGED

Beatle Bug Bites Elders, Too

the city's head lifeguard, Dutch Miller—showed up at an Elks dance wearing Beatle "toupees."

Also going over with bangs at Wallich's Music Store are record department clerks, who donned wigs to get in tune with their current best-selling platter, "Meet the Beatles."

• • • •

ONE LOCAL water Beatle—U.S. Navy man Myron Milgrom, 18, stationed aboard the USS Frontier — reports less success with his Liverpool puddin' pie wig:

"I bought it to cheer up my wife who has been in the hospital," said he. "She got a kick out of it, all right . . .

"She kicked me out of the house and told me to get a haircut."

Meanwhile, local department stores, those lucky enough to have received shipments, report a swinging business in Beatle-inspired products. The Broadway's first supply of wigs, received Friday, were sold out in one day.

"But we expect another shipment within the hour," said store manager William Favro. Also due to arrive: Beatle sweatshirts, Beatle T-shirts, Beatle autographs, and Beatle jewelry, babushkas, gob hats and dolls.

• • • •

ECONOMICALLY, the Beatle craze threatens to make a big dent in U.S. wallets.

Wall Street Journal reports that U.S. teen-agers in the next 12 months will spend $50 million on Beatle novelties. Authority for this frightening prediction is Nicky Byrne, a British businessman who is president of a concern known as Seltaeb — that's Beatles pelled backwards.

He declines forecast on exactly how much of this $50 million will find its way into pockets of the four young British singers. "It would be cheeky to predict our income," says he.

• • • •

MEANWHILE, doctors, lawyers, merchants and teen-agers are speculating on how far the Beatlemania craze will go. Truth is, no one knows yet.

One disc jockey does make this observation: "The Beatles are British and this gives them a touch of class." He goes on to argue: "The Sinatra and Presley booms were nothing compared to this."

Local advertising man John Sarver is all for them but suggests the four Liverpool youths have more flair for publicity than for music.

And what about haircuts? Despite the fact that the lads have crowned England with bowl-shaped hairdos, local hair snippers don't believe the fad will go here.

"We've been doing mostly short cuts—very short cuts," says Harry Workman of American Barber College. "By the time men here grow enough hair, the Beatles will be has-beens."

This from Phil Andolfo, Bixby Knolls barber shop owner: "I wouldn't give such a haircut without a written letter of consent from the parents. I'm afraid they'd come with a shotgun."

And these words from Howard James, owner of Long Beach's most stylish hair salon for men: "Girls may go for the Beatles, but if their boyfriends showed up with such haircuts, they WOULD faint."

• • • •

AND SO GO the comments, pro and con . . .

Says local real estate man Bob Westmyer: "I'm jealous. For that much hair, I'd sing too."

This from political-minded attorney George P. Taubman Jr.: "I keep thinking what we could send England in retaliation. Frank Sinatra, maybe?"

Teen-ager Jim Craighead, a sophomore and member of the orchestra at Poly High: "I like their music all right on records . . . but not when I have to look at them."

Wilson High student Sue Weiss refuses to faint. "I think they're over-rated," says she.

Helen Kennedy, head of the record department at the Long Beach Public Library, where from 4,500 to 6,000 records are checked out monthly, says several requests have come in for Beatle records. "We won't have any money to buy records before July," says she. "By then the craze will have died."

Local insurance man Jack Hammond won't insure their success, either. "I'll leave that to Lloyds of London," says he.

And from Long Beach mortician Harry Christensen: "I think they'll just be hair today and gone tomorrow."

Vito Romans, executive director of Downtown Long Beach Associates, thinks the world needs such fun fads once in awhile. "It helps the kids let off steam, gives the grownups a few laughs and something to talk about."

THE TONSILS MAY BE OK . . . but what about the tonsures? Kiwanis quartet singers Harry Christensen (left) and Jack Hammond don Beatle-inspired wigs to see what the rag-mop touch can do for them.

U.N. Rejects Cyprus Request for Fast Action on Turk Threat

mitri S. Bitsios told a reporter Greece did not expect Turkey to do anything rash because of a realization of the implications that would have.

• • • •

COUNCIL members planned to stay close over the weekend so they could be called together on short notice.

Delegates involved said that in private talks the council decided 6-5 against meeting Saturday night. They said the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, Bolivia, the Ivory Coast and Morocco were for it while the United States, Britain, France, Nationalist China, Norway and Brazil were against it.

Carlos Alfredo Bernardes of Brazil, president of the Security Council this month, began consulting members on a time for a Cypriot meeting after a brief session on the India-Pakistani dispute over Kashmir.

• • • •

CYPRIOT Chief Delegate Zenon Rossides saw Bernardes before the Kashmir session and then told a reporter that, "for very urgent reasons," he had asked him to call a Saturday night meeting on the Cyprus question.

A dispatch from Nicosia said a government spokesman was just announcing that Makarios had asked for a meeting Monday when the news came that Rossides had asked for one for Saturday night.

Turk Troops Said Returned Home

ISTANBUL (UPI)—An undisclosed number of Turkish troops who set sail from Iskenderum Friday, apparently headed for Cyprus, returned to the port city Saturday, according to unconfirmed reports received here.

The reports said the soldiers, escorted by submarines and destroyers, sailed at 4 p.m. EST Friday and returned to Iskenderum at 2 p.m. Saturday.

• • • •

SOLDIERS disembarking from ships in the sealed-off port area were quoted as saying they came within a mile and a half of the Cyprus coast.

Informed sources in Ankara said U. S. Under Secretary of State George Ball won a pledge from the Turkish government Friday not to send troops into Cyprus for at least 48 hours.

The unconfirmed reports from Iskenderum said the soldiers were given three days off from duty when they disembarked. The three days coincided with a Mos'em religious holiday.

TRAIN NOW FOR AUTOMATION

PROFITABLE CAREERS

Charles E. Wolff, Educational Director for AUTOMATION INSTITUTE, observes: "Today, as one great national four-sided businessmen are calling the field of AUTOMATION the greatest development in business since the Industrial Revolution. Dr. C. C. Hurd, Director of Control Systems for IBM, predicts a need for 170,000 Business Automation Specialists by 1965. The need will probably be doubled by 1970.

"As a College Professor and School Administrator, I'm impressed with the experience and thoroughness with which courses in Business Automation are designed and taught at AUTOMATION INSTITUTE. All Automation Institute students study with well-qualified, experienced teachers. Personalized student instruction is emphasized with simulated actual working conditions created in the classroom—based on the newest IBM Machines which the student will be using when he or she begins his or her career in Business Automation.

"It's no wonder that over 6000 graduates have been placed in many of California's leading companies. In fact, more companies hire AUTOMATION INSTITUTE Data Processing graduates than those from any other private school.

"High school and college graduates, as well as men and women in "dead-end jobs" can have good paying careers in Business Automation if they grasp this opportunity now . . . to learn and earn more in Business Automation at AUTOMATION INSTITUTE.

"Consider this timely suggestion! Inquire about the way to get started and become qualified for such careers as an IBM Key Punch Operator & Verifier . . . Wiring Operator . . . or Computer Programmer. Professional individual counseling is given each student BEFORE, DURING and AFTER he or she has completed his or her course of IBM class instruction.

"All prospective students are given an Aptitude Analysis without obligation. It's purpose: To see if each prospective student has the potential learning capacity to grasp the required scope of classroom instruction for a career in Business Automation. So—prepare now for these good paying jobs. Short courses available—day or evening. Reasonable placement assistance given each graduate."

No Wedding Today for Sailor and L.B. Girl

By ANDY PARK

Today is the wedding day for a sailor aboard the USS Valley Forge and a young Long Beach girl who struck out on her own from Concordia, Kan., little more than a year ago.

But the wedding will not be held.

David Brennan, 23, of Erie, Pa., and Jeanette Kountz, 26, of 60 Lime Ave., made all their plans in advance, so that no last-minute hitch would develop.

Tuesday, David and Jeanette took their blood test Friday, Valentine's Day. David bought the rings — two simple gold bands to signify their troth.

DAVID BRENNAN
Happiness Blasted

David rented an apartment and helped Jeanette move her belongings in, and she began adding the little touches — curtains and bric-a-brac and ashtrays.

At 12:01 today, a minute after midnight Saturday, David was to be officially discharged from the Navy but, with a little advance planning, he was able to get two week leave so that the last days before his wedding could be spent in preparation.

David went to stay with an aunt and uncle of Jeanette's — Mr. and Mrs. Lee Spooner of El Cajon, near San Diego. And he began looking for a job to support his new wife-to-be. Jeanette gave notice at the NuWay Laundry where she was employed "because Dave didn't want me to work after we were married."

Some of the guys on David's ship laid in the "supplies" for a Saturday night bachelor stag party. "We were really going to give him a blast," one of them said.

The "Plan" called for David and Jeanette to start married life today at First Baptist Church, 10th and Pine Ave., where they were to exchange those simple gold wedding bands.

But it's been called off. And the date won't be reset.

Saturday morning, David went with Spooner to a granite pit southeast of El Cajon where the older man is employed. He had heard that there might be work there and maybe he could pick up a few extra dollars on his last day as a single man. After all, the almost $300 he had in the bank in Long Beach wouldn't go very far in this day and age and every cent counts....

"A truck driver came and told me when they found him," Lee said. "He fell off a 50-foot cliff into the pit. They said he was dead when we got him to the hospital. Mother and I just had to come up here, to tell Jeanette."

"They won't even let me see him, you know," Jeanette cried. "You see, he was still in the Navy and they took over and, after all, I'm not even his next-of-kin. I just loved him."

Chiropractor Nabbed in Abortion Case

A Redondo Avenue chiropractor was arrested by homicide detectives Saturday morning after he accepted $250 in marked money from a police sergeant and agreed to perform an abortion on a policewoman posing as a pregnant girl.

Det. Sgt. Al LaRue accompanied the policewoman, whose name was withheld, to Dr. Bernard Gruber's office, 627 Redondo Ave., about 10 a.m., identifying himself as her boyfriend, according to Det. Sgt. Frank Welch.

LaRue paid Gruber the $250 in marked bills and then arrested the chiropractor after Gruber led him from a treatment room to an adjoining room, leaving the policewoman in the treatment room with instructions to undress and put on a hospital gown, Welch reported.

Welch and Det. Sgt. R. A. Castillo then burst into the office.

Welch reported the marked $250 was recovered from a desk in the treatment room and identified by LaRue.

Finn, 52, Claims 11 Days Awake, Still Restless

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — Dockworker Toivo Silvo, 52, set a record Saturday in the art of staying awake.

At 11 a.m., Silvo broke the mark of 11 days and 6 hours, set by an Italian whitewasher earlier this year. Silvo said he will go on for another few days.

His method: stay outside in the bitter cold as long as possible. Whenever he feels sleepy he pulls off his shirt and rolls in the snow.

Sourdough Hopes to Sail Lake Elsinore Again Soon

By MARK CLUTTER

"I don't have any philosophy. I just take life as it comes. And I have been happy."

Charlie Lynn, 88, of Fairbanks, Alaska, and Elsinore, looked happy as he puffed his pipe—if he isn't smoking, he's asleep—and ran his powerful hands over the roughened hull of the sailboat he built in 1952. That was the only year he used it—it's tough sailing when there is no water. Now the water is pouring into nearby Lake Elsinore and he intends to have the old hull shipshape by April.

• • • •

CHARLIE — somehow it seems right to call him by his first name in spite of his white hair—has seen enough hardship in his life to wear out several men.

He has served before the mast on old-time windships, mushed through the Arctic night in the Klondike gold rush, worked as miner and later as a railroad man in Alaska.

And in 1946 he had a massive stroke. "That should have left me permantly crippled, only I decided to fight it," he said.

He fought it by trying to squeeze a piece of copper ore in his paralized hand. Gradually the strength came back.

• • • •

CHARLIE was born in Goteborg, Sweden, the son of a shoemaker. Like many another Scandinavian, he went to sea at 14—and never went home again. He rounded Cape Horn on a clipper ship, struggling with freezing sails far above the deck.

At 18 he jumped ship in Portland, Ore., and went to work with his two brothers who had a vineyard and winery in Northern California. But that was too tame. When the gold fever started in the Klondike in 1897, they went.

• • • •

"I FOUND gold, all right," he said, "but not enough to make me wealthy." He also nearly died of typhoid, and narrowly missed being buried in a snowslide.

—Staff Photo by Stig Stuvrud

RISING WATER of Lake Elsinore (in background) inspires Charlie Lynn to begin repair of the sailboat he built in 1952 before the lake went dry. The lake is being filled at a rate which should make sailing practical by early April.

"It was a rough life," he recalled, "but I didn't have any fights—at least, not serious ones — and I didn't have any adventures to speak of."

He did, however, tell of one fight that could have been serious. Lynn and his partner were splitting up. The man lost his temper and drew his gun. "I punched him in the belly, knocked him down and took his gun," he said, matter-of-factly.

Charlie married in 1913. He has one daughter, Mrs. Charlotte Thomas of Fairbanks, and two grandsons.

• • • •

"I STARTED coming to Elsinore in 1950," he said. "I come every winter. This is a healty place and I am glad to get away from Fairbanks in the winter. I'm always glad to get back, though. It is a wonderful place in the summer."

He is a charter member of the Pioneers of Alaska and a life member of the Elks Lodge.

"I know a lot of people in Fairbanks," he said. "I don't know as many as I used to. There are a lot of new people coming to town. They're building big buildings and even a freeway. The town has about 15,000 people now." There is only one other original "sourdough" in Fairbanks.

• • • •

HE ALWAYS goes home in April, just in time to enjoy the last of winter. This year he is hoping that Lake Elsinore will have plenty of water by April. He intends to spend a few days sailing in his repaired boat before starting for the North.

He worked as a miner until 1929, then shifted to railroad work in the Fairbanks yards. He claims to have no hobbies but he admits to having done much hunting and fishing to have a love of boats.

His speech still has the echo of a Swedish accent, and there is the look of the Viking in his strong face. And his handshake is as firm as that of a young athlete.

Lakewood's First Mayor Dies

at 4148 Country Club Drive with his wife, Gloria, and their four children, Michael, 15, Athony, 12, Stephen, 11, and Nina 6.

Lakewood Mayor Robert Baker said that that the death of Iacoboni was not only a great personal loss to him but a great loss to the city of Lakewood. "He was a great humanitarian," Mayor Baker said, "and certainly his ten years of service to the people of our city is proof enough of how he felt about this community."

Iacoboni was born and reared in Fitchburg, Mass. He was a graduate of Holy Cross University and attended Harvard Law School until the outbreak of the war when he entered the Navy. After the war he obtained his degree, coming to Lakewood in 1948. He served as mayor from incorporation in 1954 until 1960.

A. M. IACOBONI
Lakewood Leader

Iacoboni was president of the Los Angeles County division of the League of California Cities. He was a member of the Long Beach Bar Association, the Knights of Columbus and the Elks.

Also surviving are three brothers, Donald, of Costa Mesa, Charles, of Leominster, Mass., Mario, Long Island City, N.Y., and a sister, Mrs. Kay Fascitelli, of Riverside, R.I.

Rosary will be Tuesday at 8:30 p.m., and Requiem Mass Wednesday at 9 a.m., both in St. Pancratius Church. Lakewood Mortuary is in charge.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Snow and Sleet Plague Midwest

By United Press International

A driving snowstorm dumped deep, wet snow and sleet over much of the Midwest Saturday night, creating hazardous driving conditions as far east as the upper Ohio Valley.

Mild temperatures turned the snow into slush in some areas and police warned of wet and dangerous roads.

Heavy snow and hazardous driving warnings were up in much of the Midwest and extended eastward to the northern Appalachian Mountains. Provisional heavy-snow warnings were issued for New England for today.

Loup City, Neb. was belted with nine inches of new snow and eight inches fell at North Loup. Five inches fell at North Platte, Neb., and Hill City, Kan., and four inches at Goodland, Kan., Kansas City, Mo., and Grand Island, Neb.

As the storm pushed east, eight inches of snow fell over central Missouri and three inches of fresh snow hit Springfield, Ill., in three hours. Five inches fell at Roanoke, Va., during the afternoon.

Lynda Bird Maid of Honor

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Lynda Bird Johnson attended Miss Carolyn Kellam, a longtime friend, at her wedding Saturday night to Tom Curtis, an Austin attorney.

LYNDA

Lynda Bird, 19-year-old daughter of President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, was maid of honor.

The bride is the daughter of J. C. Kellem, manager of the Johnson family television station and a Johnson family friend.

The wedding reception was canceled because of the death last week of Mrs. Kellam. The Johnsons made a special Texas trip to attend the funeral service.

Judge Dismisses One Hoffa Count

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI)—Teamsters' President James R. Hoffa won acquittal Saturday on one of four charges of attempting to rig a federal jury.

U.S. District Judge Frank Wilson ordered the acquittal verdict, but refused to clear Hoffa and his five codefendants on the other charges.

In ordering acquittal on the one count, Wilson said there was "insufficient" evidence of a "connection of the defendant James R. Hoffa with the matters charged in the second count."

The three remaining counts charged Hoffa with illegal attempts to influence votes of jurors Gratin Fields and Mrs. James Paschal, and with conspiracy to "corruptly influence" a jury.

Josephus Daniels Jr. Dies at 69

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Josephus Daniels Jr., longtime newspaper executive and son of the late secretary of the Navy and ambassador to Mexico, died today in a Raleigh hospital.

DANIELS

The 69-year-old Daniels, who had been ill for a week, was chairman of the board of the News and Observer Publishing Co., publisher of the News and Observer and the Raleigh Times.

Daniels had been board chairman since retiring as business manager of the company in December, 1959. He also had served as advertising manager and president.

Unionists Vote Ban on Wheat Loading

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The AFL-CIO Maritime Trades Department voted Saturday to stop loading ships with Russian-bound wheat. A union official said the rank and file would be given the order Monday.

Officials said the informal resolution was approved because the wheat deal was benefiting the Russian economy and because not enough of the wheat is being shipped on American craft.

Ohio Massacre Suspect Kills Self

ATHENS, Ohio (UPI)—The prime suspect in the Valentine's Day massacre of four members of a farm family, shot and killed himself Saturday as a huge posse closed in on him.

Rudy Zamora, 20, a farmhand and former mental patient who came here last Nov. 1 from San Antonio, Tex., fired a 20-gauge shotgun blast into his throat after he was trapped about a mile northwest of the farmhouse where the victims were slain.

Zamora was believed to be the killer of William Wildman, 57; his wife, Mildred, 60; their son Eugene, 15 and their daughter, Mrs. Geneva Pierce, 29. They were shot to death Friday evening.

Fired Cubans Blame Fidel, Bulkeley Says

GUANTANAMO NAVAL BASE, Cuba (UPI) — Cuban workers who were fired in retaliation for the cutoff of fresh water to this U. S. Naval Base blamed Cuban Premier Fidel Castro rather than the United States, the base commander said Saturday.

The water shortage has been virtually solved. The first major shipment of water from the United States — about 4.3 million gallons — arrived early Saturday aboard the tanker Tallulah from Port Everglades, Fla. But Rear Adm. John D. Bulkeley, the base commander was more concerned about the firing of Cuban civilian workers than about getting water.

"I guess it was just that Castro took a punch at us, and we thought we had to retaliate," he told newsmen who arrived by air about the same time as the tanker. They were the first newsmen permitted to go to Guantanamo since the water crisis began Feb. 6.

Bulkeley, the man who rescued Gen. Douglas McArthur from Corregidor early in World War II, said there still are about 1,800 Cubans working on the base and living in Castro Cuban territory.

About 500 have been fired under orders from the White House, he said.

"Amazingly, though," he said, "there were only five among the 500 who were resentful or who blamed the United States. All the rest blamed Castro and the cold war."

WRECKAGE OF BASEBALL STARS' PLANE

Deputy Sheriff Mack Holley inspects wreckage of plane crash that killed Chicago Cubs' infielder Ken Hubbs and his friend, Dennis Doyle, on the ice of Utah Lake. They crashed Thursday; wreck was found Saturday.

Hometown Shocked by Death

Hubbs "didn't exactly want Ken to make the trip because of the bad weather."

• • • •

HUBBS AND Dennis Doyle, 23, left Provo, in north-central Utah, in Hubbs' single-engine Cessna 172 Thursday morning.

The weather was poor, visibility low.

They got only five miles.

The wreckage of the plane was sighted on the ice of Utah Lake by Harlon Bement, state aeronautics director.

Bement described the crash as "a typical graveyard spiral."

"It's typical when an inexperienced pilot, flying in bad weather, loses his horizons and can't discern the ground," he said.

• • • •

THE PLANE tore a 10-foot hole in the ice of the lake, about 50 miles south of Salt Lake City.

Hubbs and Doyle, an orphan who grew up in the Hubbs' home, were flying back to Colton after visiting at the home of Mrs. Doyle's parents in Provo.

"We had hoped he decided to set down his plane somewhere until the weather cleared," the father said. "He's always been concerned with weather conditions whenever he planned a flight."

Hubbs received his pilot license Jan. 1 and has logged more than 100 hours.

When Hubbs completed his student training, the flight instructor rated him as an "excellent student, none better," the father said. Hubbs bought his Cessna 172 last November. His longest previous flight was to Arizona and back.

• • • •

HUBBS BECAME interested in flying after he joined the Cubs. He often sat in the cockpit with the pilot of the ball club's chartered airliner on flights between games, the father said.

Ken set a National League fielding record in 1962 by playing in 78 consecutive games without an error.

He garnered all-American, all-state and all-conference honors in the major sports as a student at Colton High School. He also was elected student body president.

He has an older brother, Keith, 26, who played football at Brigham Young University, and three other brothers, one 14 and twins 10.

Goldwater Scores First, Wins 10 Delegates to Convention

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona won his first delegates to the Republican National Convention Saturday, and gave his fund-raisers an optimistic report on the progress of his campaign for President.

The 10 convention votes for Goldwater came as Oklahoma and North Carolina selected Republican delegates.

They were the second and third states in the nation to pick convention delegates. Pennsylvania earlier selected 10 unpledged at-large delegates, but they are expected to support Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton.

• • • •

MEANWHILE, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine wound up a six-day campaign for votes in the New Hampshire presidential primary and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York served notice he will make a strong bid for delegates in the South.

Thus three of the rivals for the Republican presidential nomination kept busy preparing for their first test in the March 10 New Hampshire primary, only a little more than three weeks from now.

Goldwater met with his leaders in a resort hotel near his Phoenix, Ariz., home and estimated his bid for the Republican presidential nomination will cost about $3 million.

He said his reception was encouraging during recent campaign in New Hampshire, Oregon, Arizona, California and Nevada, adding:

"We're not operating on a big budget, about $3 million . . . We're not hurting, but I wish it would come in a little faster."

Mrs. Smith finished her 1,000-mile New Hampshire campaign in Winchester, in the southwest corner of the state.

Before returning to Washington, she said she might do a lot more campaigning in the state before March 10.

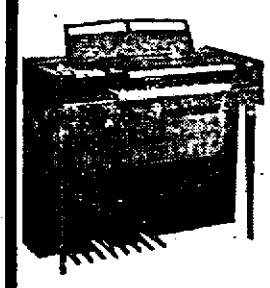

• • • •

ROCKEFELLER, in New York, named a Southern states regional director, H. Clyde Pearson of Roanoke, Va., for his presidential campaign.

And the New York governor said he will visit many Southern areas in his drive for delegates to the Republican National Convention next July.

Generally considered weak in the South, Rockefeller, in effect, served notice he would not let the area go to Goldwater by default.

'Bombed-Out' Fighters Recoup Here

Homeless Squadron Recovered

Long Beach became one of the West Coast's most important fighter air bases for a few hours Saturday.

A squadron of Sabrejets, theoretically bombed out of their home base at Ontario International Airport, touched down at Municipal Airport to demonstrate that the local airfield can refuel and service the silver birds for another crack at the enemy.

The 16 jets—taking part in one of the largest dispersal-recovery exercises in the short history of the Air Force Reserve's recovery program—began swooping down on the local field in pairs at 10:20 a.m.

Local reservists, who had changed from civilian clothes into Air Force blues for the exercise, took over from there.

Security guards rushed out with side arms and rifles to patrol the landing strip. Ground crews swarmed over the jets to check for damage and radio activity and to begin the refueling.

The pilots were shown equal attention. They munched on box lunches while they were debriefed by intelligence section officers. Nearby, stood Air Force medical personnel.

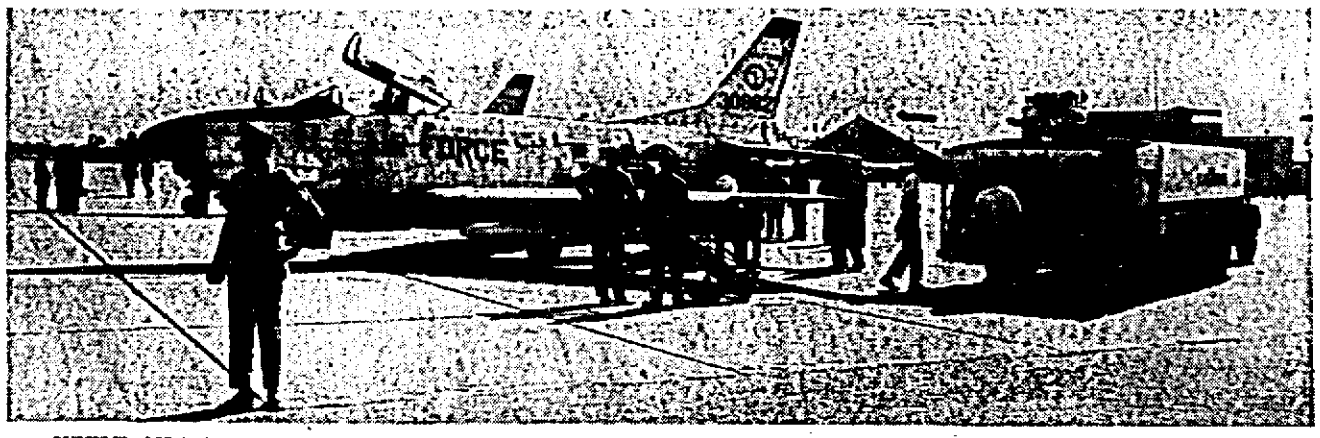

The rapid ground work completed, the fighters scrambled.

Taking part in the exercise were the Los Angeles Air Defense Sector, the 196th Fighter-Interceptor Squadron of the California Air National Guard, the local 8646th Air Force Reserve Recovery Group and its 9624th Squadron, headquartered at Long Beach.

In the exercise, it was presupposed that Ontario International Airport, home of the Air National Guard squadron, had been destroyed by enemy action. The Sabrejets were diverted to Long Beach for service and immediate scramble.

While the fighters were being serviced here, the 8646th Recovery Group dispatched communications units to Ontario to survey the damage and report to Long Beach on the status of the important strip. Ontario rushed spare parts and manpower to Long Beach.

Counting the 16 aircraft Saturday, the 8646th Recovery Group—named this year as the outstanding unit of its type in the Six Air Force Reserve Region — has "recovered" 78 aircraft at Long Beach.

Distance Record for F105s

HONOLULU (AP) — An unofficial nonstop distance record for the F105 supersonic U.S. fighter - bomber was set Saturday by six Air Force pilots who flew their Republic Thunderchiefs from Guam to New Zealand.

A spokesman for the Pacific Air Force headquarters at Hickam Air Force Base in Hawaii said the formation of F105s completed the 4,442-mile flight in 7 hours, 45 minutes.

The flight left Anderson Air Force Base, Guam, and terminated at Okahea Air Station, Bulls, New Zealand.

Col. George B. Simler, commander of the 18th Tactical Fighter Wing, led the flight, which the Air Force called "a real milestone in aviation history."

The 18th Wing's home base is Kadena, Okinawa.

Col. Simler, of Johnstown, Pa., said his six fighter-bombers completed two in-flight refueling hookups with Air Force tankers. The Thunderchiefs took on fuel near Port Moresby, New Guinea, and near Brisbane, Australia.

10,000-MILE TRANSPORT

Air Force Eyes Small-Scale Wars in 1970 Plane Designs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force is proposing development of advanced aircraft, including huge, 10,000-mile-range transports and radically different bombers, to deal with any war potential the nation may face in the early 1970s.

Also envisioned, it was learned Saturday, are new types of short-range missiles and atomic warheads of very low yield for use in precision air strikes against carefully chosen military targets.

The Air Force does not believe such selective use would lead to all-out thermonuclear war.

• • • •

THE BLUEPRINT is based on broad-gauge Air Force studies that have taken a year and are aimed at the period 10 years ahead.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara was reported deeply impressed.

Representatives of the State Department, the other military services, research organizations, universities and industry participated.

It can be stated that strategic thinking is adjusted to the idea that all-out nuclear war between the two superpowers — the United States and Russia—is not a rational prospect. The most likely threats will be Communist-inspired subversive operations and limited-scale wars.

• • • •

ADVANCES in technology now make possible an array of wholly new aircraft, weapons and supporting systems for deterring these wars or stamping them out with the precise force needed.

These are some of the aircraft proposed for the 1970s:

—A gigantic transport for moving army troops and equipment, having such vast range and certain other characteristics that America could be independent of foreign bases. Called only "CXX" at present, the plane would have a range of 10,000 to 12,000 miles and could carry 50 tons.

—A manned strategic aircraft, currently called "AMPS" for an advanced manned precision strike system. This "bomber" would be, in effect, an intercontinental version of the TFX fighter. It would fly up to 1,650 miles an hour and would skim so low over the earth that line-of-sight enemy radar would detect it too late to do any good.

— Vertical takeoff and landing (VTOL) fighting and reconnaissance planes. In the early 1970s, it will be possible to build such planes with lightweight materials and powerful engines so they can carry large payloads. They can be concealed, needing no air bases.

—A possible version of the CXX for airborne warning and control, which could stay aloft 48 to 60 hours without refueling.

—New types of reconnaissance planes for quick intelligence gathering and assessment of battle damage.

Planes Smuggle Dope, Sen. Dodd Charges

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI)—U.S. Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., said Sunday small airstrips along the Mexican-U.S. border are being used to smuggle dope into the United States.

The senator said the border was "peppered" with strips and that investigators had photographs to document his theory. He spoke at a government conference here.

Bulgarian to Moscow

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP)—Todor Zhivkov, premier and Communist Party chief of Bulgaria, left for Moscow by train Saturday for an official visit, the Bulgarian news agency BTA reported. The agency said it was "merely a friendly visit."

Refugees Fly High as Family Reunited

By BOB GEIVET

Peppy twin brothers, left in their native Hungary as infants when their parents fled Communist domination seven years ago, were reunited with them Saturday—and promptly took up young America's custom of kite flying.

And it was a beautifully windy day for the sport.

Erwin Lazar Jr. and his twin, Gabor, also called Gabriel, are the seven-year-old sons of Erwin Lazar, 30, and his pretty wife, Mary, 28.

The parents set out 7 years ago through January snows from their home in Pecs, Hungary, for freedom. Twenty-five miles later they found sanctuary in Yugoslavia, and later made it to America.

• • • •

THEIR TWINS were six months old then. They were left at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lazar. Grandmother brought them here by jet for a tearful climax to years of frustration, doubt and delay.

The Lazars had sought for years to reclaim their sons. Finally, the Hungarian Red Cross and the American Red Cross — and its Southern Orange chapter in Santa Ana —engineered exit visas for the lads.

As the boys stepped from the plane at Los Angeles International Airport, they looked about — and spotted the mother and did they knew only by pictures they had studied for so many years.

The boys took a step forward—and ran into the arms of their parents. There were tears of happiness.

Finally, the lads remembered to give their mother their slightly-squashed bouquets of red carnations. To her, they were the most beautiful flowers ever grown.

• • • •

TO CELEBRATE the reunion, the Lazars have moved into a two-bedroom apartment at 2500 S. Salta St., Santa Ana. He is a computer programmer with Collins Radio Co. She works for Jay-Mar Co., a swimsuit manufacturer.

The first gift to their boys? Why, American-style cowboy jeans, of course!

And then the kite flying in the blustery winds.

From this day on, and for a week, it will be get-acquainted time. Then the boys will enter John Quincy Adams School near their Santa Ana home.

L.A. Politicians Bog Port Down

Angeles harbor revenues have gone up 4 percent during their two-year tenure, an analysis of their annual report shows that this advance was due entirely to an increase in rentals obtained by the real estate division. The division's chief, Leonard J. Doyle, under whose management the policy was initiated seven years ago has resigned his $19,500-a-year job.

Decline in the port's economy can be attributed to a great extent to the loss of shipping lines—firms leaving the harbor because of better facilities and treatment elsewhere.

The board, however, treats this lightly:

Typical of its attitude was a statement at a recent board meeting of Commissioner Joseph D. Carrabino who threatened to cancel the leases of terminal operators and stevedores at the port unless they were more "cooperative" in helping make L.A.'s charges competitive with those of Long Beach.

The Sea-Land Service, Inc., a 350,000-ton-a-year container-cargo operation, fled the storm last year for the calmer waters of Long Beach.

Another 50,000 tons a year slipped away from Los Angeles when Standard Fruit and Steamship Company also made the move eastward.

A third and staggering blow was the departure of the Transmarine Navigation Company's lines, including the Japanese giant, NYK, which diverted 150,000 tons a year to Long Beach.

Officials in Japan responsible for the merger of NYK and a second important line in Long Beach, had the choice of combining operations at either of the two ports.

After viewing the dismal situation at Los Angeles, they gave NYK its sailing orders.

Another way the board eliminated sure-fire profits was in the case of the ready-to-go Cabrillo Beach small-boat marina.

The preceding Board of Harbor Commissioners, after exhaustive research and public hearings, decided that a small-boat Marina should be installed at Cabrillo Beach. The board was preparing to have a land-use study made, so that bids from private developers could be solicited on a knowledgeable basis, when Mayor Yorty replaced its members.

The Yorty commissioners agreed there should be a small-boat marina, but saw no necessity for a land-use study. After more than a year's discussion, they solicited proposals and suggesttions from interested developers. They reasoned that the developers could do their own land-use studies.

The developers replied that they would not be willing to expend a large sum of money for such a purpose when the lease or leases might be awarded to someone else or not at all.

Recently, the board decided that what it needs is a land-use study, and is ordering one. If it had been able to bring itself to accept the results of the preceding board's deliberations, two and one-half years would have been gained—just about enough time to have the marina ready for operation.

Anyone with any knowledge of the earnings of an 1800-slip marina over a 30-month period quickly can estimate that this delay cost the port at least $157,000 for slip rentals alone. This sum would have been boosted significantly by income from related concessions.

Meanwhile, back at City Hall, the Los Angeles Board of Harbor Commissioners is shooting at everything that moves.

and Reservoir in New Mexico.

Other projects recommended for immediate construction include:

—The $72-million Southern Nevada water-supply project to carry water from Lake Mead to Las Vegas, Henderson and Nellis Air Force Base.

—The $12-million Moapa Valley pumping project in Nevada.

—The $45-million Dixie Project to provide irrigation and municipal water in southwest Utah.

—Indian Irrigation Projects costing $10 million.

—Water Salvage and Recovery Programs, including lining of the All-American Canal system in California, costing a total of $42 million.

The report also called for studies to determine whether it would be feasible to step up deliveries of water from Northern California to the south by building projects on the Trinity, South Fork Trinity, Eel, Mad and Van Duzen rivers.

No Export of State's Resource

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The new Pacific Southwest water plan announced in Washington Saturday shows that the federal government has temporarily dropped, but not abandoned, the idea of sending California water to Arizona.

Instead, the government is following a course suggested by California that could enlarge the original five-state development into a massive water program spanning most of the West.

As originally proposed by Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall last August, the plan aimed at meeting water shortages in the arid Southwest with new developments in that area plus an additional water supply brought from Northern California.

• • • •

THE NORTH state supply would have come from new dams on the lower Eel and Trinity rivers, together yielding 2.4 million acre-feet annually. Half the supply was planned for Southern California, which faced losses in its Colorado River supply because of a Supreme Court decision last June. The other half was planned for Arizona.

OVERBOARD 7 MILES FROM ISLAND

Sport-Fishermen Rescue Sailor, 63

By VINT MADER

The 63-year-old father of a Long Beach man came within moments of drowning when he fell overboard from a small yacht Saturday afternoon in choppy waters seven miles from Long Point, Santa Catalina Island.

Lew J. Lewman, 63, of Culver City was plucked from the chilly, windswept San Pedro Channel by the crew of the passing sport fisherman, Sea Sport.

THE FISHING vessel raced to his aid after Lewman's companion, retired Navy Chief Petty Officer Bob Smith, 45, of Venice, failed to reach the elderly man in his first attempt to swing back with their 22-foot sailboat.

"I nearly panicked," said Lewman, a semiretired organist and music teacher.

"I was only in the water about three minutes, but I couldn't get anywhere in the big waves," he said, still chilled and shaken when the Sea Sport landed him at Pacific Landing about 5 p.m.

• • • •

"BUT I kept my head enough to know that the best thing was to try to float—so I did float. But I was almost finished when those fellows pulled me out. A few more seconds and I'd have been gone."

The Sea Sport's crew helped Lewman to their cabin and while he huddled in a blanket during the 90-minute trip to Long Beach. Lewman then was taken to the home of his son, Jack DeCamp, 1758 Gladys Ave.

LEW J. LEWMAN
It Was Rough Out There

Capt. Robert (Whitey) Ashley of the Sea Sport, veteran of 31 years in the Long Beach fishing trade, said he saw Lewman pitched out of the sailboat when it rolled on a big wave about a quarter-mile ahead.

• • • •

LEWMAN was wearing a bright orange vest which Ashley first though was a life jacket. But he decided to "have a look anyway" when he saw that Smith, a former boatswain's mate, could not get close enough with the yawl and could not leave the tiller to throw a lifebuoy or jacket.

Lewman was able to grab a line thrown from the Sea Sport by Ashley's son, Don, but he was so exhausted that young Ashley and crew member Gene Estes had to haul him aboard by his arms.

• • • •

THE ELDER Ashley summed up the rescue: "This is about the 20th one I've saved out there. I wish it could have been a hundred."

Lewman's view of his close call was: "If anybody goes out in any boat, I advise them to keep a lifejacket on their shoulders all the time. I'm going to do it from now on."

The yawl, Tiki, which originally was bound from Marina del Rey for an overnight voyage to Avalon, later was sailed to Long Beach by Smith.

Fish Eat Mosquitoes, Then Africans Eat Fish

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) — Fish have ousted insecticides in Durban's campaign to fight its summer mosquito menace.

Ponds, lagoons and other likely breeding places, such as farms used for sewage disposal, have been stocked with fast-multiplying tilapia fish. They eat mosquito larvae.

The municipality has saved money on its insecticide bill, and the fish have supplemented the diet of needy Africans in neighboring townships.

The tilapias are such prolific breeders that the city health department found it necessary to decrease the number in a seven-acre pond at a sewage-disposal farm. Two hauls of nets yielded 900 pounds of fish.

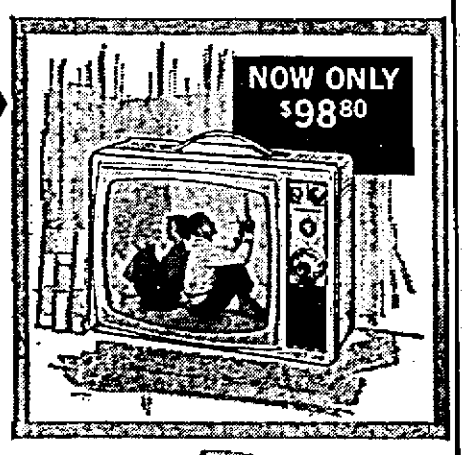

Dr. C. R. Mackenzie, health officer, said fish taken from the pond were subjected to an exhaustive series of bacteriological tests which proved that the tilapia were safe for human consumption when properly cooked.

Palo Verde Ave. Hearing Slated

The Long Beach Planning Commission has scheduled a hearing for 9 a.m. Thursday on an amendment to the city's master highway plan that would delete the proposed extension of Palo Verde Avenue south of Anaheim Road into the marina area.

Nathan and Davis Shapell and S & S Construction Co., planners of a $30 million residential subdivision in the Fred H. Bixby Ranch property north of Seventh Street and east of Long Beach State College, asked for the deletion.

They told the City Council in December that the projected Palo Verde arterial through the 101.8-acre tract would "vitally affect" the development. A competent engineering firm which made a study of the area could find no valid reason for the extension, they said.

• • • •

AT TWO hearings on proposed rezoning of parcels in the tract, neighboring property owners objected briefly to the erasure of the street project. Planning commissioners asked them to reserve their arguments until the Feb. 20 hearing.

The master plan shows Palo Verde Avenue extended south of Anaheim Road in the east section of the subdivision. The line crosses Bouton Creek, veers to the southeast and follows the west bank of Los Cerritos Channel to a junction with the proposed Loynes Drive a short distance south of Vista Street.

ANOTHER chapter in our running series about the strange appetites of animals comes from the fire dept. at Westminster, where they're having trouble with a hungry mouse.

Dispatcher Joseph Bergeron reported the color went out on the station's tv set the other day. They called in a repairman who looked things over and told them that evidently they have mice in the station and that one of the rascals had eaten a color component in the tv set.

"Now we're wondering if there's a mouse running around in Westminster in technicolor," said Bergeron.

AND while we're on the topic of wildlife, perhaps it's a good time to report on the skunk problem in Long Beach.

The environmental sanitation division of the City Health Dept. has been working for a couple of years to eradicate the little animals, mainly because they are a rabies threat.

There are more skunks in this urban area than you might guess. The dept. has had at least 50 calls in the last year from residents who had spotted (or smelled) skunks on their property.

Skunks have been found not only in shrubbery, but in meter boxes and inside houses. One woman refused to spend the night in her home because she was sure there was a skunk aboard.

The rabies scare over skunks developed at Pasadena a couple of years ago. State law now prohibits bringing a skunk into the state or keeping one as a pet.

Most of the local skunks have been reported in the northwestern part of town near the flood control.

OPTOMETRISTS are betting on rain the coming week, at least in San Diego.

LaVerne Spencer says that the local delegation to the California Optometric Association and Auxiliary convention in the southern city, Feb. 19-23, will take along raincoats.

It has not failed to rain on delegates to this convention in the last seven years, no matter where the convention was held or what the weather prophets had to say.

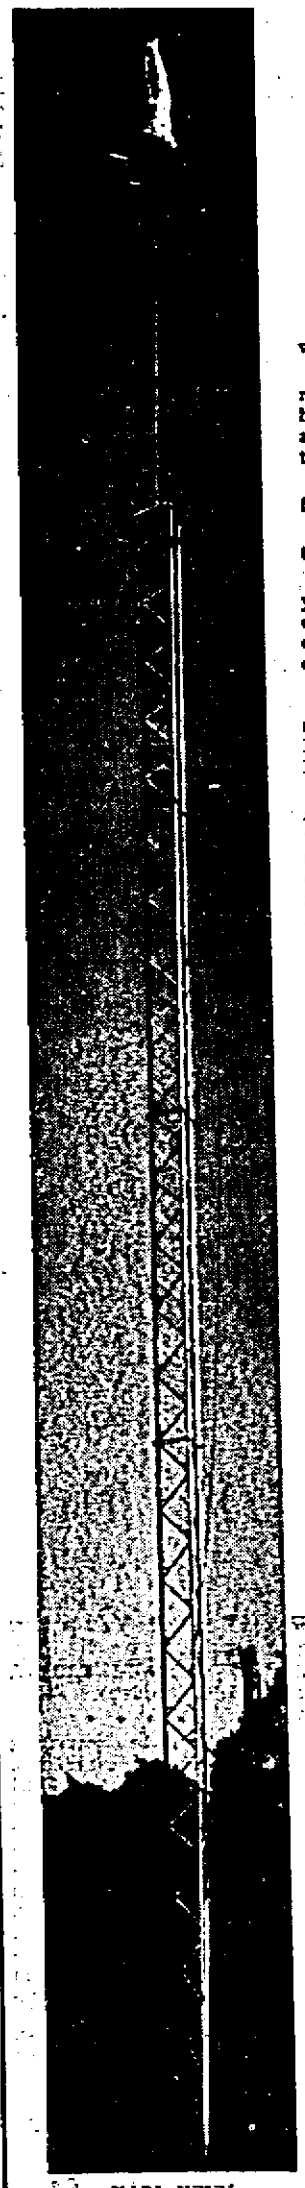

San Diego, no doubt, needs the rain. At least we do and here's a suggestion that the optometrists, if they get the expected result down there, simply extend their convention and move up here for a few days.

THE L. B. City Council, we note with encouragement, is pondering changing the name of the short stretch of Appian Way on the west side, where its connection with the new San Diego Freeway has led to confusion.

Appian Way there is really an extension of Pacific Ave., and a car leaving the turnoff from the freeway soon hits Pacific, the principal route. The Council is considering the short stretch something like Pacific Way, which would relate it to Pacific Ave. but wouldn't conflict with the long-established stretch of Pacific Ave., which continues a short distance to the east.

THAT'S one possible solution. Or at least the turnoff sign on the freeway should carry the name of Pacific Avenue in a subordinate position if Appian Way is to be retained.

My previous notes on this subject brought a reproving letter from Irma Prichard, who pointed out that Appian Way on the west side was correctly named because it follows the line of the old P. E. right-of-way, just as does Appian Way on the east side along Marine Stadium. I was aware of that all along, but since the two stretches of Appian Way are far separated, no harm would come from renaming the west side street. If Appian Way were extended the length of the P. E. right-of-way, of course the situation would be different.

KARL WINN
90-Ft. Handstand

This Family Starts Out at the Top

By DICK EMERY

Until last week, the Winn family in Lomita was considered just average neighbors.

That theory was shattered when the Winns raised two 90-foot poles in a field near their home, strung a wire between them and went about hoisting a motorcycle to the top of one to the poles.

Then the cycle began roaring along the wire from pole to pole.

By now, the curious neighbors had learned the Winns are high-wire performers.

The story actually begins in Germany many years ago where grandfather Winn owned a circus. His son, Johann, bandmaster of the circus, fell in love with a French ballerina who did toe-dances on a galloping horse.

* * * *

JOHANN AND the dancer, Pauline, were married and as the years passed, their children Hans, John, Marianne and Karl all learned to be high-wire performers.

John, one of the three brothers, had a look at the United States and then, two years ago, welcomed all the others—the parents Johann and Pauline, and the sons and daughter, and one of the son's wife and their two boys. The Winns set up housekeeping at 25508 Pennsylvania Avenue.

But about those 90-foot towers and the motorcycle on the wire:

The Winns hung a steel ladder from the motorcycle and trundled airily back and forth, swinging on the ladder.

"It's not a ladder, it's a trapeze," Hans told the Lomita watchers. He's 33 now and, as eldest, gives commands.

* * * *

JOHN, NOW 27, and Karl, 20, rode the cycle and swung on the trapeze. John did the "death walk" up the 45-degree steel mooring cables to the top of the pole.

"It's quiet, up there," John said. "It's challenging. Whenever we have a new stunt to try, it's a new challenge. We rely on each other. High-wire work takes discipline and teamwork."

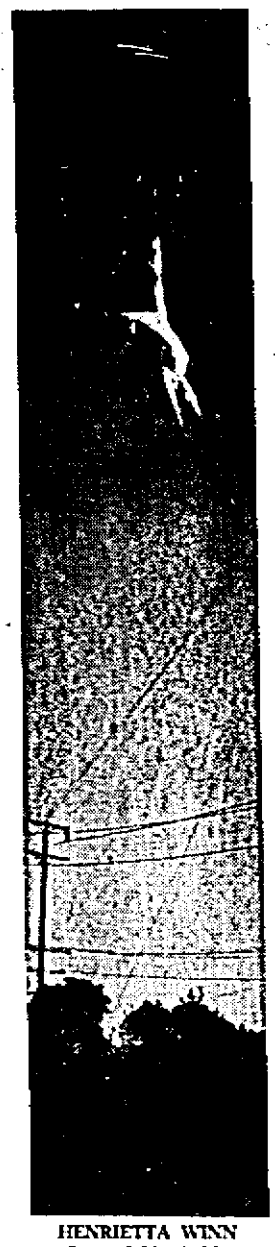

Hans' wife, Henrietta, 31, and the three brothers' sister, Marianne Winn, 22, dumbfounded the gawking neighbors by hanging by one foot, or by the back of the neck, from the high wire.

The two sons of Hans and Henrietta, Johnnie, 5, and Mike, 3, are forbidden the high wire. They do handstands at ground level.

The Winn Troupe, famed in circuses of Europe, is hoping to get started on an American tour.

Meanwhile, the troupe's members are doing other work. One works for a tile company. One has been assistant manager of a market. Marianne is a waitress at a Lomita coffee shop.

Together the three brothers have a combo—the Winn Trio—which plays at nightclubs and such, because the whole family is musical—but that is another story.

Vital Question in Phone Strike

Automated Firm--Can It Lose?

By CHARLES SUTTON

In the current telephone strike, it's not just man against management. It's also man against machine.

Labor experts feel that the machines may be tipping the balance against the Communication Workers of America in the union's four-month-long strike against the highly automated General Telephone Co.

They believe the dispute buttresses the axiom that a union which strikes an automated industry is virtually taking its life in its hands.

Veteran labor reporter A. H. Raskin, for example, in a recent Saturday Review article, notes that "changing technology already has made some industries almost totally invulnerable to union shutdown."

First of Two Parts

Raskin points to the nation's telephone systems and electric utilities as examples and says they're "now so automated that nothing short of sabotage or mechanized failure can disrupt their operations."

The CWA's own president, Joseph Beirne, makes much the same point—though not so bluntly—in his book, "New Horizons for American Labor."

In it, Beirne says that in a 1955 strike against Southern Bell, "we hardly laid a glove on 'em."

* * * *

BEIRNE'S candid statements made the question even more relevant to the General Telephone strike, they say.

These same observers, most of them sympathetic to the union's cause, also raise a number of other questions.

They wonder, for example, whether the union wasn't aware of how easy it would be for the company to recruit new workers when unemployment was running fairly high in the nation.

Then, too, the telephone industry has many women and white-collar workers. And these seldom make militant unionists.

Finally, they point out, the workers at General had never gone through "a major industrial conflict. They had no real history of labor struggle."

If all this weren't bad enough, the union has had the courts to deal with.

* * * *

PRIVATELY, CWA officials are making no effort to disguise their frustration and dismay at the licking they've taken in the courts, which have put severe limitations on the union's picketing.

A Southern California labor arbitrator, surveying the obstacles facing the union and the progress of the strike thus far, comments:

"The whole thing is quite sad. The strikers are really in a bad way. They're bound to take a beating."

"The fact is," says the arbitrator, who asks that his name be withheld, "in some situations the strike doesn't serve its historical purpose, which is to make management more reasonable and bring it to an agreement. Unfortunately, this happens to be one of those situations."

In the current strike, General's bargaining position has hardened rather than softened as the strike has progressed.

What accounts for this, observers say, is the gradually improved operating position of the company since the strike began.

General has managed to maintain telephone service throughout its far-flung territory despite the walkout of its almost 9,000 workers Oct. 19.

* * * *

MOREOVER, its automated equipment has not broken down due to lack of maintenance, as the union had predicted it would. And it has picked up a large number of new workers to augment those who have abandoned the strike and gone back to work.

And the strikers continue to trickle back, even though

ELAINE WINKEY . . . And Daughter Gretchen

PEDDLE PUSHER

Library Trainee Wheels to Work

Sleeper-clad, tousled 19-month-old Gretchen Winkey is a familiar sight on East Long Beach streets. Depending on the kind of night she's had, she rides the special seat on the front of her mother's bicycle with hot-rodder enthusiasm or sleepy-eyed limpness.

The early morning tour isn't just a constitutional. All last year it was part of a regular route which her mother, Mrs. Elaine Winkley, worked out when she decided to become a library trainee with the Long Beach Public Library. It runs like this: deliver Gretchen to baby sitter on bike, pedal on to work at branch library (wearing dark glasses for disguise in case someone thinks embryo librarians should be more dignified). After work, go to school in car pool. After classes pick up bicycle, Gretchen, groceries and hurry home to prepare dinner for husband, Tim, who works as a page at the library while attending State College as a music composition major.

Mrs. Winkey is a part of the library's trainee program that came about because of the nationwide shortage of trained librarians, said Blanche Collins, city librarian.

To qualify as a trainee, an applicant must have already received a BS or BA degree from a recognized four-year college or university. He or she must be willing to enroll immediately in library school and agree to remain with the Long Beach Public Library for two years after receiving a masters' degree in library science. Three years is the maximum time allotted for completion of work. So far, trainees have completed it in less.

Trainees work at the Main Library or branches as many hours as school commitments permit. Under general supervision they perform the least difficult technical and professional library tasks and do simple reference and advisory work with the public. This practical experience makes school more meaningful. And a regular salary, plus a chance at the annual Inez Dean Scholarship Award offered by the Long Beach Public Library Staff Association, adds incentive.

Mrs. Winkey and Mrs. Frances Murray, recently appointed children's librarian at Brewitt Branch, were recipients of the scholarship award this year. Mrs. Murray receives her MA degree in August.

ONE OF THE first trainees to complete the program was Ralph Webb, who worked as a page during the latter part of high school and through four years of college. At present, he is with the Peace Corps in explosive Venezuela where he teaches and assists the government in setting up college libraries. His job is proving stimulating and often dangerous.

Jim Jackson, a former teacher and now head of the document section, completed his trainee program last year.

The current crop of trainees includes Jolan Szontagh, also a former teacher, Mrs. Suzanne Privette and Richard Lyders.

Arbor Day Tree Planting Plan Dropped at El Dorado Park East

By GEORGE WEEKS

Faced by opposition from City Hall, enthusiastic volunteers who want to get started on the development of El Dorado Park East have given up plans for a massive tree planting there to celebrate Arbor Day March 7.

But they still hope to go through with the program, on an even bigger scale, when city officials decide the time is right.

Mrs. Helen Hicks, the housewife who originated the idea, took the rebuff from the city philosophically but with no loss of determination.

"When we began planning there were only a few of us interested," she said. "Now we are enlisting hundreds from the P-T.A., Scout groups and other youth organizations. We are getting ready for a block canvass in some neighborhoods — asking people to pledge trees for El Dorado. We are not accepting money yet, not until we get some further word of cooperation from the city."

* * * *

IN LIEU OF THE TREE planting March 7, Mrs. Hicks is trying to organize a picnic for that day, mainly to show how attractive the park could be made if given a woodland setting.

"We have waited seven years for the development of the east section of the park, and still there are no trees," she said. "We would like to make sure that the land is not used for a ball stadium or a subdivision or a golf course."

Asst. City Manager Robert C. Creighton, who was assigned the difficult task of diverting Mrs. Hicks' Arbor Day plans, said he considered the offer to donate trees "very commendable—but premature.

"We can't allow trees to be planted in a park where there is no sprinkler system," he explained. "We have to insist on the type of trees suitable for the soil and for the general development plan. And the Park Department will have to supervise the planting to make sure it is done right."

* * * *

HE REJECTED AN OFFER from Mrs. Hicks to arrange for volunteer watering until the sprinklers are installed. Similar efforts haven't worked out well in other parks, where most of the trees died and had to be removed, he added.

The city hopes to install a watering system in at least a portion of El Dorado East during the coming summer, he reported.

Mrs. Hicks, who lives at 3508 Knoxville Ave., said she still means to make sure there are good-sized trees in the bare park before her two children, Randy, 5, and Lindy, 2, are too old to enjoy them.

Televised Press Conferences—Is It Really Better?

THE TELEVISED PRESIDENTIAL press conference, a distinctive feature of the administration of the late John F. Kennedy, has fallen into disuse in the Lyndon Johnson regime, and many Americans miss it.

People feel somehow that they are better informed when they hear and see the reporters and the President exchanging questions and answers. But do the advantages of the live, televised press session really outweight the disadvantages?

TRUE, THE OPENNESS and candor of the televised conference testify a free and democratic society. There is a sense of immediacy and a directness of communication which otherwise cannot be achieved. And the exchanges often prove sprightly and entertaining, with the result that the viewer tends to take a greater interest in public affairs.

However, the televised conference with its nationwide audience exerts pressure on the President to answer all questions and at once, in some cases without sufficient reflection or consideration for the ultimate effect of his words. A slip of the tongue, not immediately corrected, can lead to serious misunderstandings of public policy.

In the press conference without a TV audience, reporters are able to pursue questions until full, well-rounded answers have been obtained. With an audience looking on the conference is essentially a program, and the tendency is to jump hurriedly from one question to another rather than to develop a line of questioning on one topic. The audience must not be bored, so the story is incomplete.

THE PRESIDENTIAL press conference is an important instrument for shaping public opinion both at home and abroad. It should be conducted in a manner which will provide the public with the greatest amount of meaningful and reliable information. While there should be a certain amount of off-the-cuff give and take, the President should be able occasionally to say, "I don't know about that; let me check." Ideally, he should receive the more important and complicated questions far enough in advance of his conference to permit him to frame answers in writing. This is a practice which, if followed more often, would have saved the country and all the Presidents of recent history many a headache.

President Johnson evidently feels that the limited, intimate press conference rather than the TV conference suits him best. He should not be too severely criticized for choosing a method which probably in the long run enables him to communicate more effectively with the American public.

'...And an Economic Note. The President Announces a $2,000 Cut in the White House Electric Bill'

BOB HOUSER

Hosmer, Deukmejian Appeal for Unity at Lincoln Fete

I, P-T Political Editor

BIGGEST HAND at the Lincoln Day dinner here last week went to Barry Goldwater's note of greeting to the some 600 diners. Nelson Rockefeller's message (I'm with you in spirit) got a very light hand, as did the note from Rocky's California chairman, Sen. Kuchel.

HOUSER

Calls for party unity after the primary got a medium-sized applause—more than for Rocky or Kuchel, less than for Barry. The applause for the principle of closing ranks behind the Republican nominee, whoever he is, may have been a peak of good hope for the party. It could have meant something else—Barry's people applauding the idea of Rocky's fans joining behind Goldwater, or vice versa.

Most of the talk on the GOP's two-party system within the party however has been that Goldwater's "a choice—not an echo" people would be the ones to sit out the election or give less than wholehearted support if Goldwater fails to be nominated.

Assemblyman C. George Deukmejian (East Long Beach-Signal Hill) had stern words against this prospect:

"If our house is divided after the primary and if any Republican says he can't support Mr. Rockefeller or Mr. Goldwater, he is working for a man who supported the New Deal, the Fair Deal, the New Frontier and the patron saint of Bobby Baker!"

Long Beach Congressman Craig Hosmer won a standing ovation after a strongly partisan 18-minute talk preceding the main address by Wyoming Gov. Clifford P. Hansen.

ON THE INTRAPARTY struggle, Hosmer drew a bold line between what the GOP offers in comparison with Democrats: "If we run Alf Landon again, I'm for him!

"Whether you like Mr. Goldwater or Mr. Rockefeller, I know that insofar as the 32nd District (Long Beach-Lakewood-Signal Hill-Dominguez) is concerned, within 24 hours of the nomination there will be a new committee of supporters from each side behind the winner of the primary. That's the way we can and must operate. . . . In anyone the Republican party would pick we'd have a great deal more to be proud of and to rely on for leadership than with the candidate on the other side.

"Once our candidate is picked let's for heaven's sake close ranks for the good of the country and the entire world . . . take the story of what Republicans believe in and convince the people that America's destiny lies with our party."

Hosmer said the game of political campaign strategy and tactics has a party focusing on its strength and diverting attention from the other party's strength, citing as example President Johnson's war on poverty and its implication that Republicans are FOR poverty.

THEN HOSMER played the game himself: Areas of greatest appeal to the party, he said are (1) defense and (2) conduct of international relations. "I don't think there's one person in this room who really believes the United States should take a soft line in international relations or that love for Uncle Sam will get the United States of America any place in the world of hate, ignorance and turmoil in which we live."

The new look in Washington today, said Hosmer, has the man with the "10-gallon-head, I mean 10-gallon-hat trying to figure out what to be boss of." He said Truman used to give midwestern-type parties; Ike the military-courtesy type; with JFK you had to be a violin player with long hair to get any place; LBJ gives us a couple of drinks and says, "Come on over to the East Room" for a work session.

Diners seemed enthusiastic to the unity message from Hosmer and Deukmejian and were warm to the Goldwater flavor of Governor Hansen's talk. Even the ladies for Goldwater who provided dinner decorations were saluted generously.

GOVERNOR HANSEN'S Wyoming, whose population is less than that of the City of Long Beach, he told the audience, is strongly for Goldwater. He said he did not want to announce his personal feelings between the candidates but added, "We're a conservative state. Senator Goldwater is more acceptable in Wyoming than any of the others. He has a better state organization and the polls show him leading there."

But the main point of the whole evening was the underlining of the GOP issue which may rank above any it can develop with Democrats—will Republicans vote for a Republican in November no matter what his name?

DAVID LAWRENCE

Reds Testing the West

WASHINGTON—These are critical moments in world history. They are not made less serious by the ceremonials and cordial expressions of friendship between the Prime Minister of Great Britain and the President of the United States. For basic differences between the major powers of the Western alliance are glossed over in the diplomacy that so earnestly seeks to put the best face on disquieting facts.

LAWRENCE

It was like this in the 1930's, too. Britain was eager for trade and almost up to the last few months of 1939, when the war broke out, actually supplied Hitler with arms. Proposals for economic boycott made by President Franklin D. Roosevelt were rebuffed.

This is not to imply that any government in the Communist bloc is necessarily planning war today, but certainly the Western will to fight is being tested.

Castro's recent behavior in Cuba is a case in point. He got a scare in 1962 when the late President Kennedy mobilized American military forces and demanded that Soviet missiles be removed. But the Cuban dictator doesn't know today whether President Johnson will be equally resolute. By cutting off the water supply at Guantanamo, the Cuban regime put the new President to a first test and found that there was no military reprisal.

Denying water to the base was, of course, a hostile act by Castro. It was, indeed, a flagrant disregard of the practical side of America's treaty with Cuba which permits the United States to use Guantanamo as a naval base.

The lack of resoluteness in the White House and State Department must have made a deep impression on Castro and on his advisers, especially those in Moscow. For if it is assumed that the United States will accept such acts of aggression rather than take any military action in an area only 90 miles away from the shores of this country, then additional steps might be risked by the Communists as a means of further humiliating the United States government before the world.

Even as Castro moved against the United States' base in Cuba, Moscow moved to mess up the situation in Cyprus and in other parts of the world.

Some of the evidences of the appeasement mood in the West are coming to the surface. The British Prime Minister publicly asserts the British intention to trade with Cuba and extend credits to Russia. To remove discontent, rather than to let the discontent remain and grow, is hardly the way to promote revolution inside a country.

THE CLAMOR TODAY in Europe and Canada for an entente with Red China and the open encouragement being given by France to the Communist Chinese strike a sympathetic chord with the appeasement-minded in this country. It is declared that a new era is at hand—an era in which the facts of an enemy's conquests must be recognized. Such a course is synonymous with surrender.

Kennedy-Backed Hopefuls Emerge

I, P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—There is at least a handfull of Kennedy candidates entered in congressional races, and Republicans, antennae tuned in for almost any possibility, feel more may turn up. Democratic organizations, too, are aware of this push and in at least two instances appear to be greeting it with mixed feelings.

Astronaut John Glenn is, of course, the best known of the group. He is running in the Ohio primary against Democratic Sen. Stephen M. Young, his political ambitions kindled by the encouragement of Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy and Sen. Edward Kennedy. His entry in the Ohio lists has stirred up bitter infighting within the Ohio organizations.

Rep. James Bromwell (R., Iowa) may face Sen. Kennedy's former legislative assistant, John Culver, in November, but this entry, too, has caused some bitterness in the Democratic Party there. Culver resigned from the Kennedy staff last fall, returning to his native state to campaign for office though Bromwell's opponent in 1962 announced after his defeat he would attempt it again. Reportedly, Sen. Kennedy has agreed not to take the stump for Culver until after the primary.

Rep. Pat Martin, a freshman Republican congressman from Riverside, Calif., has two names to contend with this fall. His opponent will be Gene Tunney Jr., son of the heavyweight champion, who has the ardent support of Sen. Kennedy, a former law school classmate. Kennedy went out to Martin's district two weeks ago, giving speeches in Tunney's behalf in several communities of the huge 38th District.

Rep. Abner Sibal (R., Conn.) will have as a probable opponent T. F. Gilroy Daly, who recently resigned his job as Justice Department attorney in New York and is also considered a dedicated Kennedy man.

All mentioned have just recently moved into the states of their political destiny.

REP. PETER FRELINGHUYSEN (R., N.J.), has compiled a list of what is "in" and what is "out" in the Johnson administration for the benefit of his constituents.

Among them:

"TV stations are out, stereo is in.

"The astronauts are out, except for one.

"Harvard professors are on the way out. Replacements will come from Princeton.

"It's in again to talk about the New Deal. Poverty is in too, affluence out. Any mention of foreign policy is out.

"Congress may be coming back in. It's too early to tell.

LBJ Hears Hassle on Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON — President Johnson sat at a White House dinner for congressional leaders the other night until 11:30, patiently listening to them expound on foreign aid. After they finished, he took them on a personal tour of his private living quarters, and at 11:45 escorted them to the elevator to say goodnight. Then he saw there was one extra place in the elevator and he got in himself, took them for a look at the swimming pool. Only then did he go to bed.

PEARSON

Next morning he was up in time for an 8:00 a.m. prayer breakfast at the Mayflower.

The man who sat on Johnson's right at the dinner was Sen. Dick Russell of Georgia, the elder statesman of the South. When Johnson was a relatively young senator and aspired to be Democratic Leader in 1952, it was Russell who corralled southern support. LBJ owes his first big Senate boost more to Russell than to any other one man.

On Johnson's left sat Sen. William Fulbright of Arkansas, elder statesman on foreign affairs. When Johnson aspired to be Senate Democratic leader, it was Fulbright who phoned senators trying to block his election.

But at the White House dinner it was Fulbright who supported Johnson on foreign aid: Russell, his original supporter, was not even called upon to speak.

The President merely proposed a toast to Dick Russell, and Russell proposed a toast to the President. That was all.

There was a private reason for this silence. Before the dinner, the Senator from Georgia had told the former Senator from Texas: "don't call on me, Mr. President. If I have to get up I'll say that 95 per cent of the foreign aid program ought to be scrapped. But be sure to call on Wayne Morse. He's our leader on foreign aid. He organized a full debate on foreign aid for the first time since 1947."

Johnson did call on Morse, though first he called on his chief supporter, Sen. Fulbright, who warmly supported the idea of putting the military phases of foreign aid under the U. S. Department of Defense. Fulbright said he would like to know one reason why this should not be done.

"I'll give you a reason," snapped Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio. "We in the House have to get elected every two years, and you senators don't have to be elected but every six. Last year you had no opposition yet you spent about a year down there in Arkansas. Apparently you don't have to do much for Arkansas so you try to do it for the rest of the world.

"Maybe you don't have to worry about your absenteeism," continued the fiery Ohio congressman, "but if a House member like me was away from his job all that time, he'd be beaten the next time he ran."

When President Johnson called on Sen. Morse, the latter replied: "I have a high respect for the Secretary of Defense but in this case he's wrong. Military aid is foreign policy. You can't separate military aid from foreign policy. What you're trying to do is sweep foreign aid under the rug and if you think you'll get more money that way, you're wrong.

"Second," continued Morse, "I am much concerned over attempts to take away from Congress its constitutional functions. The constitution calls for three separate but coordinate functions of government. That's not a cliche.

Capital Crime Leniency Hit

EDITOR:

The law says that capital punishment is the law of the state. It should be enforced. Gov. Brown has no authority to keep saving these murderers from the penalty they deserve.

We are in great danger from these habitual criminals who are turned loose on society after a few years in jail. We can expect this situation to get worse until we make our voice heard in protest against this menace to life and limb.

We can do something. We must force the people in authority to do their duty. An aroused and informed public can help remedy the situation.

GEORGE L. CROSBY,

• • • •

IT MUST be discouraging to law enforcement officers, prosecuting attorneys and juries, who did their duty as law abiding American citizens to protect decent society to see so many convicted criminals meet with such mitigating punishment.

Between smart lawyers, psychiatrists and our soft-hearted Gov. Brown, you can't get to the gas chamber from here.

How long are the American public going to stand for such a farce in crime punishment?

What's Wrong With Private Gambling?

EDITOR:

What is wrong with private clubs or groups gambling? Does every pleasure in life have to be taxable to be legal? Why do you think people buy a deck of cards?

Sometimes the lawmakers seem very phony. The public just isn't that naive.

Mr. Johnson Cuts the Light Bill

I, P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—There used to be a wheeze about where was Moses when the lights went out, and the answer was, in the dark. That's where we're all going to be if somebody doesn't keep the President away from the light switches.

Mr. Johnson has just boasted to one of his audiences that he has cut the White House light bill from $5000 to $3000 a month. Some night he ought to cast himself in the role of tourist and walk around the White House, say about 10 o'clock, to see how it looks with the lights out. It looks like the interior of Lincoln's tomb at midnight.

If ever there was a building meant to be luminous it is the White House. At night, it stands there like a stately marble sculpture in the low light diffused into its shadowy setting by the nearby city lights, making a very special sort of entity by what seems like an inner radiance of its own. That's when the lights haven't been turned off.

Turning the lights off subtracts something worth more than $2000 a month from the available supply of intangible assets in this country. This isn't a loss to the residents of Washington alone. There aren't many times you drive by the White House night as well as day, without coming upon a car full of tourists driving slowly by, feasting their eyes on the President's house. They get in the way of traffic, but nobody cares because everybody understands. There's a saying that when you find you no longer get thrill out of seeeing the White House, it's time to leave Washington. Not many people leave.

Perhaps four million people from outside Washington drive by the White House at night. Maybe more. Shutting the lights off is not far from putting it out of sight for the night.

Washington is becoming more and more brilliant at night because people like it that way. Sen. Mike Monroney, (D., Okla.) recently won wide praise for a bit of hocus-pocus in the legislative budget which makes it possible to floodlight the capitol dome every night the year around, whether Congress is sitting or not. The Washington monument is a glowing spire in the city at night. The statue of the seated Lincoln is now softly illuminated.

But there stands the White House in sable gloom—if you can see it. It looks as if nobody's home, even when everybody is.

There's something wrong with the order of priorities here. There are better ways of savin' $24,000 a year—or $60,000, if the President goes all the way—than turning off the lights in the White House.

This is something public opinion ought to deal with instead of waiting for the shareholders of the Potomac Electric Power Co. and the National Institute of Bulb Manufacturers to attack for selfish motives. It might make a good campaign issue for the Republican opposition, Johnson being in the dark all the time, shutting himself off from current affairs, and so on. He's probably hurting himself, politically with this fixation on the light bill. It will soon ge ridiculous to refer to him as the wiry Texan.

POLITICS

Candidates' Caldron Boiling

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Long Beach and Southern California today face the busiest and most interesting political week of the new year, climaxing in the Friday through Sunday state convention of the California Democratic Council (CDC) in Long Beach Arena.

Principals in the Southland bustle include President Johnson, Sens. Clair Engle, Hubert Humphrey and Eugene McCarthy, former senator and state Goldwater chairman William F. Knowland, Sen. and state Rockefeller chairman Thomas H. Kuchel, Gov. Brown, a number of state constitutional officers, U. S. representatives, assemblymen and state senators.

• • • •

LBJ COMES to Los Angeles Friday morning to start two days of state talks with Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos and to join him in receiving honorary degrees at UCLA. Democratic Party factions dispute whether Johnson, after Saturday goodbyes to Lopez Mateos, will head back to Washington or helicopter to Long Beach for an appearance before some 5,000 to 7,000 delegates, alternates and observers at the CDC convention.

Similar dispute surrounds the possibility of a visit from Engle, recuperating from August brain surgery and the center figure in what promises to be the highest drama of the CDC meet.

• • • •

ENGLE GOT his senatorial launch from a CDC endorsement. A dramatic cane-in-hand appearance before them this week would, in the view of many observers, win their endorsement again.

This scene will be watched intently by candidates-in-waiting Rep. James Roosevelt, Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk and State Controller Alan Cranston. If Engle does not appear, these three most likely will jump in quickly and ask CDC backing.

Roosevelt already had circularized a "Dear Delegate" letter accenting his accord with CDC's liberal positions, appealing for their support and cautioning them against a "no endorsement" course.

• • • •

CRANSTON, as a founding president of CDC, has a built-in following and, in addition, has said he will not run if he fails to get CDC endorsement. A current rumor has it that Engle will pull out of the race in Cranston's favor. That might seal the prize for Cranston, but lacking this development, he would have a tough tilt against the more-candidly liberal appeal of Roosevelt.

Mosk talked with Engle by phone last Thursday and understood Engle was trying to arrange Senate business so he could come to Long Beach. Mosk thereafter announced he would not detract from Engle's homecoming with the scheduled announcement Saturday of his own intentions.

Mosk did, however, advise his friends to "keep your powder dry." While Mosk might not receive the CDC endorsement, polls show him leading all prospective candidates of both parties.

McLAIN FOR SENATE

Meanwhile, Long Beach-area friends of Mr. Senior Citizen, George McLain, will honor him at a "Draft George McLain for U.S. Senate" rally at 1:30 p.m. Monday in Machinists' Hall, 723 Elm Ave.

Chester Wood, 80-year-old chairman of the Long Beach McLain committee, said 500 are expected for the rally. He said McLain has not decided on the race but noted that he drew more than 650,000 votes in a "Gray-Haired Revolt" against Gov. Brown for leadership of the 1960 California delegation to the Democratic National Convention.

Walter Knott, founder of the berry farm, and Tom and Joanne Ross, Sen. Goldwater's son-in-law and daughter, will take part in the rally. The $1 rally tickets are available at campaign headquarters or by calling HE 2-0401.

• • • •

CWA Strike Gets Nowhere

the 5,500-odd workers still out continue to remain in remarkably high spirits in the face of the overwhelming opposition they face.

Today, with the strike well past the 100-day mark, the company is feeling increasingly confident. It claims close to 70 per cent of its normal hourly work force, its equipment is operating well, it is meeting its heavy construction commitments, it is installing new phones without seriously falling behind in any one area and it is making money.

In short, it is not at all acting like a company which is in real trouble.

AS FOR THE CABLE-CUTTINGS, they've been no more than a nuisance to the company on the scale they've taken place. And they've been a convenient embarrassment to the union, as well.

The only area where the company may be said to be hurting is in a category called change orders, that is, the transfer of equipment within a home or business.

The company admits it is running well behind in change orders, but it doesn't consider the lag very serious. Moreover, it says, it has recently begun to catch up.

The CWA denies that the company is as well off as it claims to be. Says Louis B. Knecht, district director of the union, "If they were really winning this strike, don't you think they'd say to hell with the union and call for an election to see if the CWA should remain the plant bargaining agent?"

• • • •

NOTWITHSTANDING Knecht's assertion, union statements indicate that the CWA feels that General may be out to break the union.

One recent union statement spoke of "the ever-growing suspicion that General Telephone is not interested in settling the strike, but breaking the union."

General vehemently denies this. "Why would we want to destroy them? We've always had good relations with them."

G. E. Woods, director of public relations for the firm, admits, however, that the company has no intention of giving the union the wage and welfare package it is asking for, and which it has already received from the larger Bell Telephone System.

In claiming the company isn't as strong as it appears to be, Knecht points to the lag in change orders and indicates that the backlog in that area may well be the company's Achilles heel.

• • • •

THIS REMAINS to be seen. A spot check of space firms in General's operating area indicates that while a number of companies are annoyed by delays in the transfer of equipment, they are not seriously put out by them.

On the other hand, there appears to be some concern in the government, where the chief of the U.S. Mediation Service has expressed the fear that defense installations might be affected by the strike.

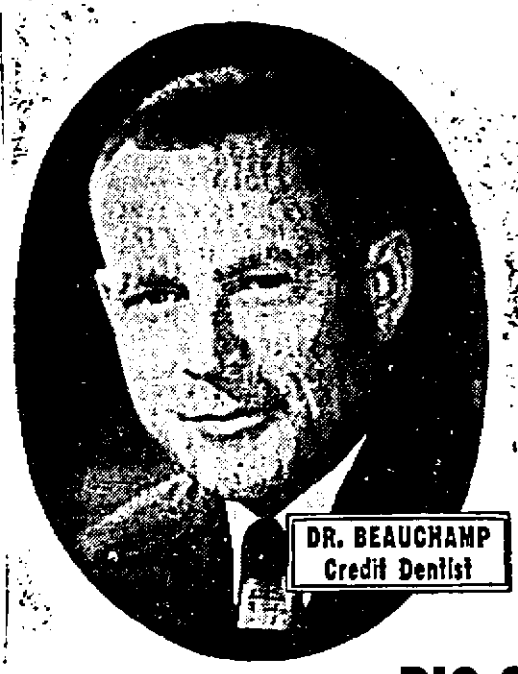

Knecht and other union leaders say they went into the strike with their eyes wide open. They were under no illusions that the equipment would fall to pieces, or that telephone service would come to a halt. Their primary purpose in walking out, they say, was to call public attention to their grievance with the company — a company, by the way, which they say they hold in contempt for putting profits ahead of the welfare of its workers.

Magnolia School Board Head Raps Opinion Phonics Illegal

President James A. Allen of the Magnolia School District claimed Saturday that there were errors in Orange County Counsel George F. Holden's ruling that the district's first-grade phonics course is not legally acceptable because it does not have state or county approval.

He said that it merely augments the state-approved "basic textbooks" in use since mid-November, but conceded that the controversial American Institute of Reading phonics program "was not approved as a supplementary course," nor was approval asked.

• • • •

ALLEN, who, with trustees Harry L. Milligan and Dr. Charles R. Downs, approved the AIR program, said in a prepared statement that its use is a policy of the board majority.

A recall was triggered against them—with use of the phonics program as one of the issues—shortly after seven principals resigned en masse Jan. 20 as of June 30, end of the school year. The district's other principal had quit two weeks earlier, effective the same date.

THE RECALL election originally set for April 21, has been changed to April 28 because County School Supt. Frank Grunenfelder found there otherwise wasn't time to prepare legal notices.

He said this means that the filing of nomination petitions for candidates will close March 13 instead of March 6.

More than 25 persons have been nominated as possible candidates for election to the Magnolia board in event of recall of any or all of the three members, it was disclosed by Mrs. Doris Wright, chairman of the Save Our Schools (SOS) Committee spearheading the recall move.

• • • •

SHE SAID a 13-member "screening committee" will be set up to interview potential candidates beginning Monday. Then, those remaining as candidates will be introduced to 200 "key" workers of the SOS campaign. A trial ballot then will be called.

By Feb. 28, the SOS-sponsored candidates will be announced, she said.

The disputed phonics program was but part of the problems the principals held to be insurmountable. When they quit, they charged the administration with being vague as to personnel practices and policies, with undermining morale of the district's teaching staff and with disrespect for the heads of the individual schools.

• • • •

ALLEN made no comment on those charges other than at a public meeting in which the allegations were denied, and the blame for disintegration of communications shifted to the principals.

He said the phonics program is the responsibility of the majority of the board.

Speaking for himself in a prepared statement, he stressed that the board and not Supt. Charles Wilson accepted the AIR setup.

"I have studied the recent opinion in regard to the AIR phonics program," Allen said. "The opinion probably casts doubt on the purchase of library and supplementary textbooks made by most school districts in California.

• • • •

"I HAVE outside opinion, from qualified sources, that this county counsel opinion is erroneous, and I can assure you that this matter is far from settled," his statement concluded.

County Counsel Holden had ruled that Magnolia's use of the American Institute of Reading phonics program was illegal because it has neither approval of the State Board of Education nor the Orange County Board of Education. He held that the local district cannot approve any textbooks, nor can it use textbooks not approved.

The phonics program is taught to about 1,000 first-graders in Magnolia's schools.

The board of trustees meets Monday night in regular session, but Holden's opinion is not on the agenda for discussion, Allen said, adding, therefore, it cannot be discussed officially "but people may ask some questions."

Set Negro Fund Meet Feb. 23

Long Beach and Pasadena committees for the Negro General Welfare Fund will be set up at the meeting of the organization at 4 p.m. Feb. 23 in Cressy Park, on Rosecrans Boulevard, west of Wilmington Boulevard, Compton.

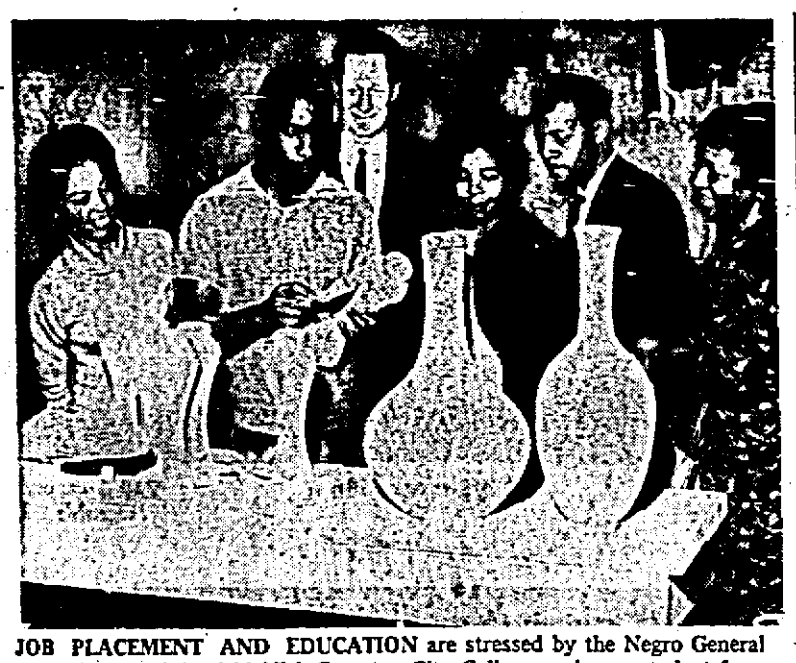

Hampered by lack of money—the organization operates out of the homes of volunteer workers—the Fund, incorporated in 1962, is the answer to major problems facing the Negro, according to its president, the Rev. Philip Perry, 42, of Los Angeles.

"The Negro today needs to become productive," he said. "We need more craftsmen, more men in industry and business. We need to be able to make non-profit loans to Negro businessmen and industry. And we need to do this as Americans to help eliminate the frustrations of the Negro."

The start is through education and employment assistance, says Rev. Perry. "Since at organization, we have not emphasized fund-raising—we actually have received only about $900—but we have been able to obtain as associate members industries and businesses who help us in job-placement of Negroes and in assisting those who have received subsistence scholarships to continue their education. These are the answers to juvenile delinquency, school-drop outs and need for public relief."

The Fund receives its mail at P.O. Box 5451, Compton.

Lee W. Alexander, 2016 N. Nestor, Compton, is vice president of the fund; Mrs. Leilani Hill of Los Angeles is secretary. A fourth director will be named at the annual meeting.

Seek 300 New C.C. Members

The Chamber of Commerce, engaged in an intensive drive for 300 new members, Saturday listed seven chairman in the campaign with an election year theme.

Teams are named after government and judicial posts, said John McKennon, chairman of the campaign. They are: Senators, headed by Dr. Malcolm Todd, M.D.; Representatives, Scott Debbins; Judges, Bill Wilson; Assemblymen, Paul McKenzie; Supervisors, Jess Grundy; Councilmen, Ray Bliley; Congressmen, Henry Powell.

McKennon said some 150 men will be competing for the prize—an all expense paid trip to Las Vegas (excluding gambling) to the member bringing in the most new members.

The drive winds up March 17.

"I WILL NEVER HAVE TO FACE THIS PROBLEM ALONE!"

"When my husband suggested we talk to the Rose Hills man about before-need memorial property, I knew he was thinking of the unnecessary suffering my friends went through because they had not planned ahead.

"We arranged a Family Protection Plan, while we both could choose what we wanted, without emotional pressures. He says he feels ten years younger, with the peace of mind he gained, knowing that I will never have to face this problem alone. He has proven his love beyond mere words.

"We certainly are glad we chose Rose Hills. Its beauty is so natural, with rolling hills, lovely lawns and gardens, and no headstones or monuments, it looks more like a park than a cemetery. There were so many beautiful sections from which to choose, and we found just what we wanted.

"We know, too, that Rose Hills will always be as lovely as it is today for they have that government-supervised Endowment Care Fund.

"By planning ahead, we gained financially, too. We were able to arrange a monthly payment plan that fits our budget perfectly, a plan which minimizes the cost to us.

"And as one of those little extra touches you always appreciate, the Rose Hills man gave us a handy Estate Portfolio for our important papers. It has containers for insurance, real estate papers, stocks and bonds and other vital records, properly catalogued so they are easy to find. He told us this portfolio is free to anyone interested."

This reaction is typical of that of thousands of wives, whose husbands had the foresight to plan in advance. Why don't you talk to the man from Rose Hills soon? Arrange an appointment by phone, or better still, send in the coupon for your free Estate Portfolio.

L.B. State Blitz Rips Cal Poly

By AL LARSON

Al Windfeldt shoveled in 21 points and Bob Roeland added 17 as Long Beach State turned on a second half blitzkrieg to defeat Cal Poly of San Luis Obispo, 94-83, Saturday night on the 49er floor.

Trailing 41-36 at intermission, coach Dick Perry's club came on with a rush to snap a five-game losing streak and post its second win of the year over the Mustangs.

The 49ers now stand 3-5 in CCAA play and 6-15 overall. Cal Poly's conference record is a lowly 1-8, and 5-14 for the season.

* * * *

WINDFELDT, who led the 49ers' attack the first half with four field goals, added four after halftime, along with five free throws, to achieve his career high at LBSC.

Roeland also had an impressive night, banging in five field goals in the second half to keep the 49ers buzzing.

Long Beach outscored Cal Poly by one field goal after the first 20 minutes of play, but the Mustangs sank 15-of-18 free-throw attempts, including a string of 11 to build what appeared to be a safe lead.

At one time, they led by 11 points, 26-15, with 6:39 to go in the half, but reserve guard Dave Brown and regular Ken Knapp moved the 49ers in and out of fast breaks and screen patterns, and it wasn't long before LBSC looked like a different club than the one that fell so flat Friday night in losing to Fresno State, 93-76.

The lead changed hands nine times the final half before Roeland put the Prospectors ahead for good, 75-73, with 4:19 remaining. Bob Horwath, the conference's all-time scoring king, who was demoted to the second team recently, wound up with 10 points to boost his three-year record to 597 for the Mustangs. He played only 16 minutes.

* * * *

LIKEWISE, John Rambo, Long Beach's big threat, was used sparingly and also had only 10 points. He played just 14 minutes—all in the final half.

Four Cal Poly boys fouled out in the rugged contest as officials called 58 personals.

Lyn Hodge turned in one of his finest performances in three years as the 49er captain controlled the boards before drawing his fifth foul with 3:47 to go. He had 16 rebounds, his high of the year, along with nine points. He took only six shots and made four.

Long Beach outshot the visitors, hitting 32 of 70 for a 45 percent effort. Poly sank 27 of 63 for a 42 percent accuracy rating.

Too Tragic To Believe---Cubs Brass

MESA (AP)—Chicago Cubs officials were stunned Saturday when they learned second baseman Ken Hubbs had died in a private airplane crash near Provo, Utah.

"It's a shock," said Cub athletic director Bob Whitlow. "It's just too tragic to believe.

"We haven't even thought about a replacement," Whitlow said. "He was our second baseman, and had shown he was ready for a long tenure there.

"This is a tragic blow to his parents. Our thoughts are with them."

Whitlow and other Cub officials are now in Mesa preparing for the spring training season, which opens next week for pitchers and catchers.

Whitlow and John Holland, Cub vice president, indicated they had no objection to Hubbs, taking flying lessons. "We can't regulate everything the players do in the winter," Whitlow said.

Chicago baseball writers recalled Hubbs frequently talked to manager Bob Kennedy, former Marine flyer, about flying and never missed a chance to get into the cockpit at the landings of planes carrying the Cubs on baseball trips.

Thus, a brief big league career launched in a blaze of glory just two seasons ago ended for the 22-year-old Hubbs, who said when he made the grade:

"You don't have to worry about second base here for 10 years."

But no popoff was this lad who in 1962, his first full Cub season, played 78 consecutive games without an error and handled 418 chances, breaking two major league records for second basemen.

Hubbs' big time career was born of confidence, but his self-assured manner never could be called brash.

His smashing of the two records Bobby Doerr had held since 1948 also won Hubbs, then only 20, National League rookie of the year honors for 1962.

* * * *

LAST YEAR, HUBBS BATTLED the sophomore jinx, slipping to a .235 batting average from .260 the previous year.

But the kid from Colton, Calif. still got a salary hike. "You don't measure a talented player like Hubbs by what he doesn't do," Vice President Holland said a few weeks ago. "We know what he does for our club and it's plenty."

The 6-foot, 180-pounder joined the Cubs' farm system in 1959 after graduating from Colton High where he was an outstanding athlete.

As a quarterback, he was offered scholarships by 15 colleges. But baseball was in his blood, even though he hoped one day to get a degree at Brigham Young University where his brother, Keith, played halfback.

It hit Hubbs like a bolt out of the Arizona blue he could make the big time when the Cubs traded away Jerry Kindall and Don Zimmer and said the job was wide open in spring training of 1962.

* * * *

THE 20-YEAR-OLD WAS given an all-out chance at Mesa, Ariz., that spring and responded like a champion, even though he was a converted shortstop.

"Something just popped me open," Hubbs told writers amazed at his sudden skill afield and at bat. "I suppose the tremendous amount of coaching the Cubs gave me bolstered my confidence so I think I can make the grade.

"I hope this isn't something like just a lucky streak."

It wasn't for the lad who just a year before, in 1961, was a struggling shortstop for the Cubs' class B Wenatchee, Wash., club and spent hour after hour getting second base tutoring from the Cubs' Bobby Adams and Lou Klein in the Arizona Instructional League.

"Each day they would make me turn a 100 double plays in practice," Hubbs later recalled.

"I would make, or take the throw at second and relay to first over, and over, and over until double plays were coming out of my ears."

It was on June 13, 1962, Hubbs began his record-smashing streak when he crisply handled a grounder by Smoky Burgess of the Pirates.

The rest of June, through July and August, Hubbs continued to field perfectly amid mounting pressure. As his errorless skein grew, his batting average slumped—from .285 to .250.

Finally the bubble burst, on Sept. 6, when Hubbs cleanly fielded a double play ball stroked by Cincinnati's Gordy Coleman but threw the ball wildly to second.

STANFORD (UPI) — University of California rallied in the second half Saturday night to defeat Stanford 59-52 in a Big Six contest that gave both teams a 6-4 record in conference play.

UCLA Races to 21st Triumph as Walt Nets 15

By JEROME HALL

Historians of basketball will study the 1963-64 UCLA team with wonderment.

The Bruins are bearing down on an undefeated season, they are far out in front in the polls, they are dismantling teams with ease and they seem to be only seven games away from winning the NCAA championship.

But they can't shoot.

Maybe they don't have to, because Saturday night the UCLA quintet breezed past Washington's Huskies, 88-60, before an L.A. Sports Arena crowd of 8,251. In the first game of the doubleheader Washington State beat USC, 80-76.

It is an amazing statistic that with all those points, the Bruins made only six long shots in the entire game. They took 90 shots, another amazing statistic.

BUT THEY HAD THE SPEED and quickness to follow up their misses and turn them into layins, or what the basketball fraternity calls garbage shots.

Maybe it is expecting too much of the pint-sized Bruins to be great at everything, for they outrebound teams that are much taller and they blitz past teams that are supposed to be fast and they outmuscle teams that are supped to be muscular.

But they still can't shoot.

The Washington Huskies, who have won only seven of 21 games this season, had a better shooting percentage, but they were blown off the court with a furious rally at the outset of the second half.

So maybe it isn't important to shoot well.

It was the night that Walt Hazzard became the all-time scoring king of UCLA. He needed 15 points to pass the record of 1,225 for three years set eight seasons ago by Willie Naulls, now a pro star.

HAZZARD GOT EXACTLY 15 points. He had to strain to do it, for he did not have a better night shooting than anyone else on the team.

Hazzard fired the ball at the hoop 10 times in the first half and made only two. He shot another seven times in the second half and hit three of them.

Coach John Wooden was "happy to win under these circumstances," which is another chapter for the historians to study—a coach who almost apologized for the way his team played in winning by 28 points.

Hazzard's comment was "we really played lousy." The comment of Gail Goodrich, the game's leading scorer with 22, was: "I can't remember a night like this one before."

The Bruins are four games ahead in the AAWU standings with five games to play.

Hazzard brought the crowd to its feet in the opening seconds with a twisting, underhanded pass to forward Jack Hirsch, who pushed it in a layup. Hazzard did the same thing seconds later.

Satisfied with that phase of his game, Hazzard stepped back and fired through a 20-footer and it appeared he was off to a fast start.

THIS TIME THE HUSKIES, who played a slow-down style Friday night in losing by 15 points, chose to run with the racehorse Bruins and were only three and five points behind most of the first half.

But then the Bruins erupted in a manner peculiarly Bruin. They scored eight consecutive points while the Huskies hardly got the ball across the center line.

At halftime, the Bruins were ahead 35-27 and the Huskies were in the advanced stage of fatigue.

The Trojans were trying for their third win in a row and they might have made it had not their big center fouled out midway in the second half.

USC was behind by one point with 11 minutes remaining when their world began to crumble. John Block went out on his fifth foul.

Block was having one of his better, if not best, nights. He scored eight consecutive Trojan points during an early second-half Trojan spree. He totaled 18 points in his limited playing time. He had rebounded like a veteran, though he is but a sophomore, a 6-9 soph.

'Anita Payoff Mark--$205

By ERNIE MASON

Inclusive, a four-year-old who was winless in five starts this year and had won only three in 21 the past two years, won the $59,300 San Luis Rey Handicap Saturday for a record $205.40 payoff at Santa Anita.

The unsung hero of what was a rough race nosed out the second bet favorite, Mr. Consistency, and survived a claim of foul quickly lodged by Mr. Consistency's veteran rider, Kenneth Church.

* * * *

DUSKY DAMION came in third by 2½ lengths and the favorite, South Africa's Colorado King, was two lengths farther back in fourth place.

Church claimed Inclusive lugged in on him in the stretch, but the stewards disallowed the claim.

Inclusive, ridden by Rudy Campas, returned $205.40 to win, $44.80 to place and $15.60 to show. The win payoff topped the previous record for a stakes in California, the $180.60 return of Perizade in the Vanity Handicap at Hollywood Park in 1953.

Inclusive's lone distinguishing victory was in the Texas Handicap at Sunland Park last year.

Mr. Consistency paid $4.20 and $3, and Dusky Damion $5.60.

The time for the 1⅛-mile run, a tuneup for the $100,000-added San Juan Capistrano Handicap March 7, was 2:25⅕.

The crowd of 50,822 was quiet until the stewards viewed the race movie and a tremendous cheer went up when the big price was posted on the board.

With one entry, a longshot named Repute, declared, 13

INCLUSIVE was far back for the first mile, came to outside on last turn, advanced steadily, finished strongly under vigorous handling to get up in last jump. MR. CONSISTENCY, well back in early stages, closed steadily between horses going first mile, was in close quarters on stretch turn but with clear racing was a nosed fightly by win-under hard drive on stretch but failed to hold winner. DUSKY DAMION, far back as usual in early stages, moved fast on outside during back stretch, came between horses in stretch, finished strong. COLORADO KING was well placed early while racing close to backstretch, moved up between horses to take command entering stretch, was unchallenged under pressure in last eighth. CEDAR KEY moved up on inside to make track first turn around, forced to front on backstretch, gave way after settling pace for a half mile, ALDERSHOT tired after setting pace for first half mile. Jockey Church lodged a claim of foul which was not allowed. Jock by Harmatz also claimed foul against Aldershot entering main track which was disallowed.

Give Credit to Clay's Mouth

The flack on the Feb. 25 Liston-Clay title bout —which will be shown on closed circuit TV at both the Auditorium and West Coast Theater here—is flowing into sports departments these days more rapidly than water from a leaky radiator.

The publicity men are desperately trying to get across one vital point: That Cassius belongs in the same ring with Liston.

HANK HOLLINGWORTH

I've never subscribed to that theory and apparently I'm not alone, else why would the tub-thumpers go to such lengths to make the public believe this point?

The match has its intriguing facets, thus a live gate of $1,000,000 is virtually certain—and, more important, proceeds from theater television could top the $6,000,000 figure.

The credit belongs to Cassius, but through his mouth not his fistic achievements.

Anyway, here's a random sample of the publicity drivel I've received . . . and see if you don't believe my statement that the flack dispensers are desperately trying to make you and me believe that Mr. Clay is worthy of a title shot with Liston.

ONE ITEM: "The experts agree that it was more Floyd Patterson's failure than Sonny's prowess which made Liston look unbeatable. The consensus is that Liston is good, but not great."

The flacks then point to what they consider the chink in Liston's armor—his weakness in his bout a few years ago with Eddie Machen, who went 12 rounds with Sonny.

Then, they quote Machen, who is not only a has-been but more truthfully, a never-was.

Says the not-so-great Eddie: "Liston is a single-tracked gunner. I'd even say he is a one-armed fighter—all left hand. Against me he didn't seem to know how to use his right except in close. I remember how easy it was to slide inside or under his jab. I did it round after round. The thing that sticks in my mind is that he didn't change. He kept making the same mistakes throughout.

"I have to respect Clay. He has the speed and shiftiness which could cause Liston to get discouraged and lose confidence. He has the same sort of tools I have.

"My big regret is that Clay beat me to the title shot."

Eddie, you've taken too many punches. Your big relief should be that Clay beat you to the title shot. If Machen got into the same ring with Liston today, the funeral people could start measuring him for a box right now.

REFLECTING MY SENTIMENTS is an article from the Feb. 15 issue of TV Guide Magazine.

"Students of the sweet science are not as puzzled over how Clay will attack Liston as they are over how he landed the fight in the first place," begins the piece.

"An inspection of Clay's record shows that his handlers fastidiously have avoided dangerous opponents.

"And so, in less than three years, Cassius ascended—if he will pardon the illusion—like a gasbag, combining a modicum of fighting with an avalanche of words to consummate what doubtless will be one of the major financial strokes of boxing."

The phrasing is perfect, especially if you happened to be on hand in the L.A. Sports Arena when Cassius opposed a lumberjack named George Logan. Logan was a bleeder, which means if you tapped him with a fly-swatter the claret would flow. Lacking completely the niceties of the ring sport, Logan attacked Clay the only way he knew how—barge in as you thought you were starting a Pier Six brawl or cleaning out all the umbays in some bar.

Logan did his job well. He had Clay as troubled as an income tax evader. Yet, Cassius managed to flick a few jabs in the direction of Logan's eyebrows and Georgie's red stuff came pouring out as if the dam had broken.

The minute Logan colored red, the bout was stopped. But up to that point, a non-classical barroom brawler had Clay in deep trouble.

If that shows Clay's class, the heavyweight division has deteriorated worse than the U.N.

THE FLACKS MISSED NO opportunity to laud Clay. Another publicity tidbit began: "The truest test of a champion-to-be comes when he has been knocked down and offstride. And young Cassius Clay has twice achieved this in his career."

Now swallow this: "He was subjected to his first test of chin in 1962 when Sonny Banks, a towering left hooker from Detroit."

That stirs you up a bit, doesn't it?

Then: "The second instance came last June 18 in London when Cassius was fighting Henry Cooper. Suddenly, Henry let fly a left hook. Clay flew back and through the ropes. Dazed, he rolled back in and made his feet. Cassius then passed the acid test: He recouped his strength and rendered his opponent helpless."

George Logan, Sonny Banks and Henry Cooper . . . hardly strong credentials for tackling Liston, would you say?

CELTIC GAZELLE IN FORM
Bill Russell makes like a gazelle under basket as he scores against San Francisco. Russell and world champion Boston Celtics meet Lakers at L.A. Sports Arena tonight.

LAST UNTIL PLAYOFFS

Lakers, Celtics in Home Finale

By DON HARDIN

Pro basketball fans, heed this advice if you like to see the Lakers and Celtics play. And, so many of you have liked them in the past.

Tonight may be your last chance until next November.

The saucy Celtics and the sick, but-trying-to-get-well Lakers play their swan song in regulation NBA play this evening at the L.A. Sports Arena.

Game time is an early 7:05.

The Celtics, who are not having a picnic in the Eastern Division either, hold a 6-3 edge over the Lakers for the season. Over the past two seasons the two teams were absolutely even, including playoff games.

But, playoff is the big word now. During the past two seasons it has been all Celtics and Lakers with the Boston crew winning the title in 14 games by a total of five points.

• • • •

AND, THE LAKERS, who were seemingly going for their third consecutive Western Division title, were looking up from third place Saturday night toward San Francisco. Boston, holding a slim two-game lead over the torrid Cincinnati Royals, were playing Wilt Chamberlain and his gang there.

It's been a hectic season and it won't last long. The Lakers have only 18 games to play and they've got to sprout new wings quickly in order to resume leadership of their division. Yes, they are certain to be in the playoffs, regardless if they catch up but they have to go through a formidable array of teams and players if they are to play the Celtics again before next fall.

A near-capacity crowd is anticipated this eve for one of the season's pivotal battles. Then the Lakers hit the airways and return on Washington's Birthday to meet the Royals. In their last eight home games they will play Cincinnati, St. Louis and San Francisco twice each.

Ouch!

Wilt Chamberlain paced the Warriors with 32 points while John Havlicek led Boston with 25.

TWO NEAR FREE-FOR-ALLS

Viking 'Jinx-Busters' Topple 'Gades, 64-60

By KEN PIVERNETZ

BAKERSFIELD—If nothing else, the 1963-64 Long Beach City College basketball team will be remembered as the "jinx-busters."

The Vikings defeated arch-rival Bakersfield here Saturday night for the first time in the Renegades' gym in 11 years by a narrow 64-60 decision.

Despite missing three 1-and-1 foul shots in the last 70 seconds, the Norsemen still had enough to win and go back into a tie for second place in the Metropolitan Conference standings with Cerritos, each with 7-3 records.

It was a bitter game that saw two technical fouls called, one player ejected, and two near free-for-alls.

The Vikings jumped off quickly and were on top at halftime by nine points (41-32) before the 'Gades staged a comeback that saw them steadily close the gap in the final 20 minutes.

• • • •

BOB NEWLIN'S jumper from the top of the key put Bakersfield on top for the first time, 57-56, with 6:50 to go, to set the stage for a hectic finish.

The game was even 58-all at 4:43, then Mike Waldie put LBCC ahead for keeps 36 seconds later. Lee Marskell hit the first free throw on a 1-and-1 situation to give the Vikings a 61-58 advantage at 3:47.

Bakersfield's Ray Ermigarat then was tossed from the game for deliberately fouling George Deering, who missed his foul try.

The Vikings eventually added three throws in the final minutes against the over-eager Renegades.

• • • •

ROMIE Hargrove was nearly given the heave-ho with 7:07 left when he squared off against Larry Toliver. Both benches emptied, but officials restored order and no one was ejected.

Waldie paced the Vikings with 27 points, equalling his season high. He had support from Bob Johnson, who had 17, and Marskell, who contributed 11.

Toliver kept the 'Gades in contention, especially in the first half, and wound up with 23 points, but Bakersfield couldn't get any consistent outside shooting. It did control the backboards, however, but that wasn't enough.

DEADLINE PASSES:
FINLEY STILL AT WAR

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Charles O. Finley, owner of the Kansas City Athletics, denied Saturday night that he had rejected a city offer for a compromised three-year contract for use of Municipal Stadium, only hours before the American League's lease-or-else deadline ran out.

The war of words broke out as the midnight deadline set by the American League closed with no indication that there was hope of solving the impasse.

Finley's denial came after John D. Maguire, chairman of the city council's baseball committee, had spoken with the A's owner at his home in LaPorte, Ind.

"I asked Maguire if he was authorized to offer a three-year contract," said Finley. "He said he had no authority to offer it but that if I was willing to accept it he himself would make an effort to get the negotiating committee together.

"Your story is that I flatly rejected. I flatly deny that any offer of a three-year lease was made to me. The mayor is the one who has been the chairman of all these negotiations. The mayor and the city manager represent Kansas City—not a two-bit politician councilman."

Finley also classed "as a manufactured lie" a story quoting Kansas City businessman Alex J. Barket as saying Finley had offered last month to sell the A's for $7 million.

Meanwhile, in Boston, American League President Joe Cronin said that Finley did not face automatic expulsion from the league if he failed to sign a lease by the midnight deadline. Cronin said the league would not act until Monday.

Wichita Snares Thriller; Vandy, Davidson Upset

Compiled From Wire Services

Wichita's Wheatshockers, thinking they won in regulation time and had left the floor, were called back and went on to whip Cincinnati 59-58 in overtime Saturday night to highlight collegiate basketball action across the country.

The Shockers thought they won it on Dave Stallworth's basket at the buzzer, 56-54, but after a 10-minute delay — and with Wichita in its dressing room — Cincinnati convinced the referees that the buzzer sounded before Stallworth shot and the noise of the crowd drowned it out.

Wichita coach Ralph Miller argued desperately, but had satisfaction anyway as it was Stallworth, held to a low 14 points, who also made the decisive points.

It was the first time that Wichita has beaten Cincinnati on the Bearcats' home court.

Two of the country's top 10 teams, Davidson (No. 4) and Vanderbilt (No. 7) met defeat, but UCLA, Michigan, Duke, Wichita and Villanova won. Kentucky, Oregon State and Texas Western were idle.

From the second 10, Illinois (No. 17) lost to Minnesota, 92-81 and Oklahoma State (No. 12) fell to Iowa State, 50-48 in overtime.

• • • •

FIFTH-RANKED Duke spilled fourth-rated Davidson, 82-75, to hand the Wildcats their second consecutive loss (18-2). Jeff Mullins scored 22 as the Blue Devils improved their record to 17-3.

Guard Danny Schultz scored 35 points as unranked Tennessee halted Vanderbilt, 64-62, leaving the Commodores two games back of the Vols in the Southeastern Conference race.

Second-ranked Michigan boosted its Big 10 lead with a 99-87 win over Indiana as Cazzie Russell and Bill Buntin each scored 23 points. Gary Bradds had 40 points for the sixth consecutive game as Ohio State topped Wisconsin, 92-74, and Minnesota took second place by beating Illinois.

• • • •

NINTH-RANKED Villanova easily whipped Canisius, 73-58.

Other top individual efforts included a 33-point game by Notre Dame's Walt Sahm, a 32-point showing by Purdue's Dave Schellhase, and a 34-point performance by Providence's John Thompson.

Nick Werkman tallied 30 for Seton Hall against Providence to become the 15th player in major college history to crack the 2,000-point mark in a three-year career. He has 2,020 points.

NCAA Reveals Plan for Picking Olympic Cagers

KANSAS CITY (UPI)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Saturday announced plans for selecting basketball players to compete for berths in the October Olympic Games at Tokyo.

The Association said it will be allowed to select 36 athletes to take part in the Olympic basketball trials at St. John's University in Jamaica, New York, April 2-4.

Six of the athletes will come from the championship team of the national collegiate basketball tournament to be crowned here March 21.

The remaining 30 players will be selected from the entire NCAA membership by a committee of the National Association of Basketball Coaches.

Amateur Athletic Union also will participate in the U. S. trials.

Man to Man

LONG

By JERRY WYNN

Long Beach, which thus far has withstood earthquakes, subsidence and junior baseball, is bracing for a new menace this week.

He is a giant named Dallas Long, who stands 6-4, weighs 260 and throws a 16-pound iron ball as if it were a grapefruit.

But you need not worry if you procure a loge seat at the L.B. Arena Tuesday night for the first Long Beach indoor track and field carnival. Long seldom throws beyond the fifth row of the floor level.

The world's premiere shotputter and record holder at 65-10½, the USC dental student will seek to eclipse the indoor marks of 64-11¾ in his first major Long Beach appearance.

Sports often are referred to as glamorous, Dallas. Do you find any romance in shotputting?

"Yes. I have a personal love for it and there is glamor in just the fact that you are writing this story about me. It's nice to be mentioned in the papers."

Put the question another way. Why do you throw the shot?

"It is something I can do and do well and enjoy doing. Because I've been successful, I've been able to travel and see the world and reap many benefits."

What started you on a career as a shotputter?

"In high school at Phoenix, football was my first love. I was a tackle. During the off-season, I began to throw the shot. I became successful at it and continued in hopes of making the Olympic team. I was fortunate enough to make the team (Ed. note: He won a bronze medal at Rome) and never has been sorry about giving up football for track."

Do you think shotputters have to be more dedicated than other track and field competitors?

"No. In some events such as the 100-yard dash, you can get by on sheer natural ability, and in others, such as the marathon and distances, it takes an ungodly amount of sacrifice. Shotputting is in the middle. You have to work. That's for sure."

What percentage of shotputting is strength and what percentage is skill?

"It all depends on the individual. Some fellows get by with little strength and a lot of technique and speed. Bill Nieder was not exceptionally strong as shotputters go and he held the world's record. Then there is Gary Gubner, who undoubtedly is the strongest person who has ever lived, and he is not overly successful. I place more emphasis on speed and technique."

Along the same line of thinking, if Sonny Liston would throw the shot against you, would you fight him?

"For $100,000 I would be glad to. I'd probably do as well as Clay."

Parry O'Brien says he tries to "psyche" an opponent by looking mean. Does this bother you?

"No. I think it is very overrated. The only way he could upset me would be to throw the ball farther. I don't believe in hexes or evil eyes."

Who do you consider your strongest competitor for an Olympic gold medal at Tokyo this fall?

"It's too early to tell, but I would be extremely surprised if it was not another American, probably Gary Gubner."

Does your new plastic-covered ball give you an advantage?

"It's no advantage over another person, but a personal help to me. Anyone is welcome to use it. I have relatively small hands, and the large ball feels like a basketball against my chin. I hope to do better with this one, especially in indoor meets."

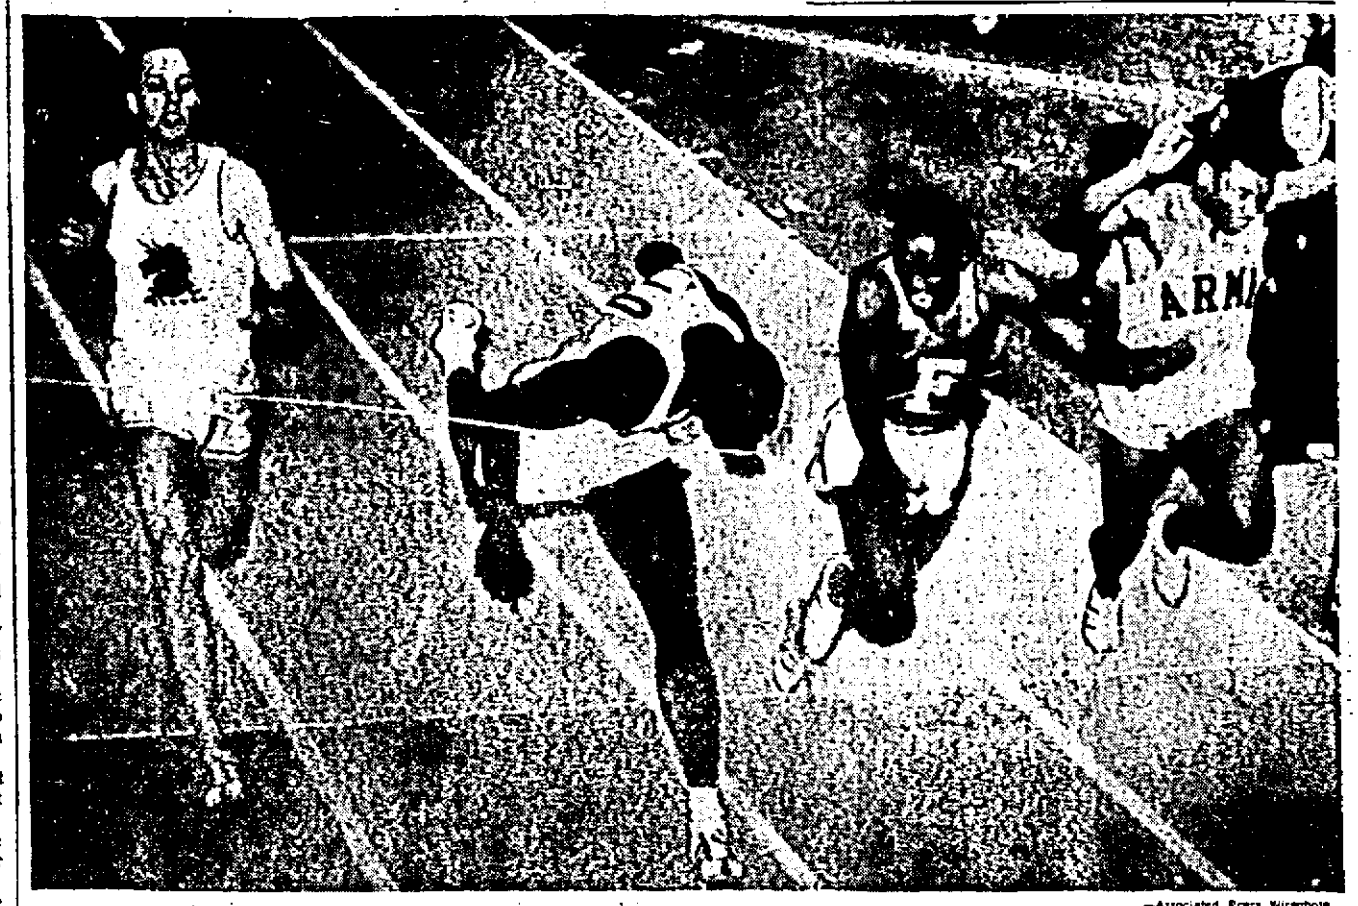

What was the greatest thrill of your career?

"Without a doubt, my greatest thrill was breaking the world record. That was always uppermost in my mind, and I was also thrilled it happened on our home field at the Coliseum."

Which is easier, putting a shot or pulling a tooth?

"After a hard day at dental school, I'd rather shotput any time."

A true giant in a sport of giants is Dallas Long.

REALLY WINS BY A NOSE
World record holder Bob Hayes lunges and hits tape with his nose to win 60-yard dash in New York Millrose Games. The latest "World's Fastest Human" will run in Long Beach Games Tuesday night.

Hayes Eyes 5.9 in L.B. Games

A QUEENLY START
Her form isn't the usual used by sprinters, but the starter couldn't find anything wrong with Barbara Ogden's form as she practiced for her role as queen of the Long Beach Games Tuesday night. Barbara, 21-year-old Long Beach State coed, is a sport—she swims, water and snow skis, plays tennis.

'World's Fastest Human' Faces Top Field Tuesday

By JOHN DIXON

Every year or two there's a new "World's Fastest Human," but Bob Hayes undisputedly is fastest of them all.

He has the competitive record and the stopwatch notches to prove it.

Hayes, only man to run the 100-yard dash in 9.1, believes he will become the first man to run the indoor 60-yard dash in 5.9—and soon.

"I'm looking to do it anytime now," Hayes says. "I've run the 60 five times, once in 6.1 and four times in 6.0 (tying the indoor record). Maybe I'll get the record in Long Beach Tuesday."

* * * *

THE FLORIDA A&M turbojet has had a spectacular career, but he's still got as many goals as Wilt Chamberlain.

"First I want that indoor record. Then I want to run 8.9 outdoors in the 100—I've got my heart set on it. I want to wind-up my career with three gold medals at the Olympic Games in October, and finally I want to prove that a sprinter can play professional football."

A 192-pounder who rolls like a ship in a storm as he generates a full head of steam, Hayes started running in 1959 "because I knew I could run faster than guys on the team."

He ran 9.3 as a freshman, 9.2 as a sophomore, and lowered the No. 1 international target to 9.1 last summer. Though he seldom runs the 220, Hayes deadheated the curved 220 world record of 20.5 last term.

His best marks are 9.1 100, 10.1 100 meters, 20.1 220, 20.5 220 curve. The average of his best 10 marks at 100 yards is 9.27, fastest in history. Harry Jerome is second at 9.29, Mel Patton 25th at 9.42. Hayes' competitive 100 record is 35-2.

* * * *

YET IT WILL take his best race to win the Long Beach Games sprint Tuesday. His competition: Paul Winder, Marines, 6.1; John Gilbert, Striders, 9.4 100; Darol Newman, Fresno, 6.1; Dick Cortese, USC, 6.1; Larry Dunn, Army, 6.1.

Hayes was unbeaten, untied last year. Recapitulation:

Hayes Equals 70 Mark

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP) — Sprinter Bob Hayes equaled his own indoor record of 6.9 seconds in the 70-yard dash at the Mason-Dixon games Saturday night. The Florida A&M flash set the mark here in 1963.

In women's events, Tammy Davis set an indoor record in the 70-yard low hurdles with a 9.1 performance.

* * * *

JO AN TERRY of Tennessee State, who set the old record here in 1962, finished third. Second was Lorraine Dunn of Tennessee State.

Dallas Long, Southern California's world record holder in the shotput, sent the 16-pound ball 62-feet 6½ for his best effort this season and victory in that event.

Earlier, two women sprinters bettered the 70-yard record with separate 7.6 second qualifying heats.

Wyomia Tyue equaled the world mark minutes after it had been set by Edith McGuire.

* * * *

ROY HICKS, Army enlisted man, stationed at West Point, skimmed over the 70-yard high hurdles in 8.1, one-tenth of a second off Hayes Jones' indoor record. Hicks edged out Ralph Boston, the ace broad jumper from Tennessee State. Jones was forced to withdraw because he has the flu.

Englishman Bill Cornell of Southern Illinois University nipped John Dunkelberg of the North Carolina Track Club to win the 880 in 1:50.9.

* * * *

VILLANOVA'S two-mile relay team set an indoor mark of 7:24.9 on the eight-lap-mile track. Noel Carroll of Ireland ran the final half mile in 1:48.8.

Kansas State's John Camien turned in a 4:10.9 mile, finishing with no one close.

High-jumper John Thomas cleared 6-10 in winning his event. He reversed a Thursday night New York loss to Lew Hoyt of Southern California.

Broad-jumper Boston went 25-10 for his top effort of the season.

CANADIAN STEALS SHOW

Beatty Third in 4:13.4; Win Streak Snapped

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Jim Beatty, still recovering from a cut foot, sustained his first indoor defeat in four years Saturday night when he placed third to winner Morgan Groth in the mile run at the Golden Gate track and field meet.

Making his debut of the season, Beatty held the lead for the first six laps, then gave way to San Jose State's Ben Tucker who placed second in the event.

After that, the North Carolina veteran slowly faded and was a good 25 yards to the rear when Groth grabbed the lead from Tucker at the gun lap. Groth, the NCAA champ, won in a time of 4:07.9.

Tucker had a time of 4:09.3 while Beatty was clocked in 4:13.4.

* * * *

EARLIER, Hyike Van Der Wal, who had to hitchhike from Canada to get here, ran the fastest time ever clocked in the one-mile steeplechase when he won the event in 4:25.5.

Jeff Chase of the Santa Clara Youth Village achieved a lifetime best of 16 feet, 1½ inches to capture the pole vault. Ron Morris of the Striders fmished far behind in second place with 15-8, while Stanford's Phil White was third with 15-4.

IAAF OKs 22 World Track Marks

LONDON (UPI)—The International Amateur Athletic Federation approved 22 world records set in 1963, but failed to act Saturday on a 17-foot pole vault height reached by John Pennel and a 9.1 second clocking achieved by Bob Hayes in the 100-yard dash.

United States athletes were credited with eight of the new marks, including new records in three relay events.

The approval or rejection of the Pennel and Hayes' records, it was believed, would be tabled until a full meeting of the IAAF later this year. The dispute stems from the asphalt surfaces both athletes used in their record breaking attempts. World records:

62-5 PUT BY MATSON FIFTH BEST INDOORS

DALLAS (UPI) — Randy Matson, Texas A&M's teenaged freshman giant, moved nearly a foot closer to the U. S. Olympic team Saturday night when he got off a 62 foot, 5-inch heave that was the fifth best indoor mark in history.

The 18-year-old Pampa, Texas, youngster, cleared the 60-foot mark on all six of his throws and was over 61 feet three times as he bettered his previous best this season—61-6½.

The 6-foot, 7-inch Matson won the outstanding athlete award hands down in the third annual Dallas Invitational track meet before a near-capacity crowd of 7,000.

The toss has been bested only by Gary Gubner's 64-11¾, Parry O'Brien's 63-1½, Arthur Rowe's 62-11½ and Dallas Long's 62-7½ indoors.

John Roderick, Southern Methodist sophomore, spoiled teammate Billy Foster's reign as the Texas indoor sprint king when he nipped Foster in the feature 60-yard dash in 6.1 seconds.

Gubner Sets Record; Title to St. John's

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gary Gubner of New York University set a meet record by winning the shotput at 59 feet in the Metropolitan indoor intercollegiate track meet here Saturday.

St. John's won the title for the first time in 22 years and thus ended Manhattan's 14-year streak as champions.

4:46.8 NOT A 'TYPO'

Cunningham Won't Forget Slowest Major Mile Ever

NEW YORK (UP) — In these days when sub four—minute miles are almost routine, 4:46.8 sounds more like walking time. But that time, involving three of the nation's best 23 years ago, produced one of the most thrilling of all mile races.

The race, the Columbian Mile in the Knights of Columbus Games at Madison Square Garden in March 1936, was recalled when Glenn Cunningham visited the scene of some of his greatest triumphs.

It was the windup of the 1936 indoor track season. Cunningham, America's premier miler of the decade, had been beaten consistently by Gene Venzke, of Penn, a stylish runner, and Joe Mangan of Cornell, a tough competitor. They would let Cunningham set a burning pace and then out-sprint him on the last lap.

* * * *

THE COLUMBIAN mile was billed as Cunningham's revenge, perhaps a world record. But it became the slowest major mile ever run.

Cunningham, instead of setting a fast pace, dropped in behind Venzke and Mangan. If they slowed down, Glenn slowed still more. The crowd booed as the runners jogged the first one-half mile. Venzke looked puzzled, Mangan confident.

GLENN CUNNINGHAM
Determined to Win

The speed from the half-mile mark to the three-quarter pole quickened but still Cunningham trailed. Then, like a jackrabbit from his native western Kansas the 1933 Sullivan Award winner cut loose. He quickly took the lead as the crowd roared.

Cunningham hit the tape several yards ahead of Mangan with Venzke staggering home third. And the time, 4:46.8, looked like a typographical error. Revenge? Yes, but far from a world record.

"I recall that race well," said Cunningham, who now devotes all his time to making a home for unfortunate children on his farm near Augusta, Kan.

* * * *

"I WAS determined to win this one and spent sometime on the West Coast just practicing sprints. I was ready for the race of my life though my fastest mile, 4:04.8, came two years later on the boards at Dartmouth."

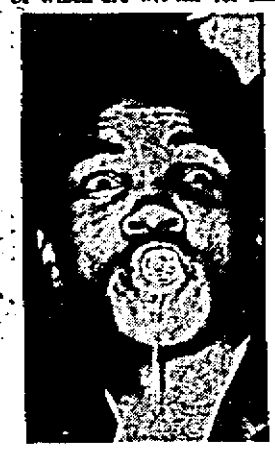

Once Over Lightly

Psychological Warfare

Cassius Clay deserves an award for breathing new life into a dying fight game, but instead will be cast in the role of the "villain" when he challenges champion Sonny Liston for the heavyweight title a week from Tuesday.

Clay, who just turned 22 last month, has built an "image" of a cocky youngster with questionable ability who reels off cornball poetry and trite little sayings—most of which are written for him—and refuses to take much advice from anyone.

CASSIUS CLAY
It's His Idea

But actually, he's a smart youngster who is aware of what he's doing every second.

The poetry has become a bit threadbare and some of his lines have become tedious, but it continues in high gear because it's all part of a well-planned campaign to get Liston's goat. Clay's needling of the champion has been going on now for well over a year.

In a serious moment when he was in Las Vegas last July for the Liston-Patterson bash, he told us that his needling "is what I call psychological warfare . . . and I won't let up on that big bear until the bell rings. Maybe not even then. I want him mad.

"Why? If you go back over his record, you can see that whenever he has gotten mad in the ring, he really flips. He starts missing and swinging wild. His timing goes off. He's done it in several of his fights.

"Everybody is judging Liston off his two quick wins over Patterson, but if I can get him to flipping his lid it will be a big advantage for me."

HENRY ARMSTRONG, THE immortal "triple crown" champ, agrees. Henry is one of the small group of observers who feels Clay has a "good chance" to beat Liston . . . "if he carries that ego into the ring with him and he doesn't freeze like Patterson did. Sonny is a good puncher, but Cassius is young, strong and unusually fast for a big man."

Armstrong was impressed with Clay the first time he saw him. That was in Miami two years ago when Cassius met Ingemar Johansson in their now-famous sparring session while the Swede was training for his third bout with Patterson. The session was halted in the second round with Johansson "out on his feet." They promptly requested Cassius to leave.

Anyway, the upcoming Liston-Clay match reminds Armstrong of his fight with Sugar Ray Robinson. "It was late in my career. I was getting old and I couldn't touch him. He was too fast and he had good legs. That's what Clay's got—and that could prove to be the decisive factor.

"Clay is 10 years younger if Sonny's age is correct, and Cassius also is taller, almost as heavy, has a good reach, is faster and can box. And he can hit hard enough so that it certainly isn't a hopeless situation if he just uses his head and doesn't freeze. That's important.

"Cassius is a worrisome puncher. He jabs and runs and that is going to get Liston even more provoked if the bout goes a few rounds. Sonny's going to try and finish him in a hurry. And if he doesn't, it should get interesting because I don't think he has much stamina for a long, hard fight."

LISTON HAS ENJOYED SOME of his "insult" sessions with Clay, up to a point. As long as they follow the "script" that Sonny has been able to memorize, everything has been all right. But Clay likes to drag 'em out and when the champ runs out of things to say, he gets irritated as Cassius prattles on.

Clay has learned just how far he can go . . . and when to let things drop. For instance, the "show" at the airport recently when Liston arrived in Miami was "staged", but suddenly got out of hand.

A friend in Miami close to the situation reveals that Sonny actually was in the mood to fight right then "in front of only a dozen people."

When Liston's plane pulled up to the ramp, Clay and his group, which includes a professional comedian who stooges for Cassius and "feeds him lines," were waiting. However, airline officials had an electric cart waiting to drive Sonny and his party to the opposite end of the airport.

When the cart pulled away, Clay and a half-dozen of his followers started to chase it, waving and shouting. The girl driving panicked and stopped the vehicle.

The last thing, of course, that Clay wanted to do was catch up . . . and when he saw it stop, he pulled up short and his friends piled into him like the cops in the old Mack Sennet comedies.

Liston growled to his trainer, Willie Reddish, "I think I'll bust him in half now." It was then that police were called to control the situation and to keep Sonny from "flipping his lid" right then.

AFTER THE PATTERSON FIGHT in Las Vegas last summer, Liston was asked if Cassius' remarks bothered him and he said . . . "the only thing that would irritate me about that guy is if he would sign to fight someone else before I get a crack at him."

However, Clay is getting to him. Sonny has been doing a slow burn for the last month and a half over some very personal comments by Cassius which definitely have "hit home."

And reports from Miami reveal that Liston has been getting more surely every day since arriving there and that's why his handlers are trying to keep Clay away from him. "I'm afraid if they got close, Sonny might go after him . . . and that's no build-up," Reddish says.

Sonny himself is calling this a "grudge fight" and declared recently that "I gotta whip that guy even if I have to do it in private. Even if it meant the ruin of boxing and even if I couldn't be champion any more, I still wouldn't let him last a second longer than I possible can."

So Liston is getting madder and madder. Whether this is good or bad for Clay remains to be seen. However, it's Cassius' own "idea!"

RIGNEY TO GREET 31 EARLY-BIRD ANGELS (INCLUDING BELINSKY)

By ROSS NEWHAN
I, P-T Staff Writer

PALM SPRINGS—It may not be enough to get the Beatles off page one, but the Angels do open spring training here Monday.

There will be no feminine shrieks greeting the Angels, only the rigid commands of manager Bill Rigney leading his fourth expeditionary force into the desert.

Thirty-one players (25 pitchers, six catchers) have been ordered to first formation Monday with the balance of the squad (20 infielders and outfielders) scheduled to report the following Monday, necessitating perhaps, for the first time, two-a-day drills.

The 51-man contingent (41 of whom are on the Angel roster, the other 10 being free agents) represents the largest working force ever to assemble at Angels Stadium here and is a far cry from the meager gathering of 35 which greeted Rigney in the pioneer year of 1961.

Only eight members of that original club will be present this spring as the Angels slowly begin to reap the harvest of their own farm system.

Rigney, who toured Virginia Country Club with George Brower, Jim Crooker, Rocky Bridges and Harold Parrott prior to his arrival here Saturday, sees many hazards dotting the 1964 fairway. Still, he wears the optimistic smile which is a baseball managers' spring trademark.

• • • •

"OUR GOAL IS A FIRST DIVISION berth," said Rigney, a seven-handicapper whose club was handicapped by injuries and Lee Thomas' prolonged slump into a ninth-place finis a last season.

"For the first time we'll have a camp where youth dominates and, for the first time, these youths will have been raised in our own organization rather than in the farm system of another major league club.

"This spring we'll be able to look for the complete player. In the past we've been satisfied with one whose specialty was either hitting or fielding. Now it's time to find men who can do the whole job."

The Beatles will be replaced by battles in the Angels' camp. They will be supplied by another quartet —four youths with the potential of the complete player.

• • • •

DICK SIMPSON, ED KIRKPATRICK, Bill Kelso and Bobby Knoop, who average in age 21 years and whose total major league experience is 43 games (37 by Kirkpatrick), promise to be the spring's headline makers.

Simpson, blessed with immense speed, and Kirkpatrick will battle for Leon Wagner's left field vacancy. Kelso, a $25,000 draft steal from the Dodgers, is the sleeper pick to win a spot on the Angels' 11-man pitching staff.

Knoop, as in cop, was drafted from Hawaii and is sending Billy Moran to third base in the spring's biggest experiment. Rigney, however, warned:

"I see Moran becoming another Jim Gilliam. Each spring there will be someone waiting to take his job but by October Moran will have played his 140 games." (Moran requested and received permission to report with the batterymen.)

• • • •

RIGNEY AND PITCHING COACH Marv Grissom will waste little time this week beginning the search for a fifth starting hurler. Kelso, Barry Latman, Aburey Gatewood, Fred Newman, Bob Lee, Don Lee and Mike Lee are among the applicants.

"Pitching-wise," explained Rigney, "our biggest concern is Ken McBride. He won only one of his last 13 starts, a fair indication that we better give him a full four days' rest from the very start."

Gene Autry and Bob Reynolds, whose baseball interests DID MAKE MONEY last season, returned the dividends to the players and thus it will be a satisfied, no-holdout squad which seeks to regain the spirit and dash of the third-place 1962 club.

It's off to an amazing start. Bo Belinsky reported two days early.

ANGEL ANGLES: Besides Moran, Jim Fregosi will also report with the earlybirds. . . . Jay Ackley has been given permission to report one week late in order to cleer ex personal business. . . . Sally Parker, who replaces Rocky Bridges, will handle the outfielders during spring training. . . . Tom Morgan will assist Grissom until the Angels' farm clubs open training in mid-March. . . . Angels Stadium, formerly the Polo Grounds, has been enlarged by the addition of 400 seats. . . . Traveling secretary Tommie Ferguson and assistant general manager Marvin Milkes have been here for several days working out details. . . . The Angels will again be housed at the Riviera Hotel. . . . Those players with families alone will live at the Lido. . . . Schoring has again furnished the Angels with blondes (the fashionable Sting Ray model) to pedal to and from sports. . . . The Angels open exhibition play March 7-8 with Chicago. . . . Long Beach's Bob Lemon, preparing for his managerial debut, is currently in Hawaii on a public relations tour. . . . The Islanders will train in India. . . . George Brower, whose dinner-baseball bus parties to Dodger Stadium have been immensely popular with the Pacific Avenue set in the past, reports he has no room left for the Angels opening night bash with Detroit. . . . Mayor Edythe Wade braved the loss of Dodgers' fans writes when he confides: "I've always been an American League fan."

TUCSON (UPI) — Dimple-chinned Jacky Cupit went five under par on the last five holes Saturday to shoot a 66 and take the third-round lead of the Tucson open golf tournament with a 54-hole score of 203 — 13 under-par for the distance.

The stocky Texan, now playing out of Corona, Calif., moved into a three-shot lead over Tommy Aaron who had a 206 total.

Friday's co-leaders, Bruce Devlin of Australia and Tex Baxter, were tied at 207 with tour rookies George Archer of San Francisco and Chuck Courtney of San Diego.

CUPIT, MOVING along one under par after 13 holes, finally caught on fire on the 14th to shoot five consecutive threes, including one eagle.

Cupit's wild finish in the brilliant sun at the 49er Country Club overshadowed a course record round of 64 set by Al Johnston of Montreal, Canada. Johnston had nines of 32-32 and now is tied at 210 with Al Geiberger and Joe Taylor.

Johnston hit 17 greens and had nine birdies against a single bogey. He chipped into the cup from 40 feet for one bird and had other birdie putts from 20, 15 and 10 feet among others.

Ortiz Gains TKO Over Elorde

MANILA (AP)—Carlos Ortiz of New York retained his world lightweight championship Saturday night on a 14th round technical knockout over Flash Elorde of Manila.

Referee James Wilson of Los Angeles raised Ortiz's hand in victory at 1:44 of the 14th round after the Puerto Rican-born champion had battered Elorde with several hard lefts and rights against the ropes.

The decision came as a surprise to the crowd of 60,000 at the outdoor Rizal football stadium.

But Wilson said: "If I had let it go on it would have been a knockout."

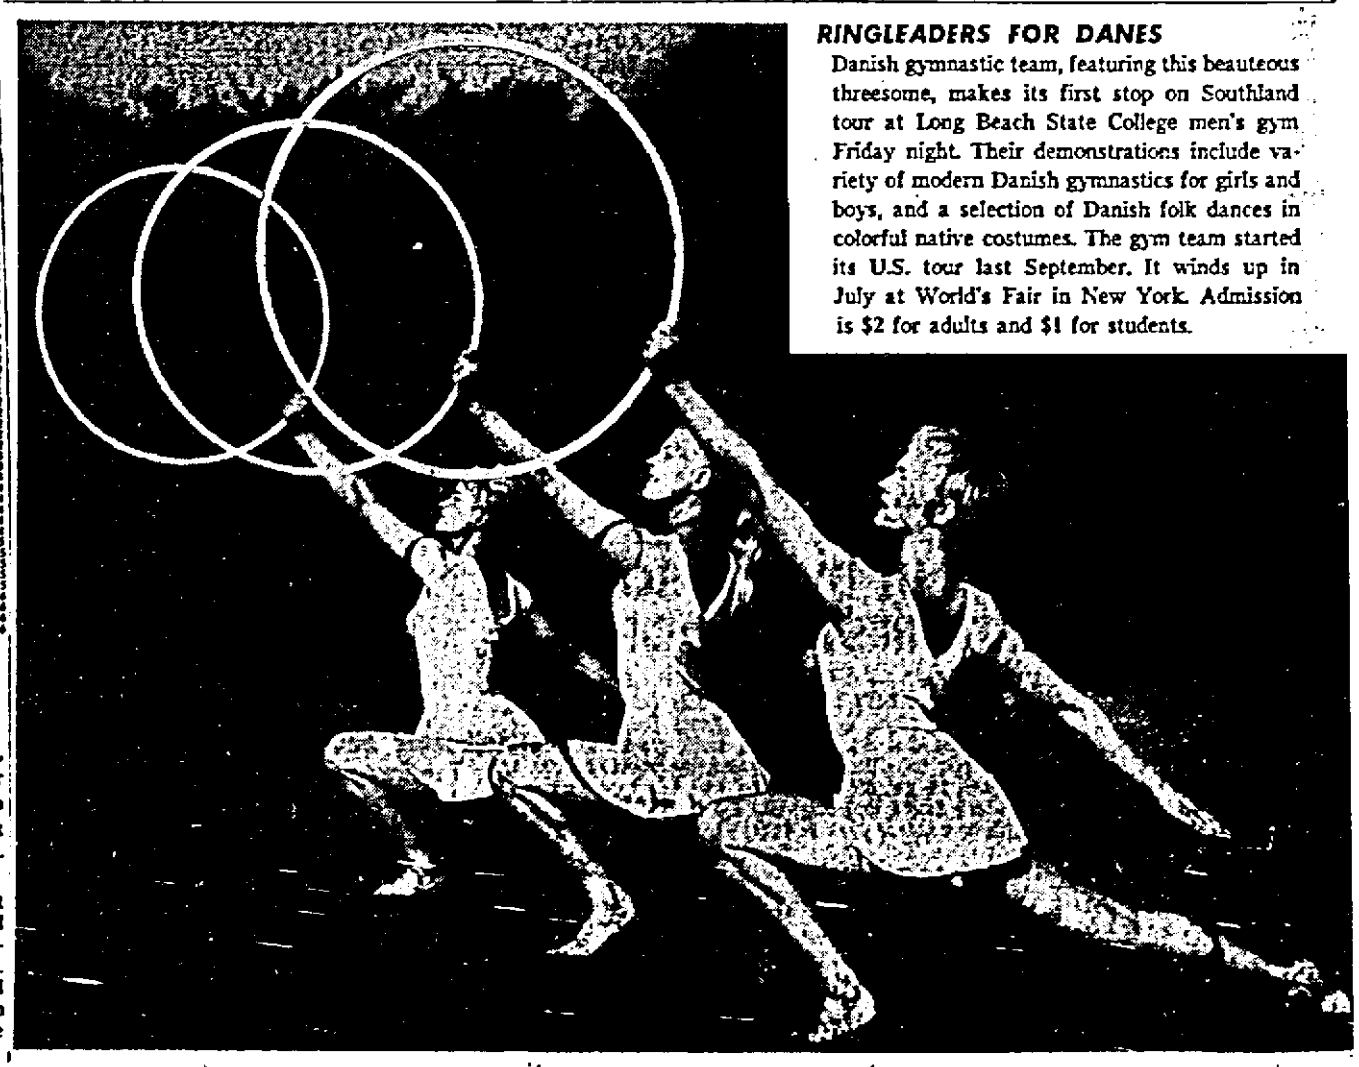

There were no knockdowns. Each man weighed 135 pounds, the lightweight limit.

Until the 14th, the fight seemed very close. The American champion was scoring well with swinging left jabs and powerful rights to the body.

But the Filipino challenger, who holds the world junior lightweight title, was also piling up points with deft counter-punching and a slashing in and out attack.

Ortiz was cut over the right eye in the second round and the wound was opened several times later in the fight.

A shocked silence pervaded the stadium after the decision was announced. There were no boos, however.

CIF Swimming Relays at Poly on Tuesday

Poly High will host the prelims of the CIF swimming relays Tuesday, starting at 2:30 p.m. Fifteen schools will compete in this, one of four sectional meets.

Top qualifiers, based on time, will go to the finals at El Segundo Friday. Teams competing at Poly are:

Downey, Chadwick, Poly, Wilson, Jordan, Millikan, Lakewood, Lynwood, Montebello, Norwalk, Palos Verde, Pioneer, Santa Fe, Victor Valley and Western.

Poly Eyes CIF Title in Track

Poly High's track team has lost only one dual meet in Moore League history, and that is exactly one more than anybody expects the Rabbits to lose this year—in league or out of it.

Coach Lee Forman is bubbling over his talented spikers and is the first to admit that, with normal progress and barring injuries, "we will have a good chance for the CIF title."

His optimism is based on two 9.9 sprinters, three 22 flat runners, one 50.9 quarter-miler, two 1:57.6 half-milers, a 14.2 and 19.0 hurdler, one 24-foot and two 23-foot long jumpers, 6-2 and 6-3 high jumpers and a potentially super relay team.

• • • •

IF THE RABBITS can show steady improvement on these marks, they will indeed be the team to beat in the CIF.

Decathlon champ Earl McCullough will be gunning to crack 14 and 19 seconds in the hurdles and already has cleared 6-2 in the high jump and 22-9 in the long jump.

CIF champ Marv Motley is back in the long jump (24-3½) and Manuel Murrell (23-7½) could hit the 24-foot mark. Fred Muench is a 9.9 and 21.3 sprinter, Larry Freeman a 6-3 high jumper and Al Nichols a 1:57.5 half-miler. Rich Anderson has done 1:57.6.

All Moore League schools figure to be improved, thus precipitating a wide-open battle for second place.

• • • •

OTHER TOP individuals include high jumpers Pat Finley (6-3½) and Jim Keck (6-2), pole vaulter Don Blair (12-10), shotputter Hal Olmstead (54-0), miler Chuck Webb (4:28.2), half-milers Rob Russell (1:59.5) and Ralph Spicer (1:59.5), quarter-miler Jim Buck (50.7) and sprinter Steve Harvey (10.0, 21.7). Millikan Picked to Win Tough Moore Baseball

By DOUG IVES

Gazing deep into our crystal (base) ball, we find that high school teams here will be better than ever, and that a new champion looms on the horizon.

Admittedly, the message we're receiving is fuzzy, but it says that Millikan will, by the narrowest of margins, nip Lakewood and Poly for the Moore League title.

We also see a note attached that urges us to reserve the right of re-appraisal after the practice season — or even at mid-season if our early evaluation becomes embarrasing.

The hazard of picking a champion in the always-close Moore League race nothwithstanding, Millikan appears to have the pitching and hitting strength, plus the experience, to make it a winner over the long, 15-game season.

• • • •

COACH BOB MYERS has 10 lettermen, an outstanding pitcher in Mike Mantsch, two all-city returnees in Jay Bartley and Steve Lewelling and experience at every position except shortstop.

Pitching depth always is important in the Moore League, and the Rams have this in veterans Denny Moulton and Jeff Davis. And there are other hurling candidates that show promise, also.

If Millikan does win it all, it would end four consecutive years of frustration which has seen the Rams finish in third place, one notch from gaining a CIF playoff berth.

Lakewood and Poly should be nipping at the Rams' heels, however; Wilson could do the same if its pitching comes through; Jordan should be improved, but not to the point where it's a title contender; and Downey faces a rebuilding year.

• • • •

DEFENDING league and CIF champion Poly has a sensational trio returning in shortstop Ike McCraw, outfielder Oscar Brown and pitcher Bob Wiswell, but no proven talent after that.

The nucleus is there to make the Hares a title threat, however McCraw was Player of the Year in 1963, Brown was an all-CIF first teamer (as was McCraw) and Wiswell didn't lose a game (9-0).

Lakewood boasts eight lettermen and experience at every position except one. This includes talented pitcher Jim Strickland, power-hitting catcher Bob Schellenberg and .309-hitter Rod Gaspar.

Wilson can match anybody in hitting, with John McKee, Randy Norton and Pat Cashman, among others, leading the way, but it is pitching that probably will decide the Bruins' fate.

• • • •

JORDAN finished last in 1963, but nine lettermen should get the Panthers out of the doldrums. Downey, last year's runner-up, is in dire straits, having graduated every starter.

Long Beach's Catholic League representative, St. Anthony, figures to be a title threat with five lettermen, including hard-throwing veteran hurler Mike Small.

On an individual basis, pitchers Wiswell, Strickland, Mantsch and Small should give Long Beach prepsters plenty of notoriety. All four are being bird-dogged by major league scouts.

Millikan's Bartley and Poly's Brown finished 1-2 in the Moore batting race, and vice-versa on the full season. McCraw, McKee and Lewelling also were consistently good hitters last year.

• • • •

THERE WILL BE two new coaches — Paul Pettit at Jordan and Steve Hartman at St. Anthony to join Myers, Bill Crutchfield at Wilson, Ardie Boyd at Lakewood, John Herbold at Poly and Phil Jones at Downey.

All clubs either scrimmage or start their practice slates this week. Here's a rundown on each team, listing lettermen, other varsity candidates and 1963 batting and pitching marks:

NCAA, Preps Rap Friday TV by NFL

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association went on record Saturday against television of professional football games on Friday nights during the 1964 season.

The National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations also urged a coordinated, vigorous protest by the group's 20,111 members.

The NCAA sent a telegram to all members of the Judiciary Committee of the U.S. Senate to check whether the intention of the National Football League to televise five or six Friday night games was a violation of the Federal Antitrust Law passed in 1961.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

Railroad Canyon Opens This Month

Don Martin, operator of Railroad Canyon Lake, announces that fishing will start Feb. 29, and that the lake has a good population of bass, crappie, bluegill and catfish.

This is the lake which Metropolitan Water District water is flowing on its way to Lake Elsinore, which will be opened to boaters sometime in April. Electronic fish screens are keeping straying fish from going down stream to Elsinore, so Martin says there is no problem in that field.

Fishing permits will be one dollar per day per person. There are 75 boats available at three dollars a day and a few motors at five dollars a day. Launching fee for a private boat is two dollars, but no motors larger than 10 horsepower will be allowed.

There is a modern trailer park and a campground, situated next to a store, bait, tackle, gasoline and ice.

Railroad Canyon Lake is 28 miles southeast of Corona and five miles above the town of Elsinore.

The Martins are taking reservations for the opening weekend and other days beyond that. Write Railroad Canyon Lake Resort, Route 1, Box 61, Romoland, Calif. The telephone number is Elsinore 674-2725.

LONG BEACH CASTING CLUB'S midwinter tournament goes into its second and final day this morning with a Cyril Ball-John Frank breakfast at 7:30 a. m. The dry fly for accuracy begins at 9 a. m., to be followed by skish fly and wet fly for accuracy. The two bait accuracy events and the skish spinning and bait accuracy will wind up the tournament in the afternoon.

The tournament started Saturday with the distance events.

If you want to brush up on your casting or see how it's done by experts, go to the pool in Recreation Park on Federation Drive just E. 7th Street. There is no charge and visitors are welcomed.

Pacific Landing did some goodwill work on St. Valentine's Day (Friday) by letting sweethearts and wives ride free with their men on fishing trips to offshore banks and to Catalina Island.

It's later than you think; San Diego is starting its search for a Yellowtail Derby queen. The 18th annual derby starts March 31. The contestants for queen must be 17 or older and the winner will be selected March 5 at the San Diego Armed Services YMCA.

The Long Beach Yacht Club Anglers have a second meeting on Wednesday night, Feb. 19, and chairman Don Callan promises some surprises for his newest of fishing clubs in Southern California.

BILL BUCKNAM, KLAMATH RIVER expert, reports that steelhead were running like crazy in the Scott River and in the Klamath above and below the Scott up through Feb. 12.

Bill says that the fish were fat and of good size. Mixed in the runs were numerous silver salmon.

However, anglers must take into consideration that weather conditions up north could change the situation overnight. That is one of the reasons why I often hesitate to write about salmon and steelhead. If you have contacts in the north, telephone just before you plan to leave and watch the weather forecasts.

Bill writes that a guide service for the Klamath is being developed. Dick Sturgill, of Rogue River fame, has been licensed for the Klamath. Jim Roads, at Happy Camp, and Al Kutzkey, at Hornbrook, are doing excellent jobs in drift-fishing.

Sturgill will guide at Bigfoot Ranch Lodge, which is Putnam's territory.

Bill also writes that the Siskiyou County Board of Supervisors is considering the possibility of constructing an air strip near Bigfoot which would be adequate for small planes.

Nobody gave much of a thought to this part of the Klamath until Iron Gate Dam was completed. That regulated the water fluctuations and made it possible to float-fish that part of the river for the first time.

REVIEWING NEW OUTDOOR BOOKS, we find that Dover Publications, Inc., 180 Varick St., New York, 14, N. Y., has put three paperbacks (all reissues) on the market. One is "Our Small Native Animals: Their Habits and Care," which refutes many fallacies about snakes. The author is Robert Snedigar, curator of reptiles, etc., at Chicago Zoological Park.

Another is William (Cap'n Bill) Gould Vinal's "Nature Recreation: Group Guidance for the Out-of-Doors." It's good reading. The third is Ernest Thompson Seton's "Two Little Savages," an exciting adventure story of two boys who built a teepee in the woods and lived in it for a month.

J. Lowell Pratt & Co., 15 E. 48th St., New York 17, N. Y., announces the publication of four paperbacks in an entirely new series, Compact Outdoorsman's Library, under the general editorship of Ray Ovington.

The books are "The Compact Book of Hunting," edited by Jim Rikhoff, who tells when and where to hunt in America.

"The Compact Book of Boating," edited by Jack Seville, and it is a book that has a wealth of boating information;

"The Compact Book of Photography," edited by Ray Ovington, is valuable to cameramen, professional or otherwise, and

"The Sompact Book of Fresh-Water Fishing," edited by Bob Zwirz, and there are some wonderful chapters in it.

NEW EXPERIENCE FOR SENIOR SAM SNEAD

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—Sam Snead, who has won more than 100 golf tournaments in his long career as a golf professional, is due for a new experience this week.

SNEAD

The balding belter from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. and Boca Raton, Fla. will make his debut in a tournament where many of his 419 rivals can call him son without sounding patronizing.

It is the 25th PGA Seniors Championship—the big one for pros 50 and older—to be played Thursday through Sunday at the new PGA National Golf Club at Palm Beach Gardens, Fla. Snead became eligible in May, 1962, but didn't enter last year's tournament.

At least two in the entry list aren't likely to be worried about Snead's first appearance. They are Jimmy Demaret, who has faced Sam in more than one head-to-head encounter, and tall John Barnum of Belmont, Mich., who beat Snead recently in the PGA National Golf Club Championship on the same course.

The winner of the $30,000 tournament will receive $2,500 top money, the Teacher Trophy and an expense-paid trip to Great Britain to play the British senior pro champion for the international senior title.

Foyt Easy Victor in Challenge Cup

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A. J. Foyt drove to one of the easiest victories of his auto racing career when he took the 250-mile American Challenge Cup by more than three laps Saturday.

It was like a Sunday spin for 28-year-old Foyt of Houston, Tex., in his Chevrolet-powered Scarab-Mecom after Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif., went out at the halfway point because of mechanical trouble in his Lotus Ford.

Foyt averaged 106.190 miles per hour for 66 laps around a 3.81-mile course. He earned $5,500.

• • • •

ABLE TO slack off after Gurney left, Foyt went the distance without a pit stop.

"It got a little lonely out there," he joked.

Until Gurney went out, he and Foyt alternated the lead 16 times officially and dozens more times as they gave the crowd of 8,000 thrill after thrill with their jockeying around hairpin turns of the infield.

These two were the class of the race in their low slung open cockpit sports type cars — Foyt's a distinctive blue and Gurney's a bright red.

1. A. J. Foyt, Houston, Scarab, 106.19; 2. Gurney (Fireball) Roberts, Daytona Beach, Ford Fairlane Sprint; 3. Ed Negre, Pittsburgh, Lotus 23; 4. Charles Kurtz, Clearfield, Pa., Porsche RS-61; 5. 150-Plus Vie at Strip in Drag Main

Week-days, officer Gary Cagle, 30, is in charge of finger-printing in the Vernon Police Department but, today, weekend drag racer Cagle will tool the world's fastest and quickest fuel roadster in the big roadster-coupe meet at Lions Drag Strip.

The Chrysler-powered Cagle-Newhouse Special not only claims the world mark (8.50 sec. elapsed time at 184.42 m.p.h.) but holds the roadster records on nine western strips and state records on four—California, Utah, Nevada and Idaho.

Cagle's home-built speedster is a favorite to take class honors, but more than 150 cars, including a score of fuel dragsters will go in a dozen categories.

Gates at the 223rd St. raceway will open at 9 a.m. with elimination from 1:30 to 5:30 p.m., said C. J. Hart, director.

Foes of Oil Depletion Tax Law Gain

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The latest Senate skirmish over oil's controversial 27½ per cent depletion tax allowance ended with a net gain of two votes for those opposing the 38-year-old measure.

The new 57-35 vote upholding the allowance is a bit deceiving when compared with the 50-23 vote cast during the crucial Senate test in 1962.

Most of the gains made by both sides came from votes cast by holdover Senators who were absent or did not vote in 1962 even though their positions on the matter were well known at the time.

Four Senators switched positions last week without changing the overall Senate lineup in that two switched from each side.

• • • •

THE ONLY significant change resulting from the new vote involved the 13 Senators who were casting their first votes on the controversy.

The new Senators were split, 7-6, in favor of retaining the full 27½ per cent allowance but the net result of the 13 votes was a two-vote gain for the opposition.

These same 13 seats had been split, 9-4, two years ago when the overall Senate lineup was 66-34.

• • • •

THESE CHANGES, plus the known sentiments of the eight Senators who did not vote last week, reduced full depletion's overall edge to 64-36.

Even in defeat, however, Senator Paul Douglas, D-Ill., saw his plan for a graduated reduction to 15 per cent poll a record 35 votes.

In previous sessions, the Douglas plan had polled 31 votes in 1958, 21 in 1959, 30 in 1960, and 23 in 1962.

The four who switched positions between 1962 and 1964 were Senators Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., Hugh Scott, R-Pa., Hiram L. Fong, R-Hawaii, and Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass.

McCarthy and Scott voted for the full 27½ per cent after having voted with Douglas two years ago. Fong and Saltonstall switched to the graduated reduction plan after having voted against Douglas in 1962.

• • • •

THE FOUR NEW Senators who added strength to the Douglas camp were Democrats who had succeeded Republicans — Senators Daniel B. Brewster, D-Md., Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., George S. McGovern, D-S.D., and Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn.

The two new members who added to full depletion's strength were Senators Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, and Herbert S. Walters, D-Tenn.

The Douglas amendment would have permitted the full 27½ per cent for gross incomes below $1 million but would have made graduated reductions down to 15 per cent for gross incomes in excess of $5 million.

Depletion tax allowances are available to more than 100 minerals and metals but only oil and gas are permitted the maximum 27½ per cent. In any case, however, the allowance cannot exceed 50 per cent of net income.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Corporate Financing Plan of AT&T a Record

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The biggest corporate financing program in U.S. history took the business spotlight last week.

It was undertaken by American Telephone and Telegraph Co., which turned to its family of 2.25 million stockholders to raise $1,225,000,000.

The company offered its shareholders the opportunity of purchasing 12,250,000 shares at $100 each. This was $46 below the market price on the day the offer was made.

Each shareholder received the right to purchase one new share for each 20 held.

• • • •

TRADING IN the rights—20 are needed to purchase one share — began on the New York Stock Exchange Wednesday with 3,375,000 changing hands.

American Telephone's common stock surged to a new all-time high.

It helped the general stock market, as measured by the averages, reach a new historic peak.

The magnitude of AT&T's money raising undertaking is illustrated by that fact that all common stock financing in 1962 totaled $1.3 billion.

AT&T will use the proceeds of its stock offer to help finance a $3.25 billion 1964 growth and modernization program for its telephone system.

Also in the communications field, the Communications Satellite Corp. reported that six companies had answered its request to submit proposals for designing an international commercial satellite.

• • • •

AT&T AND Radio Corp. of America submitted a joint proposal. Thompson Ramo Woolridge, Inc.'s proposal included International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. as principal subcontractor. Individual proposals were submitted by Hughes Aircraft Co. and Ford Motor Co.'s Philco Corp. subsidiary.

Business and individuals were encouraged by the progress being made toward enactment of the income tax reduction legislation.

Different versions of the bill have been passed by the House and Senate, and conferees from both bodies are trying to reconcile differences.

House spokesman agreed to go along with the Senate on reducing the tax withholding from the present 18 per cent to 14 per cent in one step, quickly after action is completed on the bill.

• • • •

THE ADMINISTRATION says this would pump about $800 million into the economy this year and go a long ways toward keeping business on the upturn.

The Department of Commerce reported that the U.S. balance of payments improved further in the fourth quarter of 1963. The quarterly deficit was the smallest in years.

For the year as a whole the United States had a deficit of $3.02 billion. This included an especially high deficit in the first half and a sharp reduction in the second half.

In the second half, the deficit was at an annual rate of $1.6 billion, the lowest since the balance of payments began to be a serious problem in 1958.

• • • •

REASONS GIVEN by the Commerce Department for the improvement were reduced net purchases of foreign securities and a spurt in exports, particularly agricultural products to both Communist and non-Communist countries.

The Commerce Department also reported that inventories rose only slightly in December from November and that total business sales climbed to a record.

Theologian Dies

ROME (UPI)—Father Reginald Garrigou-Lagrange, a leading Catholic theologian, died Saturday at the age of 81. The Dominican prelate had been a teacher of sacred theology at the St. Thomas Acquinas Pontifical University here for more than 50 years.

GLEASON--McQUEEN

Poles Apart but Screen Buddies

CHRIS NOEL provides the love interest for Steve McQueen in "Soldier in the Rain."

HOLLYWOOD — Off-the-screen, Steve McQueen and Jackie Gleason don't have too much in common. But they're teamed as buddies in Allied Artists' "Soldier in the Rain."

The first and obvious difference — the story goes—is that after meeting McQueen, Gleason walked into Producer Black Edwards' office and as though personally affronted gasped huskily:

"McQueen doesn't drink!"

• • • •

McQueen tipples grape juice, eats health foods, is tanned, lithe, strong, and cat-quick.

Gleason has the feeding habits of a Diamond Jim Brady. He never bends over unless there's a pool table under him, and hasn't seen his toes while supported by his feet in years.

McQueen was a Missouri farm boy. He has been an oil driller, a logger, a Marine tank driver-mechanic with "the only souped-up job in the outfit," and a professional racing driver. Next to his wife and two children, his great loves are fast cars and motorcycles.

GLEASON, Brooklyn's child, has been a carnival barker, a medicine-show spieler, and a burlesque and night-club comic. Self-educated, he reads everything, writes scripts and music, conducts orchestras and paints for a hobby.

Gleason laughs at the "method" cult of acting. McQueen sat at the feet of its high priest, Lee Strasberg, of the famed Actors' Studio.

CHANGED HER LIFE

He Razzed Her, She Fell for Him

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Movie actor George Peppard changed Elizabeth Ashley's whole life when he said to her, "Lady, you're not a bad-looking girl . . . for a boy."

"It was last June, the second day of 'The Carpetbaggers,' when he dropped that one," Liz told me a few nights ago.

"He was right. It was the first time I'd ever thought about it and I gave it a really serious think. I was dressing severely. I was looking like a charming 14-year-old boy.

ASHLEY

I was pretending I have no bosom. I HAVE a bosom! I bought a bikini. Now I love being a woman."

Besides falling in love with Peppard after he'd said that, Liz became such a triumph in "Barefoot in the Park," and attracted such attention for her femininity that . . . but listen to her via my tape recorder.

• • • •

"IT'S REALLY a bit much to have people writing about me like I'm a homewrecker or going to replace Elizabeth Taylor as a sex symbol," she said with almost a giggle.

"There are times when you really believe you are the most devastating creature ever let loose in civilization, but you wake up next morning and look in the mirror and say, 'You know, I don't think I'm going to give Sophia Loren one minute's worry.'"

Q: Do people still say you look like Audrey Hepburn?

A: People will ALWAYS say I look like Audrey Hepburn. Because we both wear our eyes on a slant and because I concealed my bosom since the fashion magazines loved me for it.

Q: You were living some kind of pose then?

• • • •

A: I DEVELOPED about 10 personalities I could do off the cuff. I lived my life like I was written by Hemingway or Truman Capote, and, God forbid, I think there were times James Baldwin wrote me. And it never came to me what I was doing until George Peppard told me that I wasn't a bad looking girl if I just acted like it.

Q: You didn't really break up his home?

A: No! I had been separated from my husband two months and he'd been separated for a year before we ever laid eyes on each other.

Q: Do you know if or when you're going to get married?

A: No. I do know I'm terribly happy. I'm very sort of faithful. It's miserable, though, with George's work out in Hollywood, and mine here, and us only seeing each other every few weeks.

• • • •

Q: DO YOU consider yourself an "overnight success"?

A: NO! You could give them a big hit when people say that! I'd worked for four years. I was in a Broadway flop, "The Highest Tree," and "Roman Candle," also a bomb, and off Broadway, besides waiting tables and checking hats from one end of Greenwich Village to the other.

Q: What'll you do next?

A: I must do a serious play. I must stick my neck out, I must do something I don't know whether I can do. I've got to stretch now. I've got to really stretch.

FAMILY-SIZE HIT AT MAGNOLIA

Comedy 'Tailored' to Talbot

By SAMUEL A. BOYEA

A fine cast, headed by Lyle Talbot, made a family-size hit of Henry and Phoebe Ephron's "Take Her, She's Mine" at the Magnolia capacity audience opening Friday night.

A bitter-sweet tale of a Number One daughter going away to college, this two-act comedy neatly fits the wholesome, teeveespun talent of Talbot. Using his family and anyone who strays into his domain as "straightmen" or perfect foils, Talbot as the ever-ambitious father, Frank Michaelson, literally Jack-Bennys his way through the vehicle. The left-shoulder shrug, the limp wrist and the bland narration are all there.

And properly so.

• • • •

"TAKE HER, She's Mine" is a personality rather than a character comedy. Clever surface playing gives zest to its' abundance of clever lines. But in-depth playing would have exposed its rather loose construction and the tendency of the authors—obviously movie writers—to depend on the curious camera eye rather than on the introspective treatment more akin to the stage.

But playwrights Ephrons were not treating the abrasive passions of our times, so why quibble?

When Sandra Church (Molly) leaves her Los Angeles home for a women's college with a good men's location—Hawthorne (surrounded by Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth, and Princeton)—we expect the usual heartaches of parents left behind and of a daughter who must run the traditional gauntlet of "growing away" from home. Sandra Church, a young actress with the fresh, Ivy League look, is just right for the part as she bounces her way through disarmament, first weekends, and "virginity retained." She is a good, young actress, not given to nuances, but such achievements come with more experience.

As her ever-understanding mother hoping for Sandra's big catch of a Harvard husband, Kathy Davis is her usual competent self in a part which does not begin to test her major talents. Lana Biggs (Liz Michaelson), as the neglected younger sister, is still a little blase for one so young, but continues to grow as a young actress. If she would only emotionalize more and intellectualize less!

• • • •

THE PLAY abounds in clever "bit" parts. Our old friend, John McMillen, is devastatingly funny as the poet-teacher, Mr. Hibbets, interpreting for his class the poetry of a Dylan Thomas-like Liam McTigue who believes in "life, death and an installment due." Ivan Bonar is fine as the infuriated father of the "homesteed" boy, (Emmett (Sean Morgan) who tries to match the romantic ardour of Molly's Ivy League dates by "dating" under the name of Mr. and Mrs. John Keats in a Beverly Hills hotel. Morgan plays his difficult part with verve.

But most sustained supporting role is turned in by tall Catherine Crews as Sarah, the "avant-garde" girl who tells the ardent freshmen: Be careful, or you'll knock out my contact lenses. She is a natural "needling" comedienne.

Pat Brown, using flashbacks, quick blackouts and good technical men in Perry Barrett (sound) and Jack Cuppock (lights), keeps things moving swiftly—a great need in a rather contrived second act which almost succumbs to one sequence dangerously called "The Sleeping Pill."

Toughest Rights Bill Faces Senate Row

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
United Press International

The House passed the toughest civil-rights bill in American history last week after a North-South fight that was remarkably bloodless.

The overwhelming 290 to 130 bipartisan vote shifted the issue to the Senate where a wall of Southern Democratic resistance could dam it up and stop the wheels of Congress.

The measure contains most of the provisions Negroes and other staunch civil rights advocates long have sought —fair employment opportunities, equal access to hotels, restaurants and other public accommodations, federal protection of voting rights, power for the Department of Justice to start desegregation suits, etc.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON hailed it as "an historic step in the cause of human dignity." He hoped the same spirit of bipartisanship would prevail in the Senate. But the Senate has different ground rules.

There the powerful Southern bloc has the privilege of unlimited debate. The members already have formed relay teams to talk the bill into eternity. This puts it up to the Senate leadership to let them talk or gag them with a distasteful cloture rule.

The House bill covers nearly all the rights proposals made by the late President John F. Kennedy and endorsed by President Johnson. It is certain to be a pivotal issue in the general election campaign and could be decisive in whether the South turns its back on Johnson.

The President observed Lincoln's birthday by placing a wreath in Lincoln Memorial and urging all Americans to fulfill the promise and unfinished work of the great emancipator. This, he said, is "to assure a fair chance and equal opportunity for all men."

THE RUSSIAN HIERARCHY got a severe jolt when it was disclosed belatedly that Yuri I. Nosenko, secret police agent with the Soviet disarmament delegation at Geneva, had defected to the United States.

The 36-year-old Nosenko is believed to possess top secret data on Soviet nuclear weapons, defense plans and disarmament strategy. He was said to have used this information in bargaining for political asylum.

Dispatches from Moscow said Soviet officials had accused the United States of kidnaping Nosenko. Earlier they had charged Swiss authorities with conniving with foreign agents to engineer Nosenko's disappearance and had demanded his return. Swiss officials replied with angry denials and a warning about diplomatic relations.

Still later Soviet authorities asked the State Department for permission to interview the young defector and also for information on how he came into U. S. hands. The department said Nosenko was "agreeable" to an interview and that it would take place "somewhere in the United States at an early date." American officials will be present. This is a normal practice.

THE DEPARTMENT discounted Moscow reports that the Kremlin would recall its disarmament delegation if Nosenko was not surrendered. Nosenko vanished from his Geneva hotel Feb. 4. The department said he had asked for sanctuary before that date. He is married and has two children.

President Johnson slapped at "bigots, alarmists, bellyachers and critics" of his foreign and domestic policies in two addresses, the first to Internal Revenue field officers in Washington, the second at the 200th birthday anniversary of St. Louis.

He conceded some errors at ome and abroad but said he had seen times when "the skies were grayer."

"Regardless of what you hear and regardless of what some of the bellyachers say," he declared in his Washington speech, "we are a much beloved people throughout the world." He added that foreign policy was not a one-way street.

IN ST. LOUIS he denounced "twisted arguments that would damage the good name of our country" and added that Americans can be confident that those who distort the truth to alarm the people will not fulfill their ambition."

Much of his criticism was aimed at Republican president aspirants and members of Congress who blasted his administration in Lincoln Day speeches from coast to coast.

On another political front, University of Illinois classicsist Revilo P. Oliver, a John Birch Society leader, wrote in a Birch publication that Americans would learn to "curse" the late President Kennedy. He said Kennedy was assassinated because "he fell behind the Communist time-table for taking over the U.S." Robert W. Welch, founder of the society, praised the article as "a superb commentary."

On other news fronts the President took steps to put the garrison on the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, on a strict military basis. All dependents—about 3,000—will be brought home gradually. Several thousand Cuban workers on the base also are being fired.

The action followed Communist Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's order cutting off the base's water supply in reprisal for the seizure of four Cuban boats illegally fishing in U.S. waters.

The Navy is ferrying in ample water supplies and no longer will rely on the Cuban source. This deprives Castro of sorely needed dollars as well as dismissal of the Cuban workers.

A UPI dispatch from New York said Organization of American States investigators had found Cuba guilty on four counts of aggression against Venezuela, confirming charges made by Venezuelan President Betancourt.

British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home and the President wound up two days of talks in Washington with a communique which pointedly omitted mention of British and other allied trade with Castro. Though Johnson is trying to topple Castro with an economic blockade, Britain and France persist in selling Cuba buses and trucks to revive its crippled transport system.

• • • •

JOHNSON STRESSED to Home the subversive and disruptive influence of the Castro regime throughout Latin America. The Prime Minister told a press conference before departing for London that Britain must trade to survive. Hence, he said, it not only is prepared to increase its trade with Castro but will extend long-term credits to Russia, also counter to U.S. policy.

Home said his government believes "comfortable" Communists are less dangerous than lean Communists. But he said Castro would not get British arms, economic aid, or loans. "We don't believe in boycotts. We don't discriminate in our trade according to political creed," he said.

Aside from this, the Johnson-Home talks apparently were harmonious and dealt extensively with world trouble spots and how to attain peace.

The President sent Congress a special message calling once again for medical care for the aged, financed through Social Security. "There is no need or room for second class health services," he said. Fees of personal physicians would not be covered. The bill is dammed up by lack of a few votes in the House Ways and Means Committee.

• • • •

JOHNSON ALSO ordered government contractors to end hiring discrimination because of age except when qualifications fall short or rigid retirement plans ban such work. He said "older workers are an indispensable source of productivity and experience which our nation can ill afford to lose."

Senate and House agents working out a compromise $11.6 billion tax-cut bill came to quick agreement on lowering the withholding tax rate to 14 percent. This could mean more take-home pay for most Americans by March 1 if the bill is passed, as planned, late this month.

Johnson continued pushing his war on poverty and revealed that R. Sargent Shriver, head of the Peace Corps and also in charge of the anti-poverty campaign, will attend future cabinet meetings. Shriver's stature has been increasing coincident with reports the President may choose him as his running mate in the presidential election.

• • • •

NATIONALIST CHINA broke diplomatic relations with France—apparently under French pressure—after President Charles de Gaulle extended diplomatic recognition to Red China. President Johnson is bitterly opposed to DeGaulle's action, fearing it could lead to the spread of Communist influence in East Asia and possibly Africa. De Gaulle would "neutralize" the whole East Asian area where France once wielded great influence.

Anglo-American efforts to end bloody Greek-Turkish civil strife on the island of Cyprus by sending in a peace force, collapsed. Cyprus President Archbishop Makarios said he would seek United Nations Security Council action. This would give Russia a foothold in the dispute—exactly what the U.S. and Britain have been trying to avoid.

At Dallas, Tex., a judge directed that the trial of Jack Ruby, night club entrepreneur who shot and killed Lee Harvey Oswald, the alleged assassin of President Kennedy, be held in Dallas. The defense and prosecution had argued over whether an impartial jury could be chosen in Dallas, site of the assassination last Nov. 22. Oswald's mother testified here in Washington last week before the presidential commission investigating the assassination. She said she believed her son was innocent.

Brazil Buys Belgium Arms

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Brazil army officials were reported Saturday to have contracted for the purchase of $50 million worth of Belgian armaments.

Rio de Janeiro's Independent newspaper Jornal do Brasil said that newsmen were excluded from the contract signing ceremony by an army colonel who said that it was a "secret matter." The first shipment to Brazil, said Jornal, would consist of 50,000 rifles.

ROSICRUCIAN TEACHINGS
GIVE KEY TO SECRETS

Rosicrucian Mysticism
In Modern Form

Rosicrucian Order, AMORC, which produced some of the world's greatest Masters, is today a dynamic, vital force in the lives of thousands of persons. In it's private teachings it preserves the ancient wisdom that was fostered by the Pyramid builders of Ancient Egypt.
With a knowledge of Cosmic laws & mystical principles you can change the course of your life & attract SUCCESS, HEALTH & HAPPINESS & a development of mental foresight that will be both satisfying & rewarding.
The official Rosicrucian teachings are never sold in books. You may however, write for a free book called "The Mastery of Life" in which the strange story of the Rosicrucians is told & full particulars given as to how you may have their private teachings. Address: Scribe I.T.L. Rosicrucian Order, AMORC, San Jose, Calif.

DEAR JOHN:
How does one start a letter like this? How does one say she's found happiness beyond her wildest imagination—she's discovered a life so luxurious—so fantastic! Well, honestly John, I've found a place where the apts. have lush carpeting, beautiful furnishings, maid service, original oil paintings—and 6, yes 6 heated POOLS—a tennis court—and a nearby golf course. And John, there are 4 quadrangles—one with Oriental landscaping—another in New England—one in Polynesian . . . and the other in Mediterranean—and what a swinging bunch of neighbors who live in the penthouse & garden apts.—So you can understand why I must write this—On 2nd thought, John, why don't you get an apt. here? Rents start at $140 per mo. . . and you'll be close to Douglas, or any place you work . . . It only takes me a few minutes to get home. Oh yes, John, I'm living in the HUNTINGTON GARDEN APTS., on Heil & Bolsa Chica in Huntington Beach . . . Come see me. ALWAYS, MARY

Realtor of the Week

BARBARA MOSS

Barbara Moss, well known in Real Estate Circles throughout California and the Nation, has been appointed to serve on the Educational Committee of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, as well as Educational Chairman for 1964, for the Long Beach Board of Realtors. She has lectured in 25 states on Real Estate Board Operations, setting up Multiple Listing Services as far south as Hawaii, and last year was on the California Real Estate Association's State-Wide Seminar talking to over 10,000 in the northern part of Calif. on "Listings—The Lifeblood of a Salesman." She was Executive Director with the Long Beach Board of Realtors for twenty-three years and during that time was appointed manager of the Better Homes Shows held by the Realty Board, where over 100,000 citizens each year viewed programs on homes, appliances, building construction in the years of 1933, 1945, 1948 and 1952. But with all of these far-flung activities she maintains her own offices and specializes in selling Commercial, Residential Exchanges and Business Investments. Even gone as far as handling the development of two subdivisions. Her sales personnel are well trained, because she has sponsored a 60-day IN THE FIELD TRAINING PROGRAM within her sales office.

Her offices are located at 500 E. 4th and she is associated with Harold K. Steele. Their firm is known as Steele & Moss Enterprises, Realtors. She is a member of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers, L. B. Chamber of Commerce, Long Beach Advertising Club. She has two lovely daughters, Karen who will be of voting age this month, and Jenn who is a "song and flag girl" at L. B. City College. All three are natives of California.

They Love Us in Australia

(Editor's Note—To Americans wearied by attacks in varied spots around the globe, the welcome mat that seems to be out in Australia will come as a pleasant relief. Here is a first-hand report by a Yank who has traveled to Australia enough to know when he's wanted.)

By WILL GRIMSLEY

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—As far as Australians are concerned, there's no such animal as the "Ugly American."

The Yanks, often pictured as puffed up with wealth and power may not win popularity contests in Bangkok and Beirut, Zurich and Zanzibar. But the people love 'em in this broad, developing land of the koalas and kangaroos.

"All you need is an American accent and you get treated like a king," said a paunchy Pitt Street pub keeper as he fanned the foam from a tanker of potent Australian beer. "All the sheilahs start swooning. The blokes shout another round of beer. Before you know it, you're humming 'The Star Spangled Banner'."

Australia is a distant branch of the British Commonwealth, in some respects loyal and deeply rooted in the British traditions, but it's getting to look and act more like a boisterous nephew of Uncle Sam.

WE ARE A LOT closer to America than England —not only in miles but in our culture and habits," a young executive for a large Australian oil firm remarked. "I wouldn't be surprised if some day we wind up as another of your states—what would we be, number fifty-one?"

A talkative taxi driver—and they're all talkative when they find they've got a fair from across the Pacific—put it another way as he nursed his hack down Castlereigh Street in the heart of this bustling metropolis.

"I think we ought to quit singing 'God Save The Queen' and start singing 'God Save Australia'," he said glumly. "Our best friend is the United States, not John Bull."

In fairness, it must be said that this cab driver's viewpoint probably represents a small and disgruntled minority. While most Australians have a strong affinity for America, most of them remain loyal to the Queen.

BUT NOT the hack driver, harboring resentment of incidents in the last big war.

"If the Indonesians or the Communist Chinese sweep down on us, who's going to come to our rescue? Not the Limeys. It'll be the Americans, just as they did the last time.

"Remember the Japanese were almost on our necks, moving in as far as New Guinea. When we asked to bring our boys back from South Africa to help defend the country, Churchill (Prime Minister Winston Churchill) said 'No.' He said if the Japanese swept over Australia, the Allies would come back later and chase them out.

"Well, you know what happened? The Yanks came down and pulled us out of a jam. We'll never forget that."

The Australians' liking for Americans apparently traces to the role played by Gen. Douglas MacArthur and his doughboys in World War II.

IN THE BEAUTIFUL Australian capital of Canberra, the so-called city in-between because it lies halfway between the rival Sydney and Melbourne, the American ambassador occupies a red brick colonial home that might have been snatched from old Virginia.

There are other marked American influences. The Australian War Office buildings, block-like structures of stone, are called the "Little Pentagon," although they are square, with four sides instead of five.

Towering over them—and over the entire city, one of the world's newest and fastest growing capitals—is a huge concrete spire stabbing into the air, with an eagle poised on top.

This is a symbol of American-Australian solidarity, planted there by friends of the two countries.

Residents of Canberra, a city with a mushrooming population which now has reached 70,000, do their banking and shopping in a modern, white stone business section which has been labelled "Little Manhattan.""

AMERICAN DOUGHBOYS who were in Australia during World War II would hardly recognize the country today. Coastal cities such as Sydney, Melbourne, Adelaide, Brisbane and Perth have undergone a remarkable face-lifting.

Most of them now look like any modern American city—with first class hotels, skyscrapers poking their domes into the blue heavens, modern department stores and shops.

All of them follow the American influence. The new buildings are structures of glass, stone and steel that might have been transferred from Rockefeller Plaza or Madison Avenue in New York.

The new hotels have modernistic lobbies, all types of services and large cabana-type rooms with television sets, hot coffee spouts and porcelain baths.

With the influx of new Australians from other parts of the world, attractive restaurants offering all types of food—Polynesian, Mexican, French, Mexican and Italian—are popping up in all major cities.

You can buy a hot hamburger and a soft drink on the corner, but in the drug store you still can get only drugs. It's the law. The milk bars and fruit stands still exist—once the only means of a quick snack—but the small lunch spots and subterranean coffee houses are plentiful.

IN ONE WAY, the Australians haven't followed their American cousins.

It's still tough to get a beer or a cocktail after the sun goes down. Melbourne and Adelaide have 6 o'clock closing of all bars, precipitating the famouse "6 o'clock swill." In Sydney, Brisbane and Perth, the lounges stay open longer but 10 o'clock is the limit.

In many places, waiters grab wine glasses off the table promptly at 10 p.m. The only heavy, unrestricted drinking can be done either illegally in little dens where patrons bring their own booze or in night clubs where there are unlimited licenses.

It's in these night clubs that Australians get a little more of American culture in the form of imported crooners, dancers and comedians straight from Hollywood or strip teasers who learned their bumps and grinds on West Madison Street in Chicago and Calumet City, Ill.

The Aussies get their main entertainment by watching U.S. movies or plays transported from Broadway (usually a couple of years late) or by sitting in front of the big magic box known as television.

Here the fare also is strictly American. The favorite shows are the "Untouchables" and "77 Sunset Strip."

"We couldn't get away from the American influence if we wanted to," grunted one Australian. "Every time we flip on the television dial, we get Forty-Second Street or Dodge City, Kansas.

Pacific Coast Club to Remodel, Expand

RECREATION AREA TO BE 'MOVED UP'
Enclosed area here is private beach of Pacific Coast Club on Ocean Boulevard. Expansion plans call for two-story garage in this area, which is south of main building. Deluxe recreation spot will be relocated to roof of garage, which will be on same level as present big indoor pool.

Recreation Spot Will Be on Roof of New Garage

By VERN ANTHONY
Southland Progress Editor

Keyed to a half-million-dollar remodeling and beautification program, a "return to elegance" is programmed for the Pacific Coast Club of Long Beach by its new owners.

The club facility, located at 850 E. Ocean Blvd., previously was operated by the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Sale of the castle-like seaside structure was completed Jan. 10 to Richard Rand of Beverly Hills, representing the Pacific Coast Club, Inc., of which Rand is secretary-treasurer.

THE NEW OWNERS took over the facility Feb. 1, with Wayne Ferrell as president in charge of all operations.

Ferrell, of 1500 Dorothy Lane, Newport Beach, managed the Balboa Bay Club from 1955 to 1960, and recently was manager of the Huntington Harbour Beach Club in Huntington Beach. He was manager of the Wilton Hotel in Long Beach from 1953 to '55, resigning to take the Balboa Bay Club position. He has had wide experience in hotel management.

Major improvement planned for the Pacific Coast Club property, with work scheduled to start shortly, will be building of a two-story 150-car parking garage for members. This will occupy a 120x167 foot area where the club now has its private beach to the south of the main structure.

THE BEACH RECREATION area will be raised to the level of the club's 75x35 foot swimming pool, built to A.A.U. standards, which will become an indoor-outdoor pool by means of sliding glass doors.

The elaborate outdoor recreation area will be on the garage roof and the addition will include some luxury beach apartments. There will be additional elevator service for garage and recreation areas.

Redecoration and refurnishing of the main reception hall, originally called the "grand hall," is scheduled; but there will be no changes in the richly colored vaulted ceiling — reaching upward 50 feet — the floor marble or the massive fireplace.

THE MAIN LOUNGE, with lofty ceiling beams resembling hewn timbers but made of cast cement, will be remodeled into an elegant new dining room and bar. Focal point will be the large fireplace of Italian travertine.

Entrance to the garage will be from Ocean Boulevard over a ramp to be built along the west side of the Coast Club, which occupies a 150 foot frontage on the boulevard. The property runs to a depth of 260 feet toward the ocean.

Ferrell said the interior decor would be brightened considerably, with luxury furnishings, but with retention of the "baronial" atmosphere.

THE CLUB has a fascinating history.

It was organized by a group of prominent Long Beach men — object fellowship and promotion of the city.

In 1922, three clubs had been launched — Pacific Club, Petroleum Commercial Club and the Long Beach Athletic Club. Four years later, these were merged under the name Pacific Coast Club and incorporated. Formal opening was Oct. 26, 1926.

The choice seaside site was purchased for $200,000 and the club on completion represented a $2 million investment.

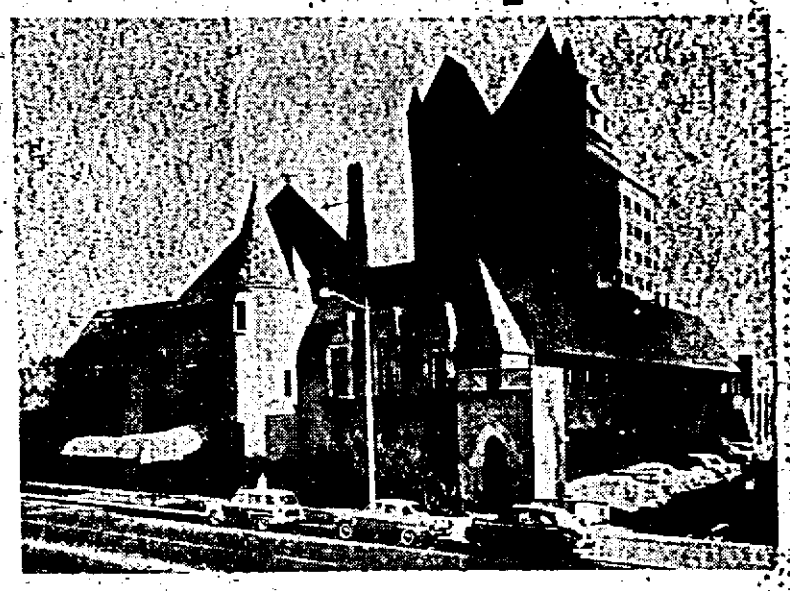

Designed in the old Norman period, the structure has been a skyline landmark over the years, and has been hailed as one of the most beautiful clubhouses in the nation.

THE COAST CLUB has outstanding athletic facilities. In addition to the pool, there are five handball courts, fully equipped gym, complete body conditioning facilities for both men and women, deluxe steam room for men and shower and locker rooms.

The club was consolidated in 1928 with the Los Angeles Athletic Club in the largest transaction of its kind on record. LAAC operated the club until the recent sale.

Although under independent new management, the club will continue reciprocal privileges with LAAC, Ferrell said.

CASTLE-LIKE COAST CLUB
View from Ocean Boulevard shows picturesque Pacific Coast Club structure. New garage will be on far (south) side. Cars will enter and exit from boulevard over ramp to be built along right side of building over present inadequate parking lot.

MODEL SHOWS EXPANSION
Coast Club member DeWitt R. Lee of Walker & Lee Realty (left) and Wayne Ferrell, new president in charge of club operations, discuss model showing where new garage, apartment and recreation areas will be built (at right of tower). Roof will be recreation spot.

PICTURESQUE BEAMS TO STAY
Huge, lofty beams of main lounge will remain dominant when room is remodeled. Decor will be brightened, with new luxury type furnishings.

MAIN LOBBY ALSO WILL BE REDECORATED

Empire to Build at 5th and Pacific

Empire Savings & Loan Association of Van Nuys has acquired a site in downtown Long Beach where it will build its fourth savings and loan office, William Balopole, president, has announced.

Empire Savings will start construction about March 1 of a two-story office at the southeast corner of Pacific Avenue and Fifth Street. It expects to open its new facility about July 1.

Empire Savings, with assets of $55 million, is the principal subsidiary of publicly-owned Empire Financial Corp., Van Nuys. It currently maintains branches on Sunset Boulevard in Los Angeles and in Pacoima. It recently was granted approval to open a branch in Palos Verdes Estates.

• • • •

BALOPOLE POINTED out that the Long Beach office, located in the heart of a primary trading area of nearly 400,000 perons, will provide Empire with offices in three major population centers strategically located throughout Los Angeles County, San Fernando Valley, Los Angeles-Beverly Hills and Long Beach.

The Long Beach facility will consist of a modern two-story, 5,000 square feet building, with safe deposit box facilities. It will feature sit-down service in addition to many other unique Empire extras.

Empire has acquired an adjoining site and convenient free parking will be available.

Appointed to NAREB Committees

Members of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors were among 499 realtors and board executives appointed last week to 1964 committees of the National Association of Real Estate Boards by the new president, Ed Mendenhall of High Point, N.C., following approval by the board of directors.

INDUSTRY PROFILE

10,000 Pairs of Shoes Made Daily at Grove

By BOB BAUGHEY

A few days after Orange County's population, with considerable fanfare, passed the million mark last October a team of New England industrial experts arrived in Garden Grove to take charge of the only manufacturing concern of its kind west of the Rockies.

The concern for some time had been engaged in a death struggle with mounting economic losses. Disaster could be just down the street. So the business found a buyer.

The buyer was the Randolph Manufacturing Co. of Randolph, Mass. Thenceforth the Rubber Corporation of California became the Randolph Rubber Company, an autonomous "sister" company of the Massachusetts concern, with the handy executive code name of "Randy West."

• • • •

"RANDY WEST" manufactures only one type of product—rubbersoled canvas footwear.

It is the only one of some 15 rubber shoe companies in the nation that doesn't also manufacture other rubber products, such as automobile tires, raincoats, gloves — and an endless list of rubber-based novelties, you name it.

It is the only factory in the West producing rubber footwear by what the trade calls the "conventional method," i.e., the vulcanizing process. "Production type" of footwear, made largely by machinery, also is manufactured, but represents only about 20 per cent of the output.

• • • •

WHEN THE new owners took over in October the total output of the factory was approximately 4,000 pairs of shoes per day.

As this was being written this total has climbed after 120 days of new management, to more than 10,000 pairs.

With an average retail price of $4 per pair, this represents a store tag value of $40,000 every working day. And the production chart needle still is going up.

Julien S. Weinstein, executive vice president of "Randy West," headed the team of eight executives who began pumping know-how blood into the business the morning after their arrival in California.

• • • •

OTHERS included Robert Cohen, president of both the eastern and western companies, and Paul Van Doran, "Randy West" vice president and general manager. All had been brought up in the business.

The company's sprawling main structure on Stanford Avenue yields no clues to passersby of what goes on within its 160,000 square feet of floor space; no indication that within its walls work more than 450 men and women, each contributing his or her special effort in the multiple processes involved in fabricating 10,000 pairs of shoes every day.

If the end product were only one design of footwear the processes would be less complex. But more than 300 different designs are manufactured.

• • • •

AS SPRING approaches the work load will increase, more employes will be added, and the huge warehouse where a stockpile of a half-million pairs of boxed, crated shoes is normal, will become more replete.

During the short 4-month new management interim, new and more modern machinery already has been bolted down. The foundation of a 20,000-square-foot addition already is poured.

Well trained in an axiom of long-haul competitive growth, company officials are bearing down hard on a continuing program of increased quality.

Firm to Build New Plant Near L.B.

Virtue Bros. Mfg. Co., a unit of the Furniture Division of Schlumberger Limited and a manufacturer of wood and metal dinette and casual furniture, has announced purchase of a 20-acre plant site on Santa Fe Avenue near Del Amo Boulevard near Long Beach. Price was not disclosed.

The site is situated in a triangle formed by the Long Beach, Harbor and San Diego freeways and is adjacent to tracks of the Southern Pacific, from whom the land was purchased.

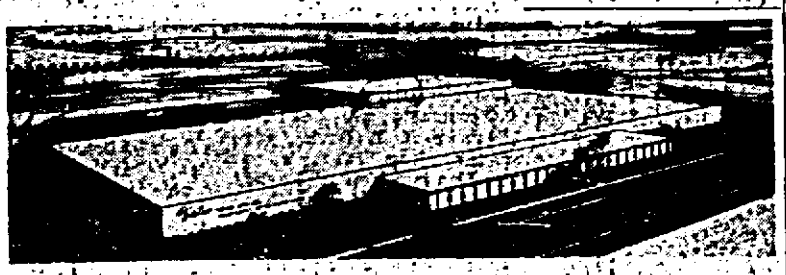

Virtue general manager Orville McIntosh said a contract has been signed with Bechtel Corp. for construction to begin immediately on a 400,000 square foot single story steel and concrete plant. The new plant is scheduled for occupancy in October of this year.

• • • •

"THE LOCATION is ideal," McIntosh declared. "Excellent highway accessibility will enable our employes to get to and from work easily and our trucks will be better able to serve Virtue's many customers in the Southern California area."

Announcement of the new site ends a six-months search in the Greater Los Angeles area for a plant locale to replace the company's present facilities on Century Boulevard, across from International Airport. The present plant, home of Virtue since 1946, was purchased last summer by Litton Industries.

Virtue employs approximately 700.

$710 Million Building 'Tonic' Seen for Orange Co. Economy

Economic growth of Orange County will receive its biggest input in history from Orange County home builders and subdividers in 1964, with 40,000 dwelling units and a dollar volume of $710 million in building permits, predicted Cedric E. Sanders, chairman of the Orange County committee of the Home Builders Association of Los Angeles, Orange and Ventura counties, at a meeting of HBA builders at Disneyland Hotel last week to outline programs for a record year.

"Orange County home builders set new all-time records in 1963 for homes and apartments, but we expect to break these marks again in 1964," said Sanders, Santa Ana home builder.

• • • •

IN 1963, Orange County home builders constructed 36,766 dwelling units, both single family homes and apartment units, an all-time record high total, he said.

"This was an impressive gain of about 10 per cent over 1963, which was a record year itself with 33,214 dwelling units," he continued.

Plans already announced by subdividers show that the home building industry in Orange County will continue its impressive growth pattern, he said. He predicted gains of at least 10 per cent in the total number of units and the dollar valuation.

Robert A. Olin, Pomona home builder, who is president of the HBA, commended Orange County builders on their record year and assured them that the future was unlimited if they build homes that meet the demands of buyers and at the right prices.

• • • •

PATRICK J. O'DONOVAN, HBA executive vice president, Los Angeles, headed the HBA staff at the meeting.

Two reports were highlights of the meeting. Don A. Gannon, Newport Beach home builder and developer, vice-chairman of the HBA Orange County committee and chairman of its legislative and legal subcommittee, reviewed state legislation which will effect the home builder.

L. B. Accountants Will Hear Davies

The Wednesday meeting of the Long Beach Chapter of the National Association of Accountants will feature Maurice B. T. Davies, who will speak on "Putting a Profit Plan into Motion." Davies, partner, Lybrand, Ross Bros. and Montgomery, will discuss the problems encountered in developing a profit plan and in convincing top management of the benefits of its use.

The meeting will be held at the Long Beach Elks Club starting at 6 p.m.

Robert H. Grant, Anaheim developer, also vice chairman of the HBA Orange County committee, and chairman of its membership and attendance subcommittee, reported on a program for enrollment of new members.

Hits Urban Renewal 'Inequities'

Under federal public housing and urban renewal programs the largest subsidies usually go to the wealthiest communities, so that in effect the poor are being taxed to subsidize the rich, it was charged last week by President Edwin P. Neilan of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

This inequity is morally wrong," Neilan said in a letter to 2,900 presidents of local chambers of commerce. He offered the presidents help to get local housing and renewal programs started.

• • • •

NEILAN SAID that a new, comprehensive chamber study of the two federal programs proves that both have failed to meet their welfare goals. The study, which was made for all states and congressional districts, according to Neilan, shows that:

—In general, the richer communities benefit the most from the federal programs.

—The less the people of a state use their own tax resources, the more federal dollars that state gets.

—Administrative costs of the programs amount to $1 for every $7.50 in subsidies.

—And "fair shares" for all communities would have pushed the cost of the programs to $109 billion, instead of the $8.6 billion given to favored communities.

• • • •

NEILAN, who is chairman of the board and president of the Bank of Delaware, Wilmington, asked the local chamber presidents to put their groups on record in support of local responsibility for renewal and housing.

He said that the National Chamber "can help you how to take the lead in community development," with a self-help program that has been tested and proved in more than 50 cities.

First Federal's president A. G. Kruse and Russ Holm, senior vice president and loan officer negotiated the loan with John Douglass, president and John Douglass Jr., executive vice president of Douglass Construction.

The funds are for construction of Pacific Island Village, a 220 acre planned community now under construction 700 feet above sea level at Laguna Niguel between South Laguna and Dana Point.

Pacific Island Village's first unit of 111 homes is now under construction. The sales office will be open, on Crown Valley Prakway, March 15 and furnished model homes will be open May 15.

Eventually Pacific Island Village will have 700 dwellings, a neighborhood shopping center and the Pacific Island Club, a private membership club with recreation, dining and other facilities.

Hunsaker Sales at New High

IRWINDALE—S. V. Hunsaker & Sons reports record sales and earnings for the year ended Sept. 30, 1963. According to Richard C. Hunsaker, president of the residential- real estate development company operating in Southern California, sales totalled $18,280,850 as compared to $13, 773,722 for the preceding year.

Profits amounted to $803,094 compared to 1962 net income of $740,984. Per share earnings were slightly in excess of $1.00 per share on the basis of 800,000 shares outstanding.

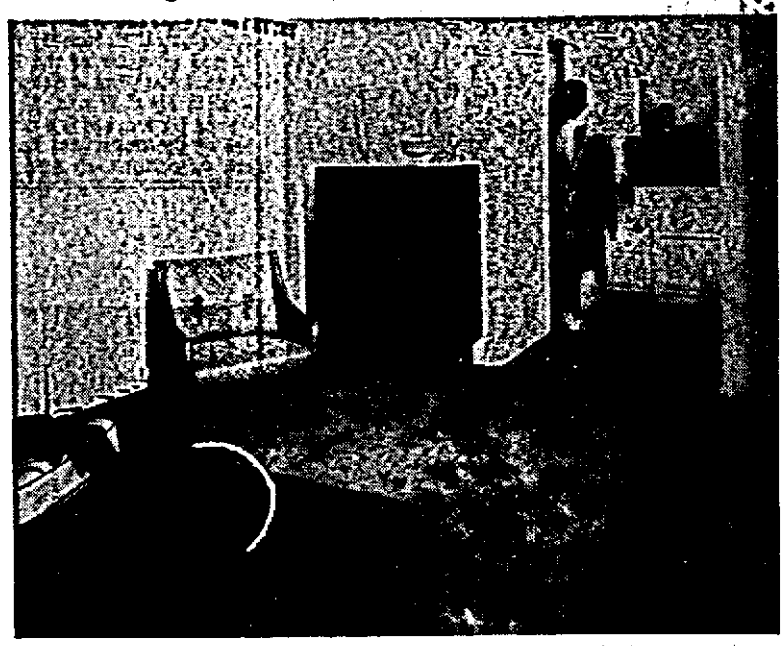

The number of homes sold increased from 767 to 918.

• • • •

THE COMPANY anticipates its new home and apartment sales will increase approximately 20% in the next fiscal year.

Over the past 25 years, S. V. Hunsaker & Sons has built more than 8,000 homes and apartments in Southern California.

Custom Touch Is Provided in Large Neptune Homes

LARGE BEDROOMS
Large walk-in closet, separate dressing area and luxury bath combine with the oversize master bedrooms of the new Neptune Homes. Both one and two-story homes are available with prices starting at $25,995.

Custom touches, many of them brand new, are making an impression on visitors to the big Neptune Homes off Brookhurst Street at Garfield in Fountain Valley, builder Roland Lagerlof reports.

The long-time Orange County custom-home builder has included many of the extras found only in expensive homes in the Neptune development where flexible terms and reasonable prices have found favor in the initial unit.

Finer cabinets, extra "full splash" tile, deluxe built-ins with all of the usual optional features, custom-like light fixtures, wall-to-wall 100% nylon carpet, cement driveways, wood shake roofs, and the new "master control" lighting system are all proving popular. The master control lighting concept gives owner one control at entry and second master control at bedside to turn all or as many lights off from the two positions as needed. It is both a safety and convenience feature, Lagerlof pointed out.

• • • •

BUYERS MAY purchase the two, three, four or five-bedroom homes and select from both one and two-story luxury plans for as little as $495 total down. The builder pays all costs and can arrange financing to suit almost any good family, the Neptune builder stressed.

To reach Neptune from the Long Beach area, take Seventh Street through Long Beach, continue east on the Garden Grove Freeway to Brookhurst. Then go right about six miles to Garfield and turn left to models. The location is about nine miles from Long Beach and about four miles to Huntington Beach State Beach.

Dirk Now Manager of Manco

E. C. Losch, president of E. C. Losch Co., Inc., a diversified construction company at Paramount, has announced appointment of Robert A. Dirk as vice president and general manager of Manco Construction Co., an engineering contracting firm headquartered in Long Beach and wholly-owned subsidiary of the Losch organization.

Losch specializes in process mechanical construction facilities related to the petro-chemical and hydro-carbon fields.

Dirk formerly was associated with the Manco Construction Co. at the time it was formed in 1951 and since that time has performed construction supervision services for various construction companies in the Southern California area.

• • • •

MANCO was purchased by the Losch Co. during late 1963 from M. A. Nishkian, well-known professional engineer in domestic and foreign construction operations.

Other principal subsidiaries of the Losch organization are Vencon, Inc., which performs construction projects in the fields of real estate development and golf courses, and Haldeman Pipe & Supply Co., major suppliers of industrial pipe, valves, fittings and plumbing supplies.

Exchange Trend Seen

Larger income properties will move in record volume during 1964 with a definite trend toward exchanges, according to sales indicators from a local real estate company.

Three transactions of the company in January exceeded $150,000 each.

C. O. Givens, general sales manager of Rex L. Hodges Realty Co., released sales figures showing a record January for his firm, with exchanges of large income properties accounting for much of the increased volume.

• • • •

INCLUDED in exchanges by the company during January: a 17-unit and 4-unit apartment packaged at $274,000, through the Seal Beach office; a $188,950 exchange through the Garden Grove office; and the $169,500 exchange of a 16-unit apartment by the Belmont Shore office.

"The move toward exchanges in larger properties is generated by the tax factor and benefits that can be drawn there," Givens said. "In anticipation of this trend a full time tax attorney has been added to the staff of Hodges.

Dividend Voted

The board of directors of United States Borax & Chemical Corp. has declared a quarterly dividend of 20 cents per share on the 4,223,545 common shares outstanding. The dividend is payable March 13, 1964 to stockholders of record February 28, 1964.

Federal Help in Building of New Communities Looms

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Johnson administration wants the federal government to get into the business of helping to build entire new communities.

The aim is to provide more orderly development in the fringe areas around existing cities where the big population growth is looked for in the years ahead.

As described by President Johnson in his housing message to Congress, the new communities would be "complete with all public services, all the industry and commerce needed to provide jobs, and sufficient housing and cultural and recreational facilities for moderate and low-income families as well as for the well-to-do."

• • • •

THE GOVERNMENT would help pay for the planning and would lend the money to build streets, schools, parks and other public works. Uncle Sam also would insure mortgages to aid private developers in buying land and improving it.

The administration wants to start small. A few towns would be set up to begin with. If they worked, the program would be expanded.

Officials are making these points about the new communities:

—They'll mean more orderly growth than in the past. Land development will have to follow a detailed plan approved by the Housing and Home Finance Administration. The plan will have to include enough new schools, streets, utility lines, etc., to take care of "reasonably foreseeable" growth.

—The large scale should permit savings on construction.

—There'll be a chance for "exciting" new design. Washington isn't going to dictate, but hopes, nevertheless to encourage good design.

• • • •

SINCE THE NEW TOWNS will have their own industry and commerce, there'll be less need for mass transit to carry workers to and from the big cities.

—The communities will include low-income families along with the better off. Because of the federal aid, they'll have to accept Negroes along with whites. They'll also have to provide housing for the elderly.

The idea of setting up such self-sufficient communities is not new. Officials point, for example, to Reston, Va., and Columbia, Md., near Washington. What's new would be the federal participation.

Larger Tankers to Be Accommodated in Port

The Port of Los Angeles and the Mobile Oil Company have joined in a cooperative effort to expand terminal facilities on the harbor's main channel to accommodate the larger tankers loading and off-loading crude oil here, Albert Perrish, president of the Los Angeles Board of Harbor Commissioners, announced last week.

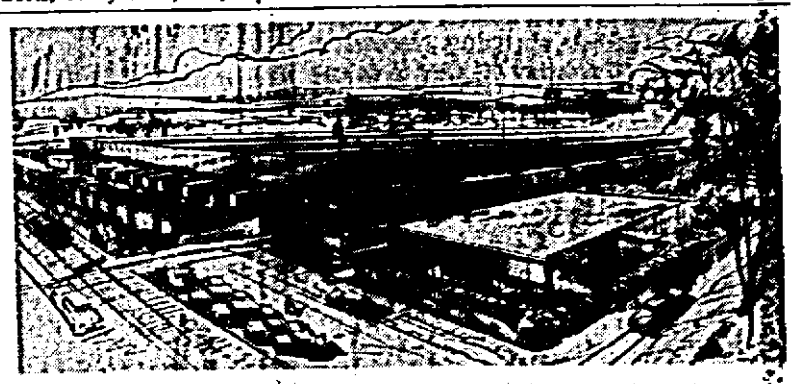

The Harbor Department has awarded a $70,000 contract to the Guy F. Atkinson Co. to install two large mooring dolphins at the terminal, fireproof walkways between the dolphins, and two landside mooring anchors.

The oil firm, in the process of modernizing its tank farm on Terminal Island, said its work, in conjunction with the Harbor Department project, will permit more efficient and faster operation in handling tankers. The expanded facilities will permit the handling of a 16,000-ton and 30,000-ton tanker simultaneously. The expansion also will expedite the handling of tankers in the 50,000 ton (370,000 barrel) class.

Lawrence L. Whiteneck, chief harbor engineer, said the work on the installations in the main channel will be completed within three months.

Growing Suburbs

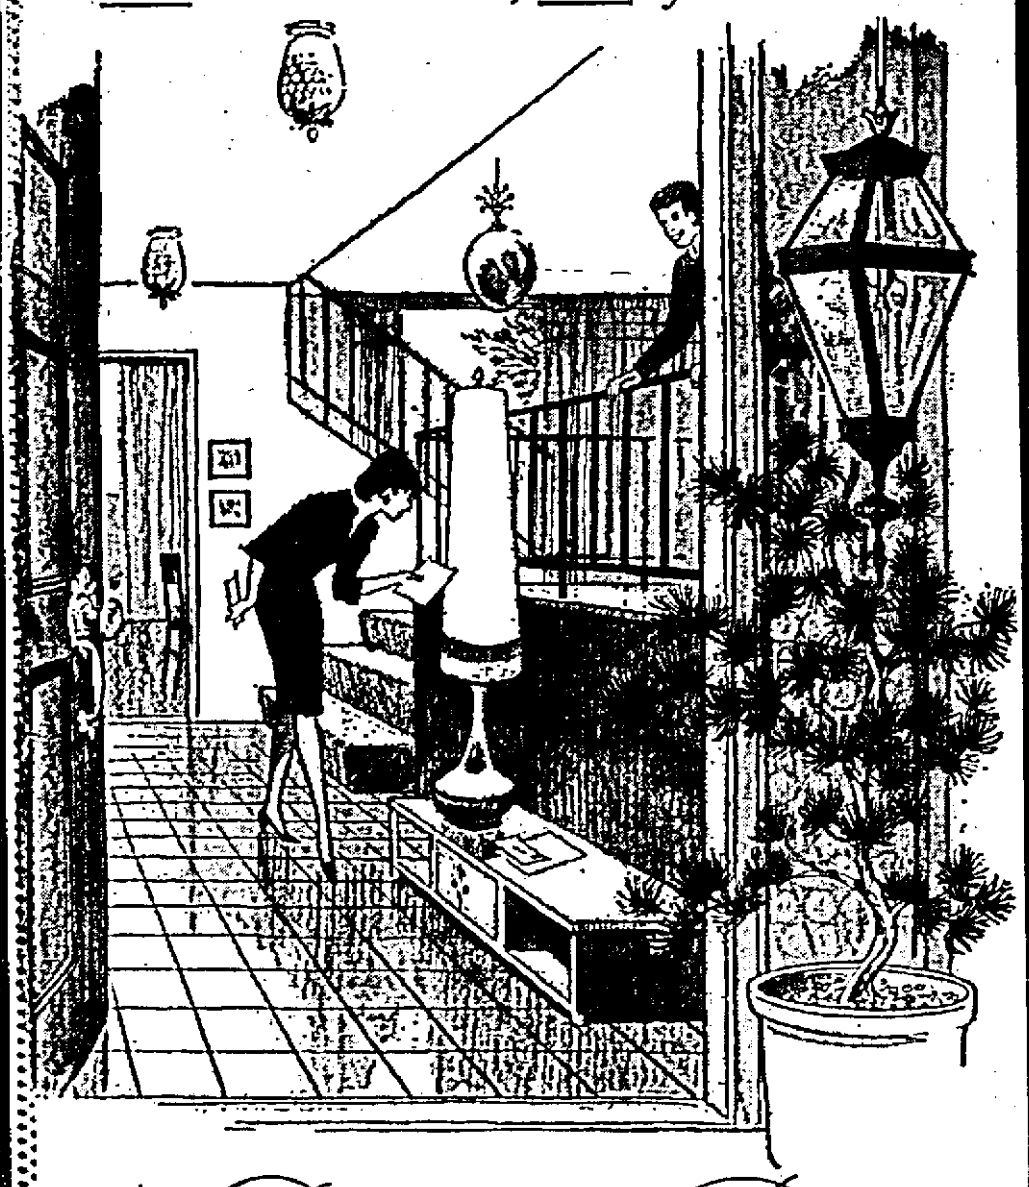

The continuing growth of suburbs will play a large part in pushing the construction industry to another record year in 1964, according to Charles S. Jensen, president of C.I.T. Corporation, leading industrial and commercial financing firm.

UNDER CONSTRUCTION AT ORANGE
General Tire & Rubber Co. is expanding its Southern California operations with construction under way in the City of Orange on this new polyurethane foam-plastics manufacturing building and Pennsylvania Athletic products warehouse. It will be structural steel frame construction with metal siding, will have 125,000 square feet of floor area, and depressed rail and truck docks on two sides. Enginering design and construction is being handled by AETRON, the archiect-engineer division of Aerojet-General Corp., under supervision of B. F. Rose Jr., Aerojet vice president and general manager of AETRON.

Farrow Realty Hits $30 Million Again

TOP SALESMAN HONORED
Jerry Farrow (left), owner of Farrow Realty Corp., Garden Grove, presents silver platter to Art Sailor, of Farrow's Anaheim office, for top performance during 1963. Sailor led Farrow's eight-office force in directing sales of existing homes throughout Orange County.

For the second consecutive year, sales exceeding $30 million have been recorded by Farrow Realty Corp., Garden Grove-based firm with eight offices throughout Orange County, Jerry Farrow, owner, announced.

For the 12-month period ending Dec. 31, sales of new homes in subdivisions, existing residences for individual clients, and apartments totaled $30,395,324, Farrow said. The heavy volume made Farrow one of the top realty firms operating exclusively in Orange County.

• • • •

FARROW REALTY Corp. new home sales division staffed numerous subdivisions for builders and developers in Orange County during 1963. New homes sold averaged $22,360 per sale. Resale homes averaged $19,696 per sale.

Included in the totals, said Farrow, were sales of 265 new homes built by Farrow Development Co., headed by Robert Farrow. The homes were in the development company's Tiara Estates Emerald series in Fountain Valley; Treasure series at Euclid and Chapman in Garden Grove, Lewis and Lampson series in Garden Grove; and Orange series in the City of Orange. • Top Farrow Realty Corp. salesman, Farrow added, was Art Sailor, of the Anaheim office. The new home salesman was Tom Anderson. Both received silver platters.

Beer-Bottle Record

A record 5.2 billion non-returnable beer bottles will be shipped in 1966, according to a forecast made for the glass container industry by The Econometric Institute. That total will represent an increase of about 35 per cent over the 1963 level, estimated at 3.7 billion units.

Apartment Rental Unit Attractive

A high occupancy ratio—rare in many large scale apartment developments—is attributed at the Southwood Apartments in South Gate to providing an atmosphere of a development of major magnitude while retaining a feeling of privacy and personal attention, according to John Gause, general manager for the realty management firm.

Gause added that this is accomplished by a design layout in which the 260 units are contained in 12 distinct and smaller buildings, each with its own facilities for recreation, upkeep and laundry.

• • • •

THE APARTMENTS represent modern suburban living equidistant and less than 15 minutes drive from the centers of Long Beach and Los Angeles as well as from Los Angeles State College.

Furnished apartments start at $85 per month. In addition to the choice furnishings, the apartments include a selection of gas or electric built-in appliances in the kitchen, wall-to-wall carpeting, drapes, phone jacks and other features.

A limited number of rental units are currently available and may be inspected at 10800 Wright Road, in South Gate.

Buccaneer Series Near Sellout; Start New Unit

Start of construction for a new unit of homes at the Sunkist Plaza development in Huntington Beach is being readied as the current Buccaneer Series approaches the sellout point, according to Sy Bram, executive director of Sunkist Plaza Builders, the developing firm.

The rapid sales of the beach city development have caused the new unit to be readied sooner than anticipated and a similarly rapid sellout is being predicted for the new unit.

Bram attributes the rapid sales to the inclusion of numerous extras not usually found in homes of this price range. A similarly major factor of sales appeal has been the fact that qualified buyers can move in with no down payment—only costs of $150.

• • • •

THE HOMES FEATURE a complete array of Waste King Universal built-in kitchen appliances for the convenience of the housewife. This is included at no extra costs.

Waste King, one of the nation's leading kitchen appliance manufacturers, recently cited the builders of the Buccaneer Series for their imaginative design and convenience features offered at the development.

He based the success of his other developments on the Sunkist Plaza firm's mass buying power, acquired through its years of building experience. "This allows us to build more dollar values into each home for a price comparable to other developments."

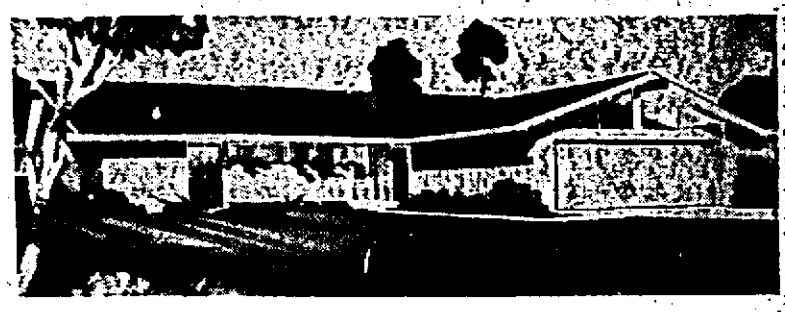

Three basic floor plans can be incorporated into a choice of 25 exteriors that cover nearly every motiff available.

"This one of the reasons why, all things considered, it is one of the best home values in Huntington Beach," added Bram.

• • • •

THE QUALITY residences which feature as a bonus extra completely fenced rear yards, includes a separate utility room, Formica Counters, natural ash cabinets, forced air heating with thermostat control, brick fireplaces, aluminum and glass shower doors, sliding wardrobe closets, shades and aluminum screens.

To reach models, drive east on Garden Grove Blvd. to Golden West; right to Bolsa; right to Springdale; then left on Springdale and follow signs to furnished models.

HUNTINGTON BEACH HOME
Sunkist Plaza Builders announced that another unit of their Buccaneer Series would be launched at once since the present development is near a sell-out. Homes like this are offered for no down payment.

Westmont's New Unit Sells Fast

New floor plans and exteriors are meeting with overwhelming acceptance in the new unit eleven of the big planned Westmont community in Fountain Valley where buyers may now select from a new four-bedroom and a new three-bedroom home with family room and over-the-garage bonus room.

Low prices are still in effect with some models set at $21,800 with both FHA, Veteran and conventional terms all available. Included in the new unit are block walls, landscaping, and sprinklers along with the built-in kitchen and big bonus room.

THE BONUS ROOM has proven a delight to growing families with the room easy to convert to extra bedrooms and bath or playroom and rumpus area. All plans with the exception of one three-bedroom home with breezeway offer the bonus room as part of the basic price.

All indications point to a rapid sell out of the new unit with occupancy set for mid summer, a spokesman says. Four homes are also available in the tenth unit.

"Time and time again buyers wait and are disappointed," sales head Ray Haffdaul explained.

To reach Westmont from Long Beach, take Seventh St., east to Hwy. 39 then go right three miles to Warner. Turn left at Warner one mile to the tree and flower lined Westmont entry.

Service to Buyers Boosts Sol Vista

LUXURY IN SOL VISTA HOME

Here is one of the models offered at the International Home Fair by Sol Vista. The homes are loaded with built-in luxury and are priced from $23,050.

"One of the important reasons for our high percentage of referral home buyers in the International Home Fair is our home owners' service policy," says Bob Solomon, vice president of Alco-Pacific Construction Co of Westminster, builders of Sol-Vista Homes.

Alco-Pacific's plan is basic, but thorough in its service to new home buyers. The beginning of the post sale time of a Sol-Vista home starts with an inspection of the home to note any construction defects so they may be corrected usually before the buyers move in.

• • • •

IF THE BUYER notices any discrepencies in construction, materials of appliances, after move in, which were overlooked in the original inspection, he is covered by the one year service warranty which Alco-Pacific issues with each Sol-Vista home they build.

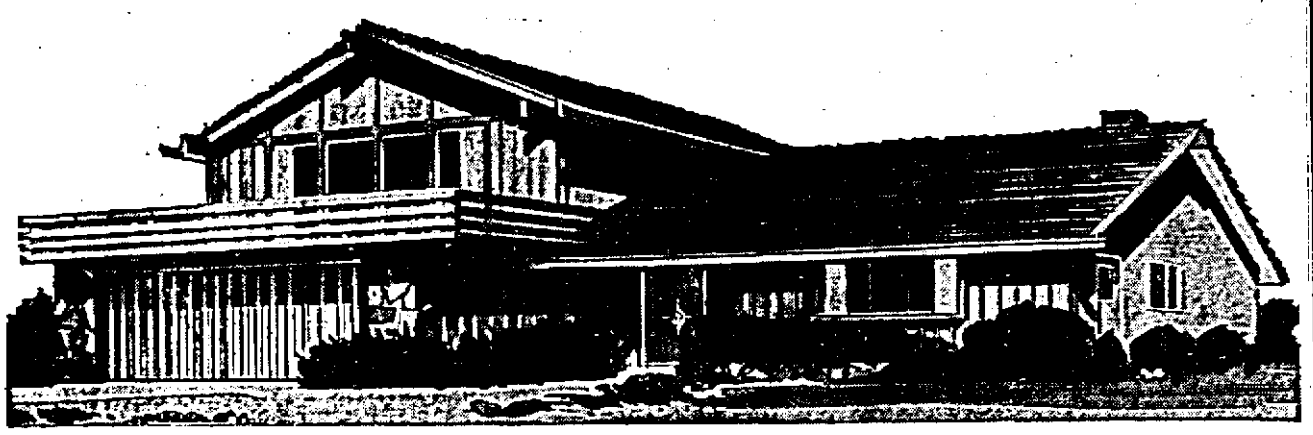

Solomon points out, "So effective has been Alco-Pacific's attitude toward reasonable customer complaints, our home buyers are now one of our best sources for new sales. Better than 25% of the sales made at our International Home Fair community have been recommendations from previous Sol-Vista home buyers."

• • • •

SOLOMON concluded, "Alco-Pacific believes it is not possible to build a perfect house. We do our best and stand behind our product for one year should any defects which originated in construction appear."

International Home Fair homes sell for $23,050 to $29,600 with model homes now on display at Westminster Blvd and Bolsa Chica in Westminster.

Community Plaza Holding Open House

A grand opening celebration is set for today at the distinctive new Effinger condominium — Community Plaza. Located between Grand and Termino Aves. in Long Beach, the development is one of the most elegant residential developments in the area.

Participating in the opening will be the Southern California Edison Co.

Fourteen three and four-unit buildings are included at Community Plaza, each expressing a unique architectural motif — contemporary, conventional, ranch and provincial. Most of these buildings have been sold to private owners and leasing of the units has commenced. "We even have families already living here," Effinger stated "and tenants moving in every day."

• • • •

CONDOMINIUM ownership provides full title to the building, plus an undivided interest in the landscaped common area. This reduces maintenance costs, shared by the owners with less upkeep and responsibility.

A large pool is for the use of residents at Community Plaza, plus a putting green, barbecue area and beautifully landscaped yards.

Each unit was designed to provide luxurious living and includes efficiency all-electric kitchens—with built-in range, oven and automatic dishwasher.

OPEN FOR RENTALS

Rendering shows a large four-unit building at Community Plaza in Long Beach. The condominium celebrates the grand opening today. Some units already have been leased and occupied.

Electronic System Does Banking Work

"Overnight statewide customer account reporting" has become a reality in California banking at United California Bank's Los Angeles Electronic Data Processing headquarters.

Incorporating the latest in IBM computing and Teleprocessing equipment, the system foreshadows a new concept in branch bank accounting procedures which could eventually link all segments of California industry and finance into a single accounting unit.

OSCAR was put through his first public paces at special inauguration ceremonies hosted by UCB Board Chairman Frank King and President Clifford Tweter.

• • • •

THE SYSTEM consists, along with other data processing equipment, of new and versatile transmission devices which enable computers to "talk to one another" over long distances at high speeds using telephone cables.

Known as IBM 7710 data communication units, the devices make it possible to exchange information at the rate of 40,800 "bits" per second. Although the installation may be used for high speed transmission of any type of coded data, its primary purpose will be to centralize in minutes the bookkeeping function for UCB's branches in both northern and southern California in the Los Angeles EDP Center.

The checking account bookkeeping for 100 UCB Southern California offices already is being performed by OSCAR, and it is expected that all of the statewide branches of United California Bank will soon be linked to the Los Angeles EDP Center for their checking account bookkeeping. Savings account bookkeeping will be the next step.

Eighteen sales managers attended the first official meeting of the group.

• • • •

PHIL WALSH, of R. A. Watt Construction Co., was chosen vice chairman.

Josef Citron of Citron Investment Corp. was named co-chairman in charge of programs.

John S. May of R. H. Grant Co., was named co-chairman in charge of membership.

Monthly dinner meetings will be held on the second Monday of every month at Rodger Young Auditorium. These will begin with a social hour at 6:30 p.m.

Start Work on Long Port of L.A. Wharf

Work began last week to construct one of the longest wharfs to be built at one time at the Port of Los Angeles, and to prepare the way for the harbor's new international shipping terminal.

The Guy F. Atkinson Co., contractors for the $3,107,000 project at Berths 218-225, is building the 3,550-foot long concrete wharf, which will accommodate six ocean-going vessels simultaneously.

Located on the Terminal Island side of the harbor's main channel, the new wharf is designed to serve a planned new terminal complex consisting of two 200x1003-ft. transit sheds, a 200x700-ft. warehouse, a covered storage area and 1,000,000 square feet of paved open area for cargo handling and storage.

• • • •

ALBERT PERRISH, president of the Los Angeles Board of Harbor Commissioners, explained that the wharf-building project actually will follow two separate but simultaneous schedules. The first, to include 1,800 feet of wharf, is to be completed in 350 calendar days; the second, an additional 1,750 feet of wharf, is to be finished in 200 calendar days.

"Construction of the first transit shed, backland paving and grading, and the laying of railroad tracks," he said, "will begin even before the first section of wharf is completed.

"While all this work is going on, construction will begin on the second scheduled section of wharf, and the second transit shed and related projects will be done. By following this construction procedure, the entire terminal should be completed within two-and-a-half years," Perrish added.

LOS ANGELES Harbor engineers said the entire project is being scheduled on an electronics data system. First, time periods for individual phases of the over-all project are established. Then, the EDP system permits daily verification of progress, as well as easy identification of any "problem areas" or delays for any reason. Adjust-

(Parcels 10 Acres and Up)

Southern California Mountain-Ringed Recreational Retreat . . . for Discriminating Buyers

Easy-to Location—Two hours, freeway glories from Los Angeles over freeways and excellent roads to "Old West" seclusion and charm. Historic gold rush area in beautiful mineral basin is protected by surrounding mountains. Accessible by three roads—and an airstrip at the ranch.

Lush, Growing Land—In Walker Basin, an area of rushing streams with lots of trees and green vegetation, the property is rich in history. On it the famous old Joe Walker gold mine was closed, after water came in faster than it could be pumped out.

Fabulous Climate—At the 2500 foot level it is definitely cooler in Summer, enjoyable all year. Four seasons, blue skies, good rainfall, some snow, and clean, clear mountain air make this a wonderful vacationland all year.

Water and Utilities—Fed by runoff from surrounding mountains, the water table is reportedly good. A 60 foot well sunk in 1962 tested 240 gallons per hour! Electricity is available, and telephones are now in.

A Great Playland—Surrounded on three sides by Sequoia National Forest and overlooked by towering peaks to 12,000 feet, this is fantastic country. Ideal for horses. It provides practically endless miles of adventure on horseback. Just 16 miles north you can fish, swim, hunt and water ski on Lake Isabella. Another 15 miles is Shirley Meadows, with good snow, ski runs and rope tows. Wildlife Paradise—Excellent hunting, easy limits on a variety of game birds, and one of the largest deer herds in the state. Acreages—There are nice spacious spreads—10 acres and larger. Once a working cattle ranch, had generously rolling quarter horses, plus its scenic land with oaks, rock formations, stream beds, flatlands and rolling hills. Each parcel has a choice of several sites for building your hideaway home. Plenty of land is available for you to divide and retain a view site for yourself.

Bid & Deep Speculation—As $10 down and $10 a week you can buy a parcel—and not desert land. This is good land at a fair price in an unspoiled high mountain valley setting, for those who hope to invest in recreational living. We invited you stand on the land and know what you are buying. Bid first, mail the coupon today for additional information.

NEW YORK (UPI) — More than 69,000 new swimming pools were built in the U.S. during 1963, representing a record $1 billion, according to Swimming Pool Age magazine.

Ward's to Expand in Southland

The chairman of Montgomery Ward, John A. Barr, has announced a $50 million expansion program for the greater Los Angeles area.

About 10 new retail stores, similar to a new 161,000 square foot retail store opened last week in Canoga Park, are planned for the suburbs and the city, according to the head of the billion-dollar-a-half dollar national merchandiser.

Barr also announced a 450,000 square foot warehouse will be built in the area by the fall of next year to serve present and new stores.

Since the fall of 1959, Ward's has opened 13 new stores in California. Three of these — Canoga Park, Santa Ana and Panorama City — have been opened since 1960, to bring to seven the number of stores operated by Ward's Los Angeles metropolitan district.

The next new store is scheduled to open in the spring of 1965 in Ventura. Other sites for new stores will be announced when real estate negotiations are complete.

Electronic Designing of Homes Seen

Chances are good that America's homes of 1980 will be electrically designed, believes a leading home building industry executive.

Harry G. Stewart, executive vice president of L. C. Major & Associates, Inc., Downey, the nation's leading community co-ordinators and residential designers, said his firm is investigating the use of electronic drafting machines similar to those used in aerospace plants.

"Human creativity will always prevail in the conception of design," Stewart said. "But eventually computers will be able to provide the answer to what the most sensible floor plan and design is for a given family."

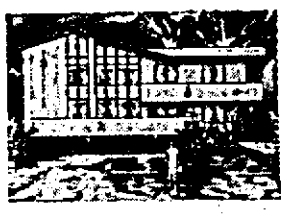

The L. C. Major organization, which has designed over 440,000 single-family residences throughout the nation, already is using electronic control systems for construction and cost control, Stewart said, "to meet the challenge of today's thinking."

Purchase of Home Now Seen as Good Investment for Future

A GARDEN PARK ESTATE
Furnished family and dining room of one-story Garden Park Estates home in nearby Garden Grove is shown here. Room is located close to kitchen for housewife's convenience.

An investment in a brand new home is a wise investment in the future, officials of Garden Park Estates feel. "At the rate land values in California increase year in and year out, it makes good sense to participate in those profits — by investing in a solidly built home, located in a desirable neighborhood."

One of the most successful residential developments in Southern California, Garden Park Estates' homes also offer the advantage of a comfortable and solidly constructed house designed to meet the multiple needs of busy families, a spoksman points out.

* * * *

NOW IS THE TIME, they say, to make that important investment, while it's still possible to buy an outstanding residence within a moderate price range.

Garden Park Estates' homes are offered from $19,225 to $26,450 with low monthly payments starting from $106.17. Veterans can purchase a residence for nothing down, except costs and impounds. Non-veterans are offered lowest FHA down on thirty and thirty-five year loans. Conventional and Cal-Vet terms are available too.

* * * *

A WIDE SELECTION of interior and exterior designs are offered—to fit the tastes of many families.

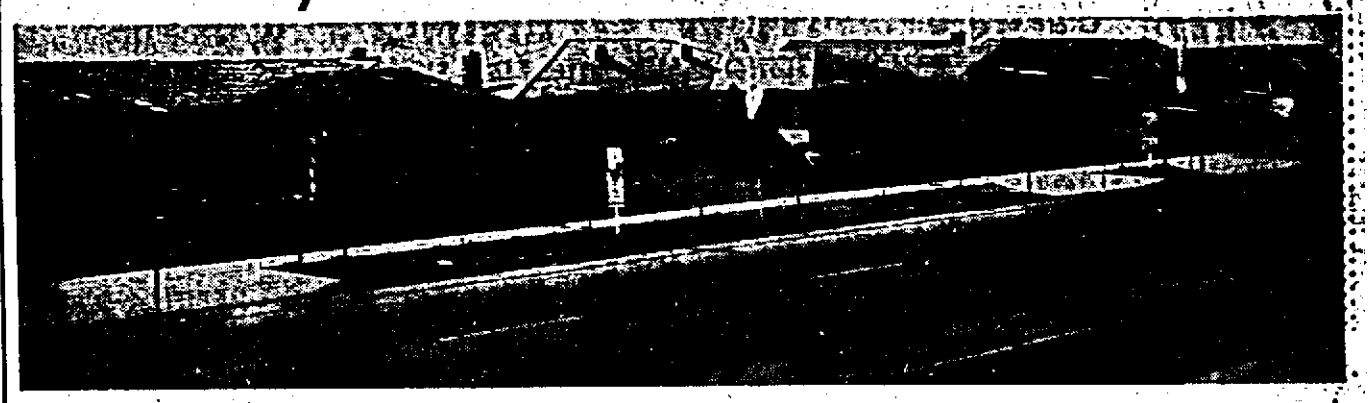

Both one and two-story homes with spacious rooms are available including some with three, four and five bedrooms.

Desirable appointments in the homes are decorator lighting fixtures; sliding glass door and sliding aluminum window, modern built-in kitchen appliances and colored plumbing fixtures in baths.

Furnished models are open daily at Knott Avenue and Garden Grove Freeway in Garden Grove.

Los Angeles has been selected as the site of the 1964 convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, and thousands of Realtors from all over the country will attend Nov. 6-12.

Sale-a-Day Is Recorded at Laurelhurst

LAURELHURST STREET OF HOMES
Pictured is a portion of a street of homes in the Laurelhurst III development in Santa Ana. The 300-home development is averaging a sale each day, according to developer Charles W. Hester.

One of the last remaining new-home developments in the City of Santa Ana, the 300-home Laurelhurst III project continues to record one-a-day sales pace. According to builder-developer Charles W. Hester, this continuing sales record is proof that the Orange County buyer is looking for a truly complete home, one that offers him the most value for the dollar.

"Our experience shows that today's buyer is very aware that the average new-home owner puts hundreds, usually thousands, of additional dollars into a new home within the first year after taking occupancy."

* * * *

"WE HAVE TRIED to protect our buyers from exorbitant after-sale, out-of-pocket costs by providing them with a truly complete new home," Hester stated.

The Laurelhurst III buyer receives front yard landscaping, rear yard fencing, sprinklers, built-in appliances including a dishwasher and lavish carpeting — even window shades are included.

Another key feature of these three and four-bedroom, two-bath homes is their ideal location within the City of Santa Ana.

The Santa Ana Valley High School, Smedly Junior High and Adams Elementary schools are adjacent to the tract. A supervised community swimming pool is within walking distance.

Prices start at $21,695 and can be purchased with as low as $195 down. Four models, furnished, are open daily.

Laurelhurst III is located on Warner between Harbor and Bristol in Santa Ana.

AT STATE COLLEGE

Offer Small Business Management Courses

Two courses designed for key personnel in small business management will be offered by the Division of Business Management at Long Beach State College starting late this month.

A seminar covering financial planning, legal problems, personnel, taxes, credit management and advertising will meet each Wednesday night for eight weeks starting Feb. 26.

DR. HOLMES

A nine-week course meeting Tuesday nights starting Feb. 25 will be devoted entirely to financial management and investments.

Faculty for the two courses will be drawn from persons with practical as well as academic experience in the field of business.

• • • •

BOTH COURSES are designed for owners, managers and key personnel in small businesses. Enrollment fee is $50. Enrollment will be limited in size to provide maximum participation in the seminars.

Further information may be obtained from the coordinator, Small Business Management Seminar, Division of Business Administration, Long Beach State College, Long Beach 4.

The four million small businesses in the United States make up 96 per cent of all they account for more than half of the total business activity. Thus, their continued existence and health is obviously of prime importance.

• • • •

THE UNPLEASANT fact is that many thousands of small businesses in the country fail each year. A new record high in business mortalities was set in the year 1960. Figures show that nearly 7 out of 10 new businesses started in the last five years have failed or withdrawn from operation, and a study of these failures reveals that the largest single cause by far was poor management.

These figures pointing up the importance and the hazards of small business come from Dr. Robert T. Holmes, coordinator of the seminar.

• • • •

"BALANCED management ability" is the key ingredient in the success of most small business, Dr. Holmes pointed out.

"The large corporation can utilize the services of highly trained specialists and technicians in all major fields. In contrast, the small business manager must perform all or many of those functions himself."

Offer Distinctive Fireplace in Homes

One and two fireplaces are offered in a vast selection of design and material at El Dorado Estates' homes, say the officials.

Materials for the unique fireplaces include Palos Verdes stone, used brick, common brick, black marble and many others. "We're particularly proud of the distinctive fireplaces in the homes," officials said and reported a favorite is a black marble combined with painted white brick.

"A fireplace is a definite asset in a home," they said, "and of course the latest trend is the bedroom fireplace. We offer them in several of our models and present residents tell us they make good use of them, particularly on rainy evenings."

• • • •

A PLANNED community, El Dorado Park Estates' homes were constructed with lath and plaster walls with acoustical ceilings; No. 1 shingle roofs; custom-design lighting fixtures, and beautiful planters of brick, wood, Palos Verdes stone and Bouquet Canyon stone.

The exclusive community, designed for demanding homebuyers offers one-story, two-story, split-level and tri-level plans to select from, including three and four bedrooms, separate dining rooms, family rooms, two and three luxurious baths, and master bedroom suites.

Baths have marble-topped pullman lavatories and fine ceramic tile and the all-electric kitchens are furnished with a built-in range, double wall oven and fully automatic dishwasher.

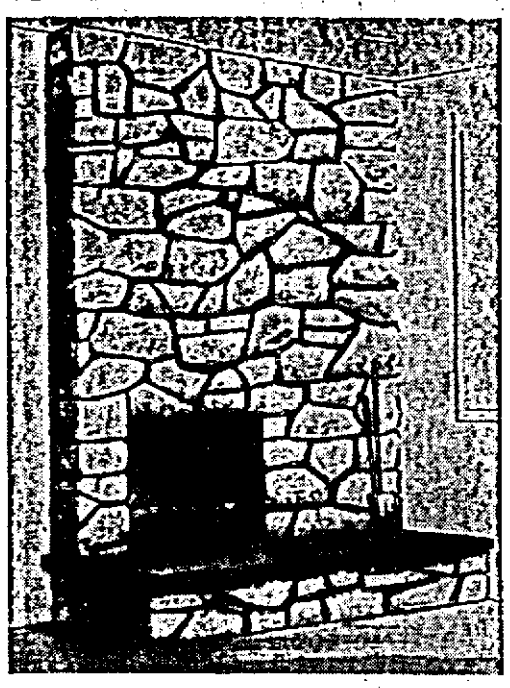

Prices at El Dorado Park Estates start from $26,250 and outstanding conventional financing is available.

In Long Beach drive east on Spring Street across San Gabriel River to El Dorado Park Estates at Claremore, just east of El Dorado Park and Golf Course.

Counts More in '64

A third of the nation's jewelers expect watches to account for their biggest gain in sales during the first half of 1964, reports a major watch company. Timekeepers of quality, jewel-lever design traditionally account for about 15 per cent of retail jewelers' sales.

More than half the jewelers expect their stores to do better in '64 than last year, which was their best so far.

ADDS MUCH TO HOME

Here is one of the fireplace designs available at El Dorado Park Estates in Long Beach. All homes include one fireplace and in some plans, a second is built in the master bedroom.

Title Insurance and Trust Company.

A high-speed data processing system makes it possible.

At T.I., up to-date tax and lien information for all 1,800,000 parcels of Los Angeles County land is recorded on 42 reels of magnetic tape. Other California title companies search tax records by hand. It costs time. It can cost mistakes.

T.I. is fast in other ways, too. If your escrow officer needs a T.I. messenger or customer relations representative in a hurry, all he has to do is phone. A radio-dispatched service car will be at his office in minutes.

But you get much more than fast service when you specify T.I.

You get reliable service. Every T.I. policy is backed by California's longest established title firm and a staff that knows what it's doing.

And you get personal service—the kind that prompts customers to come back to T.I. time and again. The kind that has made T.I. America's largest title company.

Lake Park Big Homes Appealing

Unique design features and floor plans in both the one-story California ranch models and the two-story, five-bedroom Huntington model are drawing record attention at Lake Park, sales manager Don Hermanson reported.

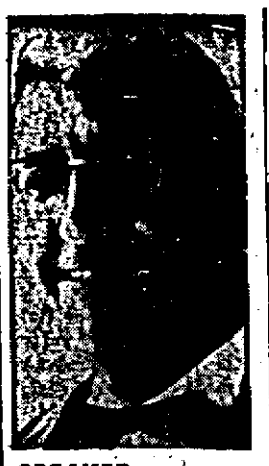

One of the major factors which also is contributing to the sales success at Lake Park, the $40 million, 2,000-home community near Lakewood, is the location of the community to major employment areas, he said.

MORE THAN half of the homes sold to date at Lake Park have been two-story models, Hermanson said. The two-story, five-bedroom Huntington is priced at $21,950.

VA, FHA and conventional financing arrangements are available and qualified veterans may move in free at some models. Also available to qualified veterans is no down payment financing, he said.

Lake Park homes are priced from $17,750.

To reach Lake Park from the Long Beach - Lakewood area, drive east on Carson to the models, just east of Moody.

Sales in Lark Village have been so fast that two more units are being opened. Homes like this are offered for only $195 down plus costs.

Sales at Lark Village are so far ahead of anticipation that Units 4 and 5 are being opened months in advance of plan, states Charles W. Hester, developer of the popular Fountain Valley subdivision. States Hester, "We are very happy with the way the public has accepted Lark Village. We believe it to be one of the most beautiful communities we have ever planned. Units 4 and 5 will complete this project and we have decided to accelerate the sales of these units by reducing the down payment to $195 plus costs."

Lark Village has one and two-story homes of three, four and five bedrooms, family rooms and two full baths. The homes are priced from $21,950 to $25,900.

This area has a bath plumbed for future use.

Auto Leasing Is on Increase

NEW YORK (UPI) — National auto rental and leasing volume could well reach the $800 million mark in 1964, in the opinion of Steven J. Ross, president of Kinney Service Corp.

Ross said projected 1964 figures would mark the third consecutive year of record figures for the auto rental and leasing field. "The industry," he said, "is looking for better than $700 million volume for 1963 and this would mark a major gain over the $603 million done in 1962."

To Conduct Employment Survey Here

"How many weeks did you work in 1963?" This and other questions on work experience last year will be asked of persons in households participating in the Census Bureau's February Current Population Survey, interviewers will call on local households this week, Leonard C. Isley, director of the bureau's regional office in Los Angeles announced.

Further questions relate to the amount of time lost because of unemployment and other reasons, a description of the principal job held during the year, and similar items.

Information furnished by local families will be combined with that gathered in 356 other sample areas of the country to obtain national estimates of the 1963 employment situation. In addition, information will be collected about the number of weeks women 18 to 64 years old worked in 1962. The answers to these latter questions will be used to select a sample of women who will be followed up later this spring to discover how much and how often these women work or seek work.

Stock Split OK Awaited

TORRANCE — The board of directors of Standard Brands Paint Co. (ASE) at a recent special meeting voted to recommend for stockholders approval a split of the outstanding common stock on a 2-for-1 basis.

The directors also announced intention to pay regular quarterly cash dividends of 7½ cents per share on the common stock outstanding after the split has been effected, thus increasing the cash dividend rate by 50 per cent.

The stock split is subject to shareholders' approval of a resolution adopted by the board calling for an increase in the number of authorized common shares from 1,000,000 to 2,000,000.

The amendment to the articles of incorporation proposed by the directors will be voted on by shareholders at a special meeting to be held on April 2 at the company's office in Torrance.

If two-thirds of the stockholders approve the increase in authorized shares, the stock split would become effective with the filing of the amendment with the state of Maryland.

Where Home Is... The Heart Is

By CURTYNE DRISCOLL

You won his heart, how are you treating it?

SAVING your husband from undue stress and watching his diet will help save him from a heart attack, according to the Long Beach Heart Association.

"Stress is probably the most important single factor contributing to a heart attack," said an association spokesman.

"Diet is believed to have a significant role," he continued. "It has been shown in countries where there is a high rate of fat and cholesterol, the heart attack rate is higher."

The association offers the following "how to save your husband tips."

1. MAKE the home situation pleasant, calm and quiet. When he returns from work, greet him with a smile. (Ed. note: Never mind what kind of a day YOU'VE had. And for pete's sake wait until after dinner to tell him about the garbage disposal being stopped up.) It is recommended that if he must go out later in the evening he should have a restful period before he leaves.

2. Avoid keeping up with the Joneses —by the time you're in your forties you have had it. You are either a success or not. It is time for your husband to slow down. (Note: This news may depress him enough to not only slow him down, but bring him to a complete stop.)

3. ACCEPT life, don't fight it—develop a sense of inner contentment, learn to make adjustments as problems occur and accept life without continually striving to change your situation.

4. Encourage your husband to develop a hobby. There is nothing better than a hobby or active sport to help him forget his problems and worries. Make the weekend full of interest and relaxation in anticipation of his return to the old grind on Monday. (Note: And develop a good list of plumbers, carpenters, painters, gardeners and window cleaners.)

5. ESTABLISH a good diet—stay away from heavy, rich desserts. Prepare more fowl and fish, which have polyunsaturated fat. Have three balanced meals and eliminate between meal snacks. (Note: And try to eliminate those expense account lunches. Go ahead, just try.)

Seriously, heart and blood vessel diseases cause more deaths in the United States each year than all other causes combined. They disable more Americans than any other diseases or disorders. They cause one out of every two deaths in the prime-of-life years, 45 to 64.

The month of February is National Heart Fund Month. The Long Beach Heart Association is participating with a door to door residental solicitation today, which is Heart Sunday; a Heart Tea, Feb. 27, at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Whaley; and a Heart Ball, Feb. 28, at the Elks Club, sponsored by Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity of Long Beach State College.

FUNDS collected from these events will be awarded in heart research fellowships to doctors in specific areas of heart study.

Honorary national chairman of the Heart Fund is Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. Local Heart Fund chairman is Jim Evans.

Doctor Calls for Heart Research

Dr. Lavane E. Sansum

By BEN ZINSER
I, P-T Medical-Science Editor

Atherosclerosis.

A big word, frightfully dull at first glance—but solve its mysteries and they'll hand you a Nobel prize.

For, if you want to whip the problem of heart attacks and strokes, not to mention other disabling ailments, you've got to find some way to stop atherosclerosis, slow it down or prevent it.

That's the opinion of Dr. Lavane E. Sansum, president of the Long Beach Heart Association.

HE BELIEVES that heart research's major effort should be directed against atherosclerosis.

Briefly, atherosclerosis is a thickening of the inner lining of the arteries—fatty deposits inside the arteries which narrow them. Its danger? Blood flow may be obstructed to the point where either a heart attack or a stroke ensues.

Contrary to the opinion of many, this condition is not an inevitable consequence of aging, Dr. Sansum says. Rather it is a metabolic disorder.

In fact, some families don't seem to be bothered by atherosclerosis. In certain families, he says, you'll see many elderly persons with arteries ordinarily seen only in far younger individuals.

"If you could prevent hardening of the arteries, many persons would be better able to grow old gracefully," Dr. Sansum says.

FOR NOT ONLY could you ward off heart attacks and disabling strokes, but you could prevent memory loss and personality changes brought about by degeneration of blood vessels in the brain area.

One of the most important by-products of control of atherosclerosis would be the prevention of premature death from coronary heart disease, Dr. Sansum says. Many victims of coronary disease never survive the first heart attack.

The problem is highly complex, Dr. Sansum says. There's more to it than merely attempting to hold down the level of fats in the blood he notes.

"I don't think we can change the American diet enough to get the answer," he states.

Surgery on the coronary arteries, now coming in to more widespread use, won't be the answer either, he continues. Because of the nature of coronary heart disease, surgical procedures will be able to help only certain patients.

Heart transplants, which medical science hopes to be able to achieve before too long, will solve some problems but still will not provide the entire answer, he adds.

Doctors still will have to deal with atherosclerotic problems which have led to kidney trouble and circulation disorders of the legs.

The answer, when it comes, probably will be a medical approach, Dr. Sansum speculates.

AS OF NOW, however, medical attempts to lower blood fat concentrations, for instance, are unsatisfactory.

What is needed is more basic research into hardening of the arteries, he urges.

It will take money, he says.

"The Heart Association has a lot of projects it would like to fund but cannot," he adds.

Atherosclerosis.

Don't try to pronounce it if it's difficult. Call it hardening of the arteries, thickening of the arteries, plugging up of the blood vessels—but, above all, call it treacherous. And fight it this month, Heart Month, with a check to the Heart Fund.

Social Temperature Reads Balmy Parties

By Iola Masterson
I. P-T Women's Editor

LOOK SMART? Mary Jane (Mrs. Jim) Ormon's long chiffon ball gown, with its floating back panel caught by huge rhinestone pin (see below) is not only smart but extremely clever, fashion-wise. For answer to just how smart and clever this back treatment is, page W-8.

She has invented clever fashion surprise.

BIG PARTY and a beautiful one was given by Jane (Mrs. Chester) Hosmer, Julia (Mrs. H. A.) Witz and Ruth (Mrs. J. F.) Rothwell Friday at Virginia Country Club. And what more fitting date than Valentine's Day to gather long time friends from through the years together.

About 230 guests, all in the loveliest of feminine fashion ensembles, were bidden. A big Valentine in the foyer, especially created of pink tulle and red and pink roses, greeted guests to the 11 to 1 p.m. brunch. The smaller centerpieces on individual tables mirrored this handsome "greeting card." Pearl McGinnis returned to her old VCC haunts to do the decor.

Assisting were Helen Davis, Dell Lewis, Doris Brinkmon, Lottie Meyers, Byrd Garten, Mary Green, Ronella Murphy, Virginia Wildey, Irene Malone, Gertrude Haas and Jean Harter.

Adding to the over-all glamor effect of the day was background music, harmonious to the conversation, played by a group of three musicians.

PRESIDENT Dale Ely of Downtown Kiwanis Club was in fine fettle when the club hosted its Valentine's Ladies Day Tuesday at the Lafayette. At least, he was in fine fining fettle, leveling fines against everyone he could spot whose name has been in the public print lately, including the Kenny Wings Sr. and Jr., "Smitty" Crain and Bud Holton (who were allowed to split their levy). Jim Crooker, Mott Peek and (nervy Dale!) he even extracted a dollar from the pert purse of every woman at the head table.

Wild Waves Say...

A few in the crowd spotted were Dorothy and Police Chief Bill Mooney, Irma and Merm Hall, Vyrle and Howell Honeywell, Fran and Bill Junkins, Evelyn and Ken Hemphill, Mabel and Vern Brustkern, Evelyn and Max Livoni and Lois and Les Watson. Hah. That'll give Dale some fine names to fine around with.

Program was primarily presented by Jan Murdock, formerly of L.B., now of Inglewood, who gave a humorous, illustrated, dialogue on how not to dress plus a good talk on personality development.

Among some of her comments. . . . "Poise is pause. Am I really thinking and doing for others as they are for me? . . . We must develop tolerance and learn when to let our hearts rule our heads,—or our heads rule our hearts. . . . We are the valus we place upon ourselves," plus many other thoughtful observations.

SPEAKING of Lafayette, Manager John McKennon and wife, Pat, entertained for Lorne and Nancy Green (he is the familiar "Bonanza" TV show lead) and heads at hotel really turned as the familiar giant strolled through.

They discovered that Lorne's favorite dish is, of all things, marinated wild hare. So after careful researching of recipes by the exec chef that's what was served in Cafe Lafayette. Don't ask me where they got the hare, but thar it was and delicious, even to those who thought such critters abounded only on our Municipal Airport runways or in the hills of Dominguez.

Also present, and a head-turner, was Francoise Ruggiere, French starlet, who just finished "Global Affair," Bob Hope's now being released motion picture.

ROOM WITH view—a view (on all sides) of chic women—was Petroleum Club's main dining room when the combined professional auxiliaries had annual luncheon there Monday.

"Jim" (Mrs. Tom) Bronn wore a beige straw I admired. Found out she made it herself—makes all her own hats and has a closet-ful of them. She makes all hats for her Wilson and USC coed daughters, as well.

Also admired a handsome shiny, straw (green) worn by Inez (Mrs. Walter) Ross. Discovered she, too, makes all of her own hats—has at least 40 chapeaux Her other passion is shoes and, she admitted, she must own 50 pairs.

Smart, as always, was Glenda (Mrs. Earl) Barnes in black cloche lined in muted print of black, brown and white. Smart as all get out, too, was Merle (Mrs. Russ) King's outfit topped with red felt derby. Gloria (Mrs. Richard) McWilliams wore a green feather hat, very exclusive. I was told she was shopping in Beverly Hills with group of friends who decided to try on hats in one of the better hat shops and talked her into buying this one. Some friends! As I recall the story, they walked away without hats, left Gloria to be the only sheller-outer for toppers. Could have gone through the whole room and had a complimentary remark to make but time to stop. It'll go to their heads!

MELLVE WILSON left Saturday for Rome and the Far East with an airlines satchel packed with genuine Hong Kong dollars! What a way to go.

Seems Dorothy Forman entertained at a leave-taking party and it was at this time the satchel was presented. Dorothy had WASHED the bills and dried them on a mirror in an effort to make them look more gala.

Enjoying bridge after luncheon were Dorothy Jean Ellery, her sister, Rita Maidel, visiting here from Djakarta, Indonesia, Frieda Pritchard, Waula Pearson, Eunice Crail and Hester Gray plus the much astonished, needless to say, delighted guest of honor. Happy travels with moola of the land!

It was 4 to 6 p.m. event, naturally; had to be so the young ladies could help mothers entertain and took place at Kirkpatrick's spacious Park Estates home after school hours.

Life size corrugated paper dolls in pink lined the walkway and festooned the door and there was a red carpet welcome—really red carpet—to home's portals. Although actually adult, those asked to assist who have daughters were, in turn, assisted by said daughters, ranging in age from six years to college level and from one to several per mama. IF they had daughters, that is.

Greeting the more than 200 guests who accepted the paper doll invitations (done by artistic Betty Anne, herself, who else?) with daughter, daughters—or none—were (catch your breath and read on) Nancy Bauer, Pat Brennan, Julia Cheney, Shirley Gean, Sandy Gill, Pat Goddard, Carol Hoagland, Evie Hodges, Eleanor Kirkpatrick, (her dotter-in-law was hostess). Nadine Kirkpatrick, Hazel Klein (Mary's mother-in-law), Ramona Kline, Jean Looman. . . .

AND . . . Dixie Millie, Carmen Parrish, Jeannie Rastello, Alice Seibert (hostess Mary's mother), Alberta Sagehorn, Ethel Severson, Evelyn Whaley, Beverly Wing, Betsy Taubman, Artie Stevenson and Mildred Wing.

Well, as you can see, there was a gala crowd at that gathering before the guests ever showed up!

Life size dolls — real and corrugated.

ANSWER TO THE 'BEATLES'

For the Ladies, Danny's Lady Bug Cake

By MARY NETH

Stop flipping through those cookbooks, ladies!

We've got the solution for what to serve the girls at the next auxiliary tea or bridge party.

Second grader Danny Carter graciously has consented to tell how he whipped up his famous bug cake.

The design, sure to win you acclaim, won him a ribbon at the Naples School Cake Contest.

No pale piece of pastel party pastry, the Carter creation features an eye-stopping lady bug (some called it a "Beatle") motif and comes in authentic insect colors: red body, chocolate cup-cake head, black wavy legs and feelers against a vivid background of chartruse green—"the grass, where bugs sit, you know."

• • • •

"IT WAS EASY to make," says Danny modestly.

"He did it all himself, with just a little negative help from his brothers (9 and 4 years) and sister (2)," says his mother, Mrs. Hugh Carter.

"Yep, they kept getting in the way licking the beaters and bowls," says Danny.

Anyway, once Danny decided on a bug (instead of a mouse or monster), he lined up the supplies. Included: one box of cake plus frosting mix and a dime store's supply of jelly beans, licorice whips, tiny hard candles plus food coloring, marshmallows and peanuts.

"You don't really need the marshmallows and peanuts," he advises. "But, they're nice to have around."

THE DIRECTIONS? Bake one round and one cup cake each; cool and frost. The jelly beans are for the spots and the eyes and the licorice whips make the legs and feelers. Decorating time: One hour and 15 minutes.

"The legs are the hard part," says Danny. "They kept slipping—it took gobs of frosting to keep them stuck up."

Unfortunately, no one knows how Danny's cake tasted.

"By the time it got home (minus five spots and two legs), I decided it looked a little too worn to be edible," says Mrs. Carter.

"But, I guess Danny was pretty lucky at that. Someone ate the torch off Kevin O'Neil's Olympic ski jump cake before the judging and little Helen Rhea, third grade, slipped 100 feet from the school and dropped her American flag face down on the pavement."

• • • •

THE CONTEST, held on P-T.A. Founder's Day for the past 12 years, is co-sponsored and supervised by recreation director Vera McAllister and P-T.A. recreation chairman Marge Tead.

Cakes, baked and decorated at home, are judged in two categories: those baked and decorated by the child and those decorated only by the child.

Each contestant wins a ribbon in some category (they range from artistic to clever) and the popularity of the event is attested to by the fact that more than half the children in school participate . . . this year 150 out of 200 families.

As to Danny's beribboned bug—any women who'd like to copy the design is welcome to do so, according to Mrs. Carter. "But, don't ask Danny to do the job," she pleads. "One cake a year is enough."

BUGS MAY TOP the current "Beatle" craze if Danny Carter's cake catches on. In bold tones, it represents a walking (legs uneven) lady bug; would make a lovely centerpiece, don't you think? A prize winner at the Naples School Cake Contest, it's "easy to make." See story.—(Photo by Joe Risinger.)

And Now... Look What's Ahead for the Men

...S-t-r-e-t-c-h Fabrics, Kookie Hats and Colors that S-c-r-e-a-m!

By MARY ELLIS CARLTON
I, P-T Fashion Editor

The man in the grey flannel suit may be replaced in 1964 by the man in the white stretch coat and pants.

And those teen-age men you see in surfer clothes may not be surfers at all. Chances are they've just been swept up in the latest fashion wave.

That's the word from the American Institute of Men's and Boy's Wear, who—in conjunction with the 46th annual convention of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers held in Los Angeles—just unveiled the latest in men's wear.

EXPERTS from top fiber producers and mills note that s-t-r-e-t-c-h is the big word in men's fashions. Fabrics with give will be found not only in sportswear but in business suits—even formal wear.

Said one expert: "They're not only comfortable, they look fresher and less wrinkled at the end of the day."

About that surfer influence: Surfing has become such a teen-age rage, say the experts, that teen-age men (that's what AIMBW calls them) from Des Moines to Del Monte are going all out for the surfer look.

And manufacturers are providing plenty of ammunition with laced-front swimtrunks, hooded parkas, wheat-colored jeans, collarless sweatshirts and kookie hats.

ASCOTS, that staple of the sporty Hollywood set, are back. And African prints, the wilder the better, are coming.

Blazers are big. So are white suits, or off-white ones.

Other trends:

Ties—getting more colorful. There's less tone on tone, more printed patterns, more white in patterns. Traditional ones are slightly wider.

Shoes—lighter browns, without the reddish and black tones of winter. Blacks will be brighter with lightweight calfskins taking over from heavyweight grained skins.

Belts—alligator, calf, pin seal and moroccos are coming in, along with a big array of light and bright elastics.

Slacks—more belt loops and more with plain, rather than pleated, fronts.

And it's noted that girl-watchers may be in for some trouble this year. They'll have difficulty making their whistles heard over the loud, noisy color combinations in sportswear.

After a Fashion

Here's What's 'In' . . .

Checking in for spring (from left), very lightweight button-through worsted topcoat worn with iridescent blue-green suit, black high-style slipons, medium grey pinch-front felt hat . . . for boating, broadly striped cotton knit tank top; white duck pants, matching hat; bright orange quilted nylon float coat that doubles as life jacket, holds up to 250 pounds in the water... new collarless T-shirt, kookie straw hat, white jeans . . . the always-popular blazer in bright green linen worn with single-self-belt; silk ascot fills in neck of plaid shirt . . . the authentic surfer look, matching lace-front swim trunks, parka top in cotton duck.

Learn From Experience

Take a look at the West hand only. You have 20 high card points, a very good six-card suit, two aces and three kings. Do you plan to open with a conservative one heart or an optimistic two bid?

Either prospect is pleasing but your dreams are rudely interrupted. Instead of passing as any nice opponent would do South bids four spades! Now, what do you do?

Thirty years ago I would have bid five hearts. I would feel that all I needed to make the contract would be heart support, the queen of diamonds and a singleton spade in dummy and that I was not going to let South fix me.

Today after 30 years of being fixed by everyone from the greatest experts to the veriest beginners, I would double.

• • • •

THE THEORY is that when you expect to be fixed try to get some sort of plus score in any event. I really expect to set this four spade bid and I am not at all confident that I will be able to make five hearts.

This time the decision to double is a wise one indeed. I will probably set four spades two tricks for a net profit of 300 points. Even if South plays double dummy I will collect 100 points and five hearts will be doubled and set at least one trick. Not too much difference except that pluses are pluses and minuses are minuses.

Program at Auditorium

A free program will be presented by the Bebe Carpenter Theatrical Arts Dance Studio Monday at 8 p.m. in Municipal Auditorium sponsored by the Long Beach Recreation Department.

Barbara Gill, recording artist, will be mistress of ceremonies for the variety show entitled "Theatrically Yours."

The Bebe Carpenter dancers, featuring USO entertainers, will perform special ensemble numbers including a "Salute to the Services," "Poetry in Jazz Motion" and "March of the Toreadors."

Carl H. Robinson will lead the community singing to open the program at 7:30 p.m. with Regena Beam as accompanist.

Old time and square dancing to the Tyo Orchestra will follow the stage show with Joe Marshall as caller.

Club Fidelitas Plans Dance

Club Fidelitas, a German-American group founded in 1950, will have its Valentine's dance Saturday at 8 p.m. in Masonic Hall, 516 W. Esther St.

Franz Bahl's dance band from Los Angeles will play German and American numbers. Community singing will be featured during intermission and refreshments served. Mrs. William Hendler, 1980 Chestnut Ave., is in charge of membership information.

She Hears His 'Yes' After Thirty Years

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I'm glad that leap year comes this month. For I popped the question to him, and he said "Yes."

For 30 years I have been waiting for him. In the meantime, he has been widowed twice. But I never married, always waiting for him. And last week I called him up and asked him to let me take him to dinner. He was surprised for a minute, but then he said, "Why sure, Martha!"

He wouldn't stand for me picking him up. But I asked him under candlelight at the restaurant to put on my finger a ring I had bought, he thought this was fun, and we will be married next month.

We have both saved enough money to buy a little home in Florida. So don't let anyone ever tell you that it isn't worth waiting to find heaven. I've found mine. Those 30 years now seem like a day. — LUCKY MARTHA

DEAR MARTHA:

And you will find, I am sure, that these last roses are by far the best.—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I've written you before but you never answer. Why not? My problem is my father won't let me get my driver's license and says I have to wait until I'm 21. I'm past 16 now.

He works all the time, and Mother can't drive. I know I could be a lot of help if I had my license. What to do?—DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE:

I'm sorry about not answering, but my dear I had 51 letters last month from 16-year-olds complaining about the same thing you do. There is no way I can help. This is an individual problem in each family — and has to be worked out individually, too.—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have a very young daughter (just 17) who has two young children. They started fighting when they were over at our house the other day and instead of spanking them my daughter simply yelled at them.

My son-in-law got up and gave the youngsters a little spanking, and then turned my daughter over his knee and spanked her, too, saying this was an example of what she had to do to discipline the children.

Even though she is young I think he had no right to spank her and I am very indignant. What do you think?—WONDERING MOM

DEAR MOM:

Of course I don't think a husband should spank his wife, no matter how young she is. But I do think he should make her understand the importance of disciplining the kids.—M.M.

MAJOR & MINOR NOTES

Young Dancer's Career Is Traced

By RACHEL MORTON
I.-P-T Music Critic

The Robert Joffrey Ballet, a recent attraction here with the Community Concerts series, made a tour of Russia last fall. Two members of the company, Bill Tarpy and Christine Sarry, are pupils of our own local ballet teacher, Valerie Silver. Bill Tarpy came to see me recently and what he told me was most interesting and informative.

Bill was born in Long Beach 19 years ago. His mother, whose maiden name oddly enough was Martha Graham, took her son at the age of 6 to a tap dance class.

"That is not what I want," he told her after a few lessons. Then he saw the film, "The Red Shoes." He saw it seven times. "That's what I want," he exclaimed, "ballet dancing." So began his lessons with Valerie Silver and he has never ceased taking from her.

"She is the greatest of them all. She has a spiritual approach to the dance which none of the others have," he says.

• • • •

AT THE AGE of 9, Bill Tarpy danced his first solo dance, the Bluebird in "Sleeping Beauty," and at 12 he danced leads in Coppelia which Valerie Silver produced.

At 15 years of age Bill started ballet lessons in Los Angeles with David Lichine, who was with the original Ballet Russe. Lichine took him to Mexico City where they made a film, "Graduation Ball."

When he was 17 he danced at the Pilgrimage Play Bowl in a production put on by Valerie Silver. From his appearance came a Ford Foundation scholarship for lessons in New York City with the famous Russian dancer, Balanchine.

"I loved my work with this great teacher," related Bill. "But New York City depressed me and I decided I should go home and finish my education." He graduated from Wilson High School in 1963.

• • • •

ONE DAY last October a telephone call from New York from Christine Sarry.

"We are going on a tour to Russia," she explained excitedly, "and they need one more male dancer." They sent Bill a plane ticket and within three days he was accepted as a member of the Robert Joffrey Ballet. In three weeks he was on his way to Russia.

The biggest thrill came when they first entered the famous Maryinsky Theater in Leningrad where they opened their three-week season. In this theater had danced Pavlova, Nijinsky, Ulanova and Nureyev, and all the other great Russian dancers. Members of the Joffrey Company all reached down and touched the "sacred" floor in a remembering tribute.

• • • •

BILL DESCRIBED the theater itself as very beautiful, with red velvet chairs, white wood paneling with gilding and chandeliers everywhere. The theater seats 1500, although 1760 is the official count. After they left the theater, the young Russian ballet dancers were waiting for them with welcoming hugs, although they could not speak one another's language.

"Communication by way of the arts," said Bill, "is far more effective and convincing than diplomatic parleys."

In Donetsk, a little coal mining town, they were the first Americans ever presented. Although a small village, it had a beautiful modern opera house. Ten performances in Moscow completed the 10 week-tour. Everywhere there were standees and at the last performances in Leningrad the curtain rose and lowered 27 times, and as the dancers advanced for bows, they were pelted with flowers. In Moscow on the final night, they were 35 curtain calls.

• • • •

FROM THIS thrilling experience, Bill Tarpy has come back with but one ambition: not for himself, but for Long Beach.

"We are known as the International City," he said. "My dream is to see here in Long Beach some day an International Fine Arts Conservatory second to none in the world."

Dream on, Bill Tarpy! Every great achievement started as a dream.

WINNERS ALL

Talented young people, winners of annual competition for Long Beach student musicians held by Long Beach Symphony Association, are (from left) Don Kramer, violin; John Dorch, clarinet; Kathleen Crawford, voice; and Craig Nies, piano. They'll appear in concert with L. B. Symphony next Saturday night at Millikan High School auditorium. Each receives a cash award.

Will Solo With Symphony

As has been their custom for almost 20 years, Long Beach Symphony Association has again sponsored a competition for student musicians, the winner of which will be presented in a concert next Saturday at 8 p.m. in Millikan High School Auditorium.

Auditions were held last week under direction of a committee from the association which included Ernest Webeke, chairman, Mrs. Charles Dorrans and Dr. Lester De Noyelles. Auditions are co-sponsored by the association, service clubs of Long Beach and the Long Beach Symphonettes.

Winners in the four divisions of the competition include Craig Nies, piano; Kathleen Crawford, voice; Don Kramer, strings; and John Dorch, winds. Each will receive a substantial cash award.

• • • •

SECOND PLACE winners who will receive certificates of merit include Pamela Saltzman, voice; Lynn Curtis, strings; Christopher Haffenden and Edward Allan (tied), winds. Presentations will be made by representatives of the sponsoring groups.

The program will include Berlioz' "Trojan March" and Enesco's "Rumanian March." Audition winners will perform with the orchestra in Mendelssohn's "Violin Concerto" (third movement); Tchaikovsky's "Piano Concerto No. 1" (1st movement); Stomatz "Concerto for Clarinet" and "Jewel Song" from Gounod's "Faust." Lauris Jones will conduct the 90-piece orchestra.

• • • •

THERE IS no admission charge for the concert which is made possible by a grant from trust funds of the recording industries, obtained by cooperation of Local 353, American Federation of Musicians.

There will be dancing after the concert. Reservations may be made for groups of 20 or more by calling the Symphony Association, 1935 E. Seventh St.

Sculpture at LBSC

While Art Editor Elsa Emery is on vacation her column is being written by Betty Wentworth.

Opening of the master's exhibit of Tenold Peterson will be honored with a reception at Long Beach State College tonight from 8 to 10 p.m. The public is invited.

The exhibition is the first master's show to be allocated the space of the entire large art gallery, and includes paintings, drawings, sculpture and prints.

Peterson is the first recipient of a loan program for graduate architectural sculpture given by the Long Beach State College Foundation. He has been in prominent juried shows from La Jolla to San Francisco, and three years ago he was second prize winner in a National Art Director's competition in New York for college students.

Considered to be an exceptionally original artist by his associates, Peterson has developed a completely personal style of treating forms (abstracted from observation of human form) and their interrelationships in space. Many of the paintings are huge and impressive in scale.

• • • •

LONG BEACH Art Association invites all artists to participate in the March Juried Exhibit to be held in the LBAA gallery in the Villa Riviera, 88 E. Ocean Blvd. Entries will be received next Saturday and Sunday from 1 to 7 p.m. and on Feb. 24 from 1 to 5 p.m.

Juror will be John Leeper, whose paintings are exhibited nationally in top galleries and museums. Oils, watercolors and mixed media are acceptable. Ralph Tarzian, director of juried exhibits, is in charge of arrangements. For further information call the gallery.

On Tuesday night at 7:30 guest speaker at the association's monthly meeting will be Dr. Maxine Merlino of Long Beach State College who will present a program of the art of India, Nepal, Hong Kong, the Philippines, Japan and Bangkok, featuring sculpture and major architectural monuments.

Dr. Merlino has also done work in theater set design and murals, and worked with Preston Sturges in his theater restaurant, "The Players" in Los Angeles. Slides will be shown.

• • • •

AMONG ARTISTS and sculptors from throughout the state whose works of art have been accepted for display in the All California Art Exhibit at the National Orange Show in San Bernardino, several are from the Long Beach and nearby areas. The show will run from March 12 through 22.

Represented in the modern watercolor category is Grace S. Dimmick, 477 E. Adair St., Long Beach, with Herbert Griswold, Newport Beach, in the same category. Accepted in the conservative watercolors are Rex Brandt, Corona Del Mar; Dorothy McKinney, La Habra; Kathryn Olson and Roger Armstrong, Laguna Beach.

Modern oils accepted were from Leona Freeman, Dana Point; Ruth Osgood, Balboa Island; Allan Pedersen, Dan Wassen, San Pedro; and David Rosen, Laguna Beach.

• • • •

"NEW AMERICAN Sculpture," an exhibition of works of five outstanding artists of the past decade, has been prepared by the Pasadena Art Museum to run through March 7.

The exhibit includes works of Lee Bontecou, John Chamberlain, Edward Higgins, Kenneth Price and H. C. Westermann. Although all five are American born and live here they share a common tendency to draw upon a more distant ancestry, such European "grandparents" in sculpture as Brancusi, Arp, Calder and Miro.

Also on display in the galleries are "Spiritual Sculpture," including a recently acquired Christus; a collection of Venetian glass, displays of American and German expressionism, master prints from the 15th to 20th centuries and Rembrandt etchings.

The museum is open to the public daily except Monday.

A quartet of London's brightest young stars will divide the roles in the two separate plays.

Experiments of Trio Show Print Evolution

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

Fanciers of print-making will find much to interest them in the exhibit at the Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., which continues through next Sunday. A collection from the Museum of Modern Art, under the sponsorship of the Columbia Broadcasting System Foundation, it contains the works of the Englishman, Sickert, the Swiss, Vallotton, and the French Signac, all of whom lived in the late 19th and early 20th centuries.

These three men represent not only their own work, but reflect the close influence of numbers of artists on each other during those early days of rapid revolution and experimentation in European art.

• • • •

SICKERT profited from the fine etching technique of Whistler, mundane subject-matter and angle-shot approach from Degas. All of these, like many other artists of that era, were excited and influenced by Japanese woodcuts which had arrived in great numbers in Paris as wrappings for shipments of china.

Sickert's most remarkable characteristic is that his people are wraith-like while the architecture and furnishings of his etchings are very solid. He is enthralled by lower-class music halls, the performers, and the enthusiastic response of the audience. "That Old-Fashioned Mother of Mine" is a singer in dress-suit and his shadows in the spotlight; it is given form by a variety of line patternings, though the figure itself is treated as a flat silhouette.

• • • •

VALLOTTON, who worked in woodcut eschewing the revealing of grain in favor of sharp black and white, achieves strong effects. It shows a female nude sprawled amidst highly patterned pillows on a tapestry-covered bed. We view the scene from high on one side, and the turns of the patterns of flat color tell us succinctly about the shapes.

In "Student Procession," "Manifestation," and "The Charge," reverses of strong dark and light patterns are effective in both composition and the indication of different personalities in the crowds depicted.

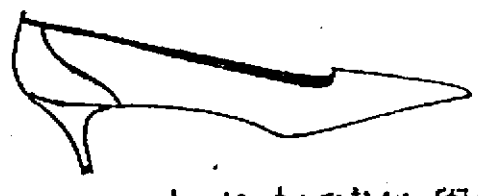

• • • •

SIGNAC experimented in the post-impressionist color theories along with Seurat. They sought to capture the shimmer of light by using various colors together; they also developed theories of the emotion of color.

While Signac used the litho technique which Toulouse-Lautrec exploited, the approaches are almost opposite. The latter used broad, flat planes of intense color defined with sinuous line; Signac uses almost no line and his forms develop from the variations and overlaps of small strokes of color.

In "Port of San Tropez," tones of blue, red, and yellow are juxtaposed and overlaid. "Boats at Flessingue" is a riot of elaborate curving directions, not just in the boats and rigging but in a sunset sky as well which seems to bear some relationship to Van Gogh's "Starry Night." One black and white litho, "The Paris Flood of 1922," is a quick and brilliant perception.

Sneedles and Vrooms Delight Center Visitors

What may well be the world's most fancifully inhabited "zoo" is on display through February at Lytton Center of Visual Arts, 8150 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood. The zoo is an exhibit "Of Creatures 'n Kids 'n Dr. Seuss," designed for children and adults of all ages, and is a display of many of Dr. Seuss' manuscripts and his highly distinctive "animals."

Dr. Seuss, (real name Theodore Seuss Geisel and a resident of La Jolla), has sold more children's books than any author in history, including Lewis Carroll.

In the course of writing and illustrating these works, Seuss has created an unmatched collection of fantastically named creatures. Many of his original drawings, both in finished and developmental form, some on loan from UCLA's rare manuscript collection, are at the Lytton Center show.

For example, there are the "Sneetches," the "Foona Lagoona Baboona," the "Chuppendale Mupp," the "Grickly Gractus," the "Hooded Klopfers," "Sneedle," "Umbus" and "Vrooms," just to give a Seussian sampling.

• • • •

FOREMOST of all is Dr. Seuss' most popular character, "The Cat in the Hat." The "Cat," portrayed by actor Robert Towers, reads Seuss stories to Center visitors. Towers is properly costumed in the Seuss cat's highly distinctive red and white hat, about as tall as a Buckingham Palace guard's shako, plus the cat's drooping red bow tie and most important, his winsome expression.

In conjunction with the Seuss show is another exhibit of other highly imaginative "creatures" created by 6 to 14 year olds from Eldorado School in Orange, Monterey Park Creative Workshop and Pasadena Art Museum Junior Workshop. Their assignment was to devise their own creations from either the animal or mythological world.

AS THE exhibit shows, the children came through with flying colors, with a "Worm from Outer Space," a "Feather Bottle," an "Axphixius Futura" and the "Gandy Chummley." They used egg cartons, pie plates, bits of wool and string as well as clay.

Other displays include George Pal's gnomes from the "Wonderful World of the Brothers Grimm" and Tony Duquette's fairy tale miniatures from "Camelot." There are also free hourly showings of especially selected short color movies in the Lytton Auditorium. (But reports that the movie projector is operated by a "Nizzard" just aren't true).

The center is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and admission is free.

Vienna Boys Choir to Sing at City College

Vienna Boys' Choir, 22 musical ambassadors from Austria, will appear in concert at 8 p.m. Friday in Long Beach City College auditorium, Harvey Way near Clark Avenue.

Tickets to the college's "Evenings at Eight Extra" will be available during the week at the student body banker's office, 4901 E. Carson St., and at the box office Friday night.

Representatives of a 465-year tradition, the Vienna Choir Boys are products of intensive training at the famous Seminary School in Vienna, founded in 1498 by decree of Holy Roman Emperor Maximilian I. The choir often performs works by two celebrated former members, Josef Haydn and Franz Schubert.

Ages of the choir boys range from 8 to 14, and many a tuneful boy soprano becomes a "has been" at 12 or 13, as voices begin to change. The Seminary School assists former choir members with further education and training for future careers, however.

IMPRESARIO Sol Hurok, who arranged the choir's first trip to the U.S. in 1932 and is sponsoring its 20th American tour this season, has commented: "They sing like angels — but they eat like horses."

Repertoire of the group ranges from religious and classical music to folk songs and costumed operettas. In the latter the boys display a considerable flair for acting and comedy along with their flawless musicianship.

Donald E. Sullivan

CHEF OF THE WEEK

He Came, Saw, Couldn't Forget

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
L. P-T Food Editor

He first glimpsed the splendor of Southern California while peeking over a clarinet in Pasadena's Rose Bowl.

Today's Chef of the Week, Donald E. Sullivan was a member of the University of Nebraska Band, when that university played Stanford in the 1941 New Year's game. He doesn't remember which team won, he was so smitten with his surroundings.

Sullivan remained in Aurora, Neb., his birthplace, until enrolling in the Univeristy of Nebraska at Lincoln, from which he graduated with a degree in business administration. He pledged Delta Sigma Pi.

• • • •

SULLIVAN'S tour through the houses-of-learning (from high school up) was made possible by various and sundry feats of industry. For instance, he was doorman at the Nebraska Theatre in Lincoln, the janitor at the State Capitol Building, and a guide at both the New York and San Francisco World Fairs.

But right in the middle of it all, with no money—and no worries, he said, "Let's get married." And that's what he and Evelyn Williams, his high school sweetheart, up and did. She's proven his lucky charm ever since.

• • • •

FOLLOWING graduation, Don spent ten months with Dupont as cost engineer while awaiting orders for Navy duty, which eventually took him to Notre Dame for training. He received his commission as Ensign in 1943 and set out on his first tour of duty to Long Beach. Never having seen an ocean before, he was immediately assigned the job of Harbor Pilot.

Learning via the grapevine that the Destroyer, USS The Sullivans (named for the five Sullivan brothers who had been war casualties) was being built, Sullivan requested duty aboard that ship. It was granted, and he took over as gunnery officer with the rank of senior lieutenant. He found 21 other Sullivans aboard, also.

When "The Sullivans" had won the war, Don returned to Long Beach, and after interviewing companies for three weeks, he went to work for the Payne Furnace Co.

In 1949, he, with two others, formed the Southland Heating and Air Conditioning, Inc., with Don as vice president and treasurer.

• • • •

TEN YEARS later, he formed another company, the Advanced Engineering and Supply Corp., which is distributor for Payne Heating and Air Conditioning Co. in southwest Los Angeles, Riverside and San Bernardino Counties. It's "wholsul" only. They have 72 dealers and Don is president of the company.

The Sullivans have a son, Tom, recently from Nebraska U., now at City College, and 16-year-old twin daughters, Susan and Sandra, Wilson students. They're both brunettes and "Bruinettes," cheer leaders, song leaders, 'n such.

Sullivan had a bit of rooting coming his way while in school, also. He lettered in football and played on the champion team, The Aurora Huskies. Vice president of his senior class, he made honor roll his first year. Then he got married.

• • • •

A MEMBER of the Downtown Kiwanis Club, he is trust adviser of Region 10 for the North American Heating and Air Conditioning Wholesalers. Region 10 includes California, Arizona, New Mexico and Nevada. Having worked up through the chairs, he has served as president of the Long Beach Builders Exchange. As a family, they are active in the Lakewood Village Community Church.

Perhaps it's just as well that Sullivan's business is strictly wholesale. If anything needs fixing around the house, Mrs. Sullivan quickly calls the repairman before Don discovers it. There's a reason!

Our "Chef" can, and does, however, turn out a fetching batch of Barbecued Pork Chops. Here's how he does them:

BARBECUED PORK CHOPS

8 lean pork chops
½ cup catsup
tsp. salt
tsp. celery seed
½ tsp. nutmeg
½ cup vinegar
1 cup water
1 bay leaf

Brown chops in hot fat. Combine all remaining ingredients, and pour over chops. Bake in 325° oven for 1½ hours, turning chops once during baking.

Wears Satin for Wedding

In a gown of lace styled over satin, Mary Ann Sutton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell E. Sutton, 904 E. 70th Way, became the bride of Gary James O'Neil in Bethel Lutheran Church.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. O'Neil of San Pedro.

For the 8 p.m. ceremony Feb. 15, Mrs. Fred Ashley served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Pat and Jan Sutton, sisters of the bride. Richard Poulsen, a cousin of the bridegroom, was best man and ushering the 160 guests to their places were Michael Stephenson and Joe Di Cala.

• • • •

THE NEW Mrs. O'Neil is a graduate of Jordan High School. Her husband is a graduate of San Pedro High and attended Harbor Junior College.

Following a honeymoon stay at San Juan Capistrano the newlyweds will make their home in San Pedro.

Ho Ho! Here is Reason for Tricky Back Drape Look

Smart reason for clever back panel on Mary Jane Orman's gown (see W-2) becomes aparent. She broke shoulder on leaving Chamber of Commerce meeting; caught heel on step and fell, kerplunk, into flower bed, quicker than you could say geranium. For busy social whirl she has devised number of matching scarves to secure in back with handsome pins. What appears style-wise drape has dual purpose. In front wisely, comfortably cradles arm, in sling effect. Husband Jim has been buying her new pins, scarves like 60. Children, Debbie, Steve, have done share, too, with housework, homework.

Husband, Wife Social Planned

Chi Omega Alumnae will have its annual husband and wife social next Sunday in Petroleum Club, 3636 Linden Ave. Cocktails will be served at 5:30 p. m. followed by buffet dinner at 6. DEAR COL. TOM PARKER:

I'm writing to you because I have a multi-million-dollar television idea which, with your show business knowledge, I hope you can turn into cash for both of us.

Since you're the manager of Elvis Presley, it isn't necessary for me to explain to you how anybody associated with a teen-age fad can ride to the top of a mint.

Let's go for that ride, Colonel, you again and me for the first time.

There currently is within the boundaries of these United States an English group that has brought its nation more publicity than anything since the Boston Tea Party.

Wherever this group goes, they're mobbed by swarms of our red-blooded American youths.

Maybe the President's daughters had too much homework to go pay personal homage, but the rest of the kids seem to have abandoned their books.

I'M NOT KNOCKING IT, Colonel, believe me.

I remember the time when our generation went ga-ga over one of Kay Kyser's singers just because he had a bang-down haircut. His name was Ish Kabibble and, as I recall, he couldn't sing very well.

How come you and I didn't think then, Colonel, to get four Ish Kabibble haircuts together? All we'd have to worry about now would be income taxes.

But there's no sense looking back, is there?

Because if we did, we could remember the time Sid Caesar put together a group that he called "The Four Haircuts" and we all thought they were just a joke, not teen-age ecstasy.

And what about poor Moe of the Three Stooges? Bet he never realized what a romantic idol he could be!

BUT LET THE PAST be preface, Colonel, and let's get down to the multi-million-dollar idea.

First we sign up four high school girls who all need one thing in common—they can't have any talent. To be specific, they must not be able to sing.

I suppose we could be a little lenient in the latter respect. However, under no circumstances should their vocal range be permitted to expand further than from do to re.

The next thing we do, Colonel, is give them haircuts. Not just ordinary haircuts, Colonel, but crewcuts.

Don't let that idea overcome you, please, sir. It makes sense.

If boys can wear girls' haircuts and be a hit, why can't girls wear boys' crewcuts and be likewise. It's a topsy-turvey world, you know.

We name this girls' group—get this, Colonel—"The Lady Bugs."

Does that ringo a bell, sir?

WE COULD GET A LOT of publicity on the idea that these are good, decent, law-abiding lady bugs who would never fly away from home and leave a teen-age kid alone as long as he had a radio and television set.

Then, Colonel, you get them on "The Ed Sullivan Show"—if there still is an Ed Sullivan show. He's survived a lot of catastrophes.

And "The Lady Bugs" become an overnight sensation with a song you and I write.

I've already got the title. Get this, Colonel—

"I'd Like to Tickle Your Toes."

Kick that one around for awhile and we'll have a billion-platter seller. We might even be able to open our own mint.

Then we can send "The Lady Bugs" to England and get our revenge.

Very truly yours,

BERT RESNIK

P.S.: You may have noticed, Colonel, that I did not specify the name of the English group currently visiting us. It is not that I am a coward, sir, and fear for my life in the event my mention of their name might be considered derogatory. It is just that I am a family man and they would miss me.

SPECIAL

THE 20TH CENTURY—Two faces of America—prosperous, booming Houston, Texas, and Clay County, Ky., in the economically stagnant Appalachians—are surveyed on successive weeks at 6 p.m., ch. 2. Opener, "Deep in the Heart of Houston," explores the reasons for the region's prosperity, and probes its educational, social and cultural climate. Interviewed are the director of NASA's new manned spacecraft center, one of the owners of the Colt .45s, the first Negro ever elected to public office in Houston, and the director of the famed experimental Alley Theatre. Walter Cronkite is reporter, with Dan Rather on-the-scene.

PARIS: STORY OF HIGH FASHION—Genesis of a new Paris fashion line, detailing the creative and manual arts required to produce it, is shown at 10 p.m., in color, ch. 4. Set in the salon of famed couturier Pierre Cardin, show became a veritable cloak-and-dagger production, with camera crews signing pledges of secrecy, exposed film tagged with a false label, and processed film locked in a safe until the latest Cardin collection was unveiled. George Vicas, producer, and Mme. HelenGordon Lazareff, editor of "Elle," are narrators.

IRENE RYAN
Changes Costume

'Granny' Dresses Up for Andy's Show

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Irene Ryan, the backwoods Granny on "Beverly Hillbillies," has doffed her burlap mountain gowns in favor of a slinky new dress.

Some folks might have trouble recognizing Irene when she appears as Andy Williams' guest on his NBC-TV show at 10 p.m. Tuesday, channel 4. Miss Ryan, wearing a gown stitched together by filmland designer Mr. Blackwell, contrasts sharply with the scratchy-voiced gal she plays on "Hillbillies."

Irene's character of Granny on that extremely popular series can be described as a female Gabby Hayes, always ready to pinch up her face at the slightest hint of a city slicker lurking about.

Miss Ryan, a veteran of years on vaudeville stages, scored her biggest professional success in that off-beat series about a mountain family that strikes oil, becomes rich and moves to Beverly Hills.

The show, now in its third year, has been a popular success even though it has come under cultural attack by those who believe it to be low-brow humor.

Irene and her co-stars Buddy Ebsen, Max Baer Jr. and Donna Douglas have made hundreds of public appearances since the show started. The popularity is appreciated, but Miss Ryan would like a change of pace, character and costume for a short spell. Williams' show will give her all of that and two new dresses in the bargain.

"I LOOK LIKE I was poured into one of the dresses," said Irene.

The dress must hold about a pint, because Irene isn't much bigger.

"One dress is velvet on the bottom and beaded at the top. It cost about $1,500. You could get my 'Hillbilly' costume in a Goodwill store."

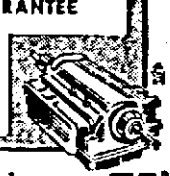

Irene's regular television ensemble has been described as early burlap. It consists of a sackcloth skirt, calico blouse, a tired sweater and shoes which came from a war surplus store. In fact, the whole character of Granny appears as if it came from a war surplus store.

"I really think Andy's show will be good for me because it's such a contrast to Granny," Irene said. "I sing a medley of songs that I did in my nightclub act. Then, at the end of the show, I appear as Granny."

The glamor world of an Andy Williams' show is a welcome relief from the back country philosophy of "Beverly Hillbillies."

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

Pamela Britton is an actress, but not a star.

That's alright with her.

For the past 20 years she has been an active professional in show business.

It's an activity that currently sees her playing the role of "Mrs. Brown" on CBS-TV's Sunday "My Favorite Martian" series.

In her other major television effort, she played "Blondie" in the series of the same name.

The 20 years have included motion picture credits in such films as "Anchors Aweigh," "Key to the City," "DOA" and "Letter for Evie."

There have been major stage roles in such productions as "Guys and Dolls," "Annie Get Your Gun," "Bells Are Ringing," "Oklahoma," "Bus Stop," "Born Yesterday" and "The Little Hut."

The 20 years include a stint as a singer with a band at the Latin Quarter in New York.

• • • •

BUT AS FAR as being a star with all the accompanying glamour, no thanks. It's not for Pamela.

"In the first place," she said, "it is always a battle to maintain the rank of star.

"More important, it's extremely difficult—almost impossible—for a star to have any kind of home and family life.

"A star — particularly a woman—must push her personal life to the side."

Pamela is not about to push her home and family life to the side.

• • • •

SHE HAS BEEN married for 18 years. She and her husband, Arthur Steel, Palm Springs hotel executive, have a daughter, Kathy, 17.

It's a personal life for Pamela which four years ago included the addition of a hobby, golf.

Recently Pamela — "I was weak in the knees afterwards" — made a hole-in-one at the Canyon Country Club in Palm Springs.

"I may give up everything else in life for golf," she jestingly said.

Healthful and good for the figure, she prefers the sport to "wasting time at bridge tables or in cocktail lounges."

As for being an actress—a profession upon which she decided when she was eight years old—she fully intends to go on enjoying it.

"If it becomes drudgery," she said, "I'll give it up."

Prisoner-of-War Movie More than Film to Compton Man

For the manager of a men's shop in Compton, "The Colditz Story" is more than just a movie.

The 1957 movie will be shown nightly, starting Monday, at 8 o'clock on channel 9. The men's shop manager is Sid Goldman, an Englishman who was imprisoned in the German castle. He is mentioned in the film.

Goldman will appear in person during "Million Dollar Matinee" at 2 p.m. on Monday to describe escape efforts pictured in the film.

"I get chills every time I see the picture," he said.

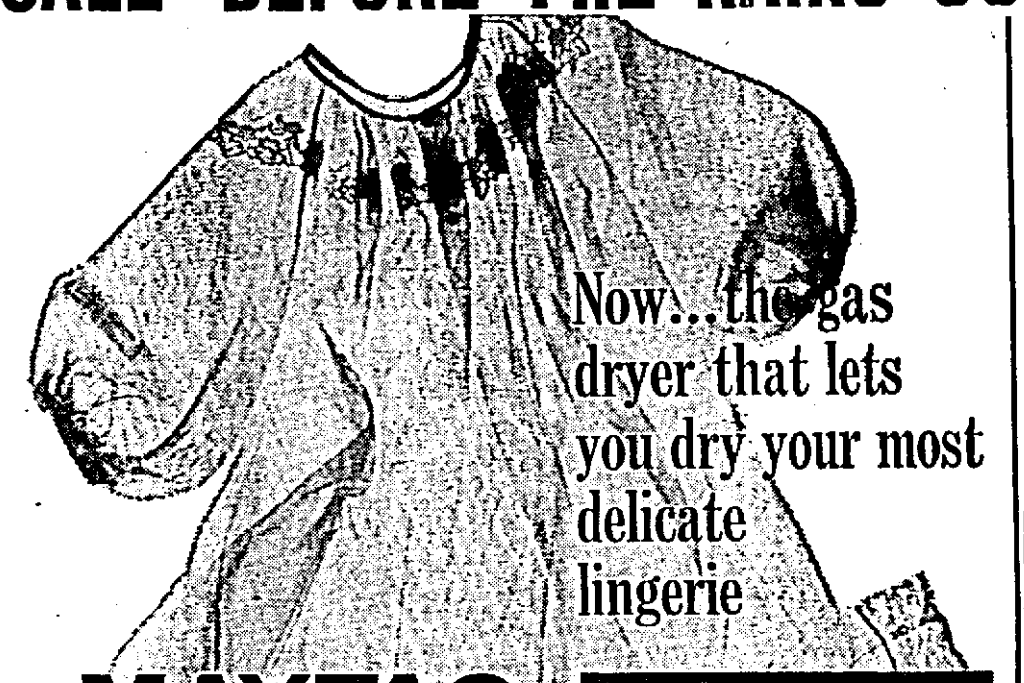

He'll show actual photos of escape attempts as well as other items he saved from Colditz Castle.

PLAN TV FACILITIES FOR WHITE HOUSE

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Use Former 'Broadcast Room' for Library

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Backstairs at the White House:

Work is going ahead on the project to set up permanent television facilities in the White House which will enable President Johnson to have news conferences on short notice and without his having to do more than walk a few feet from his office.

Recently when the executive wing of the White House was deserted except for secret service men and uniformed police on duty, experts from the television networks and the General Services Administration (GSA) looked over a conference room across a hall from the President's office.

Their goal is installation of lights and cameras which can be switched on in seconds should the President decide to communicate with the nation over his airwaves. The same setup will be used for presidential visitors who for many years have been interviewed in the driveway outside the west wing of the White House.

PRESS SECRETARY Pierre Salinger still refers to the project as being "under study." But it is now much more than an idea under exploration. Physical planning is under way.

During the 1948-52 rebuilding of the center part of the White House, much time, effort and money went into construction of a so-called broadcast room on the ground floor. Apparently the architects and builders were not familiar with needs of the broadcast industry and the room was used only a few times. During the Eisenhower administration, the broadcast room was turned into a storage area.

When the late President John F. Kennedy entered the White House, his wife cleaned out the broadcast room and turned it into a handsome reception room and library. It is a beautiful room, but still unsuited for the needs of radio and television for a number of reasons—space, acoustics and certain electronic difficulties which would make the area difficult to light properly.

ALSO, THERE ARE FEW rooms in the White House sufficiently large to house a news conference. The President's meeting with reporters recently was in the motion-picture projection room on the east side of the White House. Comfortably, this room can accommodate about 50 or 60 persons plus lights and cameras. If Johnson gives any sort of advance notice of a meeting with reporters, the projection room quite obviously is too small.

"We aren't sick!"

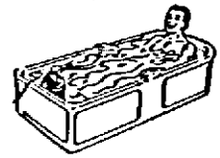

Lots of perfectly healthy people enjoy the benefits of a Jacuzzi Whirlpool Bath. From time to time all of us experience the discomfort of ordinary daily tensions or sore muscles. Such annoyances often go away by themselves; but, why wait when you may be able to hasten relief.

The Jacuzzi Whirlpool Bath was first designed several years ago to relieve minor pains associated with arthritis, rheumatism and similar ailments — conveniently and inexpensively in the privacy of your own bathtub.

But, it was soon discovered that the whirling water action of a Jacuzzi helps increase local circulation where applied, or helps induce sleep just before retiring, or soothes the aching of occasional sprains and bruises, tired feet and simple headaches.

So you see! Everyone has moments when he or she would appreciate Jacuzzi ... the name that means Whirlpool Bath.

Call today for a free demonstration.

Is the rabbit on the Coast Federal Savings commercial a real live rabbit? If so, how do they get him to do it?

Ada Henry, Long Beach

It's live. Fulton and Jack Shaw, brothers who run "Old MacDonald's Farm" at Knotts Berry Farm, got him to do it.

They used the "conditioned reflex" theory advanced by Ivan Petrovich Pavlov, a Russian physiologist who died in 1936.

What the theory boils down to is: No work, no eat.

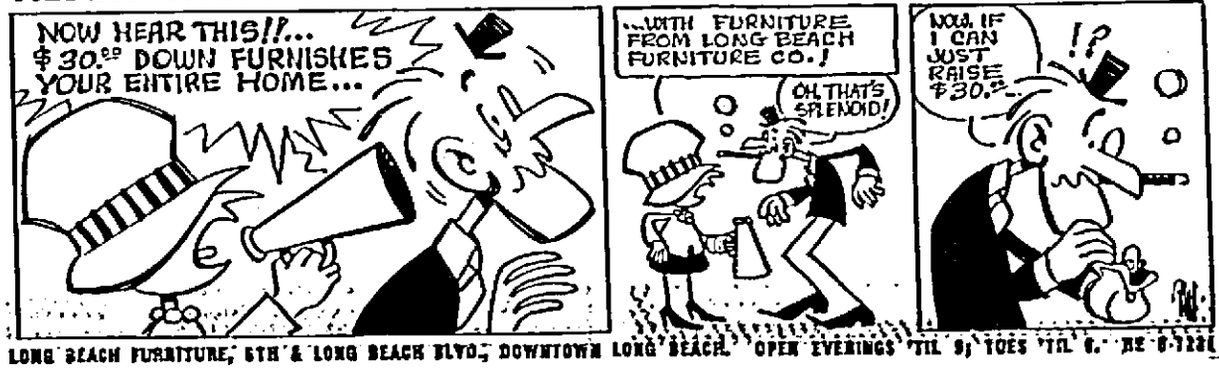

In training the rabbit, the Shaw brothers rewarded him with special pellet-food when he did the right thing. If the rabbit did the wrong thing, he was ignored.

Actually, there were two rabbits and two commercials. The training for each rabbit took several months. One deposited money in a bank, using his mouth as a purse. The other, also using his mouth, moved portable letters to spell the sponsor's name.

Not to take anything away from the Russians, I do believe the conditioned-reflex theory was first noted long before Pavlov was born.

If memory serves me correctly, Mother Goose had a poetic treatise about poor Tommy Tucker who had to sing for his supper.

Exotic, Phooey! Kamala Wants to Be Girl Next Door

ACTRESS KAMALA DEVI, pictured as she appears in Universal's movie, "The Brass Bottle," guests on television at 8:30 p. m. Thursday with "My Three Sons," channel 7. The real-life wife of Chuck Connors, Kamala will appear in his "Arrest and Trial" series next Sunday.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The bottom has fallen out of the exotic acting business and there are those who say it's just as well.

For years Hollywood turned out desert sagas featuring dark-eyed beauties and their dashing boyfriends. Or else the exotic actress portrayed a spy, stealing secrets.

Usually such pictures were high on slipshod intrigue and feminine curves and low on acting talent. The films made money for awhile, but suddenly they disappeared from the screens and so did their leading ladies.

Kamala Devi is an actress who would have fit those pictures like a glove. She's part East Indian, part English, has big eyes, and an appearance that was made to order for exotic roles.

But alas, she arrived in town too late, long after such films hit the skids.

As long as there are no exotic type roles around Hollywood anymore, the beautiful Miss Devi hopes to become the girl next door, a traditional character which is always in demand.

BUT SHE HAS A PROBLEM. Movie and television producers never think of the girl next door as being an Indian. Usually she's somebody on the order of Debbie Reynolds or Connie Stevens.

"I can play any role an American girl can play," said Miss Devi who is the wife of actor Chuck Connors. "I could never be a blonde bombshell but there is scope for a brunette. And people call my accent mid-Atlantic, somewhere between England and America."

Miss Devi appears as an East Indian girl in ABC-TV's "My Three Sons" series Thursday, 8:30 p.m., channel 7. Against that show's background of Americana, she'll certainly stand out.

But that won't be much help in her quest for the house next door. Maybe husband Connors can help. He tried. Kamala was cast in a segment of Chuck's "Arrest and Trial" series, playing a role next Sunday she hopes will picture her as an American girl.

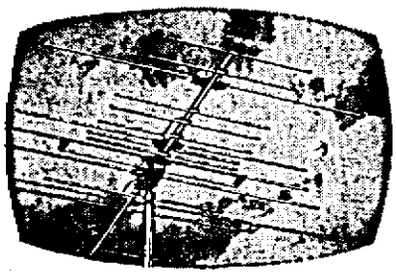

"I hope it shows them that I'm not just an exotic creature," she said.

Whether or not Miss Devi convinces anybody that she can play home-grown gals, producers would be hard put to find a prettier actress.

And after all, what difference does it make whether she lives in Hollywood's house next door—or down the street.

Miss Devi would brighten up the neighborhood.

COMPLAINT DESK'S LOSS

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Long Beach Actor in Major TV Role Tonight

Twelve years ago Robert Miller Driscoll stood behind the complaint desk of a large Chicago department store and diplomatically smiled as a customer unloaded her grievances.

The smile cloaked his yearning to be elsewhere, a specific elsewhere, show business.

However, the specific business of practical living, with emphasis on eating, was considerably more secure in the young executive training program of the department store than Driscoll knew it would be in show business.

Sometime between the moment he accepted the complaining lady's toaster — "or whatever it was" — and handed her a credit slip, Driscoll decided to be impractical.

• • • •

SHORTLY afterwards he left the department store, started in summer stock and "with ups and downs" has been in show business ever since.

One of the "ups" will be his first major television appearance in the role of Little Billy Slocum in "The Adventures of Jaimie McPheeters" at 7:30 p.m. today (Sunday), channel 7.

Other "ups" last year included appearances in the Community Music Theater of Long Beach productions of "Bye Bye Birdie", in which he had the role of Mr. McAffee, father of the teenage girl romanced by the rock- and roll hero; "Happy Fella," in which he was one of the three chefs, and "Music Man" in Anaheim's Melodyland where he played Marcellus.

Driscoll is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Roland D. Driscoll of Long Beach. His father is Presbyterian chaplain for

ROBERT DRISCOLL

Long Beach State College and his mother, Ruth, is a high-fashion model and teacher for Wilma Hastings Modeling School.

• • • •

THE MOST memorable "up" in Driscoll's career is a U. S. State Department sponsored tour of Russia with the cast of "My Fair Lady" in 1960.

"The Russian people couldn't be nicer to me," he said. "I had a wonderful time."

It was, however, a wonderful time that was marred by living conditions in Russia.

They weren't living conditions which personally effected him or other members of the cast.

"It is hard to believe, much less describe, the poverty — fantastic and horrifying — in which most Russian people live," said Driscoll.

"Yet their government will spend vast sums of money to luxuriously replace Katherine's summer castle in Leningrad rather than use those funds for the general benefit of the people."

Since the Russians live under such poor conditions, it's not surprising that they don't believe in "the Utopia" as America has been pictured to them.

• • • •

IT'S ALMOST inconceivable to the Russian people, for example, that anyone should have a private bathroom. It is still the common Russian practice to go to a public bathhouse once or twice a week.

"I remember one night when we had our supper brought to the theater," said Driscoll. "I had a small Spanish orange left and I gave it to our Russian wardrobe woman.

"Before I could stop her, she got down and kissed my feet."

It is seldom that Driscoll, a 6-feet, 1-inch-tall, 285-pound bachelor, has anything left from his supper.

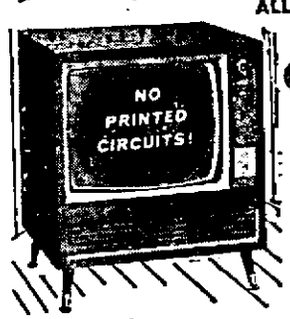

"I love to cook and like to eat," he said.

Happily, he's found that show business can provide the vittles for him just as readily as the young executive training program. He has no complaints.

KGER Civil Defense Station

Radio Station KGER (1390) has been designated the official "Emergency Broadcasting System" outlet for the Long Beach area.

In announcing the designation, Evar P. Peterson, assistant director of Civil Defense for Long Beach, said:

"This gives us the opportunity to report directly to the people of Long Beach, Lakewood and Signal Hill, the information and advice which is most vital to them."

Function of the Emergency Broadcasting System, which replaces CONELRAD, is to rapidly provide disaster information, including specific advice in the event of enemy attack.

Incorporation of the Long Beach radio station in the system was jointly authorized by the Federal Communications and the Department of Defense.

It would take the entire police force to keep the people of this area from battering down our doors!

Yes, people are funny. They'll willingly believe that planes can travel faster than sound, that the atom can be split, that moon trips are around the corner . . . even though they have never seen these wonders with their own eyes. But mention something having to do with health and appearance and at once you are up against a wall of superstition and misconception.

It took years before people were convinced that a weekly bath was not harmful, that tomatoes were not poisonous. And you probably know some people who still sleep with the windows closed to keep the "unhealthy" night air out.

But for real dyed in-the-wool unbelief, you can't beat the skepticism about alleviating baldness. This area is filled with people who are genuinely worried about losing their hair . . . who have the desperate feeling that no price would be too great to ward off that premature sign of age. What can we do to convince these people that in the overwhelming majority of cases of hairfall we can undertake to

TV Psychiatrist Finally Laughs

-HOLLYWOOD, (UPI) — Paul Richards, one of television's probing psychiatrists, is on the brink of laughter.

That's not easy for Paul. He's been trying to laugh since last September. But he's been bogged down in the serious business of playing a psychiatrist on ABC-TV's "Breaking Point."

That's a non-nonsense job, patching up a patient's mind when it gets out of kilter.

However, it shouldn't be all work and no play. A psychiatrist has as much right to a sense of humor as anybody

PAUL RICHARDS

else. "Breaking Point" is getting around to realizing this after several months of solemnity.

Richards, a rather stern looking chap on television, has rarely grinned in the past. He grinned in December, smiled in January and bursts into laughter on this Monday's episode of the show at 10 p.m., channel 7.

* * *

IF IT WEREN'T for the indications of humor in Paul's video character he would have become the Buster Keaton of psychiatry.

Richards finds no incompatibility between an occasional chuckle and the practice of psychiatry.

"We have found a way to deal with this subject and it doesn't have to be downbeat and depressing," he said. "I'm more secure in the role now and I've looked at all the episodes we've done. I think I might have been a little sullen."

He hopes to change all that, ridding the show of its gloomy cobwebs.

"We're not poking fun at the character of Mac Thompson. He is no less dedicated because he's part of life. I think it's better for me and better for the audience if I show a sense of humor."

A clincher for the argument for more smiles and less gloom came from Richards' wife, actress Monica Keating, who appears in one of the future "Breaking Point" episodes.

"When she sees me laughing, she says, 'Why don't you laugh like that on screen?'" concluded Paul.

OUR COVER

When Palm Springs last took a count of swimming pools, there were 3,099—but wait! That was a few days ago. The count could now be 3,105 or 3,110, because new pools are going in at the rate of nearly one a day! Already dubbed the "Golf Capital of the World," Palm Springs also claims the world record for pools—boasting one for every five permanent residents, most per capita of any place on earth. Pools are as common as third bedrooms or dens in medium-priced Palm Springs homes. In fact, architects design homes around pools and one home builder even blasted his pool out of solid granite. And another builder advertised "wall-to-wall water," not as absurd as it might seem! For more about Palm Springs turn to Page 7.

George Washington's home in Mount Vernon, Va. This is the west front or land side view. Flanking courtyard, left, is Martha Washington's kitchen and covered way.

The Home Washington Loved

By Enola Chamberlin

MOST OF US, wherever we live, are glad to have friends come to our homes. And in this respect we are like George Washington, only he was perhaps more hospitable than many of us would be. For he welcomed strangers as well as friends.

"Let them come and see so long as they are sober and orderly," he said in effect regarding those who wished to view the buildings and gardens of Mt. Vernon.

His was always an open house so we know he would be gratified were he able to sit in his study today and watch the throngs that walk quietly through the rooms that look almost as they did when he and Martha warmed them by their presence.

THIS WASHINGTON home of today, set in its 500-acre estate, is owned by the Mt. Vernon Ladies Association, organized by Miss Pamela Cunningham in 1858 when Mt. Vernon was offered for sale for $200,000. She called on the women of America to subscribe money to purchase the estate that it might be preserved for their children's children. The house and grounds were restored to be as nearly as possible as they were when Washington lived there. They are being maintained by the thousands of visitors who pay a nominal fee for admittance.

When Mt. Vernon was first opened to the public as few as 25,000 visited it in a year. In contrast a million go through its gates now in that time.

A superintendent and 60 persons work full time to keep the estate in apple-pie order. It takes 16 guards to mingle with the sightseers to be certain that no little trinket finds its way into someone's pocket. It is gratifying to know, however, that very few attempts are made to carry off souvenirs from the noted house.

THE PILLARED front of the mansion is known to everyone through pictures if not by actual sight, but the rear holds far more of interest. There in the form of a huge horseshoe, beyond the courtyard and bowling green, stretch a score of buildings that were of prime importance when life was lived there. These buildings include servants' quarters, ice house, not where ice was made but where it was stored after having been cut from pond or river. There is a spinning house, a gardener's house, smoke house, warehouse, coach house, barns and paddocks.

In the Washington kitchen a large cooking hearth is surrounded by the iron pots and kettles which were used to prepare meals for the family and guests. Such things as spice boxes and pewter plate warmers are of special interest to visitors. Washington's revolving chair stands as always before the desk in his study. Here it was that he wrote in his diary, kept his account books and penned his will. His bed, a four-poster with canopy, looks as if it could be turned down at evening for its one-time owner. This bed is a huge affair as well as an odd one. It is six feet square and made entirely of mahogany.

WASHINGTON went to live at Mt. Vernon with his half-brother Lawrence when he was 15 years of age. It was not then the mansion it was finally to become. Washington inherited it at his brother's death when he was 22. When he married Martha at 27, he began to enlarge the house. He was his own architect. He designed the buildings, measuring, spacing, overseeing their erection. It always grieved him if he had to be away when any of the work was going on.

Although Mt. Vernon is where the most interest in the Father of Our Country is shown, there are other places where honor is paid to him. At Sulgrave Manor, Washington's ancestral home in Sulgrave, England, British citizens as well as Americans wander through the rooms and around the grounds where Washington's progenitors lived for 120 years.

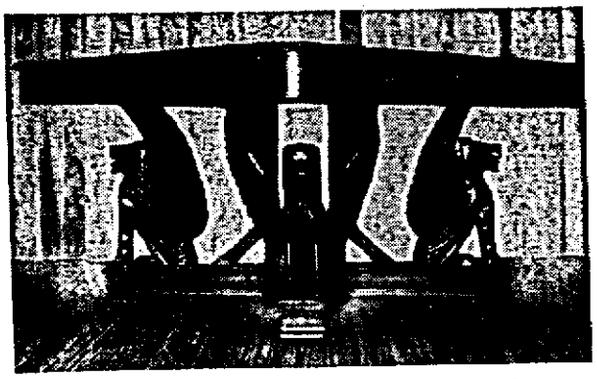

The land of this estate, about 400 acres, has not been kept. Only about two acres around the house remain. The Stars and Stripes along with the Union Jack, are flown at the doorway of the manor. This shrine is maintained jointly by the British and the Society of Colonial Dames of America. It was bought for preservation by a British group in 1914, a tribute to 100 years of peace between England and the United States.

It is certain that such a gesture would have pleased Washington. That he would have been gratified to see the two flags, at war in his time, folding and unfolding peacefully in the same breeze. For, after all, though a great general, Washington was a man of peace.

Washington, as copied in oil painting by Dwight Eisenhower from a famous portrait painted by Gilbert Stuart.

Did It Belong to Napoleon?

Walnut table with four winged lions can be traced to 1880s. The "King Lion" supposedly can bring ill fortune.

By Retta E. Ewers

WHO MADE the strange table illustrated on this page? How did it happen to land in California in 1880? What monarch's dining room did it grace, and where?

Is the legend concerning it true?

"My husband's father got it at an auction in San Francisco in 1882," said Decima Allen of Riverside, the owner, "but we were never able to learn anything of its history."

She expressed the idea that it may have belonged to Napoleon, but this seems unlikely since the lion represents royalty, and he was not of royalty.

EACH OF the four winged lions, forming the legs, have been called 'griffins,' but this legendary animal has the head, neck and beak of an eagle. Ears of the lions are small, pointed and originally held large gemstones—eight in all.

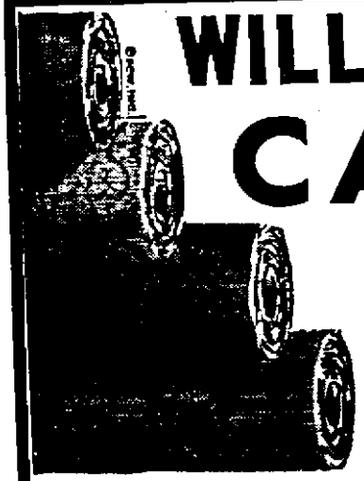

Similar in design, the figures differ one from the other. One, the king, must always face north, supposedly to ward off evil and bad luck.

Black walnut forms the top, so highly polished its touch is like soft satin. Portions shine like gold, and when chipped it tends to "heal" itself.

The owners have been offered substantial sums for the table, but have declined to sell it. They would like to learn something of its history. Who made it? Designed it? Where are the jewels from the lions' ears?

Perhaps someone eventually will find the answers.

The Willbanks Story:

The Willbanks Carpet Co. is a departure from the usual carpet specialty shop. It was founded on the premise that quality carpet, backed by expert installation, could be sold at a minimum mark-up in sufficient volume to be profitable. The extension of this premise was to operate without frills and costly fixtures from a low rent and thus low overhead location in a factory warehouse on a side street in Signal Hill. By eliminating high rent and other cost-raising features, the company decided it could afford to pass on to its customers the substantial savings by giving more carpet at less cost.

Candy Stripe Blend Pile

This is a terrific value. The carpet is made of wool, nylon and cotton yarns. Wonderful for that bedroom, den, or extra room.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on TREMAYNE.—H.O., Long Beach.

H. O.: TREMAYNE is from Cornwall which is in southwest England. This surname was a village title taken from the old Cornish words "Tre-Men" meaning "town or homestead at the stone ruins." The ancestry of this titled lineage extends back to Perys de Tremayne of the town of Tremayne in the mid-1300s. The family coat-of-arms has three golden right arms joined at the shoulders and bent in the form of a triangle, with clenched fists, centered on a red shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the genealogy on BEWLEY.—F. B., Garden Grove; B. H., Lakewood; M. B., Seal Beach.

F. B., B. H., M. B.: BEWLEY began as an ancient French town, Beau-Lieu, near Teurs, meaning "beautiful place." Beau-Lieu, adopted as a family name by a former resident of the place, was brought to England in the 1100s. The original French spelling was then phonetically altered to Bewley. The Bewley shield from Kent, England, is silver, emblazoned with a black chevron between three black eagle heads.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you explain ROYLE and ROYAL.—L. M., H. R., L. R., Long Beach.

ROYLE and ROYAL have several early English sources. They are evolutions of "Rye-hull" meaning "rye-covered hill," a locality in Cheshire. The same source phrase also meant "watercourse by the hill." Early Cheshire records of 1318 state that Richard de Ruyhul owned a hamlet called Ruyhul. This place is now known as Ryle, but it is the original home of this family. The Royle coat-of-arms has a diagonal red stripe placed between three red crosses in a silver shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on NULLMEYER.—H. N., Garden Grove.

H. N.: NULLMEYER was originally Null-Meier. This place-origin name had its inception in north Germany and meant "hill farmer."

DEAR MISS RULE: May we have the origin of AHNEMAN.—L. A., Long Beach.

L. A.: AHNEMAN, originally the German surname Ahnemann, began as a coupling of "Ahne," a nickname taken from Arnold, and "Mann," for "adherent or follower of." Arnold was a hero name describing "strong as an eagle."

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly explain FUNICELLO.—M. F., Lakewood.

M. F.: FUNICELLO is an Italian occupation-origin surname. The remote medieval forefather bequeathed his trade title to present generations, for Funicello meant "sons of the rope maker."

DEAR MISS RULE: Have you data on FRYER, FRIAR, FREER.—E. G., B. F., Long Beach; R. C., Garden Grove.

E. G., B. F., R. C.: FRYER, a phonetic spelling of FRIAR and FREER, another alteration, all refer to a friar or priest. The resemblance of the family ancestor to a priest, both in manner and religious attitude was the cause of this name's usage. Ancestors include Elizabeth Freer, married at London in 1558. The English Fryer and Freer shield is black, decorated with three silver dolphins and a silver chevron.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please publish genealogy on GABRIEL.—A. B., Long Beach.

A. B.: GABRIEL may be either English or French. In both nations this name was endowed on the family ancestor in honor of the Archangel St. Gabriel whose name meant "with the strength of God." Gabriel ancestors were among the nobility of the French medieval province of Franche-Comte. Their shield is black, engraved with three gold leopard heads. English progenitors include Thomas Gabriell of Yorkshire in 1379. The English Gabriel shield is gold, decorated with 13 black rectangles.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please inform us on COLTRANE.—R. C., Long Beach.

R. C.: COLTRANE is from the Scotch and Irish Gaelic clan name MacCodlatain, meaning "sons of the sleeper." The Irish home counties of this family were Carlow and Wexford.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please include data on HELD.—F.H., Seal Beach.

F.H.: HELD, when traced to its German origin, is revealed as being a dialect form of Hild meaning "battles." No other data is available on Held.

Palm Springs Love Affair

By Jane Hengesbaugh

Each year Palm Springs adds something new or makes changes that increase the attraction for visitors. Andreas Canyon, top photo, however, is one beauty spot that is unchanged but always intriguing. Above, another view of the canyon, with its palms. Below, new feature of the spa, an aerial tramway which terminates at this mountainside structure. Bottom, one of the 3,100 plus pools that sparkle in area, this one at the Spa Hotel.

EACH YEAR Palm Springs has a love affair: Its approximately one million seasonal visitors fall in love with Palm Springs, and Palm Springs loves the visitors. And each year something new is added or changed to make Palm Springs more glamorous and more lovable.

The Palm Springs Angel Stadium (formerly the Polo Grounds) will dust off the bleachers on Feb. 24 as the Los Angeles Angels open their fourth spring training season in the spa. The Angels will have a 13-game spring schedule, starting March 7, playing such stellar teams as the San Francisco Giants, Chicago Cubs, Cleveland Indians, Boston Red Sox and Hawaii Islanders.

Palm Springs' 16 golf courses are in full playing bloom, green and fresh as perpetual spring. Golfers are playing on the additional third nine holes recently completed at Bermuda Dunes Country Club, making this the first club with a 27-hole course in the desert area.

THE $265,000 AIRSTRIP recently opened at Bermuda Dunes Country Club on Dec. 14 accommodated 652 private planes in the first 30 days, surpassing all anticipated use. The strip can handle planes as large as Convairs and DC3s. The $300,000 hangar has eight offices (probably the only hangar in the country to include a dentist under its roof); instructors have begun a ground school, with 15 students (members of the country club) already enrolled. An over-all $1,000,000 development.

Canyon Country Club's additional 18 holes are planted and the first nine due to be ready for play this month; second nine by the end of March. These additionals give the "Winter Golf Capital of the World" its first 36-hole golf course.

There are four new golf courses on the drawing board for the area. It is estimated that 400,000 rounds of golf will be played on the courses among the sand dunes this year.

The $8 million Palm Springs Aerial Tramway, sometimes called "The Eighth Wonder of the World," in the first three months after opening took the 100,000th rider up to the mountain station in December, and the 50,000th car went through the entrance gate at the valley station the following day.

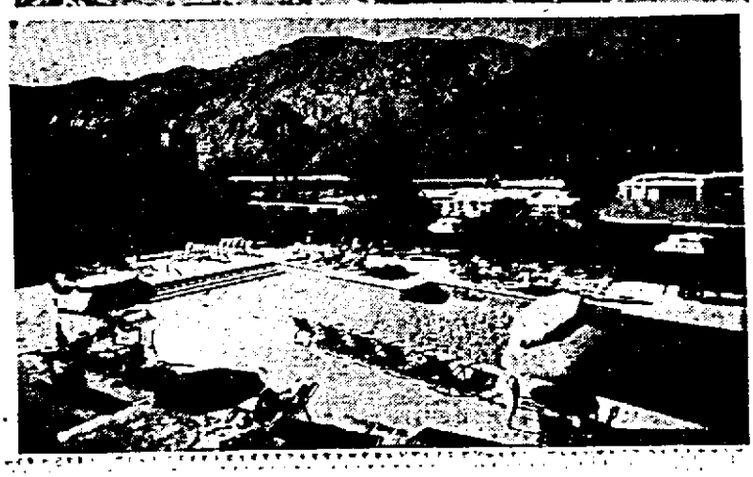

A PROPOSAL HAS been made to the Mt. San Jacinto Winter Park Authority to develop the recreation area at the top of the tramway, which would include ski runs and tows and an ice skating rink.

The $1 million International Hotel has opened the doors to its 52 rooms, which have king-size beds or two queen size beds, per double room. The hotel's policy of giving a free car wash and Blue Chip Stamps to guests has proved to be an interesting policy and enjoyed by the guests. There are no dining facilities at the hotel, but Continental breakfast is served 24 hours a day.

With the addition of 150 rooms, at the cost of $1½ million, the Palm Springs Riviera Hotel has brought its total of rooms to 507. The new $750,000 convention center is serving its purpose well, approximately 15,000 persons having made use of facilities since it opened in October. Besides being used by conventions, local functions needing more space for audiences are making use of the center's 3,500 seating capacity. The 15th Annual Palm Springs Police Show with its many famous guest stars who appear for charity is being held indoors for the first time at the convention center on March 7.

How Tom Mix Backed Into the Movies

By Wendell Roberts

"WE DIDN'T know we were making entertainment history," recalled Harvey Hazelleaf of North Long Beach. "They just told us fellows in the band to get into our cowboy outfits and find some horses. The Selig Polyscope Company wanted to use our wild west show for some films."

The year was 1909, the locale along the Des Plaines River at Willow Springs, near Chicago. The show troupe was Circle D Ranch Wild West and Indian Congress, complete with real cowboys, Sioux Indians fresh off a North Dakota reservation, and a clarinet player with itchy feet.

Most of the cowmen were from Montana, although there was one rider who had spent the previous few years in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. He was hired primarily to handle show stock and throw a rope if an animal decided to commit mayhem. His name was Tom Mix.

WITH TWO-REELERS produced on the spur of the moment, with neither script nor stars, anyone with a camera and imagination could become a producer. The motion picture palace was still in the future, most audiences paying a nickel or dime a head to sit on rented undertakers' chairs in a vacant store building.

A few years after that 1909 season, Tom Mix was to become king of the cowboys, inheritor of the mantle worn by Bronco Billy Anderson and William S. Hart—all this with neither resonant baritone voice nor guitar.

"We'd started with Will A. Dickey's show troupe the year before, in 1908," Hazelleaf remembers. "Charley Baner, in our home town of Kewanee, Ill., was a musician who decided our little group ought to be able to play, travel and get paid at the same time. An ad in 'Billboard' magazine did the rest.

"BY SPRING, a half-dozen men, including my brothers Corbin and Roy, made the jump from the corn belt to the tent show wild west, playing cities in Iowa, Minnesota, Illinois, Wisconsin, and even into Canada."

The troupers liked the idea well enough to rejoin the Circle D for the 1909 season, signing on again in Bolivar, Mo. Hazelleaf had spent the interim on the showboat Emerson, plying the Ohio and Kanawha Rivers.

"Tom Mix used to chum around some with our bunch," says the Long Beach man, "but you could never say he believed in tooting his own horn. Ask him a question, and he'd answer it honestly, though he wasn't much on volunteering information about his past.

"His wife, Olive Stokes Mix (his third, according to some biographers), was with the Dickey outfit, too. They were married before the season opened, in January."

THERE HAVE been reams of publicity on the late Tom Mix, some of it true, some exaggerated, some of it absolute falsehood. In the library of the Motion Picture Academy in Beverly Hills are envelopes stuffed with clippings about the star, others about the Selig company. Yet, for all the material, there is only a short paragraph or two alluding to Mix's start with the Dickey show.

True, he was hired to handle stock. But his outstanding ability and showmanship soon earned him a place in the regular lineup—to the accompaniment of some jealousy on the part of the Montana cowboys. They weren't sure he was a real 'puncher or a smart drug store "westerner" who'd learned to handle stock in the Chicago yards.

Oddly, the publicity buildup given Mix was unnecessary.

A well-known encyclopedia gives Mix's birthplace as El Paso, Tex. In a 1961 newspaper interview, Olive Stokes Mix stated flatly that it's false. She remembers visiting his family

Mix, now a silent films legend, was killed in an Arizona auto accident. He was owner of a circus at the time.

where he was born—on Mix Run, near Pennezette, Clearfield County, Pennsylvania.

He was born in 1880 and was well into manhood before he ever saw the real cow country. Mix had enough adventure under his belt by the time he joined the Circle D show to last a lifetime. Much more followed.

WHEN THE NAVY turned him down, he joined an Army artillery unit for the Spanish-American War. In those days, artillery meant horses for transport. Young Mix developed a knack for handling them that built his career.

He was sent to Cuba, working into a spot as special courier to Gen. Fightin' Joe Wheeler, a Confederate hero. Mix saw fighting with Roosevelt's Rough Riders, when they were assigned to Wheeler's corps.

Later, still in his Army hitch, Mix was shipped to the Philippines with 150,000 other Americans during the insurrection. He once pulled the body of a friend back to the American lines under heavy fire.

During the Boxer Rebellion, Mix was sent to Peking with American expeditionary forces before he was mustered out. Even then, his adventures were just beginning.

He got a job helping a supplier of mounts to the British in South Africa during the Boer War, eventually accompanying a consignment and serving for a while with the troops.

MIX WAS A long way from settling down. He went to the Southwest, spent some time with the Texas Rangers, became a sheriff in Kansas, later was appointed deputy U. S. marshal for eastern Oklahoma. His career in law enforcement included acquisition of a bullet crease, along with a reputation. The notorious Shonts gang of rustlers found Mix was no drug store cowboy when he helped capture them.

It was in Oklahoma's Cherokee territory that the cowboy bought a spread used in filming an early documentary, "Ranch Life in the Great Southwest."

His work in the film was only to handle stock and act as safety man, out of camera range. Not content with that, he asked if he could get in the picture.

"Sure," was the answer, "if you can show some speed."

He showed speed, and finished a scene by bulldogging a young steer in about 16 seconds. Director Francis Boggs was impressed enough to keep Mix in mind.

SOME TIME IN 1909, according to releases, the future star added to his reputation with Miller Bros. 101 Ranch Show. The dates are not clear, though he is credited with being a rodeo star.

A short time later, Selig must have entered into an agreement with Dickey and the Circle D. Mix made his first two-reeler, "The Range Rider," for the Polyscope Company at Flemington, Mo. After that, supporting roles were not for him, as the producer recognized Mix's value.

"We made at least a half-dozen films along the Des Plaines," Hazelleaf remembers. "Some titles included 'Up San Juan Hill,' 'The Millionaire Cowboy,' 'An Indian Wife's Devotion,' and 'Britain and Boer.' All were short films, for which Selig was noted."

THOSE EARLY productions were important enough to give Mix his real start in motion pictures. After the Circle D interlude, he went with Essanay Studios, another pioneer, and later to William Fox, forerunner of 20th Century-Fox.

One historian says that Mix almost single-handedly made the Fox company. "He did for Fox what musical westerns did for Republic and Rin-Tin-Tin did for Warner's."

Hazelleaf and his brothers returned to Kewanee, Ill., when the season closed at Vincennes, Ind., but the Long Beach man wasn't quite through with Selig and Mix.

After a protracted bout with typhoid, he took a job singing illustrated songs at the Idle Hour Theater in nearby Princeton. It was 1910, and the two-reelers were in release. On the show bill was the sign, "See our tenor in 'The Millionaire Cowboy.'"

Unclaimed Treasure

A report on valuables that go down the drain

By Walt Hoster

Recovered from the Long Beach network of sewers, this stack of articles displayed by Sydney Preen, superintendent of sewer maintenance, Dept. of Public Works, gives some idea of service rendered by department.

YOU ARE stranded on a dark and desolate street. It is raining and your car keys just slipped from your fingers and plopped smack-dab into a storm drain.

What do you do?

It is easy. You call the emergency crew of the Long Beach Department of Public Service—that's the sewer department to you.

A friendly voice assuages your fears. It is likely the voice of the dispatcher, Al Nieto. You tell him your trouble. He asks where you are.

"Stay right there," Nieto advises. "We will have a truck there in a few minutes. Watch for it. It has a yellow flasher over the cab."

In about 10 minutes several men garbed in weird costumes arrive. They wear steel helmets, heavy canvas harness, sturdy boots; they have oxygen tanks strapped to their backs and they bear strange lanterns and torches. They descend into the depths beneath a manhole cover. After a few minutes you have your keys and you are on your way home. It was a brief and not a too unhappy delay.

THE APPAREL of the men is all for safety. The harness is a must. In the event of a mishap the man below can be hoisted to the street. The oxygen tanks are for just that; if there is no oxygen below, he has it. One strange lantern—to test oxygen efficiency—gives a pre-warning. There is a telephone in his helmet.

There has not been an accident in almost 500 days.

The scenes are legion. The procedure is routine.

A policeman calls Nieto. "I have a kitten down a sewer," he reports.

Again within a matter of a few minutes the tears of some youngster are dried. The emergency crew has recovered another kitten that had been dropped or frightened down the opening of a storm drain.

The fame of the Long Beach Department of Public Service is almost universal. It all began several years ago when a large trunk of recovered but unclaimed treasures was shipped to Atlantic City as a display for a convention of Water Pollution Control Federation. Since then, the trunk, which contains a rich store of silver and gold rings and pins, bracelets, watches and jewels, lighters and heirlooms and countless other toys and trinkets has been making annual rounds to other conventions throughout the nation.

"THE DISPLAY is important," declared Sydney Preen, superintendent of sewer maintenance, who in 31 years with the department has thrown away several tons of recovered-unclaimed items. "Once of value to someone, when unclaimed it becomes junk. The display emphasizes what we do here in Long Beach. Every year we have crews come in from other cities to work with our men and learn our procedure. We also draw Public Service officials from such countries as Brazil, Australia, New Zealand and Canada."

A call to the department to report a loss brings the warning not to attempt to recover an item yourself. Manhole covers can and do smash fingers and toes. Children have been lowered into manholes to get a lost ring, a wallet or a ring of keys. The emergency crews usually recover the lost article—and the child.

Recovery of treasures lost in the vast drainage and sewer systems has developed into a rather exact science. A series of traps and catch basins interspersed along the countless miles of underground pipes and tunnels are aids in the plan.

THE TELEPHONE jangles to report a valued diamond brooch down a drain. Assistant Superintendent Charles Skidmore puts out a radio call to send an emergency crew on its way. A storm has changed a dry drain into a heavy underground stream. The brooch has been washed away. A man is radioed to a catch basin. Then inflated rubber balls, varying in size from 6 to 48 inches, are placed in the line. Water slowly pushes the ball as it sweeps the pipe. If the brooch has jumped the first trap the men move to the next for a successful recovery.

Sometimes the efficiency of the emergency-recovery crews backfires—to the chagrin of the loss claimant.

One Long Beach woman reported some highly valued jewels had been lost down the drain. The usual procedure was put into operation in an attempt to recover the prized items from their underground locker. Several traps were checked; special flexible rods, 500 feet long, were used; different sized balls were put in the drains. No recovery was made. There just were not any valued jewels. As in all such cases where jewels, wallets and money are reported lost the police are called. Crack investigators of the Long Beach Police Department moved into the picture. A discomfitted and saddened woman tearfully confessed she had lost heavily at some gaming tables and had sought to hide her losses from her husband in the secrecy of the complex drainage system. The system has no secrets. Her jewels were found safe in the vault of a pawn shop.

SOMETHING LOST in the home is usually a simple task for the emer-

A Reporter Has a Look

By Hoyt McAfee

ON MY LAST closely-supervised visit to Guantanamo Bay, I heard it described as "the true bastion of U.S. naval power in the Caribbean." Likewise as "the best deep-water anchorage in the Western world." Plus: "Our number one protection against Russian submarine forays in this area."

Gitmo (its informal nickname to all naval and military forces) was—I saw from close up—bristling with fortifications and protective devices. Key Navy officials assured me: "In an emergency situation, we could dig in at this base and repulse a full-scale attack by outside enemy forces. With reinforcements from our fleet, we feel that we could defend and hang on to this naval fortress (Gitmo) indefinitely."

At every turn one attitude prevailed among officers and enlisted personnel: We're on our toes and geared for any eventuality—for any treacherous move by Castro's Cuba. All of which started me to wondering: In spite of its strong defensive position, and state of battle readiness, does Gitmo have a sore spot? An Achilles heel? In short, a weak link in its defensive chain?

WHEN I PURSUED that question, it netted me this familiar response: "It would be a breach of security to go into that — for publication." But my own observation acquainted me with a seldom-mentioned fact. This one: That the 10,500 Americans and 500 Cubans living within the Gitmo perimeter depended upon Cuba for fresh water.

A U.S. Marine sentry informed me: "We get it from a nearby river—on the other side of the Big Fence—and pay Castro $14,000 monthly for it." To which a finance officer added: "Sure, it's vital to the welfare of this base—a necessity. Any way you look at it, we've got to have a certain supply of fresh water daily. It so happens that we can obtain it faster—and far less expensively — from the close-by river; which, unfortunately, Castro controls."

My inquiry as to whether the tempestuous Fidel had ever threatened to choke off this water supply—or hike the payment rate on it—produced this reply: "Not yet. But he may attempt it at some future date as a provocative act to hit us where it hurts."

THAT PROMPTED me to ask: "How would you here at Gitmo cope with that emergency? In other words, how —and where—would you obtain the fresh water you needed daily to survive?" He thought for a moment, then offered: "We'd have to haul it in by tankers—and may I add: that would be a laborious and costly process.

"That, plus a small supply from the conversion of sea water into drinking water, would make us independent of Fidel's whims and provocations. But, I repeat: that would be the emergency—and much more expensive—solution."

As we all know, Castro's recent maneuver (in cutting off Gitmo's fresh water supply) forced President Johnson to fall back upon the "emergency solution" referred to in my preceding paragraph. This loss of $14,000 monthly in "water revenue" will strike another blow at Castro's already sorely-beset Cuban economy.

AS FOR the sailors, Marines, and officers assigned to Gitmo, Castro's move simply means one more provocation in their tension-packed daily lives. For example, a powerful 10-foot steel fence surrounds the Guantanamo Bay perimeter—an area ceded to the U.S. by Cuba in 1903 and renegotiated in 1934. Armed Marine sentries are stationed at key lookout points, strategic locations, and isolated posts along that international fence.

On the other side of it, well-disciplined Cuban militiamen glare at the jeep patrols and Marine guards in the daylight hours. Incidentally, these Castro sentries reflect the new Russian influence in Cuba—in that they all outfit themselves with Russian helmets and combat boots. On their rounds, they go armed with Belgian B A L rifles, now among the best in the world.

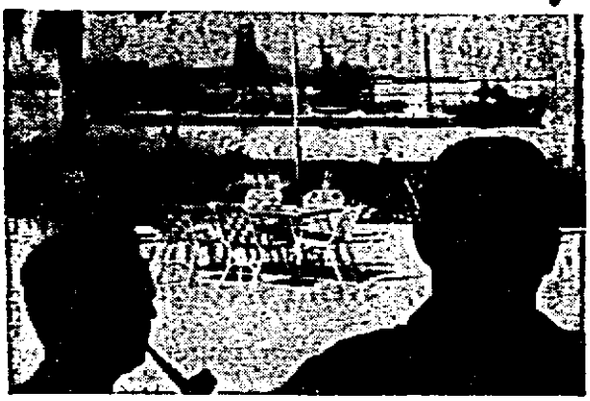

With the coming of darkness, Castro militiamen unleash their witches' brew of tricks and provocative sallies. As a warmup, they hurl rocks and pieces of garbage at Marine sentries patrolling the other (American) side of the fence! In the early-dawn hours, they slip up from their side and shake it with all their might.

That sets off a rattling uproar! In explanation, long strings of beer cans attached to the fence on the U.S. side provide a "built-in" burglar-alarm system. It goes off with a wild clanging every time Castro militiamen rattle the fence. Which they do during the quiet hours of the night—to arouse and provoke the "Yanqui" sentries. After which the Castro men shout insults at all U.S. Marines in sight.

American sentries have strict orders to ignore all provocation — so as to keep the friction and tension at an irreducible minimum. Well, the Marine guards grin and bear the insults magnificently —in their on-duty hours. Away from their posts, however, their thoughts on Castro militiamen would never pass muster with the censor!

During an inspection trip, I learned about another irritant Castro has fashioned on his side of the Gitmo boundary. Some observers dub it "Fidel's cactus curtain." In brief, his henchmen have planted Maya bushes along the fence. These plants have a flesh-ripping and blood-producing sting, and discourage curiosity-seekers from "poking around."

BUT IT WAS at Gitmo's Northeast Gate that I witnessed the most offensive acts of all. Some 2,500 Cuban workers—maids, drivers, mechanics, and laborers—stream out of Gitmo daily by that route. U.S. Marine guards frisk them expertly (but never arrogantly) to prevent their carting stolen merchandise off the base. A few try to do that occasionally.

Then comes the Big Shakedown by the waiting-to-pounce Castro militiamen. They conduct it provocatively—prolonging it, tossing in insults ("you're such a fool to work for the greedy, murdering Yanquis!") in the process. Female Cuban militiamen—also decked out in Russian military garb—give the women laborers from Gitmo a thorough going over.

American officials hand the thousands of Cubans employed at Guantanamo Naval Base a warmth of credit. One Navy personnel officer stated it this way: "They bear up under these offensive shakedowns, insults, and new forms of harassment remarkably well. Despite all provocation, they stick faithfully to their jobs with us. Equally important, they do their work and perform their duties satisfactorily."

After a moment's reflection, he added: "You know, I'm convinced that they and other Cubans who think and feel as they do are the real hope for a new and better Cuba some day!"

Beauty and comfort are in evidence throughout the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Van Dyke. View of the living room, above, shows conversation grouping. A sense of spaciousness is retained.

HOME

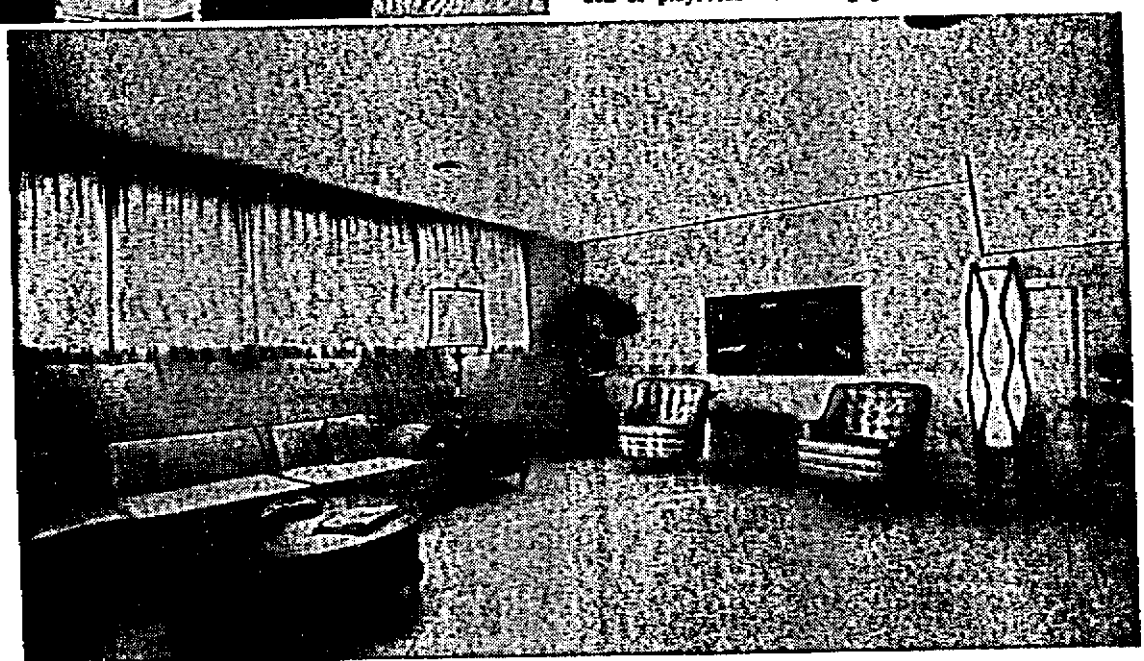

Example of De Luxe Qualities

By Stella George

EXEMPLIFYING deluxe qualities in a tract house, the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Van Dyke, 3661 Lama Ave., presents an atmosphere of serene smoothness and uncluttered freedom.

The dwelling is spacious, with a room for many moods and purposes. In the lower level is an out-sized rumpus or family room with a built-in wet bar. Next to this room is another room which is ideal for a guest room (there is an adjoining bath) or den or playroom for visiting grandchildren. Every housewife will envy the laundry-sewing room in this area of the home, where appliances stand ready for instant use.

A first-floor rumpus room is large and most attractive, definitely an area of great versatility and possibilities whatever the occasion.

—Staff Photos by Bob Shumway

View of front entry, dining area and entry hall from the fireplace end of the living room. Function is evident in entry with "island" of storage, from floor to ceiling.

The front door opens onto an entrance hall which leads to the living room straight ahead (the fireplace can be seen from the front door), and the kitchen to the immediate right. The stairway is to the center left. The entrance hall itself is really an entry effect created with a functional view in mind since the "wall" at the right consists of floor-to-ceiling closets and cupboards. The dining room forms an "L" to the right of the living room.

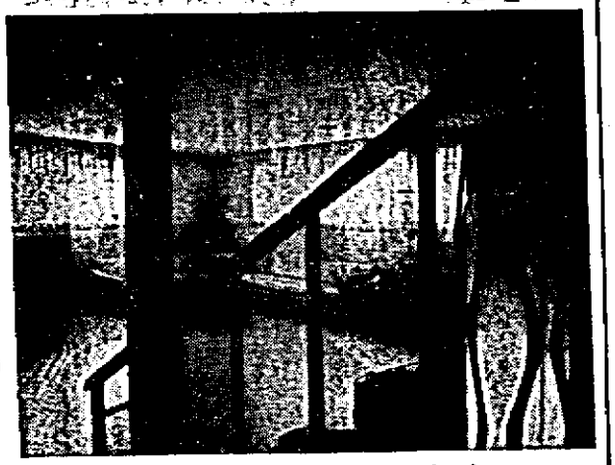

UPSTAIRS ARE three bedrooms and two baths. The master bedroom has the spaciousness of one found in custom homes, with its own dressing room-bath adjoining.

Interior designer Lewis Nypower planned the decorating. A sculptured, sophisticated elegance was achieved in a Mediterranean influence, with Spanish, French and Italian overtones combined with contemporary for function and livability.

Carpeting is a neutral martini shade, one which shows fine furniture pieces to advantage.

The conversation grouping around the fireplace consists of a long antique white sofa and coffee table facing two occasional chairs, across the way. The French dining room set is reminiscent of the candlelight-and-wine era of gracious living.

THE RUMPUS ROOM downstairs is truly an all-purpose room. Nothing was make-do, as sometimes happens when it comes to decorating the most used room in modern homes.

Two electric-blue occasional chairs face the long curved sofa in the far corner of the room. Each accessory was chosen with care, to enhance and be enhanced by the surroundings. It seems as if home and furnishings were made for one another. The tall floor lamp near a blue chair is but one example.

A rear garden is terraced. Thus, there is a pleasant view from the high windows in the lower level room.

Top Your Stew With Biscuits

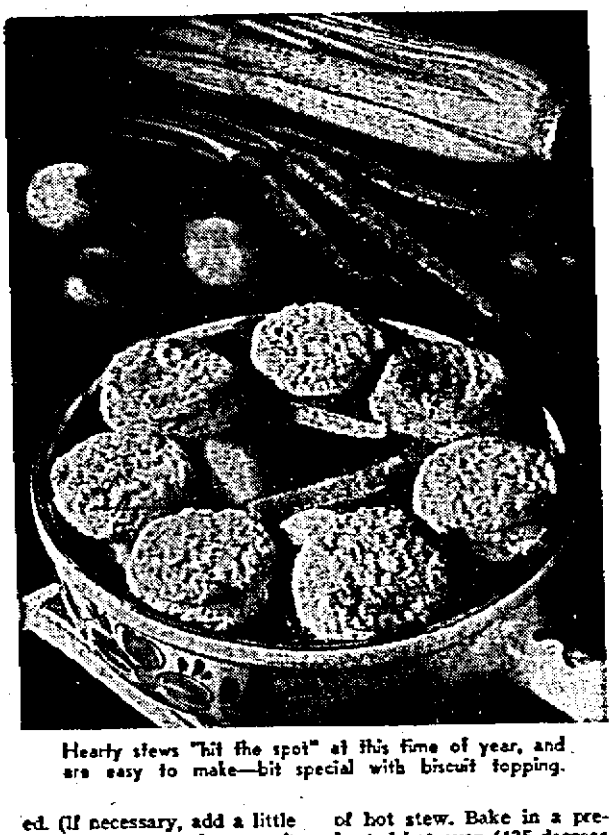

By Mildred K. Flanary

Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

POPULAR in late February is a hearty stew. Mom likes it, for meat, vegetables and biscuits are combined in one easy-to-make, economical dish. The he-man combination of savory beef and broth along with favorite vegetables pleases the entire family.

Biscuit topping makes stew a bit special. The biscuits discussed here are made as usual, but they contain onion salt to perk up flavor and rolled oats for an interesting texture and a nutrition bonus. They're placed atop a stew brimful of beef cubes, seasonings, small white onions that are just about bite size and tender carrots. Celery adds extra flavor and potatoes please hearty appetites. Tomatoes and lima beans complete the stew with their color and flavor. The biscuits are placed in a circle atop the dish for the last 12 to 15 minutes of baking.

Serve in a baking dish that goes directly from oven to table. Lettuce wedges and big glasses of cold milk can complete the main course. And how about topping grapefruit and orange segments with scoops of lemon sherbert for dessert?

Hearty stews "hit the spot" at this time of year, and are easy to make—bit special with biscuit topping.

Biscuit-Topped Stew

Stew:

- 1½ lbs. beef stew meat, cubed
- 2 cups water
- 1 tablespoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 6 small white onions
- 6 carrots, cut lengthwise
- 2 celery stalks, cut in 1-inch pieces
- 6 small potatoes, cut in half
- 1 1-lb. can tomatoes
- 1 10-oz. pkg. frozen lima beans

Biscuit Topping:

- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- 4½ teaspoons baking powder
- 1¼ teaspoons onion salt
- ½ cup shortening
- 1 cup rolled oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
- ¾ cup milk

Dredge beef in flour. Brown in small amount of hot fat in large heavy kettle. Add water, salt and pepper; cover and simmer 1½ hours or until tender. Blend the 2 tablespoons flour with ¼ cup cold water; stir into stew. Add onions, carrots, celery, potatoes and tomatoes; cover and cook 15 minutes. Add lima beans; cook 10 minutes. Pour into 2½-qt. casserole.

For biscuits, sift together flour, salt, baking powder and onion salt into bowl. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in oats. Add milk gradually, mixing lightly until dry ingredients are just moistened. (If necessary, add a little more milk to make a soft dough.)

Turn dough out on lightly floured board or canvas; knead gently a few seconds. Roll dough to ½-inch thickness; cut with floured round cutter. Place biscuits on top of hot stew. Bake in a preheated hot oven (425 degrees F.) 12 to 15 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Note: From remaining dough, cut biscuits. Bake on ungreased cooky sheet in hot oven (425 degree F.) 12 to 15 minutes.

Crab Supreme

- 4 tblsp. butter or margarine
- 1 tsp. onion, chopped
- 4 tblsp. all-purpose flour
- 2 cups milk
- Dash of cayenne or tabasco
- Salt and pepper to taste
- ½ tsp. celery salt

- 2 tblsp. sherry wine
- 1 cup soft bread crumbs
- 2 cups crab meat
- 1 tblsp. parsley, minced

Melt butter or margarine, add onion, and cook over low heat until onion is lightly browned. Add flour, blend together thoroughly. Add milk and seasonings and cook until mixture has thickened, stirring occasionally. Add egg, stir, and remove saucepan from heat. Add sherry and most of the bread crumbs, reserving a small portion to sprinkle over top of mixture. Then add crab meat and parsley. Mix well and fill ramekins. Top with remaining bread crumbs. Bake 20-30 minutes at 400°. Serves 6-8.

TITLE GIRLS

VETERAN film-maker Howard Hawks has fashioned a brash uninhibited blending of romance and slapstick comedy with his latest production for Universal, "Man's Favorite Sport?" starring Rock Hudson and Paula Prentiss. As an effective aid to developing the proper setting for the new comedy, Hawks obtained the services of two top flight beauties to decorate the opening titles of his picture. They will be seen indulging in man's favorite sports when the title of the film is flashed on the screen.

When it comes to basketball, Penny Quillan demonstrates that she has topnotch form.

Smocking
With a Split
Personality

Spring Speaks Softly

On-the-go separates in Dacron and cotton: Soft yoke smocking, gentle back gathers switch to trimly tailored little boy look in front. Back wrap skirt gains important front with inverted pleating panel. Bobbie Brooks designs.

Spring will be a breeze for the junior miss who likes to look radiant and lively in a natural way. Basic formula for this look is an attitude of softness, happily reflected in fashions for daytime, datetime, playtime.

Bobbie Brooks registers softness in spring dresses and separate via tiny tailored tucks, smocking, gentle gathers and petite prints. These details, reminiscent of a little girl look, have grown up for on-the-go shapes and find their way to the least expected spots.

Softness speaks for spring semester separates. Smocking backs into a shirt and prints peak from the skirt lining to match a top. Shown are just two of the many mix and match looks that quietly multiply a wardrobe. Both have a common denominator, the wrap skirt. And either is appropriate for mingling on campus or dashing from desk to date.

The Empire smock dress, rating tops in fashion news, acclaims a feminine soft look. And with tucks tied high in Indian Madras, the Empire shown here keeps its shape with an Ivy League touch. It can go to class, to a social whirl or let you wander barefoot through the first green blades of grass.

Keeping the shape for all this softness is Dacron and cotton, the fabric that has the versatility to let one skirt ripple softly in the breeze and another stand out for a crisp yet gentle flare.

Home Workshop

Padded back rests heighten the look of luxury in this headboard design, as well as insuring lounging comfort.

By Bill Meyerriecks

SKETCHBOOK'S idea for a comfortable, padded headboard is one any handyman can build any home maker will love—and best of all, it really is a unique, luxurious unit that will be appreciated in any bedroom of the home. It is designed to be flexible enough to fit any need—double bed, single bed or even twin beds. If you are planning to revise your bedroom any time in the near future, or perhaps to expand to an extra bedroom, S-147 of the Sketchbook series is a plan to have and consider.

The headboard has built-in comfort and convenience. Under the cabinet tops at each side, for instance, there's a shallow drawer for storage, which offers as much if not more than the average night table. Over this is a shallow shelf for clock or radio. Below the drawer is a large compartment for magazines where you can easily reach that favorite book that you love to read in bed.

IMMEDIATELY under the case top there is a pull-out board for that luxury of luxury—that first cup of coffee in the morning.

Sloped attractively and lightly upholstered over foam rubber, the two backs are hinged at the bottoms to provide access to the valuable hidden storage space within.

The plan gives you all details in easy step-by-step directions to build the headboard plus full material and parts lists. It is suggested that you make the project in hardwood, but plan also tells how you can substitute pine or even plywood.

FOR THIS pattern, specify design S-147 and send 50 cents with name and address to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, California.

Radar-Cataract Study Begun

By Ben Zinser
Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

CAN CONSTANT exposure to radar cause cataracts?

Veterans Administration medical researchers have started a study to find out.

Investigators are assembling all records of World War II and Korean veterans treated for cataract and comparing them with military occupational specialty. Aim: to see if radar technicians suffered more frequently from cataracts than men with other job assignments.

The study was started on the basis of preliminary evidence suggesting that the lens of the eye may be particularly sensitive to microwave radiation.

BAD-CHECK artists are usually older, better educated persons than other criminals, psychiatrists at Washington University, St. Louis, have found.

A new study, reported in Diseases of the Nervous System, shows that check offenders also present this picture: a high prevalence of alcoholism, previous delinquency, military service difficulties, marital discord, previous arrests and previous imprisonments.

AT LEAST one baby out of every 100 live-born infants has a birth defect observable at time of birth, according to preliminary findings in a long-range study being conducted by the Public Health Service.

The study disclosed 5,210 defects in 520,000 babies born in 27 states during the first five months of 1963. Most common malformations were harelip and cleft palate, clubfoot and defects of the genitourinary system.

TRAMPOLINES should be erected only in gymnasiums for the athletically sophisticated, and even then should be attended by qualified experts, editorializes the Rhode Island Medical Journal.

The apparatus should be made available only to those willing to accept carefully graded instruction, the editorial continues. The danger: accidents which can permanently paralyze the user. An improper fall on the neck or back can injure the spinal cord to cause paralysis.

ONE-FOURTH of all drug addicts in California are said to be users of a compound called Percodan, says the Journal of the American Medical Association.

But it's going to be tougher to get the drug now. The Federal Bureau of Narcotics has ruled that drugs containing the pain-reliever oxycodone can be supplied in the future only by written prescription. Percodan contains oxycodone.

In the past, 46 states permitted the sale of Percodan by a phone call from doctor to pharmacist. Some addicts, especially in California, had been faking these calls, the narcotics bureau says.

THE OCCUPATION with the highest death rate is that of President of the United States, says the journal Industrial Medicine and Surgery.

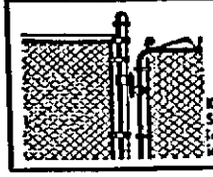

In an editorial the journal comments: "At the present time there are those who hold that professional boxing is the most hazardous of all occupations. Writing statistically, that occupation appears to be a haven of safety when compared with the occupation of being President of the United States."

Four of the nation's 36 Presidents have been slain in office, all by firearms, the journal notes. In other words, one in nine has been assassinated.

HOW YOUR CHILD LEARNS

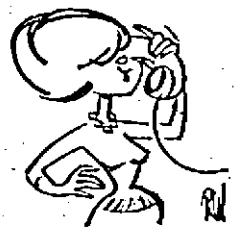

Too Much Phoning?

By Howard E. Kent

QUESTION: "My teen-age daughter is always on the telephone, and I wonder if doesn't do a great deal of harm to her school work. What do you think?"

ANSWER: Take the optimistic view. She may be talking over her lessons with a classmate.

A recent study was conducted to see if using the telephone hurt the study habits of female college students.

The researchers discovered that students do use the telephone a great deal, but classwork happens to be one of the big topics of conversation!

The conclusion: Telephone conversations don't detract significantly from school work and in fact may contribute to academic progress.

If your casual eavesdropping on your daughter's telephone conversations tells you that she is one of those who isn't talking school work in those telephonic marathons, take corrective action. Put a time limit on telephone conversations—with some suitable household chore as the penalty for violation.

QUESTION: Do we solve the problem of gifted children simply by segregating them in our schools?

ANSWER: Hardly. Research has shown that among "gifted" children there is a great variation of abilities and interests.

It is an over-simplification to treat the gifted as a group of persons substantially alike. Just as they differ, as a group, from average students, gifted students differ from one another. There's no way of getting around the fact that human beings are individuals and must be dealt with as individuals.

A school system doesn't deal adequately with the question of the gifted child merely by creating an accelerated class.

You Ask, We Answer

By Haskin

Q. In World War II, did any U. S. Marines take part in land actions in Europe?—T.O.

A. The only Marines who saw action ashore in Europe in World War II were members of Marine Detachments from the capital ships of the Navy, a number of Marine observers, and instructors in amphibious landings and air-naval gunfire techniques. These persons served in many places throughout Europe.

Q. Will boiling hard water make it soft? J. U.

A. Temporary or carbonate hardness, caused by magnesia and lime carbonates held in solution, can be partly removed by boiling. Permanent hardness cannot be removed by boiling, but can be destroyed by the addition of washing soda, which precipitates the insoluble carbonates. All hardness may be destroyed by the use of zeolites, a special kind of sand which removes the lime and magnesia from water which is passed through it.

As a reader of Southland, you can get an answer, by mail, to any question of fact by writing to Southland Magazine Information Bureau, 635 F St., N.W., Washington 4, D.C. Please enclose return postage or self-addressed, stamped envelope.

gency crew to find. Unless that engagement or wedding ring is chopped up by the disposal unit it can usually be recovered when a stop point is made at the street. That is just an easy task for your plumber.

Cats, kittens and small dogs are often pushed or chased into storm drain openings. Their recovery and return to the arms of their owners is mere procedure. Humane Society men help when animals are intentionally or inadvertently lost in the drains.

On occasion, police have stood by with a robbery or burglary suspect while crews climb below the street to fish out evidence—a wallet, perhaps, or some article taken from a person or a home.

Rubber and aluminum, in various sizes, are used to block off lines in a matter of a few minutes.

Extra shock troops move in when a storm strikes the Long Beach area. A batch of 50 to 75 calls is not uncommon under such circumstances. People become nervous; they drop things and they fear their homes will become flooded. Public Service men do not worry. Under a new preventive maintenance program stoppages virtually have been eliminated. Clogged sewer lines have dropped in number from a prior norm of 500 each year to less than 30 for all of 1963.

PREEN POINTS out that it is really not a simple task to recover some lost item from the underground lines. He stresses the danger of the work; insurance rates for his men are among the highest in the world; wearing of air tanks and harness are absolute musts. The men below are fed fresh air from specially designed blowers. If men working below—seeking your old high school ring or the watch you received upon graduation—do not report on the EXACT minute others go after them.

A map room holds one of the most comprehensive of any delineation systems in all of Long Beach. Maps reveal all the city's underground secrets; its intricate network, the level of every basement, each drain, sewer, catch basin or ditch.

A vast part of the life of Long Beach is often hidden beneath the pavements. In case you lost some of your marbles, well, they may have been recovered by the emergency crews. When Al Kammerer, former dispatcher, retired last Dec. 31, he had collected 27 gallons of the little balls.

LBSC Man an Author

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

RICHARD E. KIM was 18 when he, a youth from the north of Korea, joined the army of the Republic of Korea to fight the invading Communists who held in thralldom the region of his birth. This teacher of English at Long Beach State College is still a young man, but he has been through the mill. He fought in the Korean war from 1950 to 1954, and became aide-de-camp to both South Korean and American military leaders. He is a scholar as well, the holder of no less than three Master's degrees.

And he is a novelist of considerable power and promise. His novel "The MARTYRED" (Braziller $4.50) is at once among the best stories the Korean war has produced, and a first-rate study of the conflict that rages in the minds and hearts of men caught up in the swirl of war.

The army of the Republic of Korea has seized the Communists' capital, Pyongyang. The Communists, not long before that capital's fall, had arrested 14 Christian ministers. When the liberators arrive, only two of the 14 have survived; South Korean Intelligence has found out that the others have been shot.

Why were the two spared? It puzzles the chief of army political intelligence, Colonel Chang; Captain Lee is assigned to investigate. Were all the 12 murdered ministers martyrs? It would make good propaganda, thinks Chang, himself no Christian. A Communist major has been captured; he claims some of the ministers sought to betray the others to save their own lives. Did they "die like dogs," as the Communist says?

Captain Lee is young, idealistic; he must find the truth. Author Kim draws in Lee a character confined to no one country, and in Mr. Shin, one of the ministers who has survived the massacre, an enigmatic central character. The skill with which they are drawn plays no small part in holding the reader to the last sentence of "Martyred."

WHILE ON a forbidden hunting outing, young Sean Courtenay shatters the leg of twin brother Garrick with an accidental shot and then is forced by their father, a wealthy rancher, to witness the amputation.

This pitches the tempo and mood for Rhodesian Wilbur A. Smith's first novel, a powerful story of South Africa at the turn of the century. "WHEN THE LION FEEDS" (Viking, $5.95) is the saga of Sean Courtenay who, because of his traumatic experience, develops a contempt for physical weakness and a passion for high adventure and gambling with high stakes for power.

There are women: his first wife, who pulls through a difficult delivery, miscarriage and fever and then commits suicide; a pregnant girl friend who marries brother Garry when Sean is believed dead; voluptuous, charming Candy Rautenbach, gold-field hotel owner left at the altar by Sean's partner Duff; and Katrina, the lovely Boer girl he marries and loses to a tragic fate.

There is violence, as he joins his father and brother in war against the neighboring Zulus; takes on all comers in a ring in the gold fields to raise a stake for the mining gamble that makes him and Duff fabulously wealthy; and hunts elephants for ivory. There are energy and excitement—all the elements of forceful fiction.

The title comes from Zulus who join Sean on his big safari after he loses his mines: "Something always dies when the lion feeds, and yet there is meat for those that follow him."

ALL ELIZABETH Bowen's writings are like diamonds; hard and sparkling. The Anglo-Irish novelist's newest book, "THE LITTLE GIRLS" (Knopf, $4.95) adds a little more to a stature many cubits high. Three women meet; they were school chums when they last saw each other and in those youthful days had been relentless in their scrutiny of each other. In their reunion events and forces of the old days better left sleeping rise to the surface, too close for comfort.

It takes an Elizabeth Bowen to make of such a situation a memorable book. This is a comedy but it is etched in acid.

PIOTR RAWICZ

A first novel, "BLOOD FROM THE SKY," by Rawicz, a Ukrainian Jew who survived the extermination of his community, reminds many readers of the work of Kafka and Camus. (Harcourt, Brace and World, $4.95)

Very Important Cats

By Eleanor Avery Price

TWO CATS of special distinction will be prominent at the Cal Coast Cat Show today, the second day of the cat feature, in Long Beach Municipal Auditorium.

One of the interesting entries is a cameo-colored household pet, Pinkie, making his debut in cat shows at the age of 13. He is owned by Leata Cobb of Long Beach.

The other unusual cat is a fabulous feline, a blue point Himalayan insured at (and for sale at) $5,000. Owned by the Chestermere Cattery of Calgary, Alberta, Chestermere Chen-Soo (Snookie to his owners) is being displayed by Mrs. Jeanne Ramsdale also of Long Beach. Mrs. Ramsdale, as judge of a cat show in San Francisco last October, gave Snookie second best in show, and so has a warm personal feeling for this lovely feline.

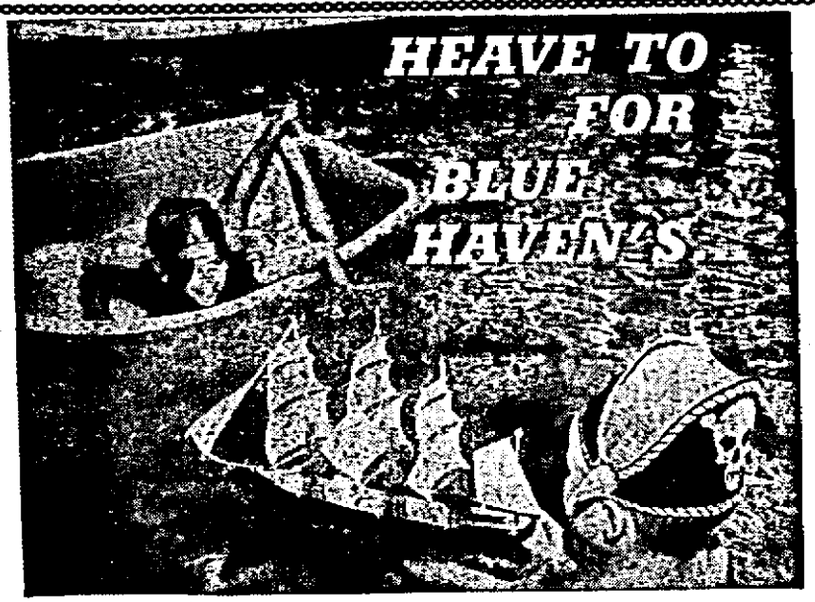

SNOOKIE is the product of nine years of breeding Himalayans at Chestermere Cattery. His owners feel he is tops, and most judges concur, as he now has garnered quite a number of wins.

The Himalayan is not an import From Himalaya. He is a homemade cat, in essence of Persian type and Siamese coloring. He has a distinctive mask and points, brilliant blue eyes, a long flowing coat, a cobby body, a quiet voice. His antics are hilarious but his disposition is sweet and affectionate. He is not a

Cameras in the Skies

A 16-mm. camera records Thor flight. Top left, first exposure at about 125 miles above earth, others at increasing heights. (Note earth curvature in last two.)

By Richard LaCoste

MISSILEMEN forced to destroy by an electronic signal malfunctioning missiles didn't know which particular stage had separated prior to destruction. Modern photography has changed all this.

Most important, cameras today enable space scientists to study separation of the different stages of missiles to aid them in improving stabilization devices.

Such a project was the placement of a small camera inside a Thor — the Free World's first operational insile (IRBM). Most versatile of U.S. missiles, the Thor has been used as a space booster, singly and in combination such as Thor-Able, Thor-Delta and Thor-Agena.

THOR ALSO holds the distinction of being the first ballistic missile fired from Vandenberg AFB.

What the photographs proved was that great possibilities existed for so-called spy-in-the-sky satellites which the Soviets have criticized so violently lately.

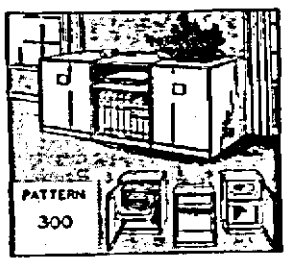

Four of an undisclosed number of photos were released by the U.S. Air Force. They reveal clarity in the pictures of the earth and patches of clouds although the negatives were only 16 millimeter in size. A special larger aerial camera in a big satellite constantly orbiting the earth could produce even clearer photos.

ACTUALLY, a satellite placed into an orbital path over the north and south poles would pass over every point on earth — including the entire Soviet Union — since the earth rotates below the circling satellite.

Photos were taken at altitudes of from 150 to 300 miles above the earth.

The capsule was ejected electronically in the Atlantic Ocean 39 minutes after launch and about 1,400 miles from Cape Canaveral.

Affair in Palm Springs

Golf is a principal pastime in Palm Springs and its environs. New links layouts are ready, more in the works.

GENE AUTRY'S Melody Ranch (formerly Holiday Inn), just down the road from Gene Autry's Ocotillo Lodge, is the latest addition to Autry's expanding hotel empire. The hotel opened under the new management in January with Gene Austin and The Whipoorwills in the new Record Room. Decorative changes are being made around the large pool area and in the lounge. A new entertainment policy is being started with music and "names" booked into the ranch. Another innovation is keeping the dining room open until 3 a. m. on weekends for late diners.

Located close to the center of Palm Springs is The Metropole. Opened late last fall, the supper club has Eddie King as its genial host, and is a favorite spot for celebrities. Dinners are served from 5 p. m. to midnight in the lush contemporary dining room. A trio plays nightly in the lounge, which uses deep red as its main color scheme with comfortable highly-polished mahogany furniture. The food is gourmet-fine and the service excellent.

One of the latest dining rooms to open in the Palm Springs area is Rim Rocks, built high above the desert on a mountain foothill. There is an excellent view of the surrounding area through gigantic picture windows. Rim Rocks has an intimate, relaxed come-as-you are atmosphere. The dining space is adjustable and can accommodate up to 400 diners. The place is done in red, white and gold, with touches of black for accent. The restaurant's chef, Gabriel, was at the Balboa Bay Club and Sheraton West in Los Angeles. Host-manager Chic Masi is also manager of the Stadium Club during baseball season. Red Norvo and his orchestra opened the room, and "Ukie" Sherin is comedian-vocalist at the piano bar.

FOR THAT something different atmosphere, Aloha Jhoe's with its Polynesian decor is the place. Suey Lee, originally from Hong Kong and The Islands, is the chef and provides authentic island food. A fun-place for an evening, Kalani at the organ plays island music and popular American tunes. There is audience participation, with hula instructions by Maoana, a talented Tahitian dancer. Prizes are given all who "take a lesson" in the hula. Aloha Jhoe's has outdoor gardens with an island barbecue pit and waterfalls hidden among the tropical trees and vines. The gardens can accommodate 400 persons at their excellent luaus.

The 100-unit Tropics Hotel which is done in South Sea Island decor, has an interesting showplace in its Wine Cellar, the only one in Palm Springs. Done in old English decor, authentic miniature suits of armor accent the atmosphere of a ancient rock hewn cavern. Indirectly lighted by softly glowing round crystal lamps, wine kegs and the actual wine bottle racks serve to further the ingenuity of the decorations. Not open to the public yet, but used for private parties and conventions. Holds 100 persons comfortably.

BUILDING PLANS in Palm Springs and area include the nation's first resort condominium community, a $12 million project on 80 acres near Eldorado, one of Palm Springs' famous golf courses. The project's name will be Casa Dorado and overall plan will contain 246 garden apartment homes, a 7,300-square-foot clubhouse and recreation building, a nine-hole golf course, 11 swimming pools and other recreational facilities. First phase, which is getting under way immediately, consists of 48 residences, three swimming pools, first two holes of the nine-hole golf course, and recreation building.

Seven Lakes, another new golf home development, which should be under construction early in March, will lie on 13 acres southeast of Palm Springs. Seven man made lakes will be sprinkled throughout the area, forming water hazards for some of the 18 fairways on the development's 18-hole golf course.

There will be 400 residential units around the fairways. These will be arranged in groups of 16 to 24, each around its own recreation area consisting of swimming pool and barbecue area. At the entrance to the project, the clubhouse will face a waterfall and an 18-hole putting green on an island. The entire project will be developed on leased Agua Caliente Indian tribe land, which has been leased for 65 years.

NEW POPULATION figures for Palm Springs, as of Jan. 1, show 17,756 permanent residents living in 9,449 dwelling units, an increase of 508 permanent residents since April, 1963.

Palm Springs' 28th Annual Desert Circus, the biggest celebration of the year, to be held April 8-12, will honor Hawaii this year. Hawaii's Gov. John Burns will be the honored guest. There will be a celebrity High Sheriff and Queen, usually a Hollywood movie beauty. The Circus includes one of the most colorful and exciting parades of all the spa parades. Other events include a chuckwagon breakfast, Desert Circus Ball, square dances, hole-in-one golf tournament, a Kangaroo Court, and general celebration for the week, including "arrests" for not appearing on the streets in western dress.

Sheraton to Expand on Waikiki

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

THE ROYAL Hawaiian, long the most famous hotel on Honolulu's Waikiki Beach and the "home" of countless Southern Californians who visit Hawaii regularly, is about to undergo a $4 million improvement that will include a new $2½ million wing of 125 luxury suites.

At the same time, chairman Ernest Henderson of the Sheraton Corporation of America —operator of four other important hostelries on the Islands — announced that construction also would begin this summer on a $3 million, 150-room resort hotel at Poipu Beach, on the island of Kauai, and that in 1965 another Waikiki beachfront hotel of 350 rooms would be built next to the Royal Hawaiian at a cost of $9 million.

The new wing of the Royal will be six stories, extending from the Royal's Diamond Head side along Waikiki Beach on the present site of the Uluniu Swim Club. All rooms and suites will face an ocean or Royal garden view and designed to complement the present hotel.

Over a continuing program of two years, all guest rooms and suites of the present Royal will be redecorated, and the hotel will be completely air-conditioned.

THE NEW resort on Kauai, to be known as the Sheraton-Kauai Hotel and Beach Club, will occupy a beautiful site on the island's sunny, south shore. It will cover a 30-acre area, 20 acres for the hotel and 10 acres for cottages. It will be open in early 1965.

Sheraton's new hotel on the Waikiki beachfront, scheduled to open in December, 1966, is as yet unnamed. It will rise approximately 10 stories on 1½ acres on the Honolulu side of the Royal Hawaiian. This luxury hotel will have de luxe guest room and suite accommodations and will feature a romantic Polynesian restaurant. It will be air-conditioned throughout with all rooms facing Waikiki Beach.

The Sheraton chain bought the Royal Hawaiian, Princess Kaiulani and Moana-SurfRider from Matson Navigation Co. in 1959, has since improved the Royal, built the Royal Manor and the Sheraton-Maui Hotel on the Island of Maui. It recently sold the Princess Kaiulani and Moana-SurfRider to the Kokusai Kogyo Co. but retained complete policy and operational control for those hotels with minimum 10-year management contracts.

ALSO OF INTEREST to those who plan to vacation in Hawaii again this summer is announcement that a new Surf and Sand Club is now open at the former home of the Outrigger Canoe Club on Waikiki Beach and that its facilities—for a modest fee—will be available to the public.

Included in the facilities are a private beach, locker facilities, hot showers, checking service, and a new budget restaurant.

Daily membership is $1; weekly, $5; monthly, $12.

THE 1964 Summer Travel Program to the University of Hawaii Summer Session is now accepting reservations, with departure June 25 from Los Angeles, registration June 29, and return Aug. 10.

For earning extra credits transferable to mainland colleges, both students and teachers may attend the classes. A wide range of subjects will be offered. A bulletin describing the program, with application forms, may be obtained from Dr. Robert E. Cralle, executive director, University Study Tour to Hawaii, 345 Stockton St., San Francisco.

Special rates for the six-week (47-day) session begin as low as $585 and include Pan Am round-trip jet from Los Angeles, de luxe accommodations in Waikiki Beach hotels, a schedule of more than 22 sightseeing trips and tours, cruises, dinner dances, luau and beach activities.

A VACATION to the Land of the Border can be much more meaningful if you are on good terms with its background. To get this, we recommend "A Guide to Mexican History," an information-packed paperback just published by Minutiae Mexicana, Ave. Alvaro Obregon 286, 20 Piso, Mexico 7, D. F., Mexico, $1.25 U.S.

The engaging text is written by Pauline R. Kibbe, American-born but a resident of Mexico City since 1954. After exploring Mexico's history, she delves into modern Mexico — its political development, land reform, education, and health and welfare. Other sections of the book offer pronunciation of Spanish and Indian terms, important dates in Mexican history, and a suggested reading list. Among the fine illustrations are three photos taken by Lowell Weeks of Long Beach.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH DELAPLANE

LAHAINA, Hawaii

"We are going on a rather fast trip around the world. (We have only 30 days of unlimited travel privileges as airline employes.) What are the absolute 'must' things to see?"

OUTSTANDING things that come to mind: the Taj Mahal by moonlight out of New Delhi. Temple of Baalbek in Lebanon, a short run out of Beirut. (By the way, Australian newspapermen enroute London always take a couple of days in Beirut—the swingiest town in the world, they say.)

You could take a look at Bibliof at the same time. Supposed to be where the Greeks got the name for the Bible and where it was first written down.

You should get a day in Bangkok — temple and river tour. Couple days in Hong Kong where you will spend twice what you planned.

Give Rome a few days. Good shopping, good eating. For couple of restaurants: Tre Scalini, Romulo's across the Tiber.

Madrid is cheap. The Plaza Mayor is good to look on and a good place to eat in the corner. Corregidor or El Pulpito.

Paris is expensive. Sightsee the Louvre, shop the boulevards. London is great. See a couple of shows. Dublin, maybe. If you're coming back via the Caribbean, I'd say the Virgin Islands.

"We are a family of two adults and three children planning a trip to Ireland. We want to go PanAm from Miami to Lisbon and then by train or rental car through Portugal, Spain, France and England and on to Dublin. Would it be possible to travel on one passport?"

MINOR CHILDREN can go on one of the adult's passports. But I keep ALL my kids on separate passports. For example: You cross from Spain into France. You discover the suitcases are still on the Spanish side by some accident.

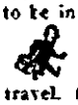

When you go back to retrieve them, you enter Spain again. And EVERYBODY on your passport has to leave one country and enter the other together.

The PanAm route to Lisbon lets you step over at San Juan, Puerto Rico, you know. You could get in a couple of tropical beach days there.

"We live in a small town but would like to start a group that could take advantage of the group travel rates. How do we go about it?"

WRITE ONE of the major overseas airlines (TWA or Pan American) and they'll send you all kinds of literature. Group rates go for half or less —it IS a bargain.

The airline authorities laid a lot of rules on it: You have to be in business six months.

The club must be formed for some other reason than travel. (However, you could form a camera club that incidentally likes to take pictures of foreign settings, couldn't you?)

Sasanqua camellias provide masses of short-lived flowers in fall and winter and fill many needs in gardens.

By Joe Littlefield

MOST OF us are familiar with the showy, flowered Japonica Camellias, so popular during the winter blooming season.

One of several other groups of camellias are the Sasanquas. The branches grow willowy, and lend themselves well for training on wire or wood slats for support, to grow like vines, and cover wall or fence areas. There are varied colors to choose from, too.

These plants tolerate full sun, full shade, or partial shade and sun.

Sasanqua flowers don't last as long as the Japonica type. One plant properly trained to supports may cover an area 10 feet or more wide and 10 feet high. After several years, numerous short side branches will provide ample screening.

These camellias may be grown as mounding ground covers; trained to grow up a tree trunk for an interesting effect where a tree is in a patio; planted in a container with lath framework to support the branches for an interesting patio plant for partial screening; planted around a bird bath and allowed to mound; planted near a fish pool and trained carefully to arch out over the water creating an artistic and lovely garden effect, and, in the case of some compect varieties, as hedges.

ONE OF the most common japonica camellia problems some gardeners have is that buds turn brown, dry up and drop off. There are two phases of this problem.

The first pertains to camellia buds browning and drying up before they even begin to show flower bud color. If this happens each year, this may be due to the camellia being a poor bloomer. Eureka red, sensation, and Eureka variegated "peppermint stick," and Pink perfection are known to be bud droppers. Of these three named varieties, generally Pink perfection seems to hold a certain percentage of buds after several years. Cut back the others and graft good blooming varieties to them.

THE SECOND difficulty may be due to erratic watering during the critical hot summer weather, may be due to not enough deep waterings, lack of humidity from overhead shower baths in the summer, possible thrip bud damage as is the case at times with gardenias, and several other possible factors.

Where partially opened flower buds show color then brown, or fully opened blossoms turn brown around the petal edges, indicates a weather change. As soon as weather becomes warm, dry, or windy, the buds and blossoms suffer. The gardener should hose plants to provide a humid condition to help the buds and blossoms.

Temple City Presents 15th Annual Camellia Show

Temple City Camellia Society's 15th annual show will be presented at Los Angeles State and County Arboretum, 301 N. Baldwin Ave., Arcadia, from 2 to 6:30 p.m. next Saturday and from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Sunday. The public is invited and admission is free.

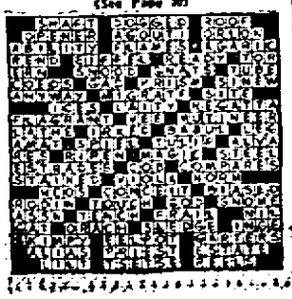

Anyone wishing to show flowers should bring them, correctly labeled, to the Lecture Hall, prior to 10 a.m. Saturday. Membership in the Temple City Camellia Society is not required. Twenty-two trophies will be awarded. A number of new blooms, developed within the past several years, will be shown.

Garden Clubs

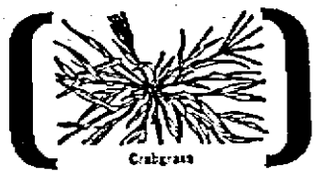

Second anniversary of the North Long Beach Branch, American Begonia Society, will be marked at a meeting Friday evening in the social room of Community Savings & Loan Association, 3901 N. Atlantic Ave. Potluck supper will be served, without charge, at 6:30 p.m. Those attending should bring favorite dish and service. Visitors will be welcome and gifts will be provided for members and guests. Parking at rear of building.

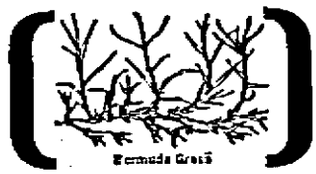

Soil preparation will be the subject of Dr. Robert E. Atkinson, PhD, garden consultant, at a meeting of Long Beach parent chapter, American Begonia Society, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Linden Hall, 208 Linden Ave. A plant table and refreshments are on the program. Visitors are welcome.

long-haired Siamese. If he were, his offspring could well have short coats. Instead, the Himalayan litters conform to a type and breed true. And he is not a simple cross of a Persian and Siamese. Years of selective breeding have gone into his make-up in England, the United States, and Canada. There have been times of deep discouragement and many discards. But success came when the Cat Associations officially recognized him as a breed.

Mrs. Marguerita Goforth of La Mesa is credited with naming the breed. The color pattern is found in other animals, notably the Himalayan rabbit. It's as simple as that. In English the same cat is called Colour Point Long Hair.

A DOG SHOW is scheduled next Sunday in the Electric Building, Balboa Park, San Diego. Western Cat Club and Twin Counties Cat Fanciers are taking entries for a show March 21-22 in Northridge. Entry clerk is Dorothy Bond, telephone GArfield 4-7580, and deadline is Feb. 24.

Anyone interested in the big-hearted bull mastiff, a rare breed in this area, may see several in various age brackets by telephoning Mrs. B. Pertl, 8621930, for appointment.

Photo Show

Top slides of the Southern California Council of Camera Clubs will be shown at a meeting Wednesday evening of Long Beach Camera Guild in Los Altos Library. Slides taken in Colorado also will be shown by George Hinkle.

February competition winners included Floyd Garton, Fount Clark, Georgian Reynolds, Charles Lawson, Dick Paglow, Ella Fuehrer, Bob Knight, Floyd Williamson, Church, Catherine Laursen, Don Hayward, Elva Hayward. Judge was Kenneth Sloop, associate of Royal Photographic Society.

JOHN APOSTLE
A Musical Treat

THE MARK of a fine restaurant is that extra touch which makes a superior meal look and taste even better.

At King Arthur's Steak House, a beautifully appointed restaurant at 5511 E. Spring St., one of the gourmet touches is a cup of sauce served with the special top sirloin steak. The cup contains a delectable mushroom sauce prepared with wine. The diner dips each forkful of tender, juicy steak into the sauce, enjoying a marvelous combination of flavors. The steak is $3.15, accompanied by outstanding soup or a superb tossed green salad, tremendous 14-ounce baked potato with chives and a genuine cheese sauce, onion rings, hot fresh cheesebread and beverage.

King Arthur's, owned by John Apostle, Tony Apostle and John Paulos, is a large, attractive place decorated with shields, lances, banners and other replicas reminiscent of the days of King Arthur and his dashing knights. The restaurant, which serves dinners Sundays from 2 p.m. on, will offer a special treat today—a variety of organ concerts by members of the Long Beach and Orange County Professional Organists Club. Starting at 2 o'clock, dozens of this area's most talented organists will play exhilarating music for several hours on an organ in the cocktail lounge and another organ in the Throne Room dining room. Bob Moreau, King Arthur's versatile organist, will be host.

Among the other dinner entrees featured (at no price increase) will be extraordinary prime rib au jus, $3.15; southern-style fried chicken, $2.75; fisherman's haul (three sea food items), $2.95; Australian lobster tail, $3.95; elegant New York cut steak, $4.75, and splendid fried eastern scallops, $2.65.

Q. I question your allegation that the late President Kennedy ever attended Princeton University. Every record shows he is a graduate of Harvard. What is the truth? — Charles Ormes, Miami, Fla.

A. President Kennedy enrolled as a freshman in Princeton in 1935. He roomed until midterm exams in #9 South Reunion with two former classmates from Choate Preparatory School, Rip Horton and LeMoyne Billings. He then became ill with an adrenal insufficiency and left Princeton. Later he entered Harvard, from which college he was graduated.

Q. How many times has Tommy Manville been married, and what's the funny message you get when you call his house?—Amy Lyons, Hyde Park, Ill.

A. Manville, 69, has been married 13 times. When he is not at home, a tape recorder gives out with: "Mr. Manville is out. He will return shortly. At the sound of the 'beep,' please leave your name and the reason for your call. If you are an ex-wife of Mr. Manville's, don't bother to leave any message."

Q. The so-called "hot line" between Washington and Moscow—has Khrushchev or Johnson used it yet for any purpose?—Frank Richardson, Bangor, Me.

A. Not as of this writing.

Q. Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, 73, recently retired as head of Eastern Air Lines. Can you tell me how much money Eastern has made since 1960?—F. J., Mineola, N.Y.

A. Tax advantages. By marrying ahead of the scheduled 1964 date, the bride became a 1963 dependent.

Q. Is there a world's woman chess champion?—Katherine Peterson, Madison, Wis.

A. Yes, Nona Gaprindashvili of Russia.

Q. Could you please tell me what the lapel emblem that Lyndon Johnson wears stands for?—Gordon Closway, Winona, Minn.

HE KISSES WOMEN FOR A LIVING

by PAUL SEAMAN

HONOLULU.

Peter S. Fithian, a 6-foot-3-inch, blond, handsome, deeply tanned young bachelor, has what is probably the best job in the world. He spends most of his time kissing women. Fithian estimates he has bussed some 38,000 women in the past 6 years—the length of time he has been operating "Lei Greeters of Hawaii," a prosperous service that welcomes vacationers to this island.

And he's well paid for his not-too-difficult work, for like all successful enterprises, the unique service fills a special need.

"Here in Hawaii," Fithian explains, "everyone tries to greet arriving friends with a lei and a kiss [see cover]. It's an authentic, well-practiced custom.

"But sometimes there's a problem. Somebody just can't make it to the airport to meet a friend when he arrives. That's where I and my staff come in. We meet the new arrivals and extend a traditional Hawaiian welcome, complete with flower leis and kisses.

"If it's a man we're meeting, one of my young Hawaiian girl staffers does the greeting, but if it's a girl, I or one of the other men take care of it."

A MATTER OF TIMING

Fithian admits to a few occupational hazards. "You have to watch who you're kissing," he says. "Once, one of my assistants got into a long line of arriving women—a tour group—and didn't quit puckerin' in time. He wound up kissing a man who was sort of trailing along behind them."

He notes that he himself has an occasional problem. Like everyone, he has blue days, and just can't stand to kiss anybody. "I do everything I can to get out of the act," he says, "but soon enough a pretty face goes by and—Bingo!—I'm back in the mood and rarin' to go."

It's not unusual for Fithian to meet and kiss more than 50 arriving women a day, among whom may be nervous grandmothers, giggling teenagers, glamorous debutantes or single girls looking for romance.

"These first minutes in Hawaii can be magical if the greeting is properly handled," he says. "People all over the world have heard of the lei, the kiss, the warm welcome. My job is to see they get it."

Hawaii's kissing man uses variety of techniques:...

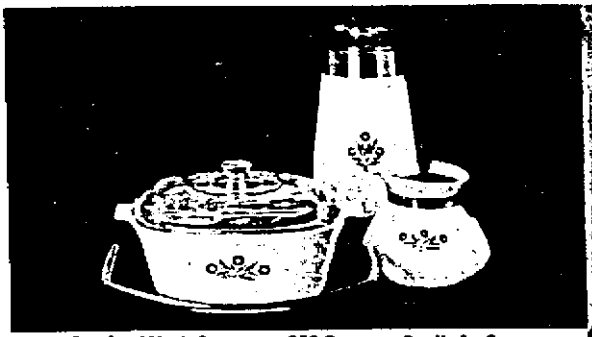

...At Honolulu's airport he approaches some new arrivals from the side...

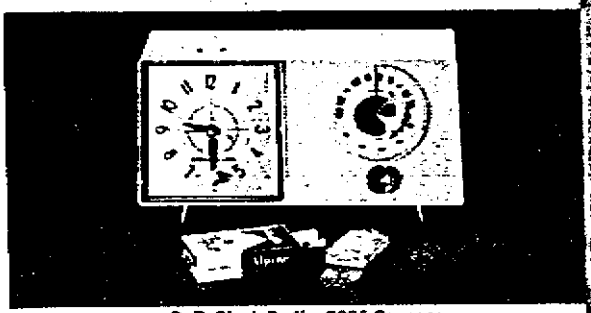

...others he awards wreath, then kisses. Still others...

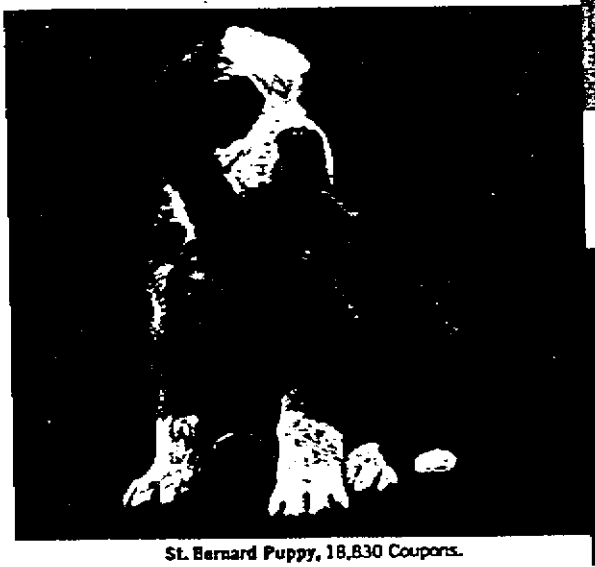

...he comes at from the front, gazes into their eyes before kissing.

HAVE DOCTORS FOUND THE FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH?

by LLOYD SHEARER

Performing treatment, California specialist Dr. Harvey Kagan injects patient with new tissue building fluid.

Ready for treatment, Japanese patient is marked for the areas to be injected for removal of facial wrinkles. The technique of silicone and lipids therapy to build up face and body contours was begun in Japan 12 years ago.

One day recently, into the swank Beverly Hills medical suite of Dr. Harvey Kagan trooped one of the country's top comics, age 55, one of the world's foremost screen stars, age 50, and one of the nation's former beauty queens, age 30.

Said the comic, whose nose was straightened a decade ago: "Doc, I want you to do my face when I get back from Las Vegas."

Wailed the Hollywood star, who has now reached that point in life where she is inviting escorts to previews: "You must fatten me up around the hips. I'm becoming as flat as a boy."

Declared the ex-beauty queen: "I want you to build up my bust from 32 to 38."

To this trio of celebrities, Kagan, a Brynner-bald, bespectacled medico, smiled pleasantly, spoke laconically, then deftly turned them over to his nurse for appointments.

What he was most interested in, however, was the poignant case of a 14-year-old girl from Long Island, N.Y., who all her life had suffered from lipodystrophy, a loss of fat tissue in her cheeks causing her face to look almost cheekless.

At 50, Harvey Kagan is one of the growing handful of U.S. doctors currently investigating the new nonsurgical techniques of augmenting body contours—making wrinkled men unwrinkled, flat-chested women full-chested, hollow-cheeked children full-cheeked, in general making people look younger than they really are and restoring the disfigured to normality.

plastic injections

Dr. Kagan and about 55 other doctors do this with a series of injections. Into facial wrinkles and underdeveloped hips, calves, cheeks, breasts, collarbone areas, they inject a fluid which consists of a silicone material and fatty acids. This fluid obliterates facial wrinkles and builds up contours of the face and body.

In the case of the 14-year-old schoolgirl from Long Island, Kagan injected each cheek half a dozen times. The resultant improvement was physically startling. Psychologically, too, the girl became a new person—happy, optimistic, willing to go to school and join the society of other teenagers.

Since 1961 Dr. Kagan has injected more than 300 patients with his formula and has watched it build fatty tissue where there was no tissue before, or where the cells had died.

In Hollywood, New York and Las Vegas today there are at least 100 actresses and show girls who owe their new measurements to Dr. Kagan's formula of 99 per cent silicone and 1 per cent lipids, which are fat substances. There are also a dozen actors who are more photogenic today because his series of shots has removed their wrinkles. But most rewarding to him personally are the half dozen cases of children and young women who, victimized by disease or misfortune, have been transformed by this therapy into normal-looking human beings.

For example, an attractive 18-year-old girl who had studied dancing intensively ever since she was 4 could obtain no work because her calves were underdeveloped. Too thin, they gave her the appearance of being knock-kneed. Dr. Kagan injected the areas with silicone and lipids, the fatty tissue developed and today the girl is working steadily as a dancer.

What happens to the human body when it receives an injection of silicone, which is plastic in liquid form, and lipids?

According to Kagan, "The usual problem with wrinkles or any other similar facial defect is that with age, the subcutaneous fatty tissues, the fat cells under the skin, shift or waste away. Or if a woman goes on an extreme diet, then frequently the tissues that have been lost are not replenished.

"The silicone material," he explains, "in conjunction with the lipids takes up the dead space. In 7 to 10 days the body area injected with the formula becomes infiltrated by fine connective and supportive tissue. Within this tissue are enmeshed tiny globules of silicone and lipid material, giving the effect of new tissue formation. The areas of injection diminish in size following the initial injection, but the sites are reinjected until a suitable result is obtained."

Suppose you are a 45-year-old woman who, over the years, has developed one or two frown lines, some "crow's feet" around the eyes, some deep forehead wrinkles. You go to a doctor experienced in this silicone theory and ask what can be done.

wrinkles disappear

He tells you that one or two injections in each wrinkle will erase them in less than a month.

Or suppose you want to change the contours of your bust. The treatment consists of 10 to 20 shots on each side, one every 5 to 7 days, for a period of 50 to 100 days.

It sounds so incredibly simple that you doubt it. So, sensibly enough, you ask, as most patients do, the following questions:

- Where did this technique originate? It was begun in Japan 12 years ago by Dr. Rin Sakurai, who 2 years ago was flown to California to teach and explain it to a few American doctors, who, in turn, are rapidly teaching it to others.
- Is the treatment dangerous? Is there any chance it will cause cancer or tumors of any kind? Dr. Sakurai has treated more than 10,000 patients with silicone without significant untoward results in any of his cases. Dr. Kagan has treated more than 300 cases in this country without any adverse effects. The Food and Drug Administration has prohibited the use in this country of the Japanese silicone which Dr. Sakurai injects into his patients.

As a result, American doctors employing the injection technique use silicone manufactured by Dow Corning, one of the most respected chemical companies in this country. For years, prostheses made of solid silicone—heart valves, tubes, various devices of Dow silicone plastic—have been implanted in the human body. Although they are foreign substances, they have stayed there, imbedded, for years—innocuous, arousing no infection, inflammation or tumors.

Dr. Kagan and other physicians claim the same is also true of the Dow liquid silicone they are using.

sad prior experiments

Other doctors I consulted who had reservations concerning the technique were quick to point out that 30 years ago some physicians attempted to enlarge breasts, hips and calves by injecting them with paraffin, a waxy substance used in candlemaking. The areas injected got larger but subsequently developed paraffin granulomas, areas of chronic inflammation in which granulation or healing tissue came to the fore. These doctors said they would wait another 3 or 4 years before they themselves undertook to practice the current silicone technique.

A spokesman for the Food and Drug Administration told me: "We have always taken a dim view of this practice of cosmetic therapy and breast enlargement. We don't like to see foreign substances injected into the human body. Unfortunately, our society places such a heavy premium on youth and good appearance that people, especially women, will do almost anything to attain beauty and the appearance of youth."

The American Medical Association, with headquarters in Chicago, reported it had received no adverse reports from anyone on the use of cosmetic injectable therapy and gave me a list of doctors who to date have done the most investigative work in the field. At the top of their list was Dr. Harvey Kagan.

The Los Angeles County Medical Society also revealed that no one had sued, complained or condemned the dozen or so doctors in its areas injecting patients with silicone and lipids.

- How successful is the procedure? Every individual's response varies according to individual body chemistry. The younger a patient is, generally, the better the result.
- Are the results permanent? It is too early to tell, but probably not. New tissue formation is present in the treated areas as a result of stimulation by the silicone and lipids. These tissues and their contents diminish with time because of the body's normal aging process. Additional booster injections have been necessary in Japan after 4 or 5 years.
- How much pain is there in the injection procedure? A local anesthetic is used, and only the sensation of a pinprick is felt when the injection is made. Usually there is no swelling or discoloration following the injection. Where there is, it quickly disappears.
- Is the silicone therapy experimental? Yes, it is relatively new and considered experimental, and doctors who are using it ask their patients to sign a "consent for treatment" form.

results are favorable

In researching this article, I interviewed 22 women who have taken the series of injections for wrinkle removal and bust, hip, leg and arm enlargement. All confessed they were satisfied with the results.

Said a 46-year-old society matron: "I went to a doctor because of wrinkles on my upper lip. I think I had 10 injections in all. The wrinkles are gone. It's been over a year, and they haven't come back."

A Hollywood star who has had her face lifted in Europe several times submitted to cosmetic injectable therapy this past September. "It's the best bet I've found yet," she told me. "Look at my cheeks. Six months ago they were getting real crepey. Today they're darn smooth. I've recommended the bit to every dame in show business."

A Las Vegas chorus girl told me: "I heard about this new technique from a girl friend of mine, so when I was in Hollywood I went to see this doctor who does it. He told me first that I would have to be examined by an internist. Then he explained it would take about 4 months of treatment to change me from a 32 to a 36. I took one injection every five days. It cost me $500, but I'm very pleased. I feel like a new woman."

Despite the basic conservatism of most doctors, which in the final analysis provides the major protection for their patients, the injection treatment for the improvement and correction of body contours is moving rapidly ahead in this country.

It is relatively simple and inexpensive, and almost any general practitioner can learn the technique.

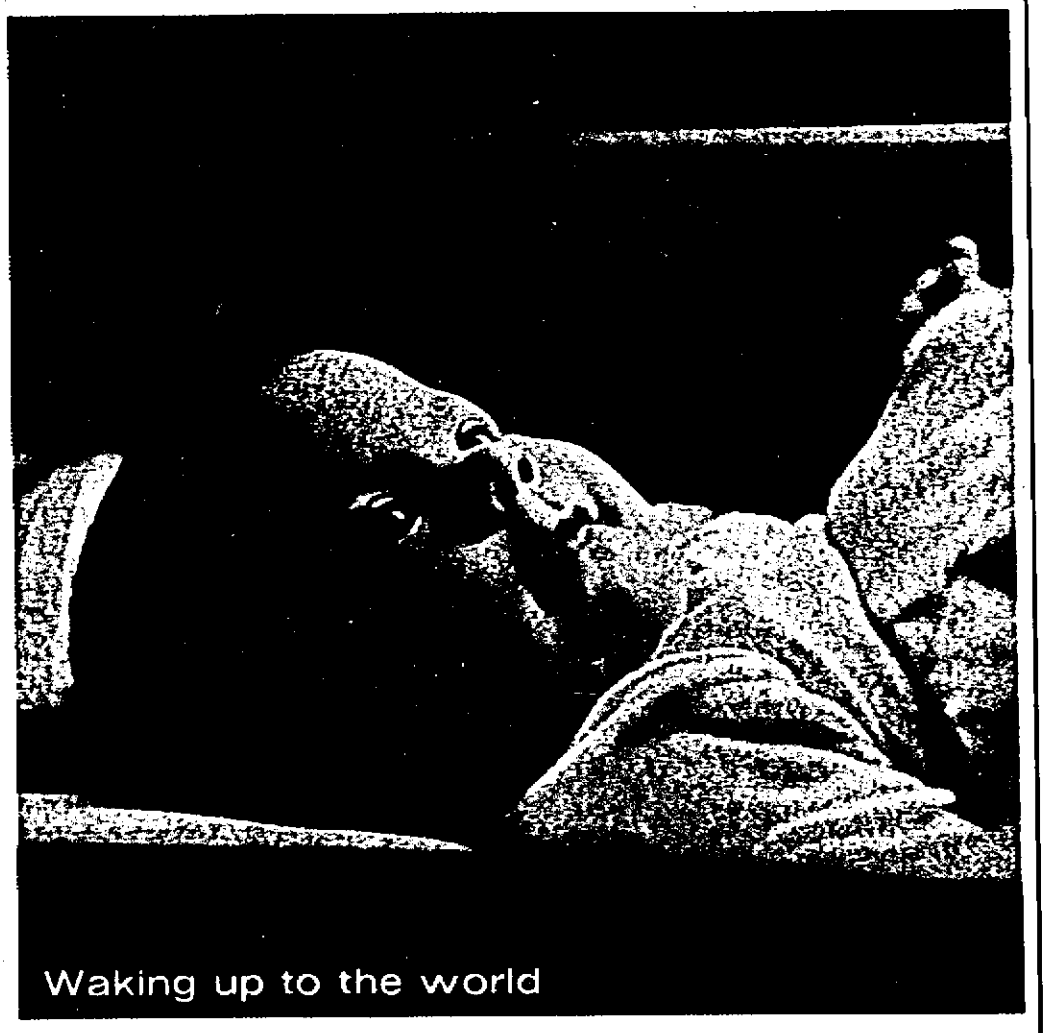

Moreover, in the past 20 years the group of aged persons 65 or over has increased at least 35 per cent in the U.S. By 1980, it is estimated, more than 40 per cent of the U.S. population will be 45 or over.

Many such persons become distressed by the outward manifestations of growing older—aging skin, fallen jowls, sagging breasts. Many, because of their wrinkled facial appearance, are denied the privilege of pursuing their careers before the public. There are others whose employment is dependent almost entirely upon their looks. At the moment, it is mostly to these people that the injectable therapy appeals. But until such time as it is proved harmful, the technique undoubtedly will become increasingly popular in all areas of a society such as ours, where we set a high premium on youth and where personal appearance affects nearly everyone's life.

Most of us want to camouflage our age. Modern medicine is now providing us with a new method.

BRINGING UP BABY,® HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF FIVE

Think newborns do nothing but eat and sleep the first few months? Any expert baby-watcher will tell you that your baby is busy learning right from birth. He blinks at light and startles at sharp sounds. (Why, at one month he can follow light and sound and starts to learn from what he sees and hears.) Taste buds begin to develop by reacting to sweet, sour, bitter and salty almost immediately. Through skin sensations a wee one learns the comfort of warmth and cuddling, the discomfort of cold and pain. A do-nothing? Indeed not. All this activity is practice for future development.

Solid facts. When your baby's about to embark on cereal, you'll find Gerber Cereals ideal for several reasons. The mild flavors have a way of waking up tender taste buds gently. The texture has an easy-to-swallow smoothness that's designed to please a delicate palate. In addition, the nutrition your baby gets from Gerber Cereals will stand him in good stead throughout babyhood. All five are enriched with iron and calcium. Plus important B-vitamins ... factors in sparking appetites and spurring growth.

More busybody activities. Apart from learning through his senses in the early months, a baby is busy with other things. For example: clenching and opening fists lead to eventual graspability. Flexing of legs and arms are trial runs for creeping. Coos and gurgles are the forerunners of speech. Yes, being a baby is a full-time job.

More early dietary data. Special baby juices come early in the modern baby's diet for the vitamin C they provide. Gerber Strained Orange Juice and Apple Juice are ideal starting juices because they're ever so mild and well-tolerated by babies. The Orange Juice has natural vitamin C, the Apple Juice is enriched with vitamin C to the same degree. Can't think of two more refreshing ways to help keep your baby's gums and other body tissues in good condition.

P. S. Gerber offers seven other combination juices (vitamin-C enriched) to teach your tyke the delights of different flavors.

For your baby's well-being: Gerber prepares over 100 baby foods – infant formulas, cereals, strained and junior foods – to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say:

"Babies are our business ...our only business!"®

GEORGE WASHINGTON STRETCHED THE TRUTH FOR THE SAKE OF HIS COUNTRY

by JACK HARRISON POLLACK

Every American school child knows the legend of George Washington and the cherry tree. When the Father of Our Country was 6 years old, he was given a hatchet as a gift. One day, in the garden of his Virginia home, he used it to chop down his father's favorite cherry tree. When his father asked him about it, young George bravely cried out, "Yes, father, I cut it down with my hatchet. I cannot tell a lie!"

Yet the first President of the U. S., who has been a shining example of honesty to generations of Americans, thanks to this anecdote, was one of the best liars who ever lived.

But George Washington told his lies only in the line of military duty. As commander-in-chief of the Continental Army, he spun many a fine fib to fool the British and help win the war for independence. Despite the stereotype of Washington as a humorless man with a marble mien, there is an unmistakable gusto about his falsehoods.

The source of this new light on the Cherry Tree Hero is Dr. John Bakeless, distinguished historian, military authority and author of the book Turncoats, Traitors and Heroes. "General Washington revealed an unexpected talent for ingenious and elaborate untruths," this soldier-scholar recently told me. "On one occasion, the same falsified intelligence was 'leaked' to the British from Connecticut, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania and given to two British generals' headquarters. If they had any doubts about its authenticity, they could consult each other!"

General Washington kept up his mendacious militarism throughout the war and even encouraged his staff to think up additional lies to pass on to enemy agents! But he cautioned his intelligence officer, Col. Elias Boudinot, "Keep it within the bounds of what may be thought reasonable or proper.... You may add what you please, only take care to keep a Copy and send it to me...."

THE FINE ART OF DECEIT

Typical of how Gen. Washington practiced his fine art was the time his frozen, ill-fed, sadly depleted army was quartered in Morristown, N.J., early in 1777. Total American army strength had sunk to less than 4,000. But Washington didn't want the enemy to know how meager his forces really were. To deceive the British—especially Gen. Howe, who had a detachment larger than the entire Continental Army merely 30 miles away—he spread his men two and three to a house along the main road for miles. "We are deceiving our Enemies with false Opinions of our Numbers," Commander-in-Chief Washington elatedly wrote to Congress.

One day, a New York merchant, claiming he was fleeing from the British, turned up at the Morristown camp. Spotting him as an enemy agent, the adjutant general wanted to arrest him immediately. But Washington was more imaginative. He instructed all his brigadiers to prepare exaggerated reports of their manpower, to show a total American strength of 12,000. These figures were carefully planted in a pigeonhole in the adjutant general's desk.

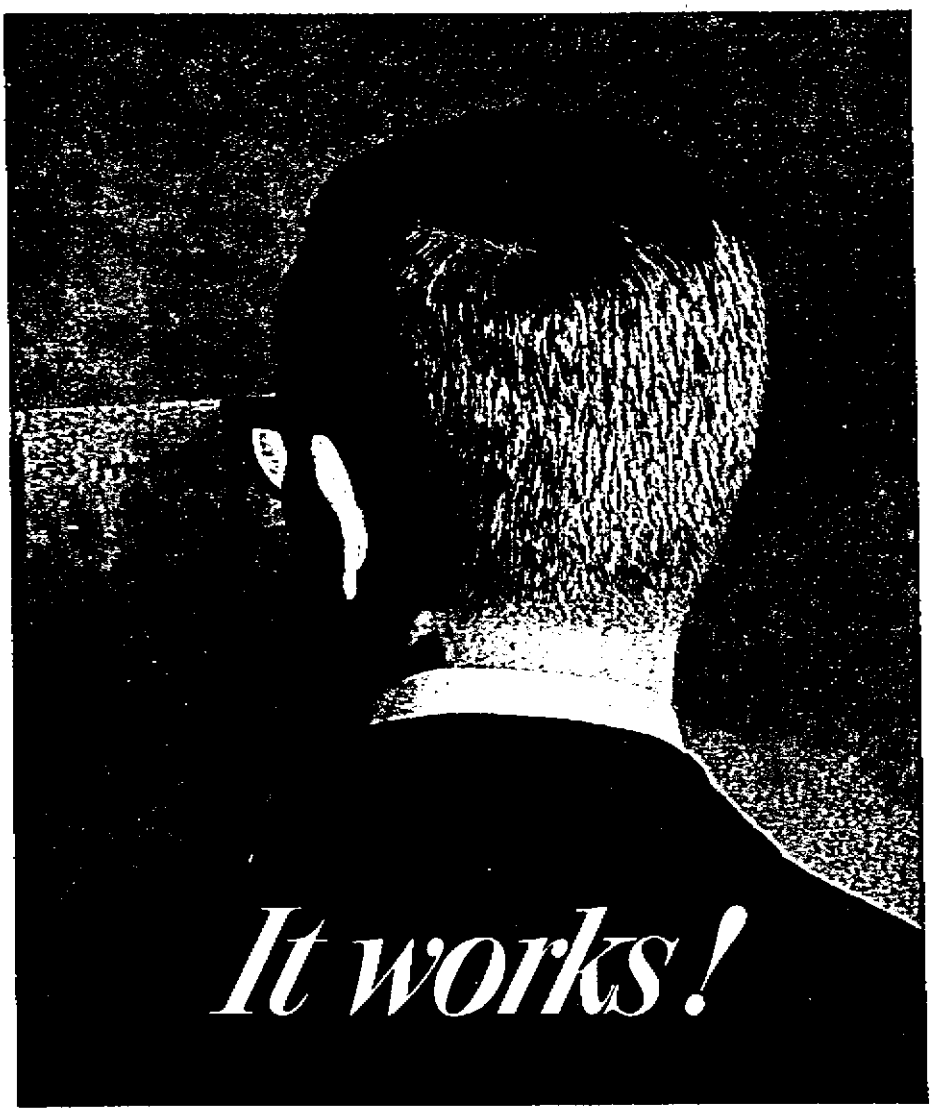

That evening, by prearrangement, when the adjutant was dining with the "merchant" spy, a sergeant rushed in with orders for him to report to Gen. Washington immediately. The spy was given ample time to "steal" the planted information from the desk. He did—and fled. Later, when he turned it over to Gen. Howe in New York, the British commander-in-chief was convinced that Washington's army was too strong to be attacked and spared them that winter.

Other gullible British generals, including Sir Henry Clinton and Lord Cornwallis, went to their graves also believing the hatchet hero's military lies. Even when he told the truth, George Washington could tell it in such a way that enemy agents believed the exact opposite! This talent helped him to win his most important battle.

THE HOAX WORKED

After joining forces with the French in New Jersey, Washington dropped many hints of an impending attack upon New York City. British agents spotted French uniforms on the west bank of the Hudson River and watched several large army ovens being built in New Jersey, indicating that the quartermasters corps expected to be supplying bread there for awhile. They also "captured" Washington's falsified orders for an attack on New York City. In a final inventive touch, Washington casually asked a British agent about water supplies and landing beaches on Long Island, saying that he had no special use for this information. He was just "fond of knowing the Situation of different parts of the Country...." Yet he asked the British spy to maintain "the most profound Secrecy ... by no means to lisp a word" of their conversation. To make his bogus plans even more credible, American troops began to move along a road which could take them to Sandy Hook, on the coast of New Jersey, from which they could threaten New York.

Then, in a surprise move, he turned completely around and marched southward to battle up Cornwallis at Yorktown, Va. By the time British General Clinton in New York realized Washington's switcheroo, it was too late. The war was over.

MY FAVORITE JOKES

by Henny Youngman

EDITOR'S NOTE: Henny Youngman, veteran comic, was raised in the Flatbush section of Brooklyn. His parents wanted him to become a concert violinist and gave him violin lessons at the age of 8. Ten years later Youngman organized a neighborhood band called the Swanee Syncopaters. The band was terrible and quickly disbanded. Its leader decided to try comedy. For two years Youngman knocked about in small cabarets and speak-easies, finally catching on at the Yacht Club in New York. There he was brought to the attention of Kate Smith, who took him on as a guest star. Since that time, more than 30 years ago, Henny Youngman has become a familiar figure on Broadway, on radio, TV, night clubs, Hollywood and Las Vegas. He is considered one of the best ad-libbers in the business, and most of his material is stolen from time to time by young, ambitious comedians. Herewith some jokes Youngman told recently at the Tropicana Hotel in Las Vegas.

When do two yeses make a no? When you ask someone for a loan of a thousand dollars and they say, "Yeah! Yeah!"

You meet the craziest people on the subway. One day a fellow sitting next to me kept saying, "Call me a doctor. Call me a doctor."

"What's the matter?" I asked. "Are you sick?"

"No," he answered. "I just graduated from medical school."

"All right, Charlie," said the gunman to his partner. "I want you to walk inside the bank, anyone gets in your way, shoot him down. Grab all the money, come walking outside. I'll be sitting in the get-away car. And remember one thing—I'll be taking all the chances."

"You mean to tell me," asked his pal incredulously, "that you want me to walk inside the bank, anyone gets in my way, shoot him down, grab all the money, come walking outside? You'll be waiting in the car for me, and you say you'll be taking all the chances? What chances are you taking?"

"The biggest one of all," answered the leader. "I can't drive!"

The meanest thing you can do to a woman is lock her in a room with 1,000 hats and no mirror.

When I was a kid, I practiced violin. The neighbors threw stones through the windows. Imagine being that anxious to hear me play!

Statistics show that every four seconds a woman gives birth to a baby. Our problem is to find this woman and stop her.

My wife isn't cheap, but she goes to a beauty shop which makes her hair curly for only 49 cents. They have her stick her finger in a light socket!

I watched a new car roll off the assembly line in Detroit, and it's an amazing process. It starts out in little pieces, then it rolls down the production belt, and thousands of men and a million dollars worth of machinery put everything together. Finally, a shiny new car emerges. Then a woman buys it and turns it into little pieces again.

Jack the Ripper was never killed... he's doing my shirts!

A man was brought before the judge in a divorce court about his alimony payments. The judge said the court would grant the woman $25.00 a week.

"That's very nice of you, your honor," exclaimed the surprised man. "And I'll even chip in a few dollars myself!"

Definition of a fortune hunter: The type of girl who always marries for love—love of money.

"Get me the police!" shouted a voice to the telephone operator, "and hurry."

When the connection was made and the police sergeant at the other end asked what the trouble was, the voice replied: "I want to report a burglar trapped in an old maid's bedroom!"

The sergeant asked for the address, said he would send someone right over and then asked who was calling.

"This," replied the frantic voice, "is the burglar!"

A NEW ENTRANCE THROUGH THE BERLIN WALL

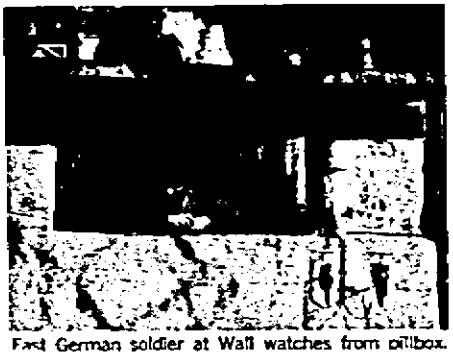

The opening of a new entrance through the Berlin Wall for Americans and other foreign tourists is expected to be a springtime news break. Brandenburg Gate, doorway to the famous Unter den Linden, will replace Checkpoint Charlie as the point of entry between West and East Berlin.

In former years, Unter den Linden was the famous parade street for the German Kaiser and for Hitler. In recent months, East Berlin authorities have been quietly rebuilding and modernizing this area. They hope that an eye-appealing view of Unter den Linden, with the rebuilt Opera House, the original Berlin University, the Tourist Office Building and other new edifices, will create a more pleasing first impression of the Communist zone. Today, the tourist gets a dreary idea of East Berlin when he enters through Checkpoint Charlie.

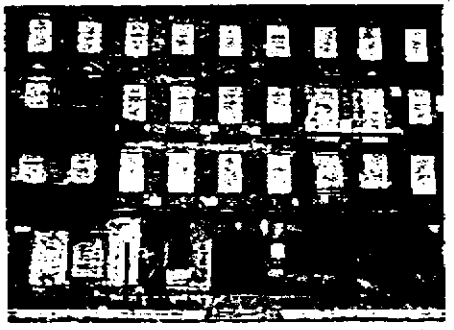

Business will continue at Checkpoint Charlie —at least for a short time. But the Reds are expected to divert traffic to their new showcase by speeding up entry there and introducing a deliberate slowdown at Checkpoint Charlie.

A view of no man's land from the West side of Wall.

East German soldier at Wall watches from pillbox.

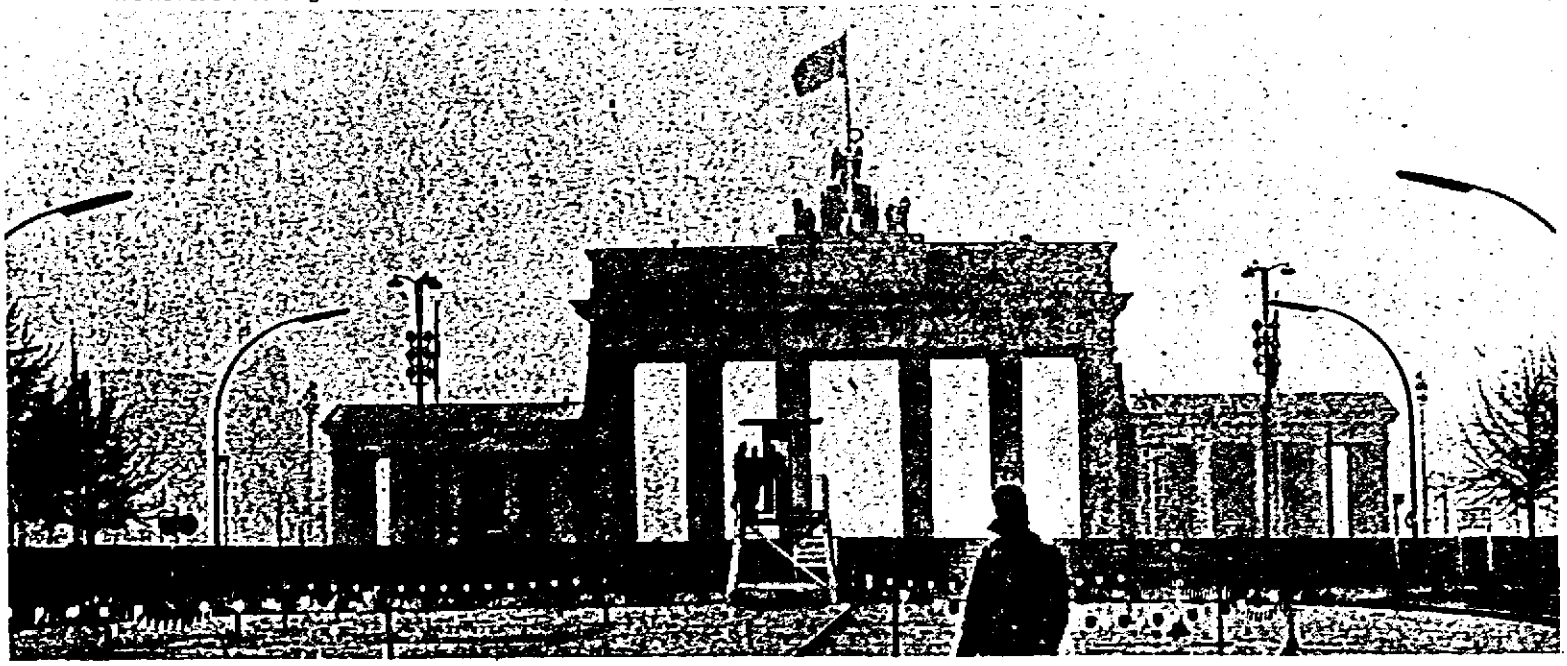

Bricks in windows thwart escapes from East Berlin.

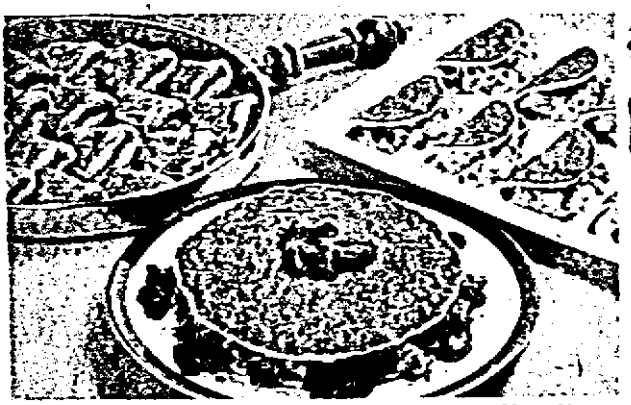

Checkpoint Charlie is soon expected to be choked off and closed as the gateway from West to East Berlin.

The Wall at Brandenburg Gate will soon become new point of entry to East Berlin for American tourists.

POWDER OR GRANULAR

THE MOST DANGEROUS

WASHINGTON, D.C.

Public Enemy No. 1 might be the fresh-faced, high-spirited teenager next door. He could be your neighbor, your banker, your cousin, even yourself. "He's a nice guy," people may say, "wouldn't hurt a fly." But behind the wheel of a car, with a few drinks under his belt, he is more dangerous than any slit-eyed mobster with a machine gun.

Each year he kills at least 20,000 innocent victims and maims hundreds of thousands more. The tragedy he causes is on such a scale it cannot be described; each terrible statistic, so impersonal on paper, is a shattering human story. One who has seen his share of mangled highway victims, U.S. highway safety director James K. Williams, told PARADE: "You never quite get hardened to the sight."

Yet, despite the pleading of police and safety experts, we go on tolerating the drinking driver. Police records blame him for half the 40,000 deaths and 1.5 million accidents on the roads every year. But authorities agree that the tipsy driver is responsible for far more accidents than the records show.

They also agree something drastic must be done—and done quickly—to stop the slaughter. Some would ban the drunken driver from the highways for life. Others favor penalties so severe that no one, having taken a drink, would dare touch a steering wheel.

Williams cites the example of Sweden where the police retrace the steps of every driver involved in an accident. If he has taken so much as one drink, the punishment is stiffened. Result: the average Swede won't drive after drinking.

But Williams makes an even more important point, which, unless it is recognized, will nullify whatever new laws may be introduced. This has to do with the public attitude towards the driver who drinks. Swedes have been brought up to regard drunken driving as the serious crime it is. If they go by car to a party, they expect the driver to remain sober. Instead of being ribbed for not touching a drop, he is ostracized if he does.

THE GRIM REAPER

But in this country, the man who drinks and drives is still socially acceptable. More often than not, he has to be really stiff before anyone will prevent him from going to his car. Perhaps his friends see him as a reflection of themselves some night after a party, perhaps merely as a figure of fun. They certainly do not see him as the grim reaper he may turn out to be at the next corner.

Not only the public at large but judges and juries tend to be tolerant of the driver who tipples. Apparently they identify more with him than with his victims. Highway officials from coast to coast agreed with William S. Foulis, director of the President's Committee for Traffic Safety, who told PARADE: "It's very hard to get a conviction for drunken driving."

One Midwestern judge, who let a defendant off with a stern warning, later admitted: "Sure he was drunk. He's a chronic alcoholic. But he is also a leader of this community. If he had been found guilty of drunken driving, he would have been finished in this town, and it wouldn't have solved his drinking problem. This way he has gotten enough of a scare and nobody has been hurt."

But the chances of "nobody getting hurt" are reduced drastically every time a drunk takes the wheel. Next time, this local big shot may run down a child or crash into a car driven by someone entirely sober and careful.

MOST ALCOHOLICS DRIVE

It may seem inconceivable that anyone with a record as an alcoholic should be permitted to drive at all. Yet the majority of the nation's 5 million alcoholics apparently have licenses. Dr. Melvin Selzer, a University of Michigan psychiatrist who specializes in alcoholism, reports: "In my experience, it is rare to find an alcoholic who does not drive."

Yet even the social drinker can be dangerous. Study after study has demonstrated beyond any statistical doubt that a single drink will impair driving efficiency. An analysis of 542 Canadian drivers involved in auto injuries, for example, established that 1 or 2 drinks increase the accident risk 1.5 per cent. After 4 or 5 drinks, a driver is 10 times more likely to kill or maim someone.

A study of drivers who had killed in New York City revealed 73 per cent had alcohol in their blood, and 46 per cent had enough to make them blind drunk.

Warning: it takes about 90 minutes for the body to burn up one ounce of alcohol. Thus for every drink, a person should wait 90 minutes before driving. Gulping black coffee or taking a shower doesn't help. It merely makes a sleepy drunk a wide-awake one, and much more reckless because he thinks he's sober.

The degree of intoxication that makes a man a menace is hard to prove in court. Police officers, sensitive to the lenient attitude of the courts, think twice before bringing drunk driving charges.

Enforcement is further confused by laws and penalties that vary widely from state to state, even county to county. In some Louisiana jurisdictions, for instance, a driver could be convicted if he'd had a few beers. In others, he'd have had to be "dead drunk."

Only 36 of the 50 states have legalized chemical tests to determine intoxication. But most states make the tests voluntary; repeated offenders know full well they can refuse to take them.

What can be done to stop the mayhem on the roads? Out of PARADE's study, several suggestions seem obvious and urgent.

• Anyone charged with drunken driving should be given thorough psychiatric and medical examinations to determine whether

DRIVERS

by JACK ANDERSON

he is an alcoholic. An alcoholic should not be allowed to drive — any more than a blind man.

• To prevent him from simply picking up a driver's license in another state, every applicant should be screened by the U.S. Driver Register Service. This is a voluntary clearinghouse of license suspensions; all states except Delaware now participate to some degree. Though only two years old, the Driver Register Service already has 400,000 suspensions on file (99 per cent of them for driving while intoxicated).

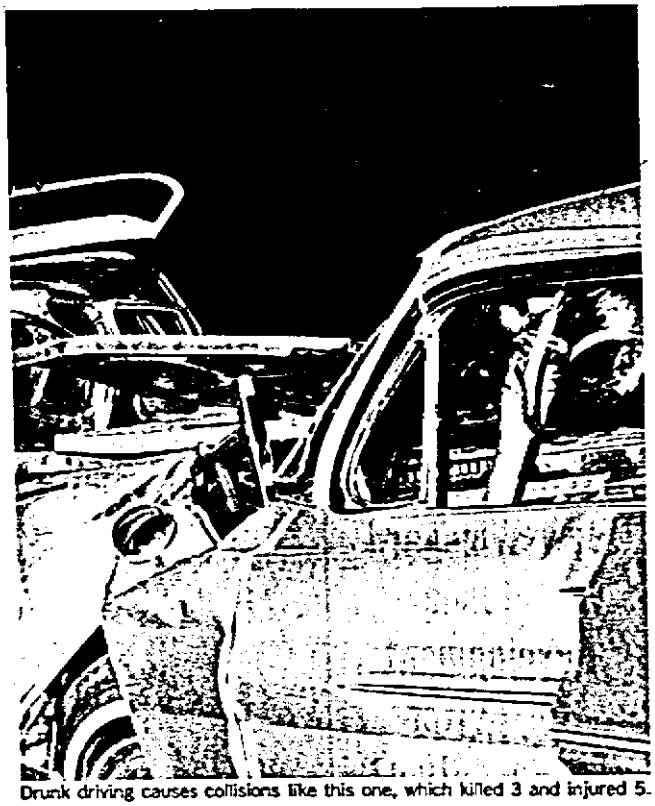

• Traffic penalties should be stiffened automatically for anyone who has alcohol in his blood. All states should adopt an "implied consent" law, as about a dozen already have, which makes refusal to take a blood test grounds for loss of license. This might persuade drinkers to stay off the highways until they have sobered up.

• More thorough investigations should be made of accidents to determine the role played by alcohol. Too many police officers leave out any mention of alcohol in their accident reports to avoid the issue in court. But Nebraska, for instance, is now urging police to make confidential reports on accidents.

• Both parents and police should crack down on teenagers who try to mix liquor and gasoline. New Hampshire Highway Commissioner John O. Morton told PARADE that, in his state, "the greatest single cause of fatal accidents is young people who drink and drive recklessly."

• Authorities shouldn't blame drunken drivers entirely for accidents that are caused partly by traffic hazards. Though sober drivers may be able to notice these hazards and alter their driving accordingly, the authorities must assume that drinkers may not realize they are there until it is too late. Therefore, the roads should be kept safe as possible, so the drunks will be less likely to involve others in accidents.

You can help make the highways safer by urging your city and state officials to adopt these recommendations. For your own safety, you must start treating the man who drinks and drives as a potential killer.

Drunk driving causes collisions like this one, which killed 3 and injured 5.

This tranquil pond makes the 3rd hole at Los Leones, Chile, one of the most challenging to play in the world. It extends for 150 yards and guards a small raised green.

WORLD'S TOUGHEST GOLF HOLES

■ In the mind of nearly every golfer lingers a vision of a hole he can't forget. It may be one he doggedly tackles regularly —without often defeating its hazards to equal par. It may be a handsomely landscaped and artfully challenging hole he played once on a trip. On these pages are shown some of the great golf holes of the world, great because they are superbly designed, set in beauteous natural surroundings and afford the golfer an exacting test of mind and physical skill. Some of America's professional stars have played them (at times with no more success than the average weekend "duffer") in the course of the TV series, "Shell's Wonderful World of Golf."

Says Gene Sarazen, one of the all time U.S. golfing masters: "The great holes have something extra built into them by the course architect. These are the holes that you think about when you are talking about great golf."

Some of the most fiendish of these "extras" are encountered on the spectacular holes pictured here in their majestic settings, and on others of the world's greatest: the 5th at Dorado Beach, Puerto Rico —wrapped around a lagoon; 5th at Gleneagles, Scotland—you must clear a ravine full of heather; 1st at Royal Lahaina on Maui, Hawaii—an immense green protected by a pond and the Pacific; 7th at Crans-sur-Sierre, Switzerland—where the green hugs the lip of a deep Alpine valley; 11th at Capilano, Vancouver, Canada—a roller coaster green at the edge of a thick forest.

After the golfer drinks in the scenery, he had better gird himself for adventure. The great holes are all ultimate tests of his mettle—and his bravery!

PARADE

On thumb of land jutting into the Pacific, almost lost amid bunkers and surf, lies the green of the 7th hole at Pebble Beach, Calif.

That's right, that row of trees runs right across fairway in front of 7th tee on Halmstad course, Tylosand, Sweden. Over? Through?

This Japanese landscape is lovely, and the hole it enhances, the 15th on Fugi course, a severe test. Note tricky fairway undulation.

PARADE'S SPECIAL

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

NO HOUSEWORK. Twenty years from now, claims the American Home Economics Association, the average U.S. housewife will lead a life without housework. Plastic crockery will be disposed of after each meal. Clothing will be made of disposable paper. Homes will be electronically dusted and deodorized. Madame will do little or no cleaning, will have more time for children, leisure, study and husband.

TALKATIVE CANADIANS. For the 11th straight year, Canadians have proved themselves the world's most talkative people on the telephone. The American Telephone and Telegraph Company reports that last year Canadians averaged 613.4 conversations per person, Americans 556.6 per person and Icelanders 527.1 per person. In the number of phones, the U.S. ranks first with 43.1 per 100 persons, Sweden second with 40.3 and Canada third with 33.7.

TOP HOLIDAY SPOT. Englishmen who are veteran tourists and know the world well have chosen as their most popular Continental holiday resort, Palma, capital of Majorca, in the Spanish-owned Balearic Islands located in the Mediterranean. Last year more than 500,000 Britons visited the place.

WOUND-HEALING STUDY. Does a flesh wound heal faster when covered or when left exposed to air? Seven San Quentin prisoners recently volunteered the use of their arms to answer the question. The answer: wounds that got no air healed two to five times faster than the exposed ones. The experiment was conducted by Drs. Cameron Hinman and Howard Maibach of the University of California. They cut into each prisoner's arm, then covered half of each wound with airtight film. Antibiotic solution was applied to all wounds. The bandaged areas subsequently acquired a healthy new skin covering faster than the exposed areas.

MORE TWINS. The percentage of twins throughout the world is rising. Two reasons: many premature twins are now saved who previously would have died; these surviving twins tend in turn to breed further twins.

STORK MADNESS

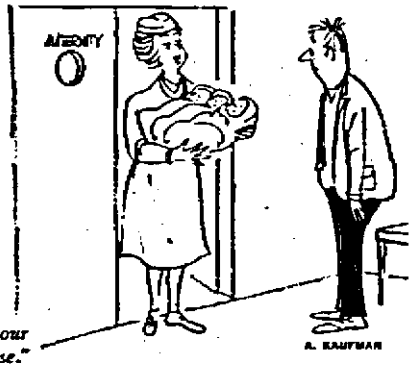

W. VON RIEGEN

"It walks, cries, wets, says 'Mama' and isn't paid for yet, just like a real baby."

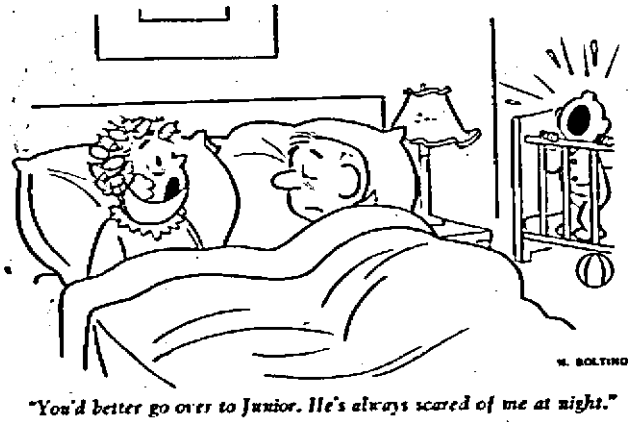

S. KELLER

"Can we keep the stork and return the baby?"

A. KAUFMAN

"Your wife says to phone your boss right away for a raise."

W. BOLTINOFF

"You'd better go over to Junior. He's always scared of me at night."

anecdote of the week

■When comedienne Gracie Allen was in London, she, like most Americans, walked over to Buckingham Palace to watch the changing of the guard. After the guard was changed, and the sentries began passing and repassing each other in silence, Gracie shook her head, truly disturbed. A few minutes of watching, and she stepped up to the sentries as they were passing. "Come now, boys," she said cheerfully. "You're acting like children. Make up and be friends." ■

GO TO CHURCH?
WHO? ME?

What for? After all, Sunday's the one day for sleeping late, puttering around, maybe even a round of golf. Besides, what's the difference? Many say you don't have to go to church to be a Christian.

Yet your physical presence in a church gives you something you can find nowhere else. Certainly far more than duty draws people there. Maybe you've missed what sharing your faith with others can mean! To survive the centuries, the church must fill a deep, basic need. It may offer you more than you think... even something you don't realize you lack.

Just what can you expect from a church? This booklet can help you examine it pro and con. It's free, easy to read. Send now for: CHURCH? WHAT'S IN IT FOR ME?

Why The Classics Club Offers You These Superb Volumes

WILL YOU ADD these three volumes to your library — as an introductory offer made only to new members of The Classics Club? You are invited to join today . . . and to receive on approval beautiful editions of the world's greatest masterpieces.

These books, selected unanimously by distinguished literary authorities, were chosen because they offer the greatest enjoyment and value to the "pressed for time" men and women of today.

Why Are Great Books Called "Classics"?

A true "classic" is a living book that will never grow old. For sheer fascination it can rival the most thrilling modern novel. Have you ever wondered how the truly great books have become "classics"? First, because they are so readable. They would not have lived unless they were read; they would not have been read unless they were interesting. To be interesting they had to be easy to understand. And those are the very qualities which characterize these selections: readability, interest, simplicity.

What Are Some Of These Classics?

Among the volumes available to members are: HOMER's Iliad and Odyssey; Utopia by THOMAS MORE; works by PLUTARCH, MONTAIGNE, CICERO, EPICTETUS; works by LOCKE, EMERSON; the complete works of SHAKESPEARE; essays by BACON; MILTON's Paradise Lost, other poems; BENJAMIN FRANKLIN's Autobiography; BOYNTON's Beginnings of Modern Science; works by ERASMUS, LUCRETIUS; BRADFORD's History of Plymouth; poems by HORACE; GROTIUS' The Law of War and Peace; OMAR KHAYYAM's Rubaiyat; PALGRAVE's Golden Treasury; Walden by THOREAU; Henry Esmond by THACKERAY; BUTLER's Way Of All Flesh; poems by WHITMAN, BROWNING; and other world-famous works.

The Only Book Club Of Its Kind

The Classics Club is different from all other book clubs. 1. It distributes only the world's classics — and at a remarkably low price. 2. Its members are not obligated to take any specific number of books. 3. Its volumes are luxurious De Luxe Editions. They are bound in fine buckram ordinarily used in $7 and $10 bindings; they have tinted page tops; they are richly stamped in genuine gold which will remain forever its original lustre. They are, truly, superb books you and your children will read and cherish for many years.

It costs a whale of a lot to be laid up by an accident—any kind of accident. When the family bread-winner is hurt and can't work, his income is usually reduced or stopped entirely. Result? The family savings are drained so much that it may take years to recover from the high accident costs.

Bills for medical treatments, X-rays, hospital rooms, wheel chairs and a dozen other unexpected expenses, take a big chunk out of anyone's hard-earned savings.

This insurance is designed to help you solve the Accident Expense Problem. You may find it hard to believe, BUT this policy—at a cost of little more than a penny a day does pay the benefits shown below, for accidents at work, at home, in your automobile, on the street, and even at play.

Hundreds of claims are paid every week to men and women, like yourself, who never expected to be hurt. But they realized that, since one American in every 12 gets hurt each year, they just couldn't afford to be without this low-cost protection.

Millions of good batteries—and dollars—thrown out each month

What do you do when a battery grows weak? You toss it into the trash can. This is the fate of millions of batteries each month, because battery-operated toys can go through a pair of dry cells in less than an hour, and some transistor radios can exhaust a 9-volt battery in 10 hours of playing. But all these tossed-out batteries—even if they only have a spark of life left in them—are still chemically fresh and capable of being fully rehabilitated by the PNC-12 Home Battery Charger made only by DYNAMIC. No home should be without one, for more and more attractive and useful battery-operated toys and devices are coming on the market. So instead of losing 20¢ with every battery you toss out, earn $3.00 with every battery you buy. Order your Home Battery Charger today!
